BELMONT AND METZ DIFFER ON PAYMENTS

May Ask Courts to Tell What's Due City on Subway Bonds.

$423,000 YEARLY INVOLVED

Dispute as to Whether First Year's Rental Should Be Included in the Operating Expenses.

There is a conflict between the Interborough Rapid Transit Company and the Finance Department of the city over the payment by the former of the 1 per cent. annually into the sinking fund for the redemption of the $43,200,000 of bonds issued for the present Subway lines. If the contention of the operating company is sustained in the courts, the Controller says, the city will not collect its 1 per cent. a year for the first ten years of operation, and therefore will not have a sufficient amount of money on hand at the end of the fifty-year contract to pay off the bonds in full.

President August Belmont of the Interborough has forwarded a letter to Controller Metz, which the latter made public yesterday, showing that the company included the payments to the city for the first year's rental in the total of its operating expenses. Controller Metz declares that this rental should not be so included.

On this point the two interests probably will have to go into the courts, for, if the rental is included in operating expenses, the net profits of the road will fall to 3.64 per cent. on capital invested, and, unless the profits run more than 5 per cent. the payment of 1 per cent. to the city is not to be made, under the contract.

The figures submitted by President Belmont, as they were prepared by Treasurer Daniel W. McWilliams of the company, place the total capitalization of the operating company at $36,098,152 on Oct. 31 of last year. Of this total $12,100,000 is capital stock required to acquire the Subway lease, $1,321,385 is the cost of real estate, and $22,676,917 is for the equipment of the Subway.

The gross receipts from the Subway from the opening day, Oct. 27, 1904, to Oct. 31, 1905, are given as $5,283,428, with the operating expenses placed at $2,719,895. To this the company adds another $1,249,453 as the money paid to the city for rentals during the period. Deducting both amounts, the Interborough gives $1,314,080 as the net profits to the company for the year ended Oct. 31, which President Belmont states is 3.64 per cent. on its capital.

Controller Metz, on the other hand, declares that only the $2,719,895 should be deducted by the company from its gross receipts, thus leaving the profits at $2,563,533, or about 7 per cent. on the capital stated. The Controller also believes that the operating expenses reported are high.

Under the Subway contract, the Controller declares, the profits must be ascertained by deducting the operating expenses from the gross receipts, and the operating expenses allowed by the contract are defined as expenditures for "repairs, maintenance, and interest on borrowed money."

This clause, the Controller holds, does not empower the company to make deductions for its rental payments to the city. The contract provides that when, in any year of the first ten the net income is less than 5 per cent. on the capital, the company need not pay its 1 per cent. into the sinking fund.

When the profits exceed 5 per cent. but are less than 6 per cent. in any one year the excess must go to the city, while if the profits are 6 per cent. or more the city gets its 1 per cent. flat. After the first ten years this 1 per cent. must go to the city, anyway. Figured on the basis of the bonds issued to construct the existing Subway, the 1 per cent. amounts to $423,000 annually.

Controller Metz said yesterday that he had forwarded Mr. Belmont's letter to the Corporation Counsel for examination and an opinion as to what action should be taken.

SAYS ROAD OWES FOR WATER.

Register Padden to Sue New York Central for a Large Sum.

Water Register Michael C. Padden has discovered what both he and Commissioner Ellison of the Water Supply Department declare to be a gigantic theft of water from the city by employes of the New York Central Railroad. As a result Commissioner Ellison said yesterday that suits would be brought against the company to recover a sum ranging from $100,000 to $300,000 in the course of the last twenty years.

"It is the most glaring use of unmetered taps yet discovered," the Commissioner said. "The frauds occurred along the Central yards from Fifty-ninth to Seventieth Street on Twelfth Avenue. Fifteen hydrants have been drawn upon regularly for twenty years, and none of them has been metered as it should have been. Two of our inspectors, Hanan and Cooke, made the discovery of the fraud, and if their estimates are correct, the loss to the city has been about $15,000 a year, and it is surely $5,000 a year. Photographs have been taken showing the misuse of these hydrants, and they will be used in the suits.

"The inspectors found four hydrants on one dock, Pier 80 at Fifty-ninth Street and the North River. There nine tugs and two floats watered in one morning. Another hydrant was found open and running into the river, evidently having been left that way all night. The inspectors saw some railroad employes attach a hose to a hydrant at Fifty-sixth Street and fill 300 barrels with water. No attempt was made to keep the hydrants in order. Photographs were taken of all these conditions, and they will be used later on."

Water Register Padden's report for last week showed that the receipts of his bureau were $10,418 over the receipts for the comparative week of last year. For the quarter ending March 31 the receipts were $124,425 in excess of the same quarter for the year before.

DESERTING HUSBAND REPENTS

The Law and Hebrew Charities Have Brought Cohen to Book.

An unexpectedly happy ending came yesterday to the tribulations of Mrs. Esther Cohen. Six weeks ago she came from Russia with her children on the steamship Amerika to join her husband, Nochem Cohen. He met them at Ellis Island, brought them across to Battery Park, and told them to stay there until he could buy them some clothes. He never came back, and the woman was sent to the Hebrew Sheltering Home, 229-231 East Broadway.

The case was taken up by the Society for the Protection of Deserted Women and Children, and its Secretary, Charles Zunser, who is stationed at the United Hebrew Charities Building, discovered that Cohen was in Denver.

He set the new law, which makes desertion of a wife and children a felony, in motion, and applied for Cohen's extradition on that charge. Cohen wrote to the United Hebrew Charities, expressing great regret for what he had done. He promised to be good to his wife and children, if they would come out to him, and declared that he did not know what he was doing when he ran away from them.

The authorities of the United Hebrew Charities have decided that the reunion of the family is the best thing possible, and have given Mrs. Cohen an outfit of clothes, tickets for herself and the children to Denver, and enough money to buy food for the journey. She is overjoyed at the prospect of seeing her husband again.

CORD MEYER WILL QUIT.

Won't Be State Chairman Again—He Favors F. B. Harrison.

Cord Meyer, Chairman of the Democratic State Committee, has just returned from Europe, where, he said, he had a narrow escape from injury in the eruption of Vesuvius. He now is busily engaged in picking up the threads of the Democratic situation in the State and of the proposed reorganization of the State Committee.

"I do not know anything about the movement to name another State Chairman at this time," said Mr. Meyer, "but I have to get out, as I could not possibly serve through another campaign. My business interests are too great. As for Francis Burton Harrison, I have heard some talk in his behalf, and I think he would make a fine Chairman. I know nothing of a movement to have an early meeting of the committee."

William F. Sheehan, ex-Lieutenant Governor, has been working in the interests of ex-Congressman Harrison, who was the Democratic nominee for Lieutenant Governor in 1904 on the ticket with ex-Judge Herrick. The latter is being boomed by Sheehan and his associates for a second nomination. Up-State opposition of a strong sort has developed, however, on the ground that Harrison is a protégé of Sheehan, and that the whole movement is merely an attempt on the part of Sheehan to get control of the State organization.

SEEKS TO RECOVER DEEDS.

Widow of Manager Hamlin Sues for Property She Says He Gave Her.

Mrs. Mary Burton Hamlin, widow of Frederick R. Hamlin, who was once a well-known theatrical manager, is suing George Hamlin, and Mrs. Meller Clark Herbert Hamlin, Harry L. Hamlin, of Chicago, brothers and sister of her husband, to set aside deeds from her to the deceased of property at 305 West Seventy-first Street and at Bellport, L. I., which were filed by the executors of the will after Hamlin's death.

Mrs. Hamlin sues on the ground that these properties were bought by her husband and given to her as a wedding present, and that the deeds were made out in her name. Mrs. Hamlin testified before Justice Blanchard in the Supreme Court yesterday that after the deeds were presented to her she immediately redeeded the property to her husband in order that he might use it should he be suddenly called on for money for his many theatrical enterprises. The widow testified that Hamlin kept the deeds in the safe in his office, where they were found after his death and at once recorded by the executors.

Mr. Hamlin's will bequeathed one-third of his property to his widow and the rest to his brothers and sisters.

AUTO HANSOM RAN AWAY.

It Knocked Down Two Laborers Before It Was Stopped.

Starting from some unknown cause, an automobile hansom owned by the New York Transportation Company ran away in East Thirteenth Street yesterday afternoon and before it was stopped knocked down and ran over two laborers. The injured men are Peter Keon, 72 years old, of 426 East Sixteenth Street, and John Flynn, a paver, of 333 East Twenty-eighth Street. Both men were removed to Bellevue Hospital suffering from contusions and internal injuries.

The automobile was in charge of Chauffeur William A. Brennan, 23 years old, of 842 West Forty-eighth Street. Two passengers, one of them a woman, left the machine in front of 128 East Thirteenth Street, and entered that building. Brennan also left the machine and stood on the sidewalk.

Without warning the automobile started east at a rapid pace, and before the laborers could be warned was upon them, knocking Keon and Flynn down. Brennan managed to catch up with the runaway machine and stop it.

MR. HOFFMAN 'BIT HARD,' BUT GOT REVENGE AT LAST

Caught Wire-Tappers Who Swindled Him After a Year's Hunt.

SAME OLD RACE TRACK GAME

Bet $1,100 on a "Sure Thing" Last Year—Thieves Captured Yesterday Through a Friend.

This is the story of a Jersey man's revenge. A revenge which culminated yesterday afternoon in the arrest by Capt. Hodgins's detectives of three men in a house on Twenty-third Street, near Sixth Avenue, in connection with a wire-tapping game which comes to the surface perennially i nthe Tenderloin.

Some twelve long months ago, more or less, Robert Hoffman of 274 Fairmount Avenue, Newark, N. J., read an advertisement in a local paper which told of "a gentleman about to retire from a long and active connection with a well-known business house" wanting an associate in a transaction where the money invested would double itself in less than no time, the prospective associate to bring with him $2,000.

Robert Hoffman answered the advertisement, met the advertiser, heard the ever-new story about a brother who was a telegraph operator and could get racing results long before the poolrooms could, and so on. Hoffman lost only $1,100, but he was angry over the transaction. He spent many an hour in the neighborhood where he had met the "brother of the telegraph operator." He scanned the advertisements in the Newark papers, but for twelve long months met with nothing but discouragement.

When the birds began to sing and the flowers to bloom in Newark there came tidings of the horses wending northward. Robert read his paper diligently, and one day last week the some old advertisement appeared again. The sight of it brought joy to the heart of Hoffman, and he hastened to show it to his friend Jacob Scholes of 51 Ogden Street, Newark, N. J. Jacob answered the advertisement, and after the usual preliminaries he met the operator's brother yesterday morning.

"How much did you bring with you?" asked the operator's brother when he stopped to catch his breath after a burst of eloquence.

"Oh, about $600," answered Scholes. Deep disappointment showed on the face of the other man at that, and he asked Scholes if he did not have some more at home. Scholes said he had $400. The operator's brother saw him to the ferry.

Scholes went over and brought Hoffman back with him. They told their story to Capt. Hodgins at the Tenderloin Station, whereupon Detectives McGee, Rayens, McDonald, and Farley were detailed to follow Scholes to the Twenty-third Street house. On the second floor he met the "operator's brother and cousin." The brother used a telephone to show Scholes how he could get racing results. The telephone wires went into the next room, where the mystic "operator" was.

After this exhibition Scholes was invited to put up his $1,000. Then came the detectives. The prisoners said they were Thomas Bates, a clerk, of 1,290 Fulton Street, Brooklyn; William Thompson of 531 Sixth Avenue, and John Singleton of 316 West 112th Street. Hoffman walked into the Twenty-third Street room soon after the detectives made the arrests. Bates, the operator's brother, turned pale at sight of him.

Bates was charged with grand larceny in swindling Robert Hoffman out of $1,100 last year, and all three prisoners were charged with attempted grand larceny in trying to swindle Scholes out of $1,000 this year.

Building's Collapse Kills One.

The building in course of construction for the Eastern Tanning and Sole Leather Company in Mortimer Street, Irvington, N. J., collapsed yesterday afternoon, killing one man. August Stoll of Newark was caught in a mass of timbers and killed, while Frank Baer, 24 years old, of 145 Bank Street sustained a fracture of the ankle, and Edson Castner, 25 years, of 145 Bank Street, had his right arm broken. It is thought that the structure was not sufficiently braced and was blown down by the high wind.

THIEF CHASE IN 23D STREET.

Shopping District Excited When Police Catch Fugitive.

Twenty-third Street at Sixth Avenue was excited yesterday afternoon by a thief chase from a department store between Fifth and Sixth Avenues to the entrance of Proctor's Theatre, near Seventh Avenue.

The fugitive, the police say, stole a diamond-studded pin from the jewelry department of the store and ran out into the street. Miss Eva Pizer, store detective, saw him and gave chase. Detective Sergeants Rein and Becker of the Central Office joined in the pursuit and captured the man.

The prisoner said he was Frank Wilson, 37 years old, of 11 Abingdon Square. The detectives say that he has a long criminal record, under several aliases, and is No. 3,671 in the Rogues' Gallery. In the Jefferson Market Court Magistrate Pool held him, on the charge of larceny, in $500 bail.

Donovan Held in $3,000 Bail.

Patrick J. Donovan, arrested on complaint of Irving C. Miller of 320 East Nineteenth Street on a charge of attempted robbery, was held in Yorkville Court yesterday in $3,000 bail for trial. Donovan was with Edward Scanlon when Miller shot and killed Scanlon April 13 as the two, according to Miller and his wife, were attempting to rob them.

Told the Police They Wanted Him.

William Collins, 33 years old, of 514 West Fiftieth Street, walked into the West Side Court yesterday and said: "I heard that I was wanted by the police for a burglary and I want the charge proved." Magistrate Moss ordered a charge of insanity made against him and he was sent to Bellevue Hospital for observation.

CITY LOSES EXPLOSION CASE.

Must Pay for Injuries in Accident on Election Night, 1902.

George F. Ritz, Jr., obtained a verdict of $10,000 against the City of New York in the Supreme Court yesterday for injuries received in an explosion of fireworks in Madison Square on election night, 1902.

Alfred and Charles Steckler, attorneys for Ritz, told the jury that their client's left leg was fractured in two places and is now two inches shorter than the other. They brought suits for other victims of the explosion.

As a result of the explosion 18 persons were killed and 200 injured.

A test case resulted in a verdict for the plaintiffs. It was reversed by the Appellate Division, but the Court of Appeals decided that the city was liable.

THE CITY'S FUNDED DEBT.

Outstanding Bonds Show an Expenditure of $48,000,000 for Improvements.

New York City has gone approximately $48,000,000 in debt in the last twelve months. This is for permanent improvements, according to the table of outstanding bonds of the city on March 31, as just made public by Controller Metz. The tabulation appeared in The City Record yesterday.

According to these figures, the net funded debt of the city on March 31 amounted to $447,552,089, as against a net funded debt of $399,661,262 on the corresponding date the year before. The gross debt of this year, before offsetting accounts are deducted, amounts to $618,796,337, as against $557,996,615 the year before. The sinking fund deductions this year amount to $171,244,247, as against $158,319,352 last year. The temporary debt this year is $48,283,000, which is for revenue bonds issued in anticipation of taxes.

CARNEGIE HALL CROWD CHEERS FOR HEARST

Hoots McClellan and Protests Death of Recount Bill.

SENDS PROTEST TO ALBANY

Delegation of Protestants Will Go There To-day on Special Train—One Man Suggests Rifles.

Urged to attend a mass meeting to protest against the failure of the Legislature to pass the recount bill, which had for its purpose a recount of the ballots cast in the Mayoralty contest at the last election, several thousand men and women crowded into Carnegie Hall last night, where they cheered the name of William R. Hearst and hooted that of Mayor McClellan.

More than 4,000 persons were at the meeting, and after listening to a score of speakers who denounced the Mayor and his followers, they resolved to send a delegation to Albany on a special train this morning to register a protest with the members of the Legislature.

Henry Powell, who presided, said that unless the Legislature did something to aid in giving the people of New York a recount the people would do something next Fall that would surprise the politicians.

These resolutions were adopted:

Whereas, It has been shown by overwhelming proof that in the late New York City election the will of the people was defeated by fraud;

Whereas, The accusations of fraud were supported by 2,000 affidavits, 100 indictments, and 17 convictions;

Whereas, The opening of the ballot boxes has shown by the recounting of votes that the official count was fraudulently conducted;

Whereas, By a decision of the Court of Appeals the people are informed that they cannot recount their votes, even when fraud is evident, and

Whereas, The Legislature of the State has refused to pass a bill authorizing a recount, despite solemn pledges to pass such a bill,

Whereas, It is evident in the present state of the law as interpreted, and in the light of wholesale frauds in the last election, that universal suffrage becomes a mockery, and that government by the people can be replaced with government by the criminal agents of corrupt corporations;

Now, therefore, be it Resolved that this meeting, representing a great body of voters disfranchised by fraud, protests, and demands that relief be found against fraud at the ballot.

And be it resolved, That a committee be appointed to go to Albany to urge upon the Legislature that it pass a law in accordance with the will and the rights of the citizens.

Resolved, That it is the sense of this meeting that the voters of New York City have not abdicated in favor of corrupt corporations or of the criminals who manipulate the ballot boxes in their behalf.

The chairman said he would appoint the audience as a committee to go to Albany.

"Be at the Grand Central Station at 8:45 o'clock in the morning," he added. "We'll go on a special train."

"And carry rifles with us," shouted a voice.

"A man in the corner suggests we go with rifles," remarked the chairman, smiling. "Did you hear that?"

This brought forth loud applause. The secretary then read leters from men who wrote to say that they were sorry they could not be present to say something about the great fraud that had been perpetrated. The Rev. Dr. Robert S. MacArthur of the Calvary Baptist Church wrote: "The days of the Republic will be speedfly numbered when, under any pretense, dishonest men are permitted to tamper with the ballot boxes or to prevent the casting of a free ballot."

William M. Ivins, who was the Republican candidate for Mayor at the last election, wrote:

"The Legislature is denying four and a half million people a fundamental right in refusing to provide for a proper count of the votes cast at the last municipal election in the City of New York."

Clarence Shearn, ex-Senator Ford, and others, who had been candidates for office on the Municipal Ownership League ticket, denounced Mayor McClellan and his followers in bitter language. When William R. Hearst stepped to the front of the platform he was greeted by round after round of applause. There were shouts of "Hearst in our Mayor!" "Mr. Peewee in the Mayor's chair is the fraud Mayor!" "Hearst will be elected Governor and turn him out of office."

Mr. Hearst said he had called to make his report on what had been done in the effort to carry out the people's will as expressed at the last election. While his enemies had said that he did not want to be Mayor and had not tried to be Mayor, he assured his friends that nothing had been left undone to obtain for the people the right to have their votes counted.

"In fact," said Mr. Hearst, "to secure the honest count even of a dishonest election we have exerted every effort and have expended over $100,000. But we have proceeded openly and honorably, and in that I regret to say lies the reason for our failure. We could have succeeded if we had been willing to adopt the unscrupulous methods of our opponents.

"As for the wretched little city administration slinking through its stolen term, with its cur tail between its legs, I believe they would relinquish their very offices if sufficient inducements were offered. But we have made no concessions to corruption, no compromise of any kind."

After telling of the efforts made to secure a recount of the ballots Mr. Hearst referred to the dinner held last week at the Democratic Club, and said that club was simply a subway station between Wall Street and Tammany Hall.

"At that banquet," said Mr. Hearst, "the little Mayor spoke on Thomas Jefferson, but, while praising Jefferson, did not quote Jefferson." He added:

"There are some reasons why the littlest Mayor did not quote Jefferson. Jefferson said, referring to George Clinton: 'To retain the office when it is probable the majority was against him is dishonorable.'

"Jefferson said 'I love to see honest and honorable men at the helm, men who will not bend their politics to their purses.' It is easy to see that the little Mayor could not have quoted these sentiments without wounding the susceptibilities of those Capt. Kidds of industry who had made their money by fraud and had spent it liberally for fraud."

MOB ATTACKS WASHERY.

Proprietor Beaten and Schuylkill Valley Plant Closed.

Special to The New York Times.

TAMAQUA, Penn., April 25.—The first outbreak in the Schuylkill Valley since a suspension at the mines was declared came to-day near Middleport. One hundred foreigners, armed with clubs and stones, marched on the Pinedale washery, routed the employes, and compelled the suspension of the plant.

The washery, which is owned by W. H. Greenfield of Philadelphia, has an output of about 100 tons daily. Last Sunday fifteen Italians were brought from Philadelphia to operate the washery. They started to work on Monday. Other foreigners then marched upon them and persuaded eleven to return to their homes.

When the mob reached the colliery today, Greenfield and W. H. Coglan of Philadelphia, with four Italians, had the plant in operation. Greenfield and Coglan went out to meet the mob, and both were set upon and badly beaten. Several shots came from the crowd. Greenfield retreated to the washery and Coglan escaped.

Later in the day Greenfield appealed over the telephone to Sheriff Whitaker for protection, and the latter soon came with a force of deputies.

The Sheriff appealed to Gov. Pennypacker to send a force of the State police to the place. Capt. Groome replied for the Governor to the effect that he would send his men providing the Sheriff agreed to swear in the police as deputies. This Sheriff Whitaker refused to do.

Greenfield declares that he will operate his washery and will insist upon having protection. This case will probably result in the disposition of the mooted question as to whether it is not the duty of the Sheriff to swear in the State police as deputies and invest them with practically the same authority to make arrests as is possessed by the Sheriff.

WRECKERS USE DYNAMITE.

Train Blown Up on the Lehigh Valley Near Wilkesbarre.

Special to The New York Times.

WILKESBARRE, Penn., April 25.—Using dynamite, train wreckers this morning wrecked a train on the Lehigh Valley Railroad at a point five miles from this city, demolishing the locomotive and three cars and injuring Engineer J. R. Thomas, Fireman H. V. Brown, and Brakeman Harry Croker of this city.

The train was a fast freight between this city and New York, and was going up a heavy grade at the time of the explosion. The engine was lifted from the tracks and thrown across them, the tender was blown from it and hurled some distance away, rolling over an embankment. Three freight cars, shattered by the force of the explosion, followed it.

A squad of the State Mounted Police and a force of Deputy Sheriffs responded to the call for aid, and searched the woods for miles around, but without finding any trace of the train wreckers.

The company officials are at a loss to explain the cause for the outrage. They say no coal has been hauled over the road for several days.

CHALLENGED A SENATOR.

Tilt Between Canal Witness and Senator Taliaferro.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—E. A. Drake, Vice President of the Panama Railroad, closed his testimony to-day before the Senate Committee on Interoceanic Canals. He complained that he had not been treated fairly, remarking rather bitterly that some Senators had said things to him on the stand that they would not say outside.

Mr. Drake was looking at Senator Taliaferro at the time, who replied promptly that anything he had said he would say anywhere.

Later the witness telephoned to the committee that he meant to imply that on the stand he had not been permitted to qualify his statements as he should have done if he had been speaking elsewhere. The committee adjourned until to-morrow.

CANALS AND EARTHQUAKES.

Expert Says Panama Lock Plan Is the Better in This Respect.

CHICAGO, April 25.—Regarding the fear expressed by some that earthquakes are likely to damage the proposed Panama Canal, Isham Randolph, chief engineer of the Chicago Drainage Canal and a member of the United States Board of Engineers for the Panama Canal, says:

"The destruction of San Francisco by an earthquake has been seized upon by alarmists as an argument against a lock canal across the Isthmus of Panama. The deduction drawn is that such an earthquake would put the lock canal out of business by wrecking the locks and destroying the dams.

"Should such a convulsion of nature visit the canal route, no doubt serious damage would result to either type of canal that might be adopted; but of the two types the sea level would be the worst sufferer."

SAYS DOWIE IS BANKRUPT.

Creditor Charges That He Violated Law in Property Transfers.

CHICAGO, April 25.—Involuntary bankruptcy proceedings were started this afternoon against John Alexander Dowie, individually, before Judge K. M. Landis. Ransom F. Walker is one of the petitioning creditors. He is guardian of the estate of Ethel B. Foley, a minor, and conservator of William T. Foley. The claims amount to $7,000.

The petition alleges that on March 3 Dowie transferred $1,200 worth of property to Margaret H. Fieldar, and that on Jan. 10 other property was transfered to James H. Hirsch, thus showing preference in violation of the bankruptcy law.

Dowie's liabilities are not actually known. His assets are said to be about $2,500,000. The court set the hearing for next Monday.

POWDER PLANT BLOWS UP.

Sixth Explosion in the History of a Dupont Mill.

Special to The New York Times.

HOOSICK FALLS, N. Y., April 25.—The Corning mill of the Dupont Powder Company, located at Schaghticoke, was blown up this afternoon. There was nobody killed or injured, the employes being at dinner. The mill, which cost $15,000, and thirty-five foot barricades were totally destroyed.

There was an explosion in March, 1905, when four men were killed and several maimed. Three buildings were destroyed. This is the sixth time the plant has blown

FINAL NAIL IS DRIVEN IN RACING BILL'S COFFIN

May Not Now Be Resurrected from Codes Committee Grave.

GREGG GETS ACTIVE AGAIN

Says Opponents of Race Track Gambling, Though Defeated, Are Stronger Now Than Ever.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 25.—Another and the final nail was driven into the coffin that contains the Cassidy-Lansing Anti-Race Track bill in the Codes Committee of the Senate to-day. Senators Saxe and Gardner officiated in the operation. Those who assisted passively were Senator Brackett, who refused to vote in committee; Senator Elsberg, who was reported ill, and Senator McCarren, who stayed away.

Those who voted to report out the bill were Senators Hinman, L'Hommedieu, Marks, and Hill, but as it takes a majority of the committee to get a bill out, their votes were of no avail.

Until the Governor puts himself on record as opposed to race-track gambling and called off the aditional rake-off which the tracks proposed to give the agricultural societies of the State, the Cassidy bill had been allowed to sleep peacefully. Not even the Internationa Reform Bureau, which was once so active in support of the measure, distributed its usual tracts. With the outbreak from the Governor the Codes Committee appeared to realize that the time had come for a show of interest, and the Rev. Mr. Gregg of the Reform Bureau showed signs of renewed activity.

In a statement issued to-day by Mr. Gregg he says that even if the bill is defeated this time, its advocates feel that they have made certain gains which will aid in carrying out the anti-gambling crusade.

"It is ridiculous to expect," the statement continues, "that The Jockey Club will be able to prevent the poolrooms from obtaining racing news for any length of time. As soon as the Legislature adjourns and the danger of passing the anti-gambling bill is over their zeal will evaporate. The fundamental weakness of the law which makes poolrooms possible is the double penalty for gambling which the Cassidy-Lansing bill corrects. If August Belmont and his supporters are so anxious to suppress poolrooms the best thing they can do is to stop opposing the law which makes it a felony on race tracks as well as elsewhere. Once the law is made uniform gambling could be suppressed both on race tracks and in poolrooms.

"It is now known that Dr. Slicer acted entirely on his own responsibility in entering into his notorious agreement with the Jockey Club. Dr. James M. Whiton of New York, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the New York State Conference of Religion, which Dr. Slicer claimed to represent, has issued a letter which makes this plain.

"The Reform Bureau has additional evidence that August Belmont, Chairman of the Jockey Club, is working to establish racing in other States. In an informal talk after the Oxnard Dinner Stakes at the Shoreham Hotel, New York, he recently intimated that racing would be seen soon on a wholesome basis in Pennsylvania and Massachusetts.

"It is the wish of Mr. Belmont that strong men in the Missouri-Ohio belt may come forward soon and re-establish the sport in the Middle West and foster its growth in new centres. One of these new centres is New Hampshire. When the people of that State opposed the establishing of the track at Salem it was discovered that the New England Breeders' Association had the same exclusive penalty in their charter that is found in the Percy-Gray law in this State for the punishment of gambling, but the gambling laws of New Hampshire were made applicable to the Salem track by a ruling of the State Supreme Court, which declares that racing is a game and not a sport.

"I am informed that Andrew Miller, who was active in promoting the New England Breeders' Association, which controls the track at Salem, informed the authorities of New Hampshire that he did not consider the exclusive penalty clause in their charter of any great consequence, and yet that is the very thing we are seeking to change in the laws of this State, and which, if changed, would make gambling on the tracks a felony."

RIVER OF BURNING OIL.

Swept Down Chester Pike from Pipe Line, Causing Much Loss.

PHILADELPHIA, April 25.—The Atlantic Refining Company's pipe line, which runs from Oil City, Penn., to Point Breeze, at the southwestern extremity of this city, broke in several places to-day along the Chester Pike, near Eddystone, twelve miles from here.

The oil took fire. The fire destroyed the plant of the Kennebec Worsted Company, burned the tollgate house, and several times fired the rectory of the Roman Catholic Church of St. Rose of Lima. Fire companies from all towns near the scene fought the flames.

The fire threatened to destroy the village of Leiperville, and workmen cut away the trolley bridge in an effort to stay the spread of the flames. The trolley wires were all cut to prevent serious injury to the men who are fighting the flames.

The Delaware and Atlantic Telephone Company's cables were cut. The trolley poles and telegraph poles were cut down. Workmen filled the ditches of blazing oil with dirt.

The fire was extinguished with great difficulty. The loss on the Kennebec worsted mill is placed at $50,000. The rails and ties of the Darby & Chester Trolley Company were damaged for a considerable distance. A number of telephone and telegraph poles were burned and the wires rendered useless.

CANAL GRAFT IN CHICAGO.

Fat Contracts, Big Salaries Paid, and Champagne Provided.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 25.—Figures revealing extravagance, mismanagement, and questionable methods, tinged with a deep shade of political influence, have resulted from the auditing of the books of the Canal Drainage Board for the last fifteen years. A complete report was submitted to the Trustees this afternoon by Stuart & Young, public accountants.

Immense contracts have gone awry, double the agreed price has been paid in several instances, lavish salaries have been given to special counsel and other employes who had the necessary "pull," and funds have been wasted in large sums for "entertainments" which included almost in every instance dozens of bottle of champagne, ten-year-old whisky, and expensive cigars.

Vouchers without signatures and without bills attached have been found, salaries have been paid without receipts given in return, and funds have been voted without recourse to the regular channels of procedure. Thousands of dollars have been wasted each year for the amusement of the Trustees and their guests, and at the same time no effort was made to collect vast sums due to the sanitary district.

The books show no record of $500,000 that is due from the City of Chicago. No comment is made upon the fact that there is over $1,000,000 of unpaid taxes, half of which is upon real estate.

MOTHER KIDNAPS BOY.

Takes George Cobiex in an Auto from Odd Fellows' Home.

George Cobiex, 9 years old, who was sent to the Odd Fellows' Home, Westchester, several years ago by the then Judge Julius Mayer, was kidnapped from that institution yesterday by his mother, from whose care he had been taken by order of the court.

Little is known of either parent of the little fellow. It is said that the mother is a French actress. She did not visit him at the home until two months ago, when she began to call to see him regularly, bringing him candy and other things that would delight a child.

Yesterday the mother called in an automobile. She was unaccompanied save for the chauffeur. She asked the matron to let her take the boy for a run down the road, and the matron saw no harm in granting the request. As the child was starting out with his mother the matron bade them wait until she could bring his jacket for him.

When she returned to the door the car had gone and a dust cloud up the road told her that George Cobiex had been kidnapped. The case was reported to the Westchester police last night, and a general alarm has been sent out for the missing child.

ROSALSKY IS A JUDGE.

Appointed by Gov. Higgins in Place of the Late Judge McMahon.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 25.—Gov. Higgins to-day sent to the Senate his appointment of Otto A. Rosalsky of New York City to be a Judge of the Court of General Sessions, New York City, in place of the late Judge Martin H. McMahon.

Otto A. Rosalsky was born in New York in 1873, and is the youngest man to sit on the bench of the Court of General Sessions. He has always lived on the east side, and no one is more familiar with life in that quarter of New York City than he. He is a graduate of the School of Law of the University of the City of New York and began practice in 1894.

This is Judge Rosalsky's second appointment to the General Sessions, he having been appointed to the vacancy that was made by the Tammany-Republican nomination last Fall of Judge Newburger for the Supreme Bench. Judge Rosalsky was an Assistant District Attorney in 1896 and 1897 under District Attorney W. M. K. Olcott, and was in charge of the prosecution of Martin Thorne and Mrs. Nack for the murder of William Guldensuppe.

TO MAKE FERDINAND KING.

Bulgarian Independence to be Proclaimed if Powers Consent.

ODESSA, April 25.—A dispatch received here from an unimpeachable source at Sofia, states that the object of the special mission of Gen. Petroff, the Bulgarian Premier and Minister of Foreign Affairs, to European courts, is to obtain the consent and support of the powers for the establishment of Bulgarian independence and the elevation of the principality to the status of a kingdom.

If the mission of Gen. Petroff is successful Prince Ferdinand will be proclaimed King of Bulgaria either on July 8, the anniversary of his election to his present position, or Aug. 14, the anniversary of his coronation.

A firm belief in the Premier's success prevails at Sofia, as the abrogation of Turkish suzerainty is calculated to materially assist the powers, in their task of pacification in Macedonia.

TEXAS AFTER BEEF TRUST.

Suits Begun Against the Swift, Armour and Other Concerns.

Special to The New York Times.

DALLAS, Texas, April 25.—On evidence procured in Dallas and Fort Worth, Assistant Attorney General Lightfoot today started proceedings against Swift & Company, the Armour Packing Company, the Fort Worth Live Stock Exchange, and the Fort Worth Stock Yards Company, alleging that they are trusts, and asking that their charters be forfeited and each assessed money penalties of $116,000.

County Attorney John Brady of Travis County and County Attorney Jeff McLean of Tarrant County join the State in the trust prosecution. The filing of these suits has alarmed other concerns against which the Attorney General's department has been gathering evidence. The next official move will be against the printing trust, oil trust, and flour trust.

Troops Ordered to Africa.

LONDON, Thursday, April 26.—Advices from Aldershot to The Tribune this morning report that the First Division of Gen. French's army corps has been instructed to prepare to mobilize in view of serious developments in South Africa.

At a late hour last night officials of the War Office knew nothing of the reported orders, and it is the idea of The Tribune that if there is any basis for the report it refers to some movement of troops to strengthen the garrison in Egypt.

The War Office yesterday ordered a regiment of dragoons stationed at Belfast to proceed to Egypt.

COURAGE AND GOOD CHEER IN THE STRICKEN CITY

The Weak Fled, the Strong Remained and Will Build Anew.

IMPRESSIONS OF A NEWCOMER

A Vision of Weeping Fugitives Replaced by One of Brave Men Who Joke Away Distress.

From a Staff Correspondent.

OAKLAND, April 25.—It was at Omaha that we who were passengers on the Overland Limited began to meet the refugees from San Francisco. Wretched, terror-stricken, pitiful persons, they were. Children, with eyes still dilated with fright, clung to mothers with faces still blanched.

If asked to tell of the destruction of the city they were unable to reply save by gestures and sobs. It was an indication, said my fellow-traveler, of the still more terrible things to be seen when San Francisco was reached.

It was nothing of the kind. Arriving at Oakland at midnight, we saw a bright red glow across the bay which showed where the week before a great city had stood—a city now in ruins. In the railway station and the streets of Oakland soldiers were everywhere, and in the square in front of the Oakland City Hall were many tents, but there was little other sign of the tragedy seven miles away.

In the early morning I went to the City Hall to obtain from the State authorities a pass allowing me to enter San Francisco. I was challenged three times by sentries, but each, on hearing my errand, cheerfully allowed me to go on. Inside, an official of the Governor's staff made out a pass almost as soon as he learned what was wanted, and carefully explained to me the best way of reaching San Francisco, adding that anything further he could do for me he would be glad to do.

On the way to the ferry I passed hundreds of refugees, some of whom had been sheltered during the night in tents erected in the open spaces of Oakland, while others had slept on the pavement with the steps of buildings for pillows. They were reading newspapers, laughing and joking. Hardly one appeared wretched or even depressed.

On the way across the bay I had a splendid view of the ruined city. That, indeed, was a terrible sight. From the water front, up the slopes of the steep hills, on which San Francisco is built, as far as the eye could see was ruin—such ruin as might be expected in London or New York should an immense fleet systematically bombard its domes of masonry.

Standing with nothing but bare steel skeletons beneath, amid other buildings thrown to the ground like ninepins, were still others, blackened and crumbling. The streets were filled with débris piled as high as houses. Clouds of smoke were still rising from a dozen points.

Towering above all like the Parthenon above Athens, was the great stone Fairmount Hotel, apparently undamaged, but actually, as I learned on the ferryboat, swept by fire from basement to attic.

On landing in San Francisco I was fortunate enough to obtain an automobile, and rode through the scene of desolation. It is appalling.

Practically the entire city is gone. After a mile or two the panorama of destruction becomes so monotonous that one turns for relief to look at the people in the streets. That is a scene not depressing, but inspiring.

The greater number are working, like ants after an ant hill has been kicked away. Others are sitting beside what household goods they have been able to save. They were just as cheerful as the refugees in Oakland—

[As I write this in a shop in Oakland at 8:15 P. M., there has just been another earthquake shock. Every one in the shop rushed into the street, as did those in other buildings. The scare lasted only a moment, and the shock was very slight, but it was sufficiently alarming.]

To return to the scene in San Francisco: The behavior of the people is absolutely heroic. All nationalities and classes are represented.

At one corner one sees a Japanese mother with her child, pretty as a picture by Hokusai; at another a group of Chinese discussing the situation with the calmness of Buddhas.

What is the explanation of the difference between the cheerfulness of these persons and the terror we saw on the faces of the refugees along the line?

It is simply that the cowards have fled and the brave remain. And it is these who will make the new San Francisco.

WOMEN WIN SCHOOL FIGHT.

And Bound Brook Will Put Up a $20,000 Building.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, N. J., April 25.—The women of Bound Brook won their contest for a new $20,000 school building last evening at a school election held there. The women had the right to vote, and this won the day for them.

The Board of Education was split over the matter. Some of the members wanted the school erected on Union Avenue, the section of the borough peopled by Bound Brook's "Four Hundred." Some thought that the idea was to erect a fine building for the select of the borough and let the poorer children go to the old school.

The other side denied this. They held that Bound Brook owed it to its children to give them a decent building amid high class surroundings, and the women were so impressed with this idea, that they put it through.

EARTHQUAKE FOR HAVANA.

Indicated by Plant Life and Sun's Appearance, Says Vienna Scientist.

HAVANA, April 25.—Prof. J. F. Nowack of Vienna, who is lecturing before the Cuban Institute of Sciences on phenomena of nature, says that his studies of the condition of plant life in the vicinity of Havana, combined with peculiarities in the sun's appearance, indicate a violent earthquake or tidal wave between May 15 and 19, which will sweep the seaward part of Havana, including the suburb of Vedado.

Being questioned closely, Prof. Nowack said that while the conditions pointed positively to a disturbance, he could not guarantee its appearance.

FEAR FOR RED CROSS LINER.

Steamship Rosalind, from Halifax to St. John, Overdue.

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., April 25.—The Red Cross Line steamer Rosalind, Capt. Clark, which sailed from New York April 18, for this port via Halifax, and left Halifax last Saturday night, has not yet arrived, although steamers which left the Nova Scotian port some time after the Rosalind have reached here safely.

It was reported the Rosalind was ashore near Cape Race, but this proved unfounded. It is feared the steamer is enmeshed in an ice floe and may meet with serious mishap.

FALL KILLS BLIND WOMAN.

Hanging by Her Toes, She Called Help Which Came Too Late.

Mrs. Rachel Morris, 59 years old, who has been blind for five years, walked into the kitchen of her home on the fifth floor of the house at 23 East 109th Street yesterday afternoon for a glass of water. A window was open and, stumbling, she fell through it.

The women's feet caught on the window ledge, and as she hung head downward she called for help. A gang of Italian workers on a vacant lot near by heard her screams and started to run upstairs to assist her, but before they reached her her feet slipped and she fell to the pavement, a distance of nearly 100 feet. She was killed instantly.

WOMEN UPSET THE COMMONS.

Suffragists Make a Commotion in the Gallery and Are Ejected.

LONDON, April 25.—Discussion of James Keir Hardie's motion in favor of female suffrage led to a very unusual scene in the House of Commons to-night. Several suffragist women in the gallery made a demonstration by calling out "Divide," "Divide," thrusting through the grill a flag inscribed "Vote for Women," cheering, &c. The Speaker immediately ordered the gallery cleared.

The appearance of the police with an assistant Deputy Sergeant to remove the women caused a further commotion, William Redmond asking whether it was in accordance with decency that policemen should be called to expel ladies. After much voluble protest the demonstrators were removed, together with several innocent occupants of the gallery, who, however, were rescued by friends in the House.

Keir Hardie's motion was talked out.

WILL CHANGE CLUB'S NAME.

National Democratic to be Its Title Hereafter—Vote Unanimous.

With only four dissenting votes the members of the Democratic Club last night decided to change the name of the organization to that of the National Democratic Club of the State of New York. The change will be made as soon as the necessary legal steps can be taken and the papers filed with the Secretary of State at Albany.

There were about 300 members present at the special meeting at the clubhouse last night, and after the vote was taken it was made unanimous. The report of the special committee, in favor of the move, was adopted, and the next move will be made at a special meeting of the Governors, when an address will be framed for the Democrats of the country, urging them to join the organization and extend the scope of the club.

NEW CHICAGO TERMINAL.

J. F. Wallace Lends Aid to Developing Freight Transfer Yards.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, Ill., April 25.—After allowing the Stickney freight transfer yards to lie idle for more than five years the railroads contemplate their use in the immediate future. The property comprises four sections of land. Over $5,000,000 has been expended there but the electric switching apparatus has never been used.

Engineers were brought here to work on the scheme, and it is said that to plan a layout for the terminals and an entrance to them is the principal business that brought John F. Wallace, formerly of the Panama Commission, to Chicago. He is said to have worked out a feasible plan, which was presented this afternoon at a meeting of the executive officers.

Six of the Chicago railroads have heavy financial interests in this property, having bought to protect their interests in case the scheme ever worked out. These roads are now anxious to get some return for their money.

CANNON MAKES A GUESS.

Congress May Be in Session in the Summer, He Says.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—"Congress will adjourn some time between the middle of June and the first of August. That is my guess."

This was the reply of Speaker Cannon to-day to an inquiry about the probable length of the present session.

"You see," said the Speaker, "there is a certain amount of work Congress must do before it adjourns. Little of that work has been done yet. The appropriation bills have been fairly well advanced by the House, but the Senate practically has done nothing with them. If the Senate should pass a railroad rate bill by May 1 it would take all of six weeks for the rest of the work which must be done.

"And who knows whether the Rate bill will be passed by May 1? In addition to the appropriation bills—and the House will not permit them to be rushed through with all the Senate amendments—there are other measures which probably will take some time. I see no prospect of a very early adjournment. We'll be here some time yet."

NEW EARTHQUAKE IN SAN FRANCISCO

Much Alarm, But Little Damage Done.

RELIEF FRAUDS STOPPED.

A New System Ordered to Check Grabbing.

TROUBLE OVER MILITIA

Governor Disregards Requests for Their Removal—Militia Ordered Disarmed—Many Stores Open.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 25.—An earthquake shock at 3:15 o'clock this afternoon toppled over several tottering walls and cracked chimneys left by the severe shock of last Wednesday and the fire that followed, and killed one woman in her home.

The shock was not severe, but the partly wrecked condition of walls and chimneys resulted in the upsetting of some masonry. The shock was barely perceptible in Oakland and vicinity and was not felt far from San Francisco, according to reports received to-night.

To-day's quake caused excitement among many persons who have been wrought up to a high state of excitement by the awful happenings of the last week, but quiet and assurance were soon restored.

This was a day of optimistic reports from all sides. "Conditions improving" was the happy expression from those who have charge of the caring for their less fortunate fellow-townsmen during the last few days.

In fact, now that the most important duty will hereafter be performed by the United States Army, that of distributing the food and supplies, which have been given lavishly, the citizens of San Francisco have turned their attention to details of the reconstruction and of their business.

Wholesale grabbing of supplies by elements of the people, while others are in want, has caused the military authorities to order a new system in the distribution of food. Beginning to-morrow kitchens and mess rooms will be established, where meals will be supplied to all who apply, but no food will be given out to be carried away.

In the distribution of clothing precautions against fraud will be taken by squads detailed to visit each tent or shelter, list the occupants and tabulate their wants. Orders will be given out entitling the holders to the needed clothing, bedding, or other stores.

"The one perplexing problem that we now have to contend with is the prevention of unequal distribution of food," said Chief of Police Dinan to-day. "Those of the worst element in the city, we find, are living better than they ever did in their lives, while the unfortunates who have never been accustomed to ask for aid are actually sufffering. We are doing all in our power to relieve this condition, and hope in a few days to get rid of those who are taking everything in sight."

Stores Open; Government Prices.

There was a resumption of business to an astonishing extent to-day, considering conditions throughout the residential quarter. Retail stores were instructed to reopen, and the Municipal Government has established a scale of prices for the most important commodities, cutting even below those existing under normal conditions.

Warning was given to retailers that any effort on their part to charge exorbitant prices would result in summary action by the authorities.

Street cars are promised for to-morrow morning and electric lights will be turned on to-morrow evening. The work of building and improving chimneys is proceeding rapidly, but it will be some time before it is safe to allow fires.

The preparation of the morning and the evening meals, for San Francisco, as a rule, does not partake of more than that number at present, is a picturesque sight. In front of every house there is a small, improvised furnace or cook stove, on which the food is prepared.

In some cases servants remained faithful to their employers, and to them the cooking is intrusted; but it is no unusual thing to see the wives of men who a few days ago were the possessors of fortunes stirring the porridge or manipulating bacon and eggs.

San Francisco goes to bed at nightfall. While the extremely rigid rule concerning lights in houses has been modified, still the general situation is considered by the average citizen to be so unsafe at night that he retires without going abroad, and in many cases without showing a light in his house. Many reports have been made during the last few days of shots fired into houses that showed a light, and few are disposed to take chance.

Mayor Schmitz to-day took a firm stand against "Citizens' Protective Committees," organized in many sections of the city by men to undertake to regulate the affairs of their neighborhood. Many complaints have been made against these "committees."

Responsible citizens have been stopped at night and made to explain why they were abroad after dark, and shots have been fired at persons who had a right to go anywhere they pleased at any hour. One of these so-called "vigilance committees" is held responsible for the death of Major Tilden, who was shot while performing relief work.

APRIL

The Mayor to-day gave instructions that the members of these "committees" were to be disarmed wherever found by the city police, and if any resistance was offered, were to be treated as looters, which means that they are to be shot without ceremony.

The State militia has not been withdrawn, notwithstanding the requests from the Mayor and from the Citizens' Executive Committee. Gov. Pardee has not met with the Executive Committee or with the heads of the military and civil authorities at Fort Mason. He has sent word, in explanation of his absence that he had been advised too late to reach the meetings.

It apepars that as a rule members of the militia have had a misapprehension of the conditions in San Francisco. They have acted as though martial law were in force, and it was their duty to regulate the affairs of the city according to their individual conception of that law. Since they have been confined to a limited area, however, and the conditions have been explained to them, there has been less complaint from citizens.

There is nothing but praise for the work of the United States Army, the navy, and the police. They have acted with reason at all times.

Marines are used in a large region for patrol duty, and they have maintained the best of order without one instance of conflict with anybody. The direction of the municipal police under Mayor Schmitz and Chief Dinan has been excellent, and many are the heroic actions in the work of these men during the last week.

Everywhere sanitary conditions are satisfactory. Probably there has been less sickness at the Presidio than at any of the other camps, and this may be attributed to the fact that the peole there have been sheltered, fed, and directed by army officers.

Red Cross Trouble Ended.

The President's proclamation, issued to-day, has had a cheering effect. The local Finance Committee and the Red Cross are acting together, and the work of relief is conducted in a systematic manner. A force of expert accountants has been engaged, an Auditing and Supervising Committee has been appointed, and every dollar paid out will be accounted for.

The San Francisco Labor Council, on behalf of its 106 affiliated unions, has announced that wages will remain the same as before the fire.

The water supply is still a serious problem. It was decided to-day that still further restrictions should be put on the use of the water now available. Hereafter, until the water system has been repaired, there is to be but one water faucet for each block throughout the city.

Plan for a Big Bond Issue.

A special session of the California Legislature to pass laws empowering San Francisco to issue bonds for the reconstruction of the city was requested of Gov. Pardee this afternoon by the General Executive Committee at a meeting at Fort Mason. At the meeting were Mayor Schmitz, Gens. Funston and Greely, Secretary of Commerce and Labor Metcalf, Garrett McInerny, and representatives of every sub-committee.

The entire Assembly drew up a message to Gov. Pardee in which they stated their request for a special session of the Legislature, and the reasons of such request, and accompanied it with another message asking for a prompt reply. The question of martial law was also considered.

Food distribution was turned over to the Commissary Department in charge of Major Dravo. The Food Committee reported that all necessary provisions were on hand and obtainable. They said that they were even overwhelmed with provisions. Perishable food is causing trouble. Mayor Schmitz drew up a telegram, which was to be sent over the entire United States requesting all sources of relief to refrain from sending perishable food. Supplies should be limited to staples.

Gen. Greely assured Mayor Schmitz that the army was willing and anxious to do all in its power in the relief measures. But as a supplement of this assurance he begged the municipal authorities to realize the fact that the army is overtaxed; that it is asked to cover too wide a range of work.

Secretary Metcalf is so overwhelmed with relief contributions that he has been unable to compile any authentic total to date.

"I am reasonably positive that the total is above $6,000,000," he said.

The total amount of the relief fund up to and including Tuesday, April 24, as reported by the Committee on Finance, was $2,306,436. Of this amount, $2,115,716 was from out of town sources, while the local subscriptions amounted to $160,700. These figures are considerably lower than those published unofficially on several occasions, but the Finance Committee takes cognizance only of subscriptions of which it has been definitely informed.

President Offers the Mint.

The following telegram was received to-day:

"White House,
"Washington, D. C., April 25, 1906.

"Hon. James D. Phelan, Chairman Finance Committee, San Francisco.

"'The Finance Committee may use the United States Mint at San Francisco as a depository for relief funds until the Sub-Treasury opens, and thereafter may use the Sub-Treasury until the banks open. They should withdraw funds from the depositories in sums not less than $1,000, as the Government officers in San Francisco are not equipped to do banking business.

"'Please consult as to details of arrangements the Superintendent of the Mint at San Francisco. Secretary Shaw will immediately wire suitable instructions to the Superintendent of the Mint and the Assistant Treasurer.

"'Authority is especially given to the Secretary of War to disburse the Congressional appropriation, amounting altogether to $2,500,000.'

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

Between 6 A. M. Wednesday, April 18, and the following Sunday night, the Southern Pacific ran 129 trains with over 900 cars to the main line and local and Eastern points, carrying refugees from San Francisco free. During the same time 610 suburban trains were run from the Oakland pier with 4,880 cars, a total of 789 trains with 5,880 cars. During the same period 50 trains with 500 cars were run from points between Third and Townsend Streets and Oceanview to the south.

The number of people carried from San Francisco exceeded 225,000. The value of the transportation issued free by the Southern Pacific at San Francisco, Oakland, San José, Santa Rosa, Sacramento, and Vallejo to people has exceeded $400,000. The freight transportation that was carried free cannot be estimated at the present time.

The exodus from the city continues. All day a constant stream of men, women, and children, afoot and on every conceivable vehicle wended their way down Market and Mission Streets toward the ferries. A little bundle on a stick carried over the shoulder represented all the worldly possessions of some; others had grips and baskets, and a great many had saved trunks and furniture.

The Finance Committee of Relief and Red Cross funds, which is now in charge of the relief work, is composed of the principal merchants, bankers, and jurists of the city. Following are the members of the committee:

Jas. D. Phelan, Chairman;
J. D. Harvey, Secretary;
William Black,
Horace Davis,
M. H. De Young,
Frank G. Drumm,
James L. Flood,
I. W. Hellman, Jr.,
William F. Herrin,
Rufus P. Jennings,
Herbert E. Law,
Thomas Magee,
Garrett McInerny,
John P. Merrill,
Judge W. W. Morrow,
Rudolph Spreckels,
Charles Sutro, Jr.,
Joseph S. Tobin.

An idea of the task which confronts the Food Committee may be gained from the fact that throughout the city rations for 349,440 persons were distributed yesterday. This is an average estimate based on reports from a few of the food depots. At one point yesterday provisions were given out to 672 persons an hour for ten hours. This station is neither one of the largest nor one of the smallest, and so its reports were used as a basis to strike an average.

There is no danger of a meat famine. Reports of the Western Meat Company, in South San Francisco, reported to the Relief Committee this morning that there are now in the yards 1,500 cattle, 3,000 sheep, and 500 hogs. More than 200 cattle are killed and dressed daily, and sheep and hogs are put under the knife as fast as they arrive. The full quota of employes is at work. The Southern Pacific ordered all cattle cars to be rushed to San Francisco, with precedence over passenger trains.

Small Stores Resume Business.

Ex-Chief of Police Wittman, reporting on the resumption of retail business, to-day said that he had induced the following stores to reopen: Groceries, 27; butcher markets, 11; creameries, 11; bakeries, 9; restaurants, 4. The number of each of these will be largely augmented during the course of a few days. A committee has fixed maximum retail prices.

Many tons of fresh fruit were distributed free yesterday. Bunches of bananas and boxes of oranges were given unsparingly to the people who flocked from the tents along the beach and about Fort Mason.

The oranges had been shipped to San Francisco for commission merchants before the earthquake. They had not been unloaded at the warehouses and had escaped destruction to a large degree. As they had not been accepted by the firms to whom they were shipped, they were largly the property of the growers and packers in the southern part of the State, and word was received by telegraph that the homeless sufferers were only too welcome to take them.

The bananas were mainly in the warehouses where they were being held to ripen. They belonged to San Francisco commission men, but were turned over to the naval authorities in command of the water front district for distribution.

The surgeon in charge of the general hospital at the Presidio states that his force is perfectly organized and that seventy-five members of the army nurse corps are due at the Presidio from Chicago to-morrow morning. They will be divided among the Presidio and the emergency hospitals of the city. Since the beginning of the calamity twenty deaths have occurred in the general hospital.

The losses of the San Francisco Fire Department during the earthquake and fire were inconsiderable compared to the great damage sustained in other departments of the municipality.

As far as known, three firemen were killed and one injured. The apparatus of the department, while damaged, is still intact. Nineteen companies have been put out of commission and many of them will be disbanded.

At a meeting of the Fire Commissioners to-day, it was reported by Chief Dougherty that, excluding the dead and injured, there are about 100 members of the department missing. It is believed, however, that these men have been separated from their companies and will rejoin them soon.

Besides Chief Sullivan, the only identified dead fireman is James O'Neil, whose body was found beneath the ruins of the engine house at Howard and Third Streets. The doors of the engine house were twisted by the shock so that they could not be opened. O'Neil climbed to the transom and was leaping to the ground when the cornice struck him on the back and crushed him.

The Commissioners are equipping the department for the protection of the unburned portion of the city. The alarm system is wrecked, and it will be some time before it can be replaced. In the meantime men are detailed to patrol near the fire houses and at the first indication of fire the engines are turned out. The department is still handicapped by lack of water.

Committee That Rules the City.

The branch mint yesterday shipped out the first coin to be sent from its vaults. The money was transferred to Oakland for the use of the Oakland bankers and was protected by the troops. Further shipments were interrupted by the dynamiting going on in the neighborhood of the mint.

Money was received at the mint during the day from a variety of sources for safe keeping. Supt. Leach said that he had received a call from the bankers of San Francisco also, to know when funds would be at their disposal.

National City Bank's Pledge.

W. A. Simonson, a Vice President of the National City Bank of New York, which has the largest financial connections in this city of any of the Eastern banking institutions, has come to San Francisco. To-day he made a cheering announcement that the National City will do all in its power to aid in the rebuilding of San Francisco.

On the news of the earthquake Mr. Simonson took the first train out of New York for San Francisco. In an interview to-day he said:

"I have been deeply impressed by the courage with which you are facing this situation, and the wisdom and judgment which is being displayed in meeting it. The unquestioned solvency of your banks and the fact that they will be prepared to meet all reasonable demands will go far toward the maintenance of confidence in the community.

"In the necessities of the present and in the requirements of the future, in the restoration of your city and its business, I assure you that the National City of New York is prepared and intends to extend to you its resources and influence. We stood up for Galveston; we stood up for Baltimore, and now we are going to stand up for San Francisco.

"In my opinion Eastern capital, in general, realizing that the disaster which has wrecked San Francisco may not be repeated before the end of time, will not hesitate again to invest largely in this city."

City Like Paris Is Planned.

That San Francisco is to be rebuilt on better and more beautiful lines is indicated by the fact that James D. Phelan, Chairman of the Improvement Association of San Francisco, yesterday dispatched telegrams to Architect Daniel V. Burnham and his assistant, Mr. Bennett of Chicago, to come immediately to San Francisco to take up the work planned some two years ago.

Burnham and Bennett are the originators of plans to beautify San Francisco, and the committee does not want to take any final steps until it has a conference with them. Mr. Burnham's plans call for a reconstruction similar to the City of Paris.

In addition ot the large force of men and teams already at work about fifty teams of Government mules have been put to work hauling away débris in the destroyed district. Several more streets have been cleared for traffic, numerous street car lines are ready for operation, and the repairing of the water mains and the work of restoration of the gas and electric systems is making rapid headway. Work on rebuilding the ferry tower began to-day.

Building Work Soon to Begin.

Plans for the construction of the new buildings are rapidly being drawn, and work on some of them will begin as soon as the ruins of the old sites are cold. Many of the new buildings planned are on a larger scale than those destroyed.

Following the example set by nearly all the business interets of the old San Francisco, members of the Jesuit order announced to-day they intend to remain, and will at once rebuild both St. Ignatus College and cathedral.

Several of the foundries and factories near the water front and south of Market Street are to-day preparing to resume operations at the earliest possible moment. Hundreds of former employes reported this morning and spent the day overhauling tangles of machinery and removing débris.

Train service on the Southern Pacific's coast division, operating between this city and Los Angeles, via San José, was resumed to-day with the Northern terminal at Oakland Pier.

The State Supreme Court has made a sweeping order granting a rehearing in all cases in which a petition has been filed and in which the time for granting a rehearing will expire before May 1. The purpose is to prevent lapses which would deprive parties to a suit from completing the record within the time specified within the rule. A similar order was made in respect to appeals in that court from the United States District Court of Appeals.

Police Have a Quiet Night.

"All is well," were the words that went down the line at Police Headquarters when the uniformed officials had finished their long night vigil through the burned districts and reported off duty to their commanding Captains to-day.

It was a night of perfect peace. No looters worked in the open, if at all; the challenge of every guard brought pedestrians to a halt, and after giving satisfactory answers to all questions of the challengers they were allowed to go their way.

"From the reports of officers filed this morning," said Chief of Police Dinan, "there is every indication that San Francisco has settled down to almost normal condition. Our officers are everywhere as usual, but no crimes have been reported for the past twelve hours, and petty thievery has not even kept the upper office men of the department busy."

Mayor Curbs the Militia.

As a result of Mayor Schmitz's sharp letter yesterday evening to Gen. Koster, commanding the National Guard, in which the Mayor called the General's attention to the fact that the city was not under martial law and that the arbitrary actions of some of his men which have caused so much complaint were illegal, and requesting him to put a stop to it, there was but little shooting last night in the district over which the militia holds sway.

A marine reported finding a light burning in a house on lower Fillmore Street after 10 o'clock last night, and the military sentry on the post shot through the window. A looter, who, it is stated, broke into several places on Vallejo Street, was reported to have been shot by a marine sentry at Vallejo and East Streets.

Several bullets fired from the water front struck a Red Cross launch in which Dr. Diggins of the Emergency Hospital Service was going from the Potrero district to the Presidio. The shooting was done while the launch was off the ferry. None of the occupants was hit. The bluejackets who patrol that section of the water front disclaim all knowledge of the shooting.

The fact that two companies of the Fourteenth Infantry from Vancouver went to Oakland yesterday to do guard duty in that city indicates that the militia will be recalled.

With unwavering faith in an image, twenty Chinese gathered to-day in a desolate spot of the ruins of Chinatown this morning and worshipped in full compliance with the rites of their religion. In the ashes of their temple they knelt and silently offered prayers.

Prostrate in the smoldering wreckage before them was the charred trunk of a graven image that once held the altar in the temple of Shai Tai. The fumes of fresh incense and sacred punk curled skyward. All the dainties obtainable under the circumstances were spread in propitiatory offering to the devil that no offense to that personage might bring a recurrence of the disaster.

The earthquake to-day caused the death of Mrs. Annie Whitaker, aged 25 years. Mrs. Whitaker was at work in the kitchen of her home on Shotwell Street, in the Mission District, when the shock came. The chimney, which had been left in a tottering condition by the heavy quake last Wednesday, crashed through the roof and fractured her skull.

The National Education Convention was to have held its annual convention in San Francisco from July 4 to 9, and plans are under consideration to have the convention held in California in spite of the disaster that has overtaken San Francisco.

It has been suggested that a model outdoor camp be established in the Piedmont Hills back of Oakland, and within easy distance of the University of California. With some such idea in view, a telegram has been sent to Dr. Nathan C. Schaefer, President of the National Education Association at Harrisburg, as follows:

"In consultation with Benjamin Ide Wheeler, President of the University of California, we have decided to request you to postpone any decision regarding the forty-fifth annual convention of the National Education Association for a week or ten days and to communicate here before coming to any final decision.

PLIGHT OF SANTA ROSA.

Army Officer Tells of Conditions—Plenty of Aid at Hand.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Gen. Greely, in a dispatch received at the War Department to-day, reports on conditions in Santa Rosa.

"Col. Pratt just returned from thorough inspection Santa Rosa," he says. "There are no homeless persons unprovided for. Provisions from outside sources leave no present need of rations. Santa Rosa is garrisoned by two companies of the California National Guard, and no additional troops are desired.

"Sanitary conditions good, excellent order prevails, spirits of the people high, although about one hundred were killed and as many more injured. The entire business part of the city is destroyed. Medical attention is ample, but certain medical supplies are necessary, which I have ordered forwarded to-day."

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 25.—In a letter received here from a former Los Angeles man, some details of the earthquake damage at Santa Rosa are given. He says:

"This town is in awful shape. There is not a single brick or stone building standing, and scores of fine residences are in ruins. Fires broke out in the business district right after the shock, and burned dead and living alike. There were three big three-story hotels, but while all of them fell, only one took fire.

"From the St. Rose they took out nine bodies to-day. They found a little girl in these ruins. She was unhurt, but very hungry and thirsty, having been buried four days and nights. The timbers had lodged so that they protected her. Cases of this kind have been numerous."

SANTA ROSA, Cal., April 25.—An accident caused by the recent earthquake resulted in the death of three men at the Great Eastern Quicksilver mine.

As the cage was being hoisted from the mine a giant boulder, dislodged by the shaking earth, fell down the shaft, wrecking the cage and killing its occupants, John Hansen, C. Gorsky, and John Miller.

MORE NAMES OF DEAD.

Gen. Greely Also Reports 1,005 Injured at San Francisco.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The War Department to-day received a telegram from Gen. Greely, dated Fort Mason yesterday, giving a further list of dead, as follows:

"The following dead are reported in addition to list sent last night:

Albert D. Saeghter, Margaret Miles, Anne Mary Petrig, unknown man, Joseph U. Aebi, Jons, Sorensen, Mel Meclair, Holber M. Mausen, Patrick Dockery, Denis T. Sullivan, Bernard Shay, Jules Jaual, Amelio Marco, N. A. Hustell, John Faurth, Francis Mercier, and Teresa Roche.

"Two hundred and twenty-one injured are being cared for at the General Hospital Presidio, 784 at Park Emergency Hospital, making 1,005 injured so far reported. No further reports on this subject will be rendered unless specially called for."

MINISTERS ATTACK BENEFIT.

It Was Given on Sunday in Worcester and with No License.

Special to The New York Times.

WORCESTER, Mass., April 25.—Prosecution is likely to result from the performance given at the Park Theatre here Sunday night for the benefit of the San Francisco victims. If the assertions of the ministers who opposed the granting of a license can be proved, every person attending, including ex-Congressman John R. Thayer, is liable to a fine of $5, every performer to a fine not exceeding $50, and the managers to fines of not less than $50 or more than $500.

The Park Theatre Charitable Association, formed last Friday, applied for a license for a Sunday night benefit. Many ministers, prominent among them being the Rev. Dr. Roberts of the Newton Square Baptist Church, objected. The license was not granted, but a performance was given just the same. The question now is whether the performance was under the auspices of a regularly organized society and whether that was religious or charitable.

SAN FRANCISCO BANKS GETTING READY RAPIDLY

Word Comes Here That They Will Reopen in a Few Days.

TO PAY THE NEEDY FIRST

"Everything Hopeful," Says a Dispatch from the Anglo-California Bank — All Heard From.

More evidence that the San Francisco banks are rapidly getting their affairs into shape is getting here every day. Although the continuance of the legal holidays declared by the Governor from day to day prevent the creditors of the San Francisco banks from coming down on them for funds, the bank officers are apparently making strenuous efforts to get their machinery in smooth running order for the rush that will come when the holiday respite is removed.

A telegram received from the Anglo-California Bank by J. & W. Seligman yesterday gives a fair idea of the situation. It is dated Monday and reads:

"Will reopen bank in a few days in residence of P. N. Lilienthal, corner Franklin and Clay Streets. Other banks will reopen in the same neighborhood. Will order one million through you and New York Treasury, payable to us here through Mint. Clearing House will recommend that banks pay reasonable amounts to needy depositors as a starter. Everything hopeful."

Inquiry at some of the largest banks who have correspondents in San Francisco showed that practically all of the banks that had not been heard from since the first day of the disaster have now opened communication with their New York representatives.

Transfers through the Sub-Treasury yesterday to San Francisco amounted to $933,000. In addition $500,000 was transferred to Chicago. The amount sent to San Francisco included $140,000, which was contributed to the relief fund by the members of the New York Stock Exchange. Advices received by local bankers yesterday indicate that further large sums will be needed by the San Francisco banks in the near future. International bankers are counting upon the expected large receipts of insurance money from abroad to help the New York money market, which has been called upon to make such large advances to the Pacific Coast.

The opinion expressed in some quarters yesterday was that although fairly firm rates for money were to be expected, the arrival of large sums from abroad to meet the loss of the foreign insurance companies would go a long way toward preventing actual stringency.

MME. EAMES'S STORY.

She Is Now with Dr. Tevis—Expects to Start East To-day.

SAN JOSE, Cal., April 25.—Mme. Emma Eames of the Metropolitan Opera Company, who was in San Francisco when the earthquake came, gave out an account to-day of her experiences. She is staying at the country home of Dr. Tevis at Alma, resting, as she lost her voice by sleeping in the open and walking around San Francisco.

She was in Dr. Tevis's San Francisco house when the shock came. Mme. Eames spent Wednesday night at North Beach, and on Thursday got to Oakland. In her statement she says:

"At about 5 o'clock Thursday afternoon we managed to secure an automobile and Dr. Tevis, Mr. Tetrigo, my maid, and myself, came up here, where we have been camping out. We found the caretakers in a state of terror on our arrival and the house demolised by the earthquake. We had taken a ride in an automobile of four hours and were glad to lie on a comfortable mattress in one of the cottages of his employes.

"At no time have we felt any fear, and the whole thing seems perfectly natural. When everybody is suffering from the same cause one's personal sensations are minimized. One feels very small. As I lay in my bed at the first shock I took mental notes, as I shall probably never see another earthquake, and I am not sure I want to.

"I hope to leave on Thursday morning by the Overland Limited, arriving in New York Monday morning."

LOS ANGELES, April 25.—Justice Lucien Shaw, of the State Supreme Court learned to-day that his wife, who was reported among the missing, had been found at the Presidio in San Francisco, safe and well.

THE WAR DEPARTMENT CHILLY TO GEN. GREELY

Telegrams to Him Contain Many Questions About His Work.

TROOPS HE ASKED NOT SENT

Also Requested to Reconsider His Request—Told to Start an Information Bureau If He Can.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—A tart, acid tone is to be noted in all the War Department's telegrams to Gen. Greely at San Francisco to-day. It is a tone of suspicion and of close scrutiny. In them all the General is put on the defensive.

The tone of the messages is totally different from that in the dispatches sent to Gen. Funston when that officer was in command. A disposition to be impatient with Greely was noticeable at the department even before he arrived in San Francisco, and the predictions were many about the department that he would fail.

Every telegram sent to him to-day "jacks" him up severely, and there is a "why-haven't-you-done-this?" tone about them all. Heavy tasks, such as reporting the names of all the 1,500 injured under classified heads, are laid upon him. His request for more troops is sharply criticised, and he is informed that there is no law for sending them.

The tone of the talk about the department to-day is all in line with the telegrams. It is evident that the General will have to do extremely well if he is to avoid criticism. Secretary Taft is not here to-day, and the dispatches to Gen. Greely are sent by Military Secretary Ainsworth, and say "by order of the Acting Secretary of War," who is Gen. Oliver.

Greely is not especially popular in the War Department, and it is considered quite likely that if another officer were in command at San Francisco the tone of the telegrams would not have changed so suddenly from the kind sent to Funston.

Some of the Dispatches.

Here are extracts from some of the dispatches sent to Greely to-day:

"Department requests you to consider over again your request for not less than 2,500 more troops."

"Wire minimum number of troops from outside your division that are absolutely essential."

"War Department is agreeable to any reasonable plans and requests of the properly constituted authorities, but return to normal conditions should be as rapid as practicable."

"There is no law for such use of the army."

"The War Department deems it not only not desirable that all you do should be based on the desires of the civil authorities, but that you should, when practicable, procure their requests in writing."

"Reference to your telegram of yesterday regarding 1,500 injured now in hospital, Acting Secretary of War directs you to telegraph at earliest practicable date names of all injured ascertainable. Report them, as far as practicable, under separate heads—'injured slightly,' 'injured severely, but not dangerously,' and 'injured dangerously.'

"Is there not some civilian official in San Francisco who will attend to and answer such requests?" [Referring to requests to the department for information as to the welfare of people in San Francisco.]

"A registration bureau seems to be urgently needed. Have steps to establish one been taken?"

Can't Start a Bureau.

All the dispatches are permeated with this tone, which reflects a good deal of the language heard about the department even before Greely returned to the West. Late this afternoon the General's reply to the telegram about the registration bureau was received. In about 500 words he explains why he believes it is impossible for him to establish such a bureau. He says there are 300,000 homeless people; that in a city of half a million the entire business facilities have been destroyed except on one unimportant street; that men are beginning to quit relief and rescue work to look after their own families; that even ordinary current duties such as those of the Coroner's office and registration of vital statistics cannot be attended to, and that a registration bureau under such circumstances is impossible.

He reminds the department that the city covers twenty-five square miles; that there are practically no telegraph lines, no telephone lines, no street cars, and that messengers have to be sent about the city on foot except in the rare cases where automobiles can be obtained.

The comment about the department on the receipt of this telegram was that the General had been disconcerted by the fusilade of dispatches he had received and felt the necessity of making a full defense—a curious situation when he has been there less than three days.

The General recommends that people desirous of ascertaining the safety of friends and relatives write to The Examiner, Call, and Chronicle, which are doing the best they can with their limited facilities to register people. He announces that no doctors or nurses are needed.

HARRIMAN KILLS A SCARE.

Only an Hour Needed to Deny Report of Fresh Earthquakes.

How closely in touch with his New York office E. H. Harriman is able to keep even from San Francisco was exemplified yesterday when an early edition of an afternoon paper came out with a "scare" story of renewed earthquake shocks in California.

The market is sensitive to rumors in these days, and plenty of men in Wall Street were ready to believe the worst. As soon as the rumors reached the Union Pacific offices in the Equitable Life Building a query was flashed out to Mr. Harriman over the road's private wire. This reply came through before an hour had gone by:

"Oakland, Cal.—The reports of new shocks of earthquake in San Francisco are absolutely without foundation. It is a perfect sunshiny day here. Everything quiet. E. H. HARRIMAN."

This message was sent before the shock in San Francisco, at 3:15 yesterday afternoon, or 6:15 New York time.

ROOSEVELT HEEDS FRISCO PROTESTS

SATISFIED ABOUT THE CHINESE

He Says the San Franciscans Have Acted in a Manner Beyond All Praise.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Telegrams from leading citizens of San Francisco, taking exception to President Roosevelt's action in conferring supremacy in the relief work upon the Red Cross organizations and in ordering equal treatment of Chinese sufferers, brought quick response to-day.

Mr. Roosevelt issued a proclamation to the effect that the need of employing the Red Cross for relief work in San Francisco, except as an auxiliary, had passed, and urging that contributions from all sources be sent, not to the Red Cross, as he asked last week, but to Chairman James D. Phelan of the Finance Committee in the ruined city.

Mr. Roosevelt also sent a reply to the telegram received from Mayor Schmitz and others in which they deny that any discrimination against the Chinese exists. In it he explained that he had not doubted that the Citizens' Committee would relieve everybody when organized.

The text of the President's proclamation follows:

"To the Public: When the news of the dreadful disaster at San Francisco first came it was necessary to take immediate steps to provide in some way for the receipt and distribution of the sums of money which at once poured in for the relief of the people of San Francisco.

"At the moment no one could foretell how soon it would be possible for the people of San Francisco themselves to organize, and to tide over the interval the American National Red Cross Association was designated to receive and disburse the funds. But the people of San Francisco, with an energy and self-reliant courage, a cool resourcefulness, and a capacity for organized and orderly endeavor which are beyond all praise, have already met the need through a committee appointed by the Mayor of the city, ex-Mayor James D. Phelan being Chairman of the Finance committee.

"The work of this committee has been astonishing in its range, promptness, and efficiency. As I am informed by Major Gen. Greely, although all local transportation was destroyed, as well as practically every supply store in the city, these local committees, with the help of the army, have succeeded in caring for 300,000 homeless people in the last five days. Thanks to their efforts, no individual is now suffering severely for food, water, or temporary shelter.

"This work has been done with the minimum of waste and under conditions which would have appalled men less trained in business methods, endowed with less ability, or inspired with any but the highest motives of humanity and helpfulness.

"The need of employing the Red Cross, save as an auxiliary, has passed, and I urge that hereafter all contributions from any source be sent direct to James D. Phelan, Chairman Finance Committee, San Francisco. Mr. Devine of the Red Cross will disburse any contributions sent to him through ex-Mayor Phelan, and will work in accord with him in all ways.

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

"The White House, April 25, 1906."

The President also authorized the publication of a telegram which he had sent to Mayor Schmitz of San Francisco acknowledging the receipt of a telegram signed by the Mayor and others on the treatment of the Chinese. The President quotes the proclamation and adds these words:

"There was of course absolutely no question that every sufferer would be helped simply as a sufferer by your committees as soon as they were organized, and action through the Red Cross was simply to fill the gap until your organization was perfected, and it would of course have been a dereliction of duty on our part if we had not at once taken steps to see that the gap was filled at a time when it was impossible for us to know how soon you would be organized.

"I have sent a message to Congress to-day urging an immediate appropriation for work at the Mare Island Navy Yard, and for an immediate appropriation for the building asked for by the War Department. In a few days I shall send in a further communication for the rebuilding of the other public buildings, but I am not yet able to get details as to the amount needed for these.

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT."

A telegram was received at the War Department to-day from Gen. Greely saying:

> I am greatly surprised to learn from Gen. Funston that the sufferings of destitute Chinese are reported to be in danger of neglect. Nothing could be more contrary to the truth. Arrangements have already been made by the conjoined action of the civil and military authorities to establish a semi-permanent camp for destitute Chinese, such camp to be located adjacent to Fort Mason. It will be put in the best possible condition for comfort and sanitation. The plans and methods being indorsed by military authorities and tentage supplied from the same source.
>
> So far the Citizens' Committee and military authorities have known no distinction of race, the sole question being one of destitution and practical relief. It would be particularly unfortunate if the idea is circulated that the National Red Cross Association is the only one which treats without discrimination the destitute and suffering in this city.

Gen. Funston also telegraphed as follows:

> Reference to any report Chinese are not receiving proper attention in the matter of supplies and protection, there have been no reports of such a character made at these headquarters. All nations are receiving the same consideration. My orders have been to that effect.

Dr. Devine, the Red Cross special agent in San Francisco, sent this dispatch to-day:

> Have affected consolidation of Finance Committee with California branch of the Red Cross. The new committee, of which James D. Phelan is Chairman, is called Finance Committee of Relief and Red Cross. Intense local feeling that the committee should be recognized. It includes twenty representative organizations and is entirely satisfactory to Judge Morrow.
>
> Actual management and distribution of relief in hands of military authorities. Conservative estimate places the homeless at 250,000. Am visiting relief stations this evening as a basis for recommendations.

Cleveland H. Dodge, Chairman of the State Executive Committee of the Red Cross, when asked to-night at his residence to sum up the situation in California, said:

"Dr. Devine, our special representative, has already effected the first great point—the co-ordination of all the San Francisco relief committees. The local agencies of self-help have now been united by the Red Cross with all the various agencies for relief throughout the country. Unless this had been brought about the work of the Californians could hardly have been other than hampered by the scattered form in which the help of the country would have come to them. With this accomplished at so early a day, the choice of Dr. Devine for our work seems distinctly justified.

"All money raised by the Red Cross will, of course, go as President Roosevelt directs, and as Dr. Devine has requested, straight to James D. Phelan, Chairman of the Finance Committee of Relief and Red Cross, just formed, to be expended in accordance with the expert advice of Dr. Devine.

"We feel that everything is working out splendidly, and are confident that the Red Cross is helping in the achievement of a scientific relief triumph."

TRACTION DIVIDEND IN SCRIP.

SSan Francisco Railways Company Confident as to the Future.

One of the first tangible penalties to investors growing out of the San Francisco disaster is the decision of the Directors of the United Railways Investment Company, announced yesterday, to pay the dividend, due the preferred stockholders of the company May 1, in scrip instead of in cash. A circular letter to the stockholders, signed by President Thalman, asks the stockholders to accept the scrip so that the cash in the company's treasury may be held to meet emergencies.

The letter says the request is made "in view of the uncertainty surrounding the situation in San Francisco, which may cause the cash balance carried by the Railroads Company to be unavailable for some time, and of the fact that the insurance to which the company may become entitled may not be immediately collected."

The dividend amounts to $712,500, and the scrip will bear interest at 6 per cent. until its redemption.

President Thalman says that the Directors are confident that the emergency is only temporary, but the Directors provide that if it is necessary to pay any of the succeeding dividends in scrip the paper thus issued will bear a minimum interest rate of 5 per cent., and it is promised that all the dividend scrip which may be issued will be redeemed before any cash dividends are paid.

As told in THE TIMES yesterday, the losses of the United Railroads have proved to be much smaller than at first supposed. The common stock fell 43 points and the preferred 37 in the first few days succeeding the disaster, but both have recovered much of the ground lost. Yesterday the preferred sold at 68—13 points above Saturday's lowest price.

SAYS 5,000 ARE DEAD.

New York Man Declares the Facts Are Being Suppressed.

Special to The New York Times.

OMAHA, April 25.—James Randall of New York went through Omaha this afternoon on his way from San Francisco to his home in New York. Mr. Randall says the number of people killed in the earthquake and fire is being suppressed. He says:

"The loss of life is estimated by people who have been among the ruins at from 4,000 to 5,000. The real facts are being suppressed. The number of dead will never be known, and I would not be surprised if it is far more than 5,000. As the excavating and cleaning up of the débris goes on, scores of bodies or parts of bodies are found.

In the great buildings built of wood that burned hundreds were cremated, and there is not even a bone left. This was also true in the lodging house district along the bay, where sailors and those of the poorer class always found shelter.

"This talk of the dead being less than 300 is all nonsense, as every person who has been in San Francisco since the catastrophe will say. There were more than 300 killed in several different houses.

"The presence of President E. H. Harriman of the Union Pacific and Southern Pacific has been of great benefit to San Francisco. He came early, and is remaining right on the ground. He is directing affairs as a General directs an army, and is doing wonders in restoring natural conditions. Every day he is busy about the city, going where he is most needed. Railroad and personal interests are secondary to him.

"His aim seems just to help the people. He is doing this not only by his presence, but with his money. And the people of the city recognize what he is doing, too."

Mr. Randall left for New York to-night.

CHICAGO ARCHITECTS START.

25, Headed by Gen. Smith, Off to Help Rebuild San Francisco.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 25.—Headed by Gen. William Sooy Smith, one of the men who helped build up Chicago, twenty-five architects will be sent to San Francisco in the next forty-eight hours to assist in rebuilding the city at the Golden Gate. The General offered his services through Mayor Dunne.

"Gen. Smith is a man of vast experience in steel construction and foundation work, and has been identified with the building of a large number of Chicago's large office buildings," says Mayor Dunne. "I am glad that men of his type have shown a willingness to go to San Francisco at this time in response to Mayor Schmitz's appeal.

"Assistant General Traffic Manager E. O. McCormick of the Union and Southern Pacific Railroads informed me this morning that there is need of architects and draughtsmen out there, and that his railroads will transport them there. The Pullman Company has given a tourist sleeper for the accommodation of these architects."

PICKERING HISTORY LOST.

Manuscript of a Book on Journalism in Mr. Crothers's Home.

SACRAMENTO, April 25.—R. A. Crothers, proprietor of The San Francisco Bulletin, arrived in Sacramento last night. He said that he lost everything in his home, at 1,060 Bush Street, where were a valuable lot of manuscripts and other articles belonging to the late Loring Pickering.

Among these was the manuscript of a history of journalism by Mr. Pickering. This had never been published, but it was regarded by Mr. Pickering as a work of importance, giving his personal recollections of every journalist of note in the United States, running back over three-quarters of a century.

Mr. Crothers was pleased at the fact that most of the files of The Bulletin were saved, and that those that were lost can be replaced. The account books, circulation, and advertising lists were rescued.

Fainted at News of the Disaster.

PHILADELPHIA, April 25.—Two San Francisco women, Mrs. W. G. Richardson of Frederick Street, and Miss Emma Duff of 2802 Van Ness Street, arrived here to-day from Europe on the steamship Haverford and then first learned of the San Francisco disaster. The homes of both women were in the burned district. They collapsed, but recovered and went on to San Francisco.

OUR STEEL FOR 'FRISCO.

The Iron Age Believes the Mills Here Can Fill All Orders.

On the subject of the influence of the San Francisco catastrophe on the steel trade, The Iron Age says:

"The San Francisco disaster has had a rather disturbing effect upon the broader-minded leaders of the iron industry, who are concerned chiefly with its influence upon the general financial situation. The splendid vindication of the modern steel-cage construction is exceedingly gratifying, but some very erroneous and exaggerated statements have gained currency as to the tonnage of shapes which will be required at once

"Data collected by the highest authority show that up to date from the time of the fire, Baltimore used 30,000 tons of steel for the reconstruction of its burned area. It always takes time to rebuild, and the somewhat hysterical fears that the mills of this country, busy as they are now, could not cover the demand, are utterly unjustified. The quantity will not be large, relatively speaking, and the deliveries needed will be spread over so long a time that the work will make only a passing impression upon the structural mills. Those who believe that the Pacific Coast disaster will mean a boom to the steel industry are as much mistaken as those who hold that our own works can not take care of the business as or when offered.

"The structural mills have booked, among other contracts, 5,000 tons for Los Angeles. No orders for San Francisco have been placed, other reports to the contrary notwithstanding. The 5,000 tons for the extension of the New York Subway is expected to be placed soon."

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, April 25.—The Iron Trade Review to-morrow will say, concerning the demand for structural material from San Francisco:

"Very few of the large skyscrapers require more than 3,000 to 4,000 tons of structural steel and many buildings could be erected without involving a tonnage very large in comparison with the product of the country. It is recalled that the business following the Baltimore fire was distinctly disappointing.

"The Steel Corporation has decided to give preference as far as possible to orders from San Francisco, and other companies will doubtless follow this policy so as to expedite the furnishing of material and prevent the necessity of calling on foreign plants to help in this emergency. Manufacturers will oppose the admission of structural material for use in San Francisco free of duty."

Homeopaths Will Help.

The Homeopathic Medical Society is appealing to the homeopathic doctors of the city and State for funds to help their brethren in San Francisco. Dr. G. De Wayne Hallett of 128 West Eighty-fifth Street is treasurer of the committee receiving subscriptions.

THE VOLUNTEERS LOST ALL.

The Booths Need Help Now to Rebuild in San Francisco.

Gen. Ballington Booth and Mrs. Maude Ballington Booth got a telegram yesterday afternoon from Col. and Mrs. Duncan, in charge of the work of the Volunteers of America in San Francisco. It said that the loss sustained by the Volunteers in the disaster was practically total.

Until the receipt of this telegram, which was the first word that reached the Volunteer headquarters here, Gen. and Mrs. Booth had hoped that at least the splendid new Children's Home, just completed by the Volunteers and on the edge of the fire zone, had escaped destruction.

Included in the buildings destroyed either by the earthquake or the flames were the headquarters of the Volunteers, the building occupied by the San Francisco officers, the Children's Home, and fifteen or sixteen post-headquarters. As far as known, all of the principals of the Volunteers are safe.

Gen. and Mrs. Booth have devoted years to building up the Volunteers in San Francisco. The new Children's Home was considered the finest institution of its kind on the coast.

Gen. and Mrs. Booth have decided to hold a mass meeting next Sunday night at the Knickerbocker Theatre, which has been donated for their use. An appeal will be made to the public for funds to rebuild the destroyed San Francisco buildings. Already many have come forward with words of sympathy and substantial subscriptions.

LOCAL AID FUNDS NEARLY $3,000,000

$200,000 Was Collected for San Francisco Yesterday.

GIFTS SMALLER BUT MANY.

Chamber of Commerce Leads with $755,000—Red Cross Fund $700,000.

Contributions to the San Francisco relief funds in this city yesterday aggregated some $200,000. Officials of the organizations which are collecting funds for the earthquake sufferers predicted yesterday that by to-night the $3,000,000 mark will have been reached if not passed in this city.

Dispatches received last night from outside cities indicate that this morning the fund for the relief of the earthquake sufferers will approach $15,000,000. The biggest collection yesterday in any city outside of New York was reported from Chicago. The contributions there from all sources amounted to $107,969. The Chicago Commercial Association headed the list with $59,000.

Here is a list showing the aggregate of the amounts collected by the relief agencies at work in this city, as acknowledged up to midnight:

Chamber of Commerce	755,514
Mayor's and Red Cross Funds, (estimated)	699,205
Direct individual contributors	465,000
Merchants' Association	156,612
Stock Exchange	150,000
Churches, (estimated)	100,000
Theatrical benefits, &c.	45,000
Jewelers' Board of Trade	27,248
Cotton Exchange	20,000
New York National Exchange Bank	17,107
Salvation Army	15,000
Produce Exchange	11,000
Tobacco Board of Trade	10,000
Silk Association of America	8,975
Consolidated Exchange	6,500
Clothing Manufacturers	5,280
Curb brokers	1,400
Miscellaneous, (estimated)	350,000
Total	$2,844,037

Nearly $80,000 was added to the combined funds of the Mayor's committee and the Red Cross. Those two funds by last night had nearly reached the $700,000 mark. At the Chamber of Commerce more than $30,000 was received, and about $20,000 was received by the Merchants' Association.

The City of Milwaukee yesterday sent a contribution of $15,000 to the Red Cross fund. This is the third contribution received from that city. The other two were for $10,000 each, making an aggregate of $35,000.

Among other large individual contributors were Alfred G. Vanderbilt, $5,000; Oliver H. Payne, $5,000; Archer M. Huntington, $5,000, and A. Kron, $5,000. The Stock Exchange yesterday closed its subscription lists and forwarded to the earthquake sufferers in San Francisco their grand total, $149,000. The Cotton Exchange, which has raised almost $20,000, also discontinued the work of collecting money for the fund.

The Red Cross organization yesterday arranged for the opening of another bureau for the receipt of clothing, linen, and other supplies to be shipped to San Francisco. This bureau will be in the Church of the Eternal Hope, 142 West Eighty-first Street. At the Red Cross bureau at 11 East Thirty-fifth Street, clothing, blankets, and linen have been received in great quantities.

All the branches of the Young Men's Christian Association in this city will take up a special collection on Sunday for the emergency work which the San Francisco branches are doing.

Three special meetings will be held on Sunday, and at all collections will be taken. The largest will be under the auspices of the West Side branch at the Majestic Theatre. This meeting will be held at 3 P. M. Seth Low will preside. The Rev. Dr. S. Parkes Cadman of Brooklyn and William M. Kingsley will speak. The Seventh Regiment Band will furnish music. The Twenty-third Street branch will hold a special meeting in the Thirty-fourth Street Collegiate Church at 4 P. M., and one at night at the Madison Square Presbyterian Church, at which Dr. Parkhurst will speak. William Fellowes Morgan, President of the Young Men's Christian Association in this city, will receive contributions to the fund. Checks should be addressed to him at 5 Brooklyn Bridge.

The Directors of the Erie Railroad at their monthly meeting yesterday adopted a resolution to carry all supplies to San Francisco and other California points free, and to give free transportation from Chicago to any point on the Erie to any residents of San Francisco or California who are ticketed through by a recognized relief committee.

Centennial Lodge, No. 763, F. and A. M., has contributed $400 to the relief fund. This will be augmented by further contributions from the individual members.

Saks & Co. have donated to the California Women's and Children's Relief Committee, through the solicitation of Mrs. Bates, mother of Blanche Bates, blankets valued at $750.

The managers of the Advertising Show, which opens at Madison Square Garden a week from to-day, have set aside considerable space for a booth where advertising novelties donated by exhibitors will be sold for the sufferers in San Francisco.

A check for $15 from "F. D." for the San Francisco relief fund was received at THE TIMES office, and has been sent to Jacob H. Schiff, Treasurer of the Red Cross Relief Fund. "Two Kids" of Woodmere, L. I., sent in 60 cents in stamps. They have been sent to Secretary Langdon of the Red Cross.

These are the principal contributions made yesterday to the local relief funds:

$2,000 FROM BENEFITS.

Plans for the Great Performance of May 4 Practically Completed.

As a result of the actors' work yesterday for the San Francisco relief fund, $2,000 was realised—$1,000 from the performance of "Arms and the Man" at the Lyric Theatre, and $1,000 from the sales of the Joe Weber "department store" at the Gilsey House. The management of the Madison Square Theatre did not give out the sum realized from the three performances of "Mrs. Temple's Telegram."

At a meeting of the Theatrical Managers' Association held at the Savoy Theatre yesterday afternoon, arrangements were practically completed for the great benefit in aid of the San Francisco sufferers to be held at the Metropolitan Opera House on Friday, May 4. The committee announced that these will positively appear: William H. Crane, Mrs. Fiske, Ethel Barrymore in "Carrots"; Mme. Sembrich, Miss Fremstad, Mme. Schumann-Heink, Adele Aus der Ohe, Edythe Walker, Yvette Guilbert, Lillian Blauvelt, Elsie Janis, Wilton Lackaye, Victor Herbert, Francis Wilson, Joe Weber, Lillian Russell, Raymond Hitchcock, Vesta Victoria, Henri de Vries, Otis Harlan, and Henry J. Donnelly. The committee also expects that Mme. Eames, who intends to leave San Francisco for New York to-day, will appear. The auction sale of boxes will take place at the Criterion Theatre on Tuesday afternoon.

The Vassar Students' Aid Society, New York City branch, will give a benefit entertainment for the relief of the San Francisco members of the Pacific branch in the large ballroom of the Hotel Astor on Saturday, May 5, at 8:30 P. M. The society has engaged Mrs. Blanche Martin, a Boston dramatic reader, who will give Justin McCarthy's "If I Were King."

The management of the Berkeley Lyceum announces a benefit performance for the San Francisco fund to be given on the evening of May 10. A one-act play by Richard Fechelmer, "The Royal Ball," will be given.

A special matinée of "Charley's Aunt" will be given next Wednesday afternoon at the Manhattan Theatre for the San Francisco cause.

It was announced officially yesterday that tickets being sold for "an entertainment to be given by the employes of the American District Telegraph and Western Union Telegraph Company" was unauthorized. As far as the companies know no such entertainment by their employes is to be held.

A RED CROSS SUMMONS.

General Meeting Called To-day—Relief Methods to be Discussed.

The Executive Committee of the New York County Red Cross has issued a call for a general meeting in the Astor Gallery at the Waldorf-Astoria at 5 o'clock this afternoon.

Miss Mabel T. Boardman, a member of the National Executive Committee of the Red Cross, will explain fully the Red Cross methods of relief and the work of the society in California. The meeting, which was called by Robert C. Ogden, will discuss means to establish permanent Red Cross organizations in every city and State. All interested in the work of the Red Cross are invited to attend.

WORK OF CALIFORNIA WOMEN.

Car of Clothing Sent—Miss Margaret Anglin's Generous Gift.

A carload of clothing was sent off last evening by the California Relief Association Woman's Supply Committee. For this Miss Anglin bought 8,000 suits of union wear for women and 100 gross of stockings. Several firms who had been visited by Miss Blanche Bates, Miss Anglin, and other members of the committee, sent big packing boxes of goods.

Among the donors were Herzig & Co., Hammer, Arnstein & Seegel, who sent coats and hats and children's clothes; Heineman & Co., Bodenheimer & Merle, Brooks, Joseph Stern & Co., and Archer, Broman & Co., which contributed boxes of underwear. Miss Schmitt, daughter of Morris Schmitt, sent $600 worth of supplies.

Several new members have been added to the committee, Miss Schmitt being one of them, with Mrs. Thomas Whiffen, Miss Ada Lewis, Mrs. Ralph Delmore, and Miss Lotta Abels.

The association received a check for $100 for its relief work to-day. A woman who does not wish her name given, and who has sustained many losses in the San Francisco disaster, says she is yet able to do something, and has offered to give transportation to two or three needy persons who wish to go either to or from California. Mrs. Thomas J. Vivian, the head of the Woman's Committee, is to choose the needy applicants. One of these is to be an expert stenographer, who has been thorwn out of employment by the disaster. She has a family dependent upon her, and will be brought to New York, where a place has been found for her.

Any private individuals who wish to contribute relief supplies may do so through the California Relief Association by sending their goods to the Cain Transfer Company, 519 West Thirty-eighth Street. The American, Adams, or Westcott's Express will deliver all goods marked for the association free of charge. Boxes containing the supplies should be marked on the outside to show what they contain. At the transfer company's office the committee will take them in charge, see to the packing, and they will then be forwarded free by the Wells, Fargo Express. Large quantities of supplies can be sent in the same way. The French Cable Line has placed its cables at the service of the association, and will send messages free of charge.

Mrs. Russell Bassett, Treasurer of the California Club, asks that donations of sewing cotton, needles, safety pins, hairpins, papers of pins, writing paper, pencils, and stamps be sent to her residence, 325 West Fifty-eighth Street, where she has made small denim bags to receive them, and will distribute and forward them.

Thomas Wise has sent in a large number of autographed photographs to be sold at the euchre on Friday. Many prizes have been received—a silver frame from the Mauser Company, a string of pearls from Lucios, an electrolier from Mrs. Edward Warrick, a fur rug from Jeckel's, a pair of Regal dress slippers, and a handsome plant from Knight & Chase. Three hundred packs of cards have been given by the Consolidated Card Company. The club wishes to have a big attendance at this euchre, which takes place on Friday at 2 o'clock for the benefit of the relief fund.

Among the notices posted in the club rooms is one saying that W. B. Wightman of the Inter Bankink Corporation, is going to San Francisco, and will endeavor to help anyone wishing to obtain news of friends, if it is possible to do so.

TO AID STANFORD STORE.

Co-Operative Institutions at Eastern Colleges Will Act.

University and college students interested in the co-operative store system have started a movement to assist the co-operative store at the Leland Stanford University at Palo Alto, Cal. Telegrams were passing between the Eastern institutions last night in reference to the matter.

An inquiry will be made of the Stanford authorities as to the extent of the loss on the co-operative store. Prof. F. O. Robbins, manager of the co-operative store at Yale, feels confident that his Board of Directors will contribute to the fund which is to be raised for this purpose, and Joseph B. Thomas, Jr., at Yale, has said he would contribute $25 according to a telephone report from New Haven last night.

Contributions of such size are not thought necessary, however, for it was pointed out that there are 3,000 members of the co-operative store at Harvard, while 95 per cent. of the students at Princeton are members.

President Hadley of Yale, President Wilson of Princeton, and President Schurman of Cornell have expressed their sympathy with the movement, and it is thought that a contribution of 25 cents apiece by members generally will be sufficient to make good any loss that may have been sustained in this direction at Stanford.

GERMANY TO GIVE AID.

Ambassador Told to Succor German Subjects in San Francisco.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Ambassador Sternburg has received by cable instructions from the German Foreign Office to ascertain the condition of the German subjects in San Francisco, who may have suffered from the earthquake and fire, and to take steps to relieve their wants at the expense of the German Government.

The Ambassador accordingly has telegraphed the German Consul General in San Francisco, Franz Bopp, to carry out this instruction.

BERLIN, April 25.—The North German Gazette to-day published a dispatch received by the Foreign Office from Washington, confirming previous statements to the effect that the authorities at San Francisco and at other earthquake affected cities are helping all persons without distinction of nationality, and that the relief is splendidly organized.

Millions in the Schools May Help.

SALT LAKE CITY, April 25.—Eighteen million school children in the United States will be asked to contribute $1,000,000 to erect fifteen school buildings in San Francisco if a suggestion made by the Utah Board of Education to the National Educational Association is carried out. The board wants a "National school day" set aside, and each school child asked to contribute 5 or 10 cents.

Delicieuse

"The Salad—Ah! That is the point decisive of a dinner. Salad excellent—Dinner charming. Permit me advise. The salad is French. Do not make the experiments. Say to a good grocer, 'Send me that Salad Trio, the Olive Oil, the Grape Salad Vinegar, the Prepared Mustard, all with the Alphonse Pinard label, and the small Cresta trademark that guarantees the perfect combination. I who speak, know."

Fifty More of Those Remarkable Suits for Women at $9.98

THE ONLY MANHATTAN STORE which has had duplicates of these Suits, so far as we know, has been selling them at $16.50 each. Two weeks ago we had fifty at $9.98 each—and they went out almost as soon as we had a chance to look at them.

Now here are fifty more Suits—and they will go as quickly.

They are made of smart gray suitings in very neat effects. The short Eton coat has graduated tucks front and back; Tuxedo collar of taffeta with white duck piping; three-quarter sleeves with turn up cuffs inlaid with silk and fancy buttons. Deep princess girdle of taffeta folds. Satin lining throughout.

New Modified Sailors Among the Hats Between Five and Ten Dollars.

NOTE THE NEW SAILOR HATS. They have all the becomingness that makes the round Sailor so popular; but they are different enough from everywhere-seen sorts to make them individual. They have the low bell crown characteristic of the costly Paris Hats, and a generous trimming of soft ribbon, maline and wings or quills.

The natural straws are pretty and graceful for shade hats. They do not fade, however hot the sun, and somehow they resist dust. Trimmings are simple, of a sort that sudden showers will not put out of commission. But with all their simplicity, they are the sort of Hats that have distinction and character.

The Hats fairly fly out these days. Fast as our milliners work it is hard to keep pace with the demand. Nowhere else in Brooklyn are to be found Hats of such smartness and beauty at prices between......$5 and $9.75

Simply Trimmed Hats, $1.35 to $5.

The shapes are so pretty that many women are buying these Hats to retrim in more elaborate style. They are the best looking Hats we know of for every-day wear at the little cost.

Loeser Pumps and Ties at $3.50.
The Prettiest : : The Best.

"WHEN I BUY SHOES," said a young woman, "I care more for the SHAPE and the STYLE than for the LEATHER!"

There are many like her—especially in Summer time when a daintily shod foot is imperative. So we take care that the LEATHER in "Innovation" footwear is all right—and let the SHAPES speak for themselves.

This changing the last for changing styles is an expensive business and only stores that sell in enormous quantities can afford to do it. Changing the leather would be another story. If we did that to meet rising leather costs or to off-set the expensive changing of lasts, Loeser "Innovation" Shoes would no longer represent Brooklyn's Standard $3.50 Shoe Value for Women.

We plan to keep them perfect in material, in workmanship, in fit. This year they seem also to be prettiest here—if the way younger women are coming in for the new Pumps is any criterion.

In patent leather, in gun metal, in white canvas and in tan calfskin, with light welted sole, Cuban heel and the new drop toe and arch instep—the correct pump cut, seen in the higher priced sorts and quite different from the ordinary slipper cut which some stores are masquerading with big pump bows.

Fur Storage Facts.

USUALLY THERE ARE TWO SIDES to a story, but there is only one to the story of Cold Dry Air Storage in the Loeser Plant.

No one can gainsay the fact that it is the safest and best way known to science for the care of furs during the warm months.

Furs not only need an unvarying cold atmosphere, but also an absolutely dry air. The Loeser Cold Dry Air Storage embodies both, and, further, all garments are hung separately in order that the cold air may penetrate to all parts.

In such a climate the activity of moths or other insects is impossible.

A postal or telephone order will bring a man to your house to get your Furs.

Remodelling and repairing of Fur garments may be ordered now and the cost will be less than it will be in the Fall.

Summer Frocks for Girls Between Fourteen and Eighteen.

DRESSING THE GROWING DAUGHTER is a problem that many mothers never solve, not realizing that the young girl must be "dressed around" rather than "dressed up"; that her frocks must be not the ornament but the setting for the charm of her vivid girlishness.

We have for many years made a special study of Frocks for young girls. Brooklyn mothers have learned to depend on this Store for styles that are correct and authoritative, and for materials and color effects most distinctive and appropriate. Yet Loeser prices are far less than the few high class Manhattan establishments who carry an assortment of like character must charge for these specially made Frocks.

FOR MORNING WEAR come first the Regulation Suits—dear to the heart of girlhood. Jaunty and nautical they are, with roomy blouse, smart stitchings, embroidered emblems and big knotted tie. In cotton duck they cost but $4.98; in linen at..........$8.98 to $15

A black and white checked Gingham model with character and style has touches of blue linen and white pique, with tiny gilt buttons for smartness, and costs but $6.98. Plain colored mercerized linen Frocks with cool Dutch neck and elbow sleeves, are $9.98; striped lined crash Suits, with plaid Ties, are..........$6.98

FOR AFTERNOON WEAR there are sheer Lawns, dotted with black or colors, and made with Dutch necks of Val. and Dresden girdles, at $17.98. Linen Suits with Princess skirt and gay little bolero, trimmed with medallions, come in gray, coral, white and blue, at $16.98. There are silk Frocks, too, made with yokes and elbow sleeves of lawn and lace, with epaulette over-sleeves and simple trimming of bias bands and buttons. These are..........$25 and $30

DANCING FROCKS are girlishness itself—of silk mull in dainty colors and white, or in white net over floating net skirts; all shirrings and deep tucks and dainty Val. trimmings, at $15.98 to $25. In dotted chiffon over silk slips, with trimming of German and Italian Val., one may pay up to $55

SPECIAL COMMITTEE TO FIX INSURANCE RATES

No Formal Increase Ordered by the Underwriters.

SETTLEMENT WILL BE LONG

Meantime the Weaker Concerns Are Likely to Pull Through—Insurance Loss Still Put at $120,000,000.

At a meeting of the New York Fire Insurance Exchange, the rating body of the local insurance offices, in the rooms of the New York Board of Fire Underwriters, yesterday afternoon, all insurance questions involved in the San Francisco fire were referred to a special committee to be named by Cecil F. Shallcross, United States manager of the Royal Insurance Company of Liverpool, who was Chairman of the meeting.

Many underwriters and brokers had expected that the exchange would order a formal increase in fire insurance rates at least in the congested district of this city, following the course adopted independently by some of the stronger companies within the last few days. It was decided, however, that pending the report of the special committee no action in the way of increasing rates or outlining methods of meeting other conflagration problems should be taken. To protect companies against premature cancellation and renewal of policies by brokers in order to avail the policy holder of rates prevailing before an increase, the exchange ordered that all such cancellations made be at what is called the "short rate" basis, instead of pro rata. Seventy-three members were present.

After the meeting Mr. Shallcross said that there had been no concerted effort to raise rates.

"The New York estimate of the losses in San Francisco," he said, "may perhaps be conservative. Distance lends enchantment to the view. A gloomy view of the loss of the Royal would place it at $3,500,000. We could stand several times that amount.

"Some companies will find it more or less difficult to meet claims. But I do not anticipate any inconvenience to the local money market because of any sudden flooding with securities. The settlement will take some months, and in that time every company which has any hope of coming through alive will be able to find the necessary means without desperate measures. It is useless, however, to guess at this time whether or not there will be any advance in rates by the Exchange."

Other underwriters expressed the opinion that whatever immediate need existed of heavy selling of readily marketable stocks was met largely last week while the conflagration was beyond control.

Fairly exact maps of the burned areas have been prepared by the larger companies on the basis of specific advices from Oakland, and there appears to be no reason for changing the estimates published in THE NEW YORK TIMES last week, placing the insurance at stake in the city of San Francisco at about $238,880,000, the loss on insurable property, destroyed or damaged, at not more than $200,000,000, and the insurance loss at from 55 to 60 per cent. of the property loss.

These figures are borne out by the liability estimates which are being cabled to foreign home offices from San Francisco representatives of such companies as the Royal Insurance Company of Liverpool, the London & Lancashire Insurance Company, and the Liverpool & London & Globe Insurance Company.

The Baltimore insurance loss was $39,000,000, or about 70 per cent. of the property loss, but Baltimore carried a heavier percentage of insurance upon its property.

Some few insurance companies have made arrangements for comparatively small amounts of money from the banks here and in Chicago, but in fire insurance circles there is no echo of the Wall Street report that a large pool might be organized in aid of San Francisco payments.

Some American companies are planning to follow the course adopted by the London & Lancashire Insurance Company in England yesterday in authorizing an increase in capital stock, the new stock not to be issued, even in part, until it is seen how much money may be needed to put such companies in a favorable financial position after its conflagration losses have been determined and paid.

BRITISH COMPANIES HIT HARD.

Royal's Loss May Reach $6,750,000—Payment According to Policies.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.
[Copyright, 1906.]

LONDON, April 25.—The British fire insurance companies are beginning to get from their San Francisco agents preliminary estimates of their liabilities on account of the earthquake and fire. The Royal Insurance Company's agent cables that the company's loss may reach $6,750,000. This is about sixty-three times the income in premiums received by the company and its subsidiaries from San Francisco in 1905.

Taking this ratio as the basis on which to calculate the liabilities of all British companies and their subsidiaries, it works out that these companies in the aggregate may be called upon to pay $65,000,000. It would appear, however, that the British companies ultimately will pay considerably less than the amount of their nominal liabilities, for present indications are that they will not indulge in generosity toward their San Francisco clients, but will pay strictly according to policies.

The Times, in its city article to-day, says: "Opinion is strongly held in legal circles that the Directors have no power to pay claims for which their legal liability is not proved. The funds of the companies belong to the shareholders, and cannot, it is stated, be paid out for other than strictly legal claims. No authority other than the consent of all the shareholders, without exception, could empower the Directors to pay claims ruled out by the wording of their contracts or by California law. The authority for this statement of the law is, we understand, very strong."

Some of the British companies are so badly hurt by the San Francisco disaster that they really cannot afford to be generous toward the insured. For example, at the meeting to-day of the London & Lancashire Fire Insurance Company the Chairman said that everything the company had added to its reserve in the last seven years would have to go toward the settlement of the San Francisco claims.

A Liverpool company, it was announced yesterday, would find it necessary to levy an assessment of 1$0 a share on account of the San Francisco disaster.

There were no withdrawals of gold yesterday for America, but The Times this morning says it is believed that arrangements have been made for the export of a large amount of gold to New York on Saturday.

LIVERPOOL, April 25.—At the annual meeting of the London and Lancashire Fire Insurance Company here to-day the Chairman announced that the catastrophe at San Francisco had swept away half the reserve fund, which a week ago stood at $10,788,675. He counselled the shareholders to accept the situation with calmness. The company adopted a resolution increasing its capital to $15,000,000 by the creation of 20,000 new shares of $125 each, not to be issued immediately.

The Royal Insurance Company's officials, though they learned to-day by cable from their San Francisco manager that the catastrophe involves the company in a possible liability of $6,750,000, say that in view of the large balance on hand and the profitable business transacted in 1905, payment will not necessitate a reduction of the reserve or fire funds.

The Liverpool & London & Globe Insurance Company estimates its losses at under $5,000,000, and says it need not touch its reserve.

WON'T INCLUDE EARTHQUAKE.

But German Company Will Pay Its Fire Obligations.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.
[Copyright, 1906.]

BERLIN, April 25.—The Aachner Muenchener Fire Insurance Company announces that its policies do not provide for the payment of losses due to earthquakes, but that the company is fully able to meet all its obligations arising from the San Francisco disaster.

The Aachner-Muenchener Fire Insurance Company and the Aachner Reinsurance Company estimate their joint losses at a maximum of $5,000,000. They state that both companies are able to meet their losses. The Aachner-Muenchener Company recently announced a dividend of 100 per cent., but there is some doubt whether the company will not decide to reduce the dividend.

HARTFORD COMPANIES PLACID.

W. B. Clark Expects a Total Liability of $150,000,000 Maximum.

HARTFORD, Conn., April 25.—That the several Hartford fire insurance companies are not worried over the losses they will be compelled to pay resulting from the San Francisco fire, was made plain to-day in statements by President William B. Clark of the Aetna Fire Insurance Company and John D. Brown of the Connecticut Fire Insurance Company.

Aside from saying that the Hartford companies were all right, Mr. Clark said that there was nothing in reports from New York of an alleged pool among the companies hit by the fire, so far as the local companies are concerned. Mr. Clark also expressed the opinion that the reports of the damage done by the fire were greatly exaggerated. He believes that all the companies will not be liable for more than $150,000,000. He expects a statement from San Francisco in a few days.

President Taylor of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance Company has directed the California agents of the company to give sixty days' additional time without charge to all policy holders suffering by the San Francisco disaster whose premiums come due in April, May, or June.

WATCH ON REBUILDING.

Wider Streets Wanted and Auxiliary Salt Water Mains.

OAKLAND, Cal., April 25.—The fire underwriters of San Francisco and its vicinity held a meeting yesterday in this city, as a result of which a committee was appointed to confer with a like committee of the architects and builders of San Francisco to make propositions for beginning building. Its object is to see that no cheap or wooden structures are erected in the ruined district of the city. They wish to impress upon the people the fact that the use of uninspected chimneys will doubtless invalidate insurance in case of possible future fires.

State Insurance Commissioner Wolfe believes that nearly all the large insurance companies will be able to make satisfactory adjustments of the losses caused by the fire. He estimates the amounts for which the companies are liable at probably $150,000,000. He hopes the San Francisco authorities will now grant the hitherto unanswered appeal of the fire insurance companies for an auxiliary salt water system on Twin Peaks, one of the highest points on the range of hills back of the city. He also suggests that wider streets be laid out in rebuilding.

JAPANESE AID DECLINED.

No Need for the Hospital Ship They Offered to Send.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The Japanese Government has offered to send a hospital ship at top speed to San Francisco to aid in the relief work. The State Department has replied that owing to the rapidity with which the country has come to the relief of the distressed city it may safely be estimated that there will exist no need for the ship by the time that she could cross the Pacific.

The President stated his appreciation of the spirit which dictated this offer.

THE ODD MOCKERIES OF THE EARTHQUAKE

Ship Ended Her Long, Hard Trip Just as the Disaster Came.

ADVERTISER A PROPHET

"Will Sell All or in Pieces," He Said—'Frisco Newspapers of the Disaster Morning Are Here.

Copies of San Francisco newspapers that were sent off the presses just before the earthquake reached New York through the mails yesterday.

The San Francisco Chronicle devoted considerable space to the story of the trials and tribulations of the Italian ship Elisa, which had a thrilling experience on its trip from Hamburg to San Francisco, where it arrived after 216 days of sailing in great trouble. The Chronicle tells of the joy expressed by the skipper of the ship, Capt. Di Rosa, on reaching a safe port. It was only a few hours later that the earthquake came along.

What happened to the ship in the earthquake has not come out yet, but the many things that happened to her before she anchored in the earthquake harbor are told in the columns of The Chronicle.

The Elisa sailed from Hamburg, with a cargo of 12,420 casks of cement, on Sept. 17 last. She had only been out a few days when she was hit by a tidal wave that came near sinking her, but her crew got to work with their pumps and saved her. Then, after being tossed about in the Atlantic for sixty-eight days at the mercy of the waves, she came close to Staten Island, and hardly knew what happened until she was 150 feet from the rocky shore. She was badly warped in dodging the rocks, and her cargo shifted, but after making repairs at sea she continued on her journey, her destination being San Francisco.

For three days she groped around the rocks again in a fog, and then started south to Cape Horn, where she encountered more fog, more high waves, and a storm. When the storm had cleared her skipper sighted three big icebergs a short distance ahead. This was off the Horn. The ship's log described the icebergs as half a mile long and 250 feet high. It was necessary to go far out of their course to escape collision with the icebergs, but after escaping them and passing the Horn the Elisa's real trouble began. She encountered northwest gales and storms that almost sank her. For the next three months her brave little Captain and his hardy crew held her head up in the wind, beating along by inches, while the ship 'groaned and labored,' as The Chronicle says, under tremendous seas, which she shipped almost daily. For an entire week the whole crew remained on duty fighting against death, but for many weeks two men took turns on her deck, keeping up the courage of the others.

After three months of sailing through northwest gales, the Elisa passed the equator, shipping big seas daily and tossing up and down until she was so far overdue that all hope of her arriving at San Francisco was abandoned by those to whom she had been consigned. The Maritime Exchange quoted her at 15 per cent. Then news came that she was sighted near the southern coast of California. That reached San Francisco, but the ships that reported her said she was being blown ashore and would probably go to pieces. Nothing more was heard of her for weeks until finally she came, really limping, as the ship news men say, into San Francisco Harbor, with a piece of sail just big enough to help her into port.

She had been within 300 miles of port for several weeks. At one time her Captain believed that she would be blown clear across the Pacific Ocean to China.

In an advertisement printed in The Chronicle a few hours before the earthquake, Henry Meyer & Co., auctioneers, of 782 Mission Street, announced that they would sell by order of the Sheriff, to satisfy creditors, "The entire starch and macaroni plant of the California Cereal Company," adding that the same would be sold at public auction, "as a whole or in piecemeal."

"The entire plant of the Wentworth Shoe Company will go to-day," said another auctioneer's advertisement.

Still another advertisement said: "25 laborers wanted to pull down buildings."

THOUSANDS OF LETTERS HERE.

Many Without Stamps—Sent Three Days After the Earthquake.

Something like a return to normal conditions in the receipt of mail from San Francisco was recorded at the General Post Office here yesterday for the first time since the earthquake.

Thousands of letters were received from the Golden Gate City for delivery in Greater New York, all of them being postmarked at San Francisco on April 21, three days after the shock.

Many of the letters received yesterday bore no stamps, but they were all delivered as if they had been paid for. The Post Office authorities now say that each incoming mail from the Pacific Coast will bear many letters from San Francisco, and that although the conditions will be congested for several days or a week, the great bulk of the business will be forwarded on time. On Tuesday a single letter from San Francisco was received at the General Post Office. It was postmarked Fort Mason, and was officially stamped April 19, the day after the earthquake. No one here was able to tell just why this letter should have got through from San Francisco when undoubtedly thousands of others which were waiting to be transmitted failed to get through.

A stamped letter directed to the auditor of the New York Post Office, received by Auditor Jardines, is probably the last letter dispatched by the clerks of the San Francisco Post Office before the earthquake. It is stamped "April 18, 5 A. M.," thirteen minutes before the shock was felt.

CHICAGO, April 25.—A sackful of tragedy and pathos reached the Chicago Post Office late last night when the first mail from San Francisco since the earthquake was received. The sack contained several thousand communications from the fire sufferers to Chicago relatives and friends. They were written on shreds of wrapping paper, pieces of box covering, strips of shirts, cuffs, shingles, and other odds and ends. None bore postage stamps, but all had the red ink time stamp of the San Francisco office. Some contained the one word, "Saved." Others told in two-word sentences stories of death and hardships.

BEFORE YOU STORE YOUR FURS for the Summer read our booklet "The Proper Care of Furs." We send it free to any one who is interested.

No matter what you have been in the habit of doing or what you now purpose doing, the booklet will be of interest to you and may be of inestimable value.

Furs are too valuable to be subjected to questionable treatment.

The moth ball or insect powder treatment is out of the question. To pack furs in a chest mats the fur, ruins the shape of the garment and the natural oil of the skin dries out in the Summer heat.

Cold storage is the answer to the problem. But cold storage is by no means the whole answer. Methods of hanging, possibility of variations of temperature, and consequent formation of moisture, methods of treatment before and after storing, are questions which you ought to know about before trusting your fur to a so-called "cold storage vault."

Our method for caring for furs takes into consideration all these requirements. Our rooms are absolutely damp proof. Our treatment of your furs before and after storing is different from any treatment they will receive elsewhere and insures their return to you in better condition than when we received them. The book gives full details. Write for it to-day. We offer you the services of the greatest fur experts in this country for any remodelling or repairing you may wish done.

Write or telephone your address and we will call for your furs.

STRANGE DOG GUARDED HER.

Woman Had a Faithful Companion in the Days of Terror.

Special to The New York Times.

DENVER, April 25.—"A dog, evidently the pet of some one, attended me during the San Francisco earthquake," said Miss Alice Childs of Brooklyn, who arrived here to-day. "I was on the fourth floor of the Palace Hotel at the time of the shock, and was so frightened that I did not know what to do. I started for the street, when a big St. Bernard dog came down one of the corridors and escorted me downstairs. He stayed with me Wednesday night, guarding my bed in the street, and went with me to the ferry Thursday. I could not coax him on to the boat.

"I wouldn't take $1,000 for that key," declared I. L. Weinstein, a New York traveling man, this morning, as he exhibited a brass key marked "No. 80." "It's the only relic I have of the earthquake. Before I had been out of the city long a man offered me $100 for it, but I would not sell it for ten times that."

The key was for Room No. 80 in the destroyed Palace Hotel.

HEARD FUNSTON GIVE ORDER.

It Was to Kill All Looters—Mayor Schmitz Was There.

Special to The New York Times.

DENVER, April 25.—J. D. Frost, a Portland (Me.) ship chandler, who escaped from the Grand Hotel, San Francisco, is here.

"I was within ten feet of Gen. Funston when he issued orders for the soldiers to shoot pilferers at sight," he said to-day. "He had been conversing with Mayor Schmitz regarding the best way to prevent looting. Some of his men had just reported that they had detected robbers at the ruins. Some of the Mayor's couriers also informed him that thieves were at work.

"Arrests were thought of, but the difficulty of taking the prisoners to a jail and the chances of the prisons burning rendered that course undesirable.

"'We must stop this sort of business, and at once,' cried Mayor Schmitz.

"Funston, as you know, is a rather small man. He drew himself up to his full height.

"'I, for one,' he said, 'will shoot the first man I see robbing, and at sight. I will shoot to kill, too.'

"Calling several of those under him, he issued orders straightway that no mercy be shown the marauders. As the men received these instructions they hurrahed."

J. A. Strasser of New York, who started for California with his bride six weeks ago, has arrived here. The couple were in San Francisco, at the St. Francis Hotel, last Wednesday.

They threw on a few clothes after the earthquake and hurried to the street. Later Mrs. Strasser returned and secured their hand baggage. Wednesday night his wife slept on a sidewalk, he keeping guard. Thursday they slept on the grass. Friday they got to the ferry and to Oakland. Mr. Strasser is wealthy and he spent money freely for the benefit of fellow-sufferers all the way from Oakland to Denver.

SALEM, Ore., April 25.—Gov. Chamberlain sent this telegram to Gov. Pardee of California to-day:

ST. JOHN'S, N. F., April 25.—The Colonial Legislature to-day unanimously voted $5,000 toward the relief of the sufferers in the San Francisco earthquake and fire. Sympathetic speeches were made by leaders in both houses. A hurricane raged along the coast to-day, stopping trains and shipping.

25,000 MESSAGES DELIVERED.

Western Union Is Pegging Away and Has Reduced the Congestion.

At the executive offices of the Western Union Telegraph Company yesterday, it was reported that through the seven offices established in the ruins of San Francisco the telegrams that had piled up over the wires into the city were being rapidly delivered. Bulletin boards are placed all over the city, and messengers are being employed for service in that part of the city not destroyed.

"We have never lost communication with San Francisco," said the Assistant General Manager yesterday, "and when the fire crept up on our last remaining station in the ferry house we had prepared a boat and had stretched a cable so that the city would be in touch with the outer world to the very last. The breaking of communication would have meant that thousands of people would have believed the city had fallen into the sea. Our bulletins were sent to 24,000 offices throughout the United States, and we have delivered 25,000 messages from San Francisco since the earthquake.

"Our operators are being housed in tourist cars, and we have just started an operating office car from Chicago. To-day we caught up with the messages of yesterday."

A report came from Washington yesterday that the army had taken control of the telegraph wires at San Francisco. This was denied on behalf of the Western Union. The army has constructed a line from the Presidio to the Western Union office at the ferry slip, over which Government business is sent specially. The messages have precedence over all Western Union lines.

MOUNT TACOMA ALL RIGHT.

Dead as a Mummy, Says the Chamber of Commerce Out There.

TACOMA, Washington, April 25.—This statement was given to The Associated Press to-day:

"The widely published report that Mount Tacoma (Rainier) has been in eruption and the statement of Prof. Henny J. Cox, in charge of the United States Weather Bureau at Chicago, and of Dr. W. Holland of the Carnegie Institute at Pittsburg, to the effect that the recent activity of Mount Tacoma, (Rainier,) near Tacoma, Washington, may have had something to do with the recent earthquake in San Francisco, calls for an emphatic denial.

"Mount Tacoma is an extinct volcanic peak covered with snow and ice for 7,000 feet from its summit, in many places hundreds of feet thick. It was undoubtedly an active volcano some millions of years ago, but has been as dead as an Egyptian mummy for thousands of years, if geological investigations and the conclusions of scientists are reliable. The only thing that a human being has ever beheld resembling an eruption are clouds of snow driven at times by the wind in such gusts as to make credulous people believe that they have seen a tiny stream of steam issuing from the supposed location of the crater. The reports which have been given circulation are utterly without foundation and absolutely ridiculous. Tacoma has felt no earthquake, and Mount Tacoma has been as dumb and placid as a gravestone.

"LOUIS A. PRATT,
"Secretary Tacoma Chamber of Commerce."

ERIE COMMUTERS TO VOTE.

Road to Get Their Ideas About Terminal Facilities.

The Erie Railroad Company has undertaken to ascertain by vote of its commuters their wishes as to terminal facilities of that road in New York City.

To-day ballots will be handed to each passenger asking him to indicate on that ballot whether he uses the Chambers Street or the Twenty-third Street ferry, whether he uses surface car, elevated road, or Subway in reaching his place of business, and which combination of ferry and land transportation is most convenient for him.

These ballots are to be taken up by conductors on the trains, and are expected to help the railroad to reach a satisfactory conclusion as to the needs of its commuters, in providing future terminal facilities in this city.

ICE COMPANY'S NUISANCE.

Grand Jury Says Beaver Pond Menaces Brooklyn Water Supply.

The Queens County Grand Jury at Flushing handed up a presentment against the American Ice Company yesterday for maintaining in Beaver Pond, Jamaica, a nuisance described as a "menace to the health of the community and a drawback to the material progress of that section of Jamaica."

The Grand Jury says that the overflow from Beaver Pond mingles with the water supply of the Borough of Brooklyn and thereby endangers the lives of thousands of residents of that borough. The Grand Jury recommends that the Health Department of the City of New York take immediate action to have the pond drained and filled in.

NAHAN FRANKO, BACK, RUNS INTO A FIGHT

Opera Conductor Struggles with a Grand Central Guard.

DIDN'T ABANDON ORCHESTRA

"They Abandoned Me," He Says—Stories and Messages of Other San Francisco Survivors.

Nahan Franko, conductor of the Metropolitan Opera Company, got here from San Francisco yesterday morning. He felt tired when he arrived at his apartments, 296 West Ninety-second Street, for he had experienced many odd adventures, not the least disagreeable being a fray with the guards at the Grand Central in which blows were exchanged.

Mrs. Franko went to meet her husband, but was not allowed to pass through the gate leading to the inner platform. She protested, but the guard was obdurate. When the train came in, Mrs. Franko, catching sight of her husband, ran to greet him. The guard caught her by the arm.

Mr. Franko, looking along the platform, saw his wife struggling with a guard. He threw down his satchel and rushed to the rescue. He struck the guard, who struck back, and was soon joined by another guard. There was trouble for half a minute. Then explanations followed. Nevertheless Mr. Franko said he would do his best to have both of the guards arrested.

Another trouble which confronted Mr. Franko when he arrived was a telegraphed paragraph in a morning newspaper that Mr. Franko had left the orchestra in San Francisco to its own resources and himself had taken train for New York. This communication purported to have been signed by five members of the orchestra, and was sent from New Orleans.

"It is a mistake," said Mr. Franko. "I cannot understand it. They left me; I did not leave them. They went off on their own hook—not I. And they cannot be destitute, for I know that they went out of San Francisco on the Southern Pacific, and they had comfort and food.

"As for me—I had adventures and suffering. I was in the Palace Hotel top floor, and I climbed many times until I got my baggage out. One trunk I myself carried to the St. Francis, but everything was lost except my violins. I saved those.

"Then we went into Union Square, and we all waited. A soldier promised to take us to the ferry. But the other members of the orchestra, except two, said they were going somewhere else. I would not go. I told them about the soldier and the ferry, but they would not stay. So I was left all alone with but two members of the orchestra, and then I went over to Oakland and sent telegrams.

"Next morning I went back to San Francisco, but I could not get near the place where it was agreed I should meet the orchestra, so I returned to Oakland. With my two friends and my violins under my arm I came to New York."

The orchestra and the chorus are expected here to-morrow morning. They left Atlanta yesterday.

Judge H. J. Cuthbert of Mount Vernon, who was a guest at the Palace Hotel, returned to his home Tuesday night. He said that when the shock came the four walls of his room tried to meet, and the ceiling looked as if it was dropping down to meet the floor.

"I ran down stairs," he said, "and when I got into the street, the first person I saw was Caruso, the singer. He was standing on the corner of the street, singing the scales. On another corner I saw a man wearing a bathrobe and a silk hat."

Henry B. Harris received a letter yesterday from Benjamin Stern, manager of the Western "The Lion and the Mouse" company. Writing from Fresno, Mr. Stern said:

"After the shock I hurriedly collected Miss Coghlan, Miss Shayne, Arthur Byron, and George Parsons, who were stopping at the St. Francis with me. We hurried into the square in front of the hotel, and there we were joined by all the members of the company. Then we were all safe. We were due to leave the city at 9 o'clock for San José, and we all got into a wagon to go to the ferry. Turning down one street we were balked by a big chasm which had been cut into the earth. As we drove along a house collapsed within a few feet of us, and at last our only avenue of escape was a narrow street where houses were burning fiercely on both sides. The women crouched in the bottom of the wagon, and the men walked on the sides holding newspapers and hats over their faces. The heat was intense.

"We got to San José 'O. K.' During our flight from San Francisco Miss Shayne said she saw Jack Barrymore sauntering along the street in evening clothes utterly unruffled by fire or earthquake."

Capt. Samuel G. Hayter of Fremont Street, Bloomfield, N. J., received a telegram yesterday fro mhis son, Newman M. Hayter, saying: "I am safe; city gone."

Mrs. Thomas Winsor Langstroth of Winsor Place, Glen Ridge, N. J., received a postal card from her aunt, Mrs. Frances M. Earl, who is in San Francisco with her daughter, Mrs. Josephine Earl Thomas, wife of Dr. Charles N. Thomas. The card said: "We are all safe, but our house is damaged, although not badly. I am sitting by a window expecting another shock."

Mrs. George W. Machette of 123 William Street, Belleville, N. J., received a letter yesterday from her son George, who, with Edward Devine, also of Belleville, is in Oakland. Machette estimated the damage done there at $20,000,000.

Mrs. John C. Risley, wife of a real estate broker in Atlantic City, who was reported as missing in San Francisco, received a note yesterday written upon the back of a check and sent through the mail without stamp or envelope. It said he was safe.

Among the names in the list of dead that came on Tuesday from San Francisco was that of Martha Fay. It is believed by former Councilman J. Logan Fay of Elizabeth, N. J., that the woman is the wife of his cousin, Luke Fay, a former resident of Elizabeth. Mr. Fay has two cousins there. They are John and Luke Fay. Mrs. Fay's relatives also lived there. She has been unable to get news from her mother, Mrs. Rose Gesbooker, her sister Lillian, and her brothers, August and Frederick, who lived near the Cliff House.

Mrs. Brackens C. Kelsay of 64 Emmet Street, Newark, received this telegram yesterday from her brother-in-law, John H. Post: "We are alive. Sleeping in park. Everything lost." The telegram was filed at San Francisco last Saturday.

LOCAL OPTION'S SETBACK.

Serious Error Found in Title of Wainwright-Tully Bill.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 25.—After being printed, reprinted a dozen times, reported out of committee week in and week out, and as often ordered back there, the Tully-Wainwright Local Option bill came before the House to-day for final passage, and to the amazement of the scores of Anti-Saloon League people behind the rail, was killed by the fact that its enacting clause failed to tell what the bill provided.

That this should be discovered after weeks and weeks of legislative jockeying is regarded with suspicion. As a result of the error, the Speaker had to rule the bill not in proper form.

This means at least three more days, a probably fatal delay. The great hope of the Anti-Saloon League people now is an emergency message from the Governor, which would take the bill out of its regular order and by rush tactics from first to last get it to the Governor in time.

CUT HIS WRIST WHILE INSANE.

J. G. Roe, Suffering from Delusions, Carried to Bellevue a Prisoner.

Judson G. Roe, who cut his wrist Tuesday night at the Madison Avenue Hotel, 1,297 Madison Avenue, was taken yesterday from the Presbyterian Hospital to Bellevue. He is held in the prison ward on the charge of attempted suicide.

He arrived at the Madison Avenue Hotel on Tuesday evening, and attracted the attention of the clerk by acting as though he was worn out with fatigue and worry. About an hour after he had gone up stairs he rang the bell violently and asked a bellboy to bring him bandages and water, as he had cut his left wrist very badly in opening a package.

The clerk was not satisfied with his explanations and had a watch kept on Roe's room. He was heard to walk backward and forward restlessly all the evening, and Dr. Henry S. Stark of 1,309 Madison Avenue was summoned. To him Roe told a remarkable story.

"They are after me," he said. "They pursued me all the way up Third Avenue, and so I bought this knife. I don't know why I came here particularly, except that it looked like a nice hotel. But it did not matter where I went, as long as they were pursuing me."

Dr. Stark said yesterday that Roe is suffering from paranoia. Roe denies that he had any intention to commit suicide, and his brother, Frank Roe, 167 Hooper Street, Brooklyn, in discussing the case, said:

"My brother has been working very hard recently, and has been suffering from insomnia. He may have been temporarily deranged, but there was no reason why he should seek his life."

COURT DENOUNCED ARRESTS.

Then Discharged Music Publishers, but They Lost Their Steamer.

Jacob Gum and Max Maxwell, music publishers, of 173 East Seventy-third Street, with residences in Jersey City, were to have sailed for Europe on the Oceanic yesterday. On Tuesday, however, Central Office Detectives Barry and Carroll arrested them on a warrant issued by Justice of the Peace Morgan, in Jersey City, on charges of perjury made by Garrett J. Couchois, another music publisher, living at 264 West 125th Street, Manhattan.

They were arraigned before Magistrate Steinert, where bail was offered, but owing to the fact that they had been arrested on a warrant issued in New Jersey they could not be released. The District Attorney's office was communicated with and the warrant was declared void. The two men were then arraigned in the Essex Market Court, where it was testified that the complainant was awaiting trial in Jersey City, charged by Gum and Maxwell with violating the copyright law. Magistrate Steinert denounced the arrest as an outrage and released the prisoners. They missed their boat.

MRS. HAMMERSTEIN IS BACK.

Husband Says She Forgot to Tell Him She Was Going on a Visit.

Mrs. Abraham Lincoln Hammerstein, daughter-in-law of Oscar Hammerstein, is home again with her young husband, with whom she eloped in an automobile a few months ago. The young woman's mother says her daughter's absence was due to a "girlish freak."

Abraham Lincoln Hammerstein, who treated the matter lightly and seemed to think it a good joke, was a trifle more communicative, and explained that his wife with a girl friend had attended a matinée at the Colonial Theatre last Saturday afternoon, and after the performance decided to spend a few days at the friend's house, forgetting to inform him of her whereabouts. "But she got home all right yesterday afternoon," said the young husband with a smile, as he closed the door.

TERRIER BIT TWO CHILDREN.

"Paddy's" Bad Temper Is Likely to Cost Him His Life.

"Paddy," a Boston bullterrier belonging to Mrs. E. L. Hall of 316 West Ninety-eighth Street, lost his temper yesterday, and may pay for it with his life. He was sitting on the knee of a maid in Riverside Drive, near Ninety-seventh Street, when Frederick Volks, a schoolboy who lives at 165 West Ninety-eighth Street, tapped him on the head.

"Paddy" jumpeed down and bit the boy's leg. Minnie Holmes, a girl of 12, of 170 Ninety-eigth Street, ran to pick up a little playmate, Hazel Engles, and "Paddy" sprang at her and bit her left arm and leg. A man rushed up, hit the dog on the head with a stone, and knocked him senseless.

The children's wounds were cauterized at once, but the Volks boy had to go to the J. Hood Wright Hospital. The police went after the dog, but Mrs. Hall obtained a respite for him. He is said to be worth $250.

Boundary Treaty Ratified.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The Senate to-day ratified the treaty providing for the determination of the Alaskan boundary. A record was made in the promptness with which the Senate acted. The President sent the treaty to the Senate yesterday, the Foreign Relations Committee took it up this morning, and at once voted to report it favorably, and within one minute after Senator Cullom presented it to the Senate at 3:30 o'clock this afternoon the Senate had acted and the treaty was ratified.

There was no disputed portion of the boundary involved, and the subject matter was practically passed upon by the Joint High Commission two years ago last Fall in London.

Not Killed in Asylum Wreck.

BELLEFONTAINE, Ohio, April 25.—Mrs. Edwin Kelly, who was Miss Mamie Miller of Bellefontaine, and who was reported killed with her husband, Dr. Kelly, Assistant Superintendent of the Insane hospital at Agnews, Cal., is alive and recovering from her injuries. Dr. Kelly was killed.

CONGRESS MAY OPPOSE ROOSEVELT RELIEF IDEA

New Plan to Provide Government Work Is Criticised.

MESSAGE ASKS FOR $350,000

California Members Divided Over the Proposal to Suspend Duties on Building Material.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—There are indications about the Capitol of disapproval of the whole-hearted and enthusiastic manner in which the President is seizing every opportunity to do something more for the assistance of the victims of the San Francisco earthquake. His fourth special message on the subject was read in the Senate and House to-day. It called for another appropriation. It did not meet with the warm approval that other relief measures had brought out.

Mr. Roosevelt's message was sent in consequence of a telgram received from Mayor Schmitz saying that the truest charity will be to give work to those who are willing to work. He asks for $350,000 to be spent on improvements at the Mare Island Navy Yard and at Fort Mason. The improvements at Mare Island are chiefly in the steam engineering department, and are necessary. At Fort Mason it is designed to replace the rented supply warehouses with new buildings owned by the Government. The message follows:

"To the Senate and House of Representatives: I herewith inclose communications from the Navy Department and the War Department in reference to communications from Mayor Schmitz of San Francisco and from other representatives of California. With a courage and self-reliance of which we cannot as Americans be sufficiently proud, the people of San Francisco have already started in orderly and resolute fashion to rebuild the city.

"Immediate aid in this enterprise should be given by the Federal Government. One of the crying needs of the situation is employment for the scores of thousands of men who have lost everything. If the appropriation of $300,000 for the Mare Island Navy Yard be at once passed over 2,000 men will immediately be put to work, for this appropriation will be expended only in employing labor.

"The appropriation is urgently needed as a means of contributing toward the reestablishment of affairs in San Francisco; it will also be of material use to the navy.

"Furthermore, I recommend that the Congress act on the recommendations of the War Department and appropriate the money necessary to establish a building, as a general supply and storage depot for the supply departments of the army and the transport service, on a part of the military reservation of Fort Mason. This project is set forth in Senate Bill 4475 of the present session.

"I have requested the Treasury and Post Office Departments to prepare their estimates for replacing or repairing the other Government buildings in San Francisco. These estimates will be ready in a short while and will then be laid before you.

"THEODORE ROOSEVELT.

Several members of the House, commenting on the message after adjournment for the day, said that the President had mistaken the necessity for providing work for unemployed. They thought the difficulty in San Francisco would be in finding men to do the work. There will be a greater demand for labor in and about San Francisco than there has ever been, and the problem will be to meet it, not to find more work to do.

The members of the California delegation in Congress are not at all in favor of the proposition to remit the customs duties on "structural steel and other building materials" for use in the reconstruction of San Francisco. It is the "other materials" included in the proposition that excites opposition. That means lumber, and California has a pretty fair supply of that herself, which she does not want reduced in price to meet the competition with foreign lumber, even though it is brought in for the rebuilding of San Francisco.

As for the structural steel, some of the Representatives who talked about it today said that the European steel mills did not usually manufacture such steel as is used in American buildings, and even if they did, the American mills were already making arrangements to facilitate the manufacture of the steel needed in San Francisco, and there would be no delay in getting all the steel required. It would be ready in ample time, as there is bound to be considerable delay in getting ready to rebuild.

Representative Needham of California, a member of the Ways and Means Committee, said that before pushing the Steel bill he would try to ascertain the exact condition of the structural iron market. He is averse to letting down the tariff bars in any manner which may be taken as a precedent for tariff revision.

Alfred O. Crozier of the Little Falls Stone Company sent an open letter yesterday to Senator Cullom of Illinois suggesting that his resolution exempting building material from import duties should specifically exempt Portland cement from import tax. Mr. Crozier says that no other material will be so needed and so impossible for this country adequately to supply at reasonable cost.

"The demand throughout the country," he adds, "is overtaxing even the enormous production of Portland cement, which has increased from 200,000 barrels in 1880 to 30,000,000 in 1905. Already a movement is under way in New York City for a concrete constructing company, headed by Ross F. Tucker, with $1,000,000 capital, to help rebuild San Francisco on safe and modern lines. Mr. Tucker believes that only concrete will meet the imperative requirements."

BUZBY ETCHINGS SOLD.

First Night's Sale Nets $1,951—Crowd Sees Jefferson Pictures.

A lot of 235 etchings, mezzotints, and engravings was disposed of at the first evening's sale of the collection of the late David T. Buzby of Baltimore at the American Art Galleries last evening. The returns were $1,951. The highest price was $42.50, paid by C. Klackner for Axel Herman Haig's "A Corner of Seville Cathedral," a signed artist's proof etching.

"The Assumption of the Virgin," after Guido Reni's picture, by Faustino Anderloni, went to F. Meder for $40. "Willows Whiten, Aspens Quiver," after Keeley Halswelle, a signed artist's proof etching, went for $36.

A crowd of visitors filled the American Art Galleries room where the Jefferson collection of pictures is on exhibition all last evening. This sale, which will be the biggest of the season, will be held tomorrow night at Mendelssohn Hall. The Buzby sale will be concluded to-night.

FRENCH CRUISERS' VISIT.

Squadron Coming to This Port on Saturday for a Short Stay.

The French armored cruiser squadron, under Admiral Campion, now at Annapolis, where it participated in the final burial of the body of John Paul Jones in the crypt of Bancroft Hall, at the United States Naval Academy, will come to this city for a short visit on Saturday.

The ships in the squadron are the Marseillaise, the Aube, and the Condé, all first-class cruisers and among the most powerful of their class afloat. The vessels are all of the four-stack type.

The Marseillaise and the Aube are sister ships and carry main batteries of 7.6 and 6.4 inch guns, while the Condé is a fraction smaller and carries a battery of about the same strength. The Marseillaise is commanded by Capt. Gueprattc, the Aube by Capt. Lefevre, and the Condé by Capt. Huguet.

The squadron will stay in this port three or four days, and while here the officers and men will be extensively entertained by the officers and bluejackets of the navy yard and the American vessels now in port. The armored cruiser division of the Atlantic fleet, under Rear Admiral Willard H. Brownson, is now here.

SENTRIES DEAD ON POST.

Tragedies Two Weeks Apart Puzzle Fort Hamilton Authorities.

When the guard relief marched to Post 8 in the Fort Hamilton reservation yesterday morning to relieve Private Alfred Cargswell of the Coast Artillery, doing sentry duty, it found the soldier dead, a bullet wound in his head, and his arms on the ground beside him.

On the morning of April 12, when the relief marched to the same post at the same time to relieve Private Julius von Glahn, it found von Glahn dead, a bullet wound through his head.

The post runs along the bluff overlooking Gravesend Bay and the tour of duty during which both tragedies took place begins at midnight and ends at 8 in the morning. It is distant from the barracks, and is one of the loneliest posts patrolled at night. Nothing was known of the death of either sentry until the relief discovered the bodies. No shots were heard.

The death of von Glahn was supposed to be a suicide, and the affair ceased to become a topic of great interest among the artillerymen after the usual gossip of a love affair, and other theories based on a suicidal act had been discussed.

The discovery of Cargswell's body yesterday morning on the same post and in the same manner caused Col. Grimes, the commanding officer, to put secret service men to work. Cargswell was married and no one could find a reason for his wanting to kill himself. A chamber of his revolver was empty. In the case of von Glahn there was found an exploded cartridge in his Krag Jorgensen.

Among the artillery men there was much theorizing yesterday over the coincidence of the deaths of the two sentries, and suggestions that both had been picked off by some distant enemy and had fired their weapons in defense, and had not turned them on themselves.

As the cases are in the jurisdiction of the Federal courts no reports were made to the Brooklyn Coroner or to the police, and authentic details of the finding of the two bodies two weeks apart under similar circumstances are not easily obtainable.

Despite the rumors of murder and theories advanced by the men on duty at the fort, no extra precaution was taken last night. The guards were not doubled, and a sentry was detailed to Post No. 8 at midnight just as if nothing had occurred there.

It was impossible to reach Col. Grimes or any of the officers in charge last night. Among the men off duty the stories of the finding of the two dead sentries differed widely.

BRIDAL PARTY IN HASTE.

Magistrate Married Scotts So They Could Catch San Francisco Train.

Charles Irving Scott, a manufacturer of automobiles of 430 West 118th Street, and Mrs. Amy Hazard Moench of Elmira, N. Y., went to Jefferson Market Court yesterday and asked to see Magistrate Mayo.

"What's the nature of your business?" asked Clerk Williams.

"We want to be married," said Scott, "and we've got to have it done right away. Must catch a train in a few minutes," he added, looking at his watch, "for we're going to San Francisco on a honeymoon trip."

Magistrate Mayo was sitting in court trying the usual petty cases, but when Williams told him about his unusual visitors he suspended business and married the couple.

The Countess de la Chesnaye of New York, wife of Scott's partner in the automobile business, and Mrs. Roland A. Bowers of Philadelphia acted as bridesmaids. Clarence Housman, the banker, of 20 Broad Street, and Count de la Chesnaye attended the bridegroom.

"I know you'll hurry, won't you?" said Mrs. Moench, as the Magistrate told Clerk Williams to prepare the necessary papers. "I've reached the city on a train from the West, and we're going out again on the first one we can catch."

"Williams," the Magistrate called, "step lively."

Williams had the papers prepared in a jiffy, and the ceremony was performed in the Magistrate's private office. When it was over he returned to court and took up again his usual functions.

IN SECRETARY TAFT'S HONOR.

Gen. and Mrs. Grant Give a Reception for Him and Mrs. Taft.

Gen. and Mrs. Frederick D. Grant gave a reception, on Governors Island yesterday afternoon, to Secretary of War Taft and Mrs. Taft. The reception was from 4 to 6 o'clock, and the guests included most of the army officers stationed at the various posts in and near New York City, their wives, Admiral Coghlan, Commandant of the New York Navy Yard, the other naval officers stationed at the yard, and the officers of the warships now in port, the latter including the armored cruiser division of the Atlantic fleet.

The reception was held in the Officers' Club on the island, the building being decorated with flags inside and out, as were also most of the other buildings on the island. Before the reception the Secretary's salute of thirteen guns was fired, after which the battalion of the Fifth Infantry, the garrisoning command on the island, paraded. The guests were met by Gen. Grant's aides, Capts. Bowley and Johnston, and by Lieuts. Magruder, Corbin, Gilmore, and McKay.

Among those present were Major Gen. and Mrs. J. F. Wade, Col. J. W. Pullman and the Misses Pullman, Col and Mrs. H. O. S. Heistand, Col. and Mrs. Havard, Col. and Mrs. S. C. Mills, Col. and Mrs. J. B. Kerr, Col. and Mrs. H. B. Osgood, Major and Mrs. G. H. G. Gale, Lieut. Col. and Mrs. H. C. Carbaugh, Lieut. Col. and Mrs. H. B. Robinson, Major and Mrs. F. P. Fremont, Major and Mrs. E. St. J. Greble, Major and Mrs. E. M. Weaver, Lieut. Col. and Mrs. W. P. Evans, Col. and Mrs. G. S. Grimes, Col. and Mrs. L. V. Caziarc, Col. and Mrs. J. E. Greer, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin Welles, Mr. and Mrs. Henry A. C. Taylor, Henry Phipps, Mrs. J. L. Kernochan, President Nicholas Murray Butler, Mrs. John Clinton Gray, and Mr. and Mrs. John H. Iselin.

ROGERS A GOOD PROPHET.

Appropriation Bill Passes with $530,000 Tacked On in Senate.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 25.—The annual appropriation bill was put through the Assembly to-day and now goes to the Governor. It will become a thirty-day bill, giving him that time in which to cut out such sums as he sees fit. The bill was tinkered with by the Senate Finance Committee, and to that tinkering Mr. Rogers of Broome called the attention of the House. In so doing he justified his charges of March 1 that the bill did not mean a genuine reduction, but was planned for spectacular purposes.

Rogers recalled that at that time he had declared the wholesale cuts could not be justified; that sooner or later most of the sums would have to be restored, and that the credit which the Higgins administration was attempting to take to itself would be shown to be without basis.

The bill as passed to-day proved he was right. At the time the bill was brought forth by the Ways and Means Committee, Rogers declared it would have to carry at least $450,000 more or there would be a deficit that would have to be made up sooner or later. The reformers laughed at the declaration. Rogers stood his ground.

No less than $530,000 was added to the measure over and above the total shown when the bill left the Assembly on its way to the Upper House. Rogers's friends are jubilant and the Higgins leaders in the House are saying nothing.

MINERS TO MODIFY DEMANDS ON OWNERS

New Proposition Framed and Peace Talk Heard.

SCALE COMMITTEE CONFERS

Operators Stand Firm and Say They Will Not Make Any Concessions as Proposed.

WILKESBARRE, April 25.—A new proposition will be made to the operators by President Mitchell and the General Scale Committee representing the miners of the three anthracite districts. What its terms shall be will be decided definitely at a meeting of the committee called for tomorrow morning.

The proposal will differ from the original one in that the demands for the check-off system will be eliminated entirely; the demand for a general increase of 10 per cent. in wages will be modified, as will be the demand for a general increase of pay to company men.

It is over this last term that the members of the committee disagree. The new proposition will be final, it is generally believed.

President Mitchell and the General Committee met at 10 o'clock to-day and reviewed the correspondence which has taken place between the miners and the operators. Mitchell presented two possible compromise offers which were generally discussed and referred for consideration to the sub-committee composed of Mitchell, the three District Presidents and Secretaries. These men spent the entire afternoon in outlining the terms of the new proposal.

Mitchell and every member declines to discuss the situation notwithstanding the increasing belief of a peaceful settlement. Until to-day the best opinion inclined to the belief that the general Scale Committee would make no further move to resume negotiations with the operators, but with the coming of Mitchell the atmosphere changed, and when the Scale Committee went into session this morning it was learned the new proposition to the operators would be formulated.

There is a strong disposition among the committeemen to modify the wage demand so that the increase asked will only apply to company men whose wages vary from $7 to $11 a week. There are about 50,000 of these company men. Members of the Scale Committee feel that the operators cannot refuse to grant the company men an increase of at least 10 per cent.

The probable elimination of miner and his laborer from the wage demand has resulted from the many declarations made by these classes of mine employes that conditions were satisfactory to them. Under the award of the Anthracite Commission company men received anywhere from $1 to $1.25 a day, and in the last three years they contend that they have been forced to meet increased rents and large advances in food commodities. An average increase of a dollar a week to this army of men would mean much to their material well being.

The demand for the eight-hour day for outside men will doubtless be modified, so that it will be only applied where the operators feel that it can be made effective without loss or disarrangement of the mechanical economics of the colliery. Instead of a one year agreement, which was the last suggestion of the miners, a binding agreement for two years will probably be asked for. These modified demands can admit of nothing but acceptance by the operators, according to those who have the best information from the officials of the coal companies.

It was reported downtown yesterday that President Mitchell, instead of accepting either of the alternative propositions of the operators, was in favor of submitting a new proposition to the anthracite operators. This proposition, it was said, would be that only the lowest paid of the company men would be paid an advance in wages, that an agreement for two years instead of three should be signed, and that the eight-hour workday system should prevail in a modified way.

Representatives of the operators said that they had heard this rumor, but had not received any official notification of it. On behalf of the operators the following statement was made:

> If this report is true Mitchell would not contemplate making an answer to alternative propositions of the operators, but would be making a flat proposition of his own. The operators could not increase wages without increasing the price of coal. A two-year agreement, which would end in the year of a Presidential election, would not be considered on any terms, and neither would the eight-hour workday. All this can be said on behalf of the operators without discussing any proposition of which they have no official knowledge.

There was little demand for either hard or soft coal yesterday owing to the belief that there would be a settlement in the dispute. Dealers were able to get what coal they needed.

TOOK PARIS GREEN ON CAR.

Mrs. Tellkamp, an Invalid, Left Her Home While Unwatched.

In the presence of several passengers on a Bushwick Avenue car, Williamsburg, yesterday, Mrs. Rose Tellkamp, 43 years old, the wife of Edward Tellkamp, a painter, of 179 Harmon Street, attempted to end her life with paris green. Mrs. Tellkamp had been in ill-health for some time, and was looked after during the day while her husband was at business by a relative. While left temporarily alone for a few moments yesterday, the woman hastily dressed herself and left the house.

When the car reached Moore Street Mrs. Tellkamp drew a package containing paris green from a hand satchel and swallowed a quantity of the powder. Mrs. Tellkamp quickly became insensible. The motorman turned on full current and sped along Bushwick Avenue to Meserole Street, the nearest point to St. Catharine's Hospital. Mrs. Tellkamp's condition is critical.

ALDERMEN ARE IN DOUBT.

Haven't Decided What to Do About the Franchise Decision.

In regard to the opinion of the Court of Appeals, handed down at Albany Tuesday, sustaining the law transferring from the Aldermen to the Board of Estimate and Apportionment the right to grant franchises, L. Laflin Kellogg, counsel for the Board of Aldermen, made this statement yesterday:

"It seems to me that the decision virtually holds that the Legislature would have full power to divest the City of New York of its incorporation and take away its entire charter, although its right to be a city was conferred originally by the Crown of England.

"It is impossible to state exactly what course will be pursued in this matter until after a further examination of the opinion, and a conference with the committee of the board. There was a short consultation with some of the Aldermen this afternoon, but no decision was reached."

OWNER WANTED FOR STOCK.

Left by A. F. Van Winkle, a New York Dentist Who Died in Texas.

The following letter was received by Police Commissioner Bingham yesterday:

> Fort Worth, Texas, April 20.
> Dear Sir: There died here some weeks ago a man by the name of A. F. Van Winkle. It appears that in 1898 he was licensed to practice dentistry in the City of New York. The man was penniless when he died, but stated that he had a brother, a mother, and a wife in the City of New York.
>
> There has been found among his possessions a large number of shares of stock in various mining companies, that a claim has been made to by a person by the name of Morgan. The party in whose possession they were left, under our advice, has declined to deliver them up, as they were given to him by the decedent with instructions to keep same.
>
> Any information you can give us with reference to his brother or his wife will be greatly appreciated. The party holding paper claims no interest in them, but only wishes the proper party to get them.
> ORRICK & TERRELL.

The card referred to in the letter was as follows: "A. F. Van Winkle, D. D. S., President Expert Dentists' Association of New York, 1,129 Broadway, New York."

The police will try and find the relatives of the dead man.

MORTGAGE TAX BILL MAY PROLONG SESSION

Assembly Tables Resolution to Adjourn on May 3.

BEAT THE SPEAKER 65 TO 62

Advocates of the Measure Say a Vote Could Not Possibly Be Reached by the Date Named.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 25.—The first move of the combination headed by Assemblyman Cox of Buffalo, Dowling of Brooklyn, and Agnew of New York to keep the Legislature in session until a fair opportunity is afforded to vote on the new Mortgage Tax Repeal bill was successful this afternoon.

By a vote of 65 to 62 they beat Speaker Wadsworth and Majority Leader Moreland, and tabled the concurrent resolution to adjourn on Thursday, May 3. This was done after a somewhat similar effort had met with defeat in the Senate. The leaders in the Assembly who are against the Mortgage Tax Repeal bill exhausted every effort to defeat the move of the Cox-Dowling-Agnew combination, but the best they could do was to come within three votes of the strength mustered by the advocates of the bill.

Speaker Wadsworth and his cabinet are out after votes to-night in an effort to put through the resolution to-morrow. Mr. Cox and the advocates of the Mortgage Tax Repeal bill are equally active trying to hold the votes they have and to get enough of the absentees to make a safe majority, 76 votes.

If they can hold 76 votes, the advocates of the repeal bill will be able to force the leaders to give the bill the right of way when it comes from the Senate, so it can be passed before adjournment on May 3, or else they can keep the Legislature in session long enough to pass the measure over the obstacles which the leaders are ready to put in its path.

From to-day's vote, however, it looks as if Mr. Cox and his friends will have a difficult time getting 76 votes and keeping them. Twenty-three Assemblymen who voted for the original Mortgage Tax Repeal bill voted against tabling the motion for adjournment to-day. Ten others who voted for the bill were absent today. It is believed there is still a majority in the House in favor of enacting the new repeal law, but its members are unwilling to remain in Albany any more days than they have to.

There are kicks over the manner in which Gov. Higgins vetoed the original bill. If the Governor had given an out-and-out veto, it is argued, the matter would have been ended. But by indicating in his veto message that he was opposed only to certain provisions, the fight has to be made all over again.

After the Senate passed the adjournment resolution for May 3 this morning Assemblyman Cox and the other leaders kept a weather eye open for its appearance on the Assembly side. It came late in the afternoon. Assemblyman Dowling moved to amend the resolution by making the date May 10. Speaker Wadsworth held that a motion for amendment was not in order because the resolution was concurrent.

Assemblyman Cox then plainly stated the reason for the movement for extending the date of adjournment. He said:

"The purpose of the motion is to give an opportunity to the members of this body to vote on the new Mortgage Tax bill," he said. "To pass the adjournment resolution as it is would leave us a day or two short, depending on the tactics of the opposition. The bill cannot be passed in the Senate before Friday, and maybe not until later. So it is a serious question whether there would be time enough left to this House to put the bill through the required stages and pass it by May 3."

Majority Leader Moreland opposed delaying the end of the session.

"I think a vote can be had on this bill without postponing the time for adjournment," he said.

TWO MEN UNDER THE BED.

They Stole Her Diamonds and $300, Says Jersey City Woman.

Mrs. Minnie Comerford, who is separated from her husband, Peter Comerford, and lives alone in a seven-room flat on the third floor of 306 Montgomery Street, Jersey City, visited Police Headquarters late Tuesday night and told Sergeant Murphy that she had been robbed in her apartments by two men who had taken from her five diamond rings she wore and three $100 bills.

"I had been visiting my sister in Brooklyn," said Mrs. Comerford, "and got home about 10 P. M. Being tired I sat down in my bedroom to remove my shoes. As I did so I saw my pet kitten staring under the bed. I looked in the same direction and saw two men crawling from under the bed.

"Before I could make an outcry one of them seized me. Then the other man turned off the gas. The man who held me had whiskers. I seized them and found they were false, for they came off in my hands. Then he put a pistol to my head and told me to take off my rings. I was so frightened that I did so, nor could I make any outcry, although he had taken his hands from my throat.

"After I had given him my rings he took three $100 bills I had. The men did not disturb anything else and left as soon as they had secured the rings and money."

The only description Mrs. Comerford could give of the men was that they were rough-looking fellows and that one was about 5 feet 7 inches tall and the other two inches shorter. The only person in the house who heard any noise in Mrs. Comerford's rooms is Mrs. Halsted, who lives on the same floor, and she could only say she thought she had heard sounds of a scuffle.

The police, after completing their investigation without finding any clue to the robbers, were inclined to throw cold water on the affair.

"I am satisfied," said Chief Murphy, "that Mrs. Comerford knows more than she is willing to tell us. She admits that she recognized, or thought she recognized, the voice of one of the robbers. As soon as she tells us the name of this man we will get to work."

Died in Grand Street Theatre.

Mrs. Anna Lippman, 52 years old, wife of a real estate agent, Wolf Lippman of 226 Third Street, died last night at the Grand Street Theatre, where she and her husband had gone to see Jacob Adler in the Jewish impersonation of King Lear. In the middle of the first act Mrs. Lippman became suddenly ill and died a few moments later in the lobby.

THEY MISS THOSE OLD INSURANCE 'ADS' SORELY

Those Who Lost Them Plan Campaign to Get Them Back.

C. J. SMITH CALLS MEETING

He It Was Who Used to Distribute the Mutual's Favors to Out-of-Town Newspapers.

C. J. Smith, who in his former employment by the Mutual Life used to buy space in the out-of-town newspapers at a dollar a line for the publication of "censored" reports of the Armstrong Committee's investigation of insurance, has now called a convention of the editors of all the seventy insurance publications in the country to consider what steps can be taken to win back the advertising of the big life companies on which the insurance press of the land used aforetime to thrive.

The editors will gather at the Astor House this afternoon at 5 o'clock and under the direction of Mr. Smith, who is the new President of the New York Press Club, will plan a move on the institutions which in the good old days they used to defend against the attacks of critics.

C. J. Smith is, in fact, the head and front of the new movement, although Allan Forman, who handled the details of the dollar-a-line proposition for the Mutual Life last Fall, is closely associated with him.

The principal trouble is that whatever other reorganizing has been done by the new management of the Mutual and Equitable Companies in particular, the publicity departments have been so thoroughly reorganized that this form of advertising has been almost entirely eliminated, and the same applies to a less degree to the New York Life and other companies. The result is that several of the seventy papers that have devoted all their energies to the defense of the old life insurance régimes have been brought to the verge of bankruptcy. C. J. Smith became prominently associated with an insurance journal shortly after he quit the Mutual Life and became President of the Press Club.

Of course there are some insurance periodicals that are not so largely affected either in their advertising or in their treatment of the companies as the ones whose editors are to meet this afternoon. It is hardly expected that these will be represented at C. J. Smith's conference, which, by the way, is to be kept a profound secret.

MUTUAL'S PREMIUM LOSS.

First Quarter Shows One—Also a Big Saving in General Expenses.

A big decrease in new premiums and a no less marked saving in general expenses other than commissions were the features of the financial statement of the Mutual Life Insurance Company, which was read at the monthly meeting of the Directors yesterday. A letter from John D. Crimmins to Bernard N. Baker, Chairman of the Executive Committee of the Bowles Mutual Life policy holders' committee, which the Mutual management had succeeded in obtaining, was read to the Board.

This is Mr. Crimmins's letter, answering, apparently, one asking him to join the Bowles committee:

Dear Sir: The circular letter of the Mutual Life Policy Holders' Association addressed to me I have read.

I have kept myself fully advised of the insurance situation, and have followed investigations and legislation. My interest in the good administration of the company's affairs may be considered large, as my policies amount to $150,000. By no act of mine or influence I may have with other policy holders will I assent to the plan of the association. The investment is too sacred—for the benefit of my family—and I will not jeopardize it by placing it in the hands of novices, I may say, in insurance matters.

Admitting that the Trustees have erred in judgment in many years, I still recognize that in their management of the company's affairs and in their integrity the company has prospered and the surplus accumulated. We may rest on the annual statement of the company, which shows that the money paid by the policy holders has been wisely invested.

Your associates will not have conceit enough to claim that they are men of higher integrity than the present Trustees, nor will they have conceit enough to say that they have as wide an experience in insurance matters. The methods of the company are now an open book, and we may read them. Methods that have been condemned in the past will be corrected in the future. I will give my vote to a continuance of the present board or to any committee they will have to solicit proxies. This I shall advise all who will listen to me for advice on this subject, of such vital importance to them as individuals. Respectfully yours,

JOHN D. CRIMMINS.

B. N. BAKER, Esq., Chairman The Mutual Life Policy Holders' Association, 713 Fourteenth Street, Washington, D. C.

Mr. Crimmins was a member of the Equitable Policy Holders' Committee, but he had something of a falling out with other members of the committee when the question rose how far the committee should go in pushing for the complete mutualization of the society.

According to the returns made to yesterday's meeting, for the first three months of 1906 new premiums received by the Mutual were $939,179.53, against $2,218,339.42 in the first quarter of 1905. Renewal premiums for the same period of this year were $14,143,305.04, comparing with $13,772,140.44. Interest and rents received were $4,205,232.82 for the quarter ended March 31, 1905, and this year the same items amounted to $4,578,917.58.

President Peabody said yesterday that the readjustment of rentals in the home office building now in progress would add an increasing amount of income from that source, as leases now in force at inadequate rates expired and were renewed under the schedule that has been adopted under the advice of the Mutual's investigators.

The Mutual paid to policy holders in the first quarter of 1906 $9,608,436.50, as against $8,537,607.24 in the same quarter of 1905. The commissions paid this year on new business were $641,649.30. They were $1,644,465.66 in the first three months of 1905, the great saving being due to the falling off of new business indicated by the decrease of new premiums noted.

Renewal commissions were $370,472.23 for the three months ended March 31, as against $532,890.60 in the same period last year. Of the latter amount $70,000 was due to an increase of renewal commissions put into effect in 1905.

The miscellaneous expenses of the Mutual were $1,923,131.41 in the first three months of 1906, a saving of $382,335.68 over the opening quarter of last year, when the miscellaneous expenses amounted to $2,305,467.68. Included in the item of miscellaneous expenses for the quarter just closed is $100,000 expended by the Truesdale Investigating Committee for the services of expert accountants and the other expenses of the investigation which has been in progress since last Fall. The total disbursements for the quarter were $12,543,989.44, as against $13,020,433.54 for the quarter ended March 31, 1905.

BURNHAM INDICTMENTS UP.

Motion to Quash Them Made by Insurance Men's Counsel.

A motion for the quashing of the indictments for forgery or grand larceny returned against President Frederick A. Burnham, Vice President George Burnham, Jr., and Second Vice President George D. Eldridge of the Mutual Reserve Life Insurance Company, was made yesterday by former Assistant District Attorney Rand before Recorder Goff in General Sessions. Mr. Rand argued that the character of the evidence placed before the Grand Jury that returned the indictments was improper.

Mr. Rand, who recently obtained permission from Judge O'Sullivan to examine the minutes of the Grand Jury on behalf of his clients, made much of the fact that J. Douglas Welles, a former employe of the insurance company, had been permitted to testify before the Grand Jury that on his return from Europe in 1901 he had been told by President Burnham of a payment to Louis F. Payn, then State Insurance Superintendent, which Burnham had been compelled to make in order to get a favorable report on the company's affairs.

Mr. Rand contended yesterday that the admission of such evidence was not only irrelevant but highly prejudicial to the rights of his clients, as the public mind had been inflamed to such an extent concerning insurance matters that the mere mention of a bribe would make it impossible for the Grand Jury to remain impartial.

Mr. Rand asserted also that no proof had been adduced to show that his clients were aware that the checks which they signed in 1901 were to be used for the settlement of their personal obligations.

Acting District Attorney Nott will reply to Mr. Rand's argument this morning.

ANDY HAMILTON'S ACTIVITIES.

Once Obtained a Tax Reduction for Northwestern Life.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., April 25.—That Judge Andrew Hamilton of New York had dealings with the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company came out to-day in the testimony before the Wisconsin Legislative Insurance Investigating Committee, which resumed its sessions after a recess since Friday last.

General Counsel George H. Noyes of the Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company testified that in 1903 Judge Hamilton had been paid $6,687 for services to the company in obtaining a refund from the State of New York on taxes to the company, which were assessed at $83,536.

The tax was held to be illegal by the Court of Appeals of New York. The matter of adjustment was placed in Judge Hamilton's hands on a contingent basis of 25 per cent. Upon appeal by Judge Hamilton to the State Controller, the amount of the tax was reduced to $8,310.

General Counsel Noyes of the company stated that this was the only occasion on which Judge Hamilton had been employed by his company. Other testimony related to the treatment by the company of some policies, the holders of which had committed suicide.

Metropolitan Deplores McCall's Death.

The Directors of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company were officially informed on Tuesday of the death of John A. McCall, a member of the board for ten years. A minute was ordered spread on the record of the meeting expressing the high esteem in which he was held by the board and extending the board's sympathy to Mr. McCall's widow and family.

REPUBLICANS HELP GRADY.

Land Seizure Bill Advanced by Their Aid—Railroad Grab, Says Marks.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 25.—There were evidences of a deal between Senator Grady and the Republican majority when his bill in the interests of the Pennsylvania and the Boston & Westchester Railroads came up in general orders to-day. This bill provides that a railroad company may seize private property where there is a dispute between the owner and the company and let the courts decide to what extent the railroad must pay for the property seized.

The bill has been roundly condemned by organizations in the Bronx, and in the Senate to-day Senator Marks made a violent attack upon it. When it came to a question whether the bill should be advanced to the order of third reading Grady mustered the entire Democratic minority in its favor, and Cooper and Gardner of Brooklyn voted with him. When those opposed to the advancement of the bill were called on to show their hands not a Republican arose except Drescher, and Marks lost the preliminary skirmish.

Marks said that a vote for the bill would be considered by the public in the same light as a vote against the Eighty-Cent Gas bill or the insurance bills.

Woman Killed; Husband Missing.

As she lay asleep, with one arm thrown about her little son, Rosario Conti, a comely young Italian woman was killed in her room, on the third floor of the tenement 310 East 106th Street, early yesterday morning. The woman's husband, Vitalli Conti, has disappeared, and the police of the East 104th Street Station are holding four relatives of the missing man in the belief that they know more about the case than they have told.

Church Club Soon to Move.

The Church Club of New York held its last meeting in the old home of the club at 578 Fifth Avenue last night, when officers for the ensuing year were elected. From its old home the club goes to new quarters at 53 East Fifty-sixth Street. Howard Van Amringe was elected President.

A DIFFERENCE IN LUNGS.

In the Edinburgh University three human lungs lie side by side. One is of an Eskimo and is snow white. In life, this would be ruddy with rich blood. Another is that of a coal-miner and is black. The other is of a town dweller and is a dirty slate gray, as are the lungs of most city residents. That's why consumption thrives in cities.

One reason why Scott's Emulsion does so much to keep down consumption is because it helps to keep the lungs clean and supplies them with rich, red blood. It makes the lungs germ-resisting. If the body is run down and health is at a low ebb Scott's Emulsion will build it up quickly and permanently.

CRAPSEY IS A HERETIC, SAYS HIS EX-ASSISTANT

Swears at Trial Rector Denied Divinity of Christ.

DEFENSE CHARGES ANIMUS

Witness Admits He Was a Candidate to Succeed Crapsey—Defense Attacks Court's Jurisdiction.

BATAVIA, N. Y., April 25.—The trial for heresy and violation of his ordination vows of the Rev. Algernon S. Crapsey, rector of the Protestant Episcopal Church of St. Andrew's, Rochester, N. Y., was continued to-day in the local court house, after an adjournment from April 17. Congressman James Beck Perkins, of counsel for the defense, filed a brief expressing the opinion that the courts did not have jurisdiction in the case, in which he said in part:

"And this respondent further says that the canons of this church direct that any such trial shall be conducted according to the principles of the common law as administered in this State, and that it is contrary to the said common law that the guilt of any person against whom a presentment is made should be passed upon by a court, the majority whereof are designated by the prosecutor or by any person who believes the charges so made to be just."

This clause refers to the fact that three out of the five members of the court are appointees, according to ecclesiastical custom, of Bishop Walker, who has pressed the charges against Dr. Crapsey.

Dr. Crapsey has the support of a large number of the more liberal clergy and laymen, and he is being assisted in his trial by distinguished rectors from different parts of the country acting as witnesses and helping him in the preparation and conduct of his case. Edward M. Shepard of New York is assisting Congressman Perkins as counsel.

John Lord O'Brien, a lawyer of Buffalo, who is conducting the case for the prosecution, is assisted by John H. Stinero, ex-Chief Justice of Rhode Island, and the Rev. Francis J. Hall of the Western Theological Seminary, Chicago.

The prosecution expects to present its case to the court by to-morrow noon, and the defense hopes to get through with its witnesses by Friday evening.

Mr. O'Brien called as his first witness Frederick James Alexander, who was formerly an assistant under Dr. Crapsey in the Rochester church. Alexander left St. Andrew's on Jan. 20, 1906. He testified to certain remarks made in the pulpit of St. Andrew's by Dr. Crapsey on Dec. 31, 1905, which were in effect that Jesus was born of parents belonging to the middle class, that he was born of a simple father and mother, that he was a son of Joseph the carpenter, and the fact that the early Christians attributed a miraculous birth to Christ was to be regarded as one of the greatest misfortunes that had ever befallen mankind.

Mr. Alexander proved an unwilling witness under cross-examination. The defense brought out that Alexander had aspired to the rectorship of St. Andrew's in succession to Dr. Crapsey, that he had asked for a raise of salary a long time after the publication of "Religion and Politics," and that this increase in emolument was denied shortly before Alexander took the notes on certain portions of Dr. Crapsey's sermon of Dec. 31, which are incorporated in the presentment against Dr. Crapsey.

After this witness had left the stand Mr. O'Brien, for the prosecution, put in the evidence the Book of Common Prayer, calling especial attention to the prayer to be used for those who are to be admitted into holy orders, the nativity of our Lord or Christmas Day, the Sunday after Christmas Day, the Sunday next before Easter, Good Friday, Ascension Day, the purification of St. Mary the Virgin, the Annunciation of the Blessed Virgin Mary, the Transfiguration of Christ, and All Saints' Day, and certain designated portions of the service for the ordaining of Bishops, priests, and deacons, and that for the ordering of priests.

Mr. O'Brien read many of these prayers, collects, and Gospels aloud. An adjournment was then taken until 10 o'clock to-morrow morning. Dr. Crapsey, Mr. Shepard, and Mr. Perkins returned this afternoon to Rochester. They will stop there during the trial, going back and forth each day.

The defense has called in its behalf in the capacity of witnesses or otherwise the Rev. Elwood Worcester, Ph. D., Boston; rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, Boston; Rev. Roland Cotton Smith, rector of St. John's Episcopal Church, Washington; the Rev. Percy S. Grant, rector of the Church of the Ascension, New York; the Rev. Alexis Stine, chaplain-elect of Columbia University; the Rev. John W. Suton of Winchester, a suburb of Boston; Dr. Sylvester Nash, Professor of New Testament Exegesis, Cambridge Theological School; the Rev. Frank S. Nelson, rector of Christ Episcopal Church, Cincinnati, and the Rev. Wilfred L. Hoppes of Rhode Island.

It is understood that Dr. Crapsey's defense will hold that under a liberal interpretation of the Creed he has not contradicted its doctrines, and that he does not deny the Immaculate Conception of Christ. The defense will bring witnesses in an attempt to prove that his utterances do not mean such a denial, and that they are in no way contrary to the doctrines of the Church.

FRANCIS BILL PASSES.

Creates Office of Commissioner of Records in New York.

ALBANY, April 25.—The Francis bill, creating the office of Commissioner of Records of New York County, was passed to-day in the Assembly, 78 to 43. Mr. Francis did more hustling for votes than any two members have done for any one bill this session. Messrs. Salomon and Oliver of New York attacked the measure.

Salomon charged that the bill was for the benefit of ex-Justice Davenport. Oliver summed up the bill this way:

"It is an act for the spoliation of the taxpayers of New York County—an act to truckle to the embryonic politicians, and an attack on the principle of home rule."

The majority members, however, rallied to the support of Francis, and the bill sneaked through.

FOOD.

SCHOLAR'S HABITS
Coffee Most Pernicious.

A manly young fellow, working his way through school, and whom the world will hear of some day, came near blighting all his prospects by coffee drinking.

"I drank coffee all my life," he says, "and looking back I can see that it was responsible for much of the nervousness from which I suffered as a child. Four years ago while at a preparatory school I began to use it more freely than ever before.

"I imagined it strengthened me, but as the school year went on I felt that I was 'playing out.' First I was troubled about studying in the evening, then I got so I could not sleep well and rose in the morning unrefreshed. My nerves grew shaky, hands trembled, eyes pained me, and sometimes at the blackboard everything would seem to turn black—I couldn't see what I was doing and would have to take my seat. Then my brain seemed to grow sluggish—I could not think clearly and consecutively.

"Thus things went on for a year—sometimes a little better, then worse again. I laid it to various causes, but didn't hit on the right one till I went to a physician. He said that my nervous system and digestion were in bad shape, owing to improper diet and the use of coffee. I said I couldn't get along without coffee, but he insisted that I should give it up and use Postum Food Coffee instead.

"I at once changed my diet, and for a time lived principally on Postum, Grape-Nuts and fresh fruit. The improvement began quickly to manifest itself. My sleep came back, my brain grew clear and active, my nerves were steadied, and my digestion is better than ever before. The color has come back to my cheeks, and I gained nearly 30 pounds weight in three months. My mind is active, and I enjoy studying. I owe it all to Postum Food Coffee and Grape-Nuts." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich. There's a reason.

FRENCH TROOPS MASSED TO OVERAWE STRIKERS

45,000 Soldiers and Policemen Mobilized in Paris.

READY FOR ANY EMERGENCY

Danger of Labor Outbreak on May 1 Lessened by the Precautions of the Government.

PARIS, April 25.—The strike menace has noticeably lessened before the Government's military and police preparations to crush disorder. Public uneasiness has been considerably relieved, but alarmist reports continue to circulate concerning what may happen on May 1.

One report says that Spanish and Swiss anarchists have succeeded in bringing forty bombs into Paris. The police are exercising extreme vigilance, and are shadowing the chief agitators and watching the centres of disorder.

The elaborate military precautions include stationing 2,000 troops in the basement of the Grand Palace, where the National Art Salons are being held. Infantry and cavalry are also strongly posted at other important centres.

The Government appears to be fully aroused to the necessity for adequate preparation. Frequent conferences are being held between President Fallieres, Premier Sarrien, Interior Minister Clemenceau, and the military and police Chiefs. M. Fallieres also received representatives to-day of the iron, steel, mining, and spinning industries.

The strikers already out are comparatively quiet, because of the display of troops and police. The places of business of the manufacturing jewelers are heavily guarded.

About 1,000 book printers made a manifestation to-day. Several minor affrays occurred and two arrests were made.

Two magazines have suspended owing to inability to print their editions. The ranks of the local strikers were increased to-day by 600 laborers. The metropolitan barbers have also announced that they will stop work May 1 unless they are given a holiday Tuesday and two hours for luncheon and rest. The metal workers will hold a meeting to-night to determine on the course they will adopt.

At a meeting to-night of 500 building contractors it was decided to close down all work and dismiss the workmen in the event of a strike May 1. The contractors subscribed a fund of $200,000 to meet the costs of actions that may arise from the stoppage of operations.

The labor headquarters here show extreme animation. The various sections are holding meetings, and are issuing appeals and listening to violent speeches. During a meeting of 5,000 printers two of the orators counseled the stoppage of the delivery wagons of the newspapers.

The police canvass shows that 80,000 men have stopped work, of which number the disorderly element does not exceed 20,000. Against these can be massed 42,000 to 45,000 troops, 20,000 infantry, 10,000 cavalry, and 10,000 to 15,000 Republican Guards and police, with large additional reserves.

The authorities will endeavor to localize the manifestation on May 1 to the Place de la République, which is the great labor centre, and to the vicinity of the Labor Exchange. This will prevent the manifestants from gaining the centre of Paris or getting west of the Place de la Concorde into the residential sections of the Champs Elysées or Passy.

It is expected that the strength of the military and police will readily enable them to confine the disorderly element to the eastern sections, thus reducing the demonstration to isolated affrays which should easily be controlled.

The police are convinced that there is no danger of a lack of food supplies owing to the strike in the provision trades. They declare that the dealers in provisions are reaping a harvest by spreading alarmist reports and are in favor of closing the stores altogether.

The painters have decided to stop work May 1, and to remain out until they are granted an eight-hour day and a weekly holiday.

The Public Prosecutor is preparing a charge of murder against the striking miners who recently stoned and killed a Lieutenant of Dragoons.

LENS, France, April 25.—Four flouring mills here were burned to-night. It is believed that they were set on fire by strikers or their sympathizers because the proprietors had furnished flour for the troops. The authorities have adjourned the examination of conscripts in consequence of the strike agitation.

CLEWS FOR PUBLICITY.

New York Banker Declares It Would Correct Many Evils.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 25.—Henry Clews of New York addressed the Wharton School of Finance of the University of Pennsylvania to-day, taking as his subject "The Movement in Publicity and Reform." In part Mr. Clews said:

"We live in a progressive age, and we are at present passing through a period of salutary business reform. This reform means improvement, and business men of all kinds should help and not retard it. The banking, railway, and insurance communities should, in particular, do all they can to promote it and invite the fullest publicity as to their transactions and methods of doing business.

"The one-man power in large corporations, with a lot of dummy Directors subservient to it, should come to an end. Dummy Directors are no better than so many decoy ducks that mislead the public. They are Directors who do not direct and are not expected to direct by those in control who selected them for election.

"No man ought to accept a place as Director or Trustee of an institution or corporation, particularly in a banking, railway, industrial, or life insurance company, who does not fully appreciate the responsibility of the position and the care and vigilance it demands and intend to faithfully and conscientiously perform its duties. Directors in dealing with the officers of their corporations should have opinions of their own and not be afraid to express them. They are not alone responsible for their own errors or wrongful acts, but for failure to expose and put a stop to the wrongdoing of the officers or employes under their control.

"With the growth of our population we shall grow, not only in material wealth, but in the higher products of an advancing civilization, in the arts and sciences and literature, and all that embellishes and glorifies mankind. Therefore we should, as we go along, endeavor to correct errors, shortcomings, and abuses, and prune away rotten and unsound timbers in our public and business life.

"The way can be best paved by promoting public spirit and sweeping away the opportunities for business wrongdoing in secret, such as rebating, by wise laws properly enforced and backed by public opinion.

"This would compel the crooks, grafters, rebaters, and competition crushers of the business world who have schemed in darkness and shunned the light to come out into open view, and publicity alone would be a perfect cure for many great evils."

MONEY STAYS REVOLT IN RUSSIAN CAPITAL

City to Give $250,000 to Idle Men and Provide Work.

DANGER NOT YET ENDED

General Distrust of Government Exists — New Constitution Denounced as a Mockery.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 25.—Thanks to the conciliatory attitude of the city representatives, the threat of a repetition of the great labor demonstration and the bloody events of "Red Sunday," Jan. 22, 1905, has been obviated for the moment.

The City Council to-night, after listening to heated speeches by orators of the workmen, and to the advice of Prof. Paul Milukoff, and other constitutional democratic leaders, decided to begin public works amounting to $1,500,000, and pending their initiation to distribute $250,000 among those out of work, the number of whom are actually destitute at present, according to labor representatives, is not over 20,000.

A commission, of which one-half are workmen and one-half Aldermen, was elected to plan the works and supervise the distribution of the money. Danger lurks in the fact that the improvements, which may be begun immediately, will employ less than 3,000 men, and that it will take weeks and even months to complete plans for bridges and other important works, while the $250,000 to be distributed in advance will be quickly exhausted. The situation is especially threatening, as the measures of relief are purely artificial. The army of the unemployed, because the factories are running on half force on account of the lack of orders, is constantly increasing.

It was a picturesque sight as the delegation of workmen, clad in their working garb and many showing poverty in their patched clothing and pinched faces, filed into the Council Chamber and took seats among the Aldermen, almost all of whom are representatives of the St. Petersburg plutocracy. The speeches of the members of the delegation were moderate in tone. They demanded only work and not charity. Some Socialist agitators who accompanied the delegation in an advisory capacity, however, were decidedly truculent.

"We speak in the name of the great Russian proletariat, which headed the revolution," said one. "Heed our demands and warning. If you refuse we will rank you with the enemies of the fatherland, and we will transmit your refusal to the proletariat, with whom you must reckon. Your blood and theirs be upon your heads."

After the meeting a fanatic caused a scene by calling on the workmen to spurn assistance and to rise and strike down their oppressors, but he was hurried out of the room by his comrades.

The publication here yesterday of the draft of the new "Fundamental Law," or "Constitution," of Russia, aroused a storm of indignation, and amid the present general distrust of the Government's motives has furnished just the stimulus needed to solidify the entire Opposition in Parliament.

The Rech insists that with the realization of the new Russian loan and under the false conviction that the revolution is suppressed, "the Government has not hesitated to again show the cloven hoof, not even masking its intention to dissolve Parliament if it is found to be troublesome."

M. Brianchaninoff in The Slovo to-day calls the draft of the "Fundamentl Law" a "mockery which will be resented by every honest man, be he a member of the 'Black Hundred' or a Social Revolutionist." He adds:

"Such a mixture of lies and false logic on the eve of the assembling of the real masters of the country can only tend to push the people to a fresh revolution, with its attending conflicts and anarchy. The existing régime seems fated to go down in blood."

A real dangerous element in the situation, however, is not in the attitude of the Liberals, but in the possibility of another upheaval from below at the very moment when the intellectual forces of the country had been united. For some time the Social Democrats and other proletariat organizations have been trying to arrange a general uprising to coincide with the convocation of Parliament.

There is a striking analogy between the methods now adopted by the workmen and those preceding "Red Sunday," Jan. 22, 1905, and many people believe that they see in the new organization the hand of Gapon. All trace of the former priest has been lost. The Holy Synod officially denies that he is sequestered in a monastery, and he may be the directing mind behind the scenes of the drama which is being unfolded.

It is significant that the head keeper of the local prison has received a letter signed by the Workmen's League warning him that the prisoners will be liberated May 10, but saying that his life will be spared if he does not interfere.

The situation this afternoon was regarded as being so threatening that the Prefect of Police tried to appease the workmen by issuing a proclamation notifying them that the extensive work of filling up the Catherine Canal would be commenced promptly and that the Executive Committee of the Town Council had decided to open a Labor Exchange. Considerable excitement was manifested in the suburbs. Infantry and Cossacks patrolled the streets.

KAZAN, Russia, April 25.—Revolutionists last night stole two cannon from the base of the monument commemorating John the Terrible's capture of Kazan from the Tartars. Owing to a flood the Revolutionists were able to approach the monument in a boat in which they placed the cannon and rowed away. It is supposed that it is their intention to use the cannon when the armed revolt breaks out.

SIMFEROPOL, Russia, April 25.—As a result of the investigation of the anti-Semitic propaganda, Police Lieutenant Tshupremko has been arrested here charged with inciting a mob to attack the Jews.

PRESCRIPTIONS

Have you ever seriously thought of what a prescription is? It is the doctor's order to the druggist to take fixed quantities of specified drugs and compound them into a mixture.

When the doctor examines his patient he finds various symptoms which indicate the presence of disease or functional derangement of one or more important organs of the body.

In his mind he formulates a medicine composed of several ingredients, each of which has a definite effect, and which combined overcome the disease or derangement. He writes his prescription and depends on the druggist to supply exactly what he orders.

The doctor knows what the effect of the medicine will be if it be compounded as he intends, of absolutely pure ingredients, put together in just the right way.

CHOOSE YOUR DRUGGIST.

Some persons who exercise great care in the selection of a medical adviser seem to forget that intelligent discrimination in the selection of a druggist is of almost as much importance.

A dishonest druggist can do incalculable harm by substituting some impure or low grade drug for the pure article the doctor orders; or he may put in a cheap drug for some costly one.

A careless or incompetent druggist may render useless the doctor's skill by lack of chemical knowledge. If the ingredients of a medicine are not put together in exactly the right way, the result may be altogether different from what the doctor wants.

BRING YOUR PRESCRIPTIONS TO US.

The first rule of our prescription department is—exact execution of the doctor's orders; no substitution in any shape or form. We have the best and purest drugs that scientific skill can produce or money buy. When our label is put on a medicine, it is what the doctor ordered—absolutely.

Our chemists are qualified, careful men. They have had special scientific training in prescription work. They know the chemical changes that would occur by improper mixing of drugs. But, to make assurance doubly sure, we have every detail in the compounding of every prescription checked by two registered pharmacists.

All this exactness pays, because the people learn the safety and security against the possibility of a mistake in a medicine made up here. We take no chances. Why should you?

when you have a prescription to be compounded. If you cannot bring it here, call No. 4021 Bryant, and let us know. We will immediately send a messenger for it, who will deliver the medicine to you as soon as it is ready. You can order anything of us by 'phone. We deliver all goods free.

SALOON MEN HARD HIT BY THE NEW LIQUOR LAW

Many License Cancellations Will Follow Its Adoption Here.

SURETY CONCERNS CAUTIOUS

New Inspectors Recruited from Long Island Farmers and Clam Diggers—Expected to Fool Bartenders.

The changes in the liquor tax law brought about by the enactment of the Prentice bill will lead to the cancellation of a great many liquor tax certificates in Greater New York this year. In Manhattan alone last year the State Excise Department issued about 6,500. This year it is thought the number will be much less.

Usually the figures in regard to licenses are given out at the State offices of the Excise Department in the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company's building. The clerks there were willing this year to make known the number of applications filed, but when Edward Healy, the Odell leader of the Thirty-eighth Assembly District, was asked as to the number of applications that had been rejected he said:

"You'll have to go to Albany for that information."

"Can I get the information if I get an order from Odell for it?" inquired the reporter.

"No," said Commissioner Healy, "You'll have to go to Albany."

Hotel keepers all over the town have been anxious to know just where they stand. Some of them have been advised to take out ordinary saloon licenses instead of declaring themselves to be hotel keepers, while others have been told that they will have to go out of business, as they have been turned down by the bonding companies. Still others are under the impression that they will have to go to Albany before they can be assured of doing business under the new Prentice law. At any rate they can get very little information from Commissioner Healy. He refers them to the surety companies, the employes of which are equally uncommunicative.

Commissioner Healy has practically turned over all technical questions to Building Superintendent Murphy. He is complying with the new law by making prompt inspections of hotel buildings described in the excise applications. An Inspector is sent to each place described as a hotel.

If the law requiring hotel buildings to be fire-proof is found to have been complied with, a favorable report will be sent to the Excise Department next week. Then the hotel man will get his liquor tax certificate, but as there are more than 4,000 Raines law hotels in New York City which cannot qualify under the requirements of the building laws, at least that number have been hit hard by the new Prentice measure.

Many of the Raines law hotel men will be driven out of business entirely, while more than 3,500 places now conducted as hotels will be reduced to the ordinary saloon level, which means that they cannot do business on Sundays or "after hours," as they did under the old Raines law. This means that more than 3,000 drinking places in New York will be closed on Sundays after the new Prentice law goes into effect.

Saloon men who take the side door chance on Sunday will find that they will be attacked from two sources, the State Excise Department and the city police. Last year the Excise Department succeeded in collecting almost $200,000 in suits brought on excise bonds supplied by men who broke the law. This year it is believed that more than a million dollars may be collected in fines, as the State Excise Department has an army of Inspectors from out of town.

Some of the Inspectors are Long Island clam diggers, veritable countrymen, who are expected to fool the bartenders of the city into mistaking them for harmless farmers. The plan of the Excise Department is to send one of these Inspectors to a saloon for evidence one Sunday and on the following Sunday send another Inspector to make the arrest. In this way the Excise Commissioner hopes to round up all the saloons that break the law.

Having received a hint as to the method of obtaining evidence planned by the Excise Commissioner, the surety companies have decided not to give bonds in certain cases, placing on their blacklist the names of more than 500 saloon keepers who were known as "chance takers." They have also raised the premium price of bonds, compelling saloon keepers to pay more this year than last, the rates for furnishing a bond in Manhattan being fixed at $40 instead of $20. The price is $35 in Brooklyn, while the rates for bonds in Queens County have been raised to $55, and for Coney Island to $100.

In risky cases, where a saloon keeper is known to have violated the law, the price asked has gone up to $300, and in some cases as high as $500 for furnishing an eighteen-hundred-dollar bond.

Missing Man Found Drowned.

The body of J. P. Morgan, 60 years old, of 7 Patchen Place, Manhattan, was found yesterday on the shore at the foot of Forty-sixth Street, Brooklyn. The police of the Fourth Avenue Station, Brooklyn, found a card with the name and address upon it, and inquiry at Police Headquarters in Manhattan showed that Morgan had been reported there as missing from his home.

Mrs. Valentina Sentenced Again.

Mrs. Anna Valentina, convicted of the murder of Rosa Salza, was sentenced to death yesterday for the third time. The U. S. Supreme Court has upheld the conviction.

WANT LESS HOSPITAL WORK.

Superintendents of Nurses Feel They Need More Special Classes.

The twelfth annual meeting of the American Society of Superintendents of Training Schools for Nurses opened yesterday at the Academy of Medicine, 17 West Forty-third Street. The address of welcome was made by ex-Mayor Seth Low. He spoke upon the need of a special course for those who are to be Superintendents of training schools. The Superintendents of such schools, he said, must be teachers as well as nurses, and they need both kinds of training.

Miss Annie W. Goodrich of the New York Hospital, the President of the association, then made an address. She said in part:

"We are indeed deeply appreciative of the need for varied training. We have to do with a great many classes of people. There is the college girl, often so full of theories that it is difficult to teach her to be practical. There is the enthusiastic girl, who in spite of her enthusiasm is so deficient in early schooling that it seems almost impossible to train her to be a nurse. Then there is the sentimental girl, and the religious—all with some special peculiarity to be considered.

"So deeply do we feel the need of special training that I think a good many of us have become convinced of the need of eliminating a great deal of the obligatory hospital service. The courses are overcrowded too much as things are. There are too many evening classes. A great many of us feel that in order to secure the best training our pupils should not have to do so much hospital work. I do not pretned to say how this is to be brought about, but it seems to me that some time or other we shall have a great central school in which our pupils shall be trained for several hours every day in the theory of their profession."

TO RUSH HOBOKEN TERMINAL.

Effect of Rapid Transit Agreement—To Return McAdoo Consents.

The agreement between the Public Service Corporation, the McAdoo tunnel interests, and the Pennsylvania Railroad in the matter of rapid transit between Newark and Ne wYork has brought to an end the fight for terminal rights in Hoboken betwee nthe McAdoo people and the Public Service Corporation, which has been in the courts for some time.

The work of building the terminal station in Hoboken will be resumed at once, according to a statement given out yesterday by President McAdoo of the tunnel companies. Another result of the amicable settlement of the disputes will be the abandonment of the tunnel companies' scheme for a trolley system of its own through the streets of the Hudson County cities.

Mr. McAdoo said yesterday that his company would return to property holders from whom they had been obtained all the consents his street railway project had received. The consents were obtained on the condition that they were only for the use of the independent company.

MAY RAISE $50,000,000.

Pennsylvania Railroad Will Soon Need a Large Sum.

"The Pennsylvania Railroad, as soon as money market conditions permit, will raise a substantial amount of money to provide for the cost of various improvements which the road has undertaken and probably to cover the Pennsylvania's share of the recent issue of $27,750,000 of Baltimore & Ohio common stock. This was admited yesterday by those in a position to speak authoritatively in such maters for the Pennsylvania Railroad, but it was said that any statement at this time in regard to the amount of this financing or the form of the securities to be issued was mere guesswork.

According to the specific reports circulated yesterday the Pennsylvania's borrowings will amount to something between $35,000,000 and $50,000,000 and will be arranged by an issue of short time notes. It has been announced by the management of the road that the Directors do not propose to issue any more stock or convertible bonds this year, and to this statement was attributed yesterday the assumption that the financing would take the form of short time notes.

The Pennsylvania's share of the new issue of Baltimore & Ohio common stock will call for the payment of about $8,000,000, and it is believed that provision for this sum will be made at the same time that the company's improvement work is provided for.

It was suggested yesterday that the company might issue bonds rather than notes, but the present unfavorable position of the bond market is apparently a bar to the permanent financing of improvements at this time.

BINGHAM NOT SATISFIED.

Chinatown Gambling Raids on Insufficient Evidence Don't Please Him.

Commissioner Bingham declared yesterday that he was not satisfied with the results of the raids on gambling dens in Chinatown on Tuesday, after which all the prisoners were discharged for lack of evidence.

"I wish we could do better," he said, "but I would much rather get the big burglars, the pickpockets, and the thugs than the Chinatown gamblers.

"I have received frequent complaints asking me to stop gambling in Chinatown. I believe the police should go about the collecting of evidence in a perfectly legal manner. People are all the time taiking about poolrooms, poolrooms, poolrooms. There are other things of equal importance."

It was said that there would be an inspection of the Chinatown districts for the purpose of seeing just what the police of the Elizabeth Street Station are doing there. The failure of the police to get evidence before they raided the gambling houses must be explained, it was declared.

Steamship Marco Minghetti Overdue.

There were a number of inquiries at the offices of Hirzel, Feltman & Co., 5 Broadway, agtents of the Florio Steamship Line, yesterday, for the steamship Marco Minghetti, now several days overdue from Naples. The liner should have reached here on Wednesday of last week. She has on board about 750 steerage passengers. Rough weather or some accident to her machinery is believed to be the reason for the delay.

Elderly Woman Missing.

The police have issued a general alarm for Mrs. Ellen White, eighty-four years old, of 26 West Ninety-seventh street, who is five feet three inches in height, has gray wavy hair, dark complexion, hazel eyes, and mole on her under lip. She wore a black waist and skirt, black bonnet and lace shoes.

THREE AMERICANS WIN IN OLYMPIC CONTESTS

Daniels Scores First Triumph in 100-Yard Swimming Race.

NEW RECORD FOR SHERIDAN

Ray C. Ewry Takes Standing Broad Jump—Four Qualify in Both 100 and 800 Meter Races.

ATHENS, April 25.—C. M. Daniels of the New York Athletic Club won the first American triumph in the Olympic games to-day, capturing the final heat of the 100-yard swimming race over de Halmay, the great Austrian, by a yard after a pretty contest. Setting the pace from the start and swimming well within his strength, the wonderful American was never threatened apparently, keeping his distance ahead of de Halmay all the way. The Austrian drew away with him from the remainder of the field, and finished well ahead of Healey, the Australian, who beat Darbyshire, the English crack, for third place. Otto Schwarts, the Western swimmer, was not placed. The time, 1:13, might have been lessened by Daniels had he so desired.

As the American crossed the finish line the Star-Spangled Banner was raised by his enthusiastic countrymen, who cheered him to the echo. This ceremony was repeated many times during the day when the preliminaries of the track and field events were started in the Stadium and American after American scored in the trial heats. It was well received by the big crowd that assembled to witness the contests. It joined in the cheering until every American victory became the signal for an ovation.

There was nothing in the results of this the first day of the preliminary contests to lessen the confidence that has been the distinguishing feature of the American over every other athletic camp here. The principal honors went to Martin J. Sheridan of New York, who in the discus throwing made a new world's record. The discus was thrown in the free style to which the Americans were accustomed, and Sheridan displayed great skill. His performances were consistently good, and the best registered 41 meters and 46 centimeters, equal to about 138 feet. Second place went to Greece, Giorgantas, the national champion, throwing 38 meters and 6 centimeters, while Japviners of Finland was third, with 36 meters and 82 centimeters.

Ray C. Ewry of the New York Athletic Club won the third American triumph with a jump of 3 meters and 39 centimeters in the standing broad jump, equal to 11 feet 1½ inches. There was none in his class in the contest, M. J. Sheridan and Lawson Robertson, his team mates, taking second and third with 3 metres 9½ centimeters, and 3 meters 5 centimeters respectively. These victories, with a succession of triumphs in the trials which qualified the men to race to-morrow, were the sum of the American achievements.

There were 68,000 people gathered in the Stadium in the afternoon for the track and field contests. King George attended, and with him Princes Constantine, George, and Nicholas. The King took a keen interest in the conduct of the games, and personally supervised most of the arrangements. The scene, with the vast crowd surrounding the inclosure, was a magnificent one, enhanced by the placing on the rear tier of the great inclosure a solid phalanx of soldiers, girt in complete armor. From the shining breastplates and hemlets the sun was reflected in dazzling splendor, lending a never-to-be-forgotten color to the scene.

The sprint races were among the first events contested. In these five of the heats were won by Americans. W. A. Schick, W. D. Eaton, Archie Hahn, Fay R. Moulton, and Lawson Robertson were the winners. Queyrouze was the only American unplaced of the entire lot of their sprinters. England, too, fared well, R. C. Reed, A. H. Healey, and S. Abrahams all winning in their heats. The semi-finals reduced the number to compete in the finals to-morrow to six, and of these the Americans captured four places. They furnished winners for each of the three heats and one second man, while the Englishmen were retired in every case. Nigel Barker, the Australian, however, won a place, and is considered a very dangerous man. Lindberg was the other athlete to get a place.

Archie Hahn of Milwaukee won the first heat in 11 2-5 seconds, with Lawson Robertson of New York Athletic Club second. W. D. Eaton of Cambridgeport had Barker for an opponent, and beat him to the tape in 11 3-5 seconds. Fay Moulton of Kansas City won the third heat in the same time, with Lindberg second. The failure of Schick of Harvard to win a place was a big surprise.

In the 800-meter race which followed as notable successes were won. Four men qualified in this event, the only one to fail being Valentine of the New York Athletic Club, who has been a bit off color. James D. Lightbody of Chicago won the first heat, with Charles J. Bacon of the Irish-American Athletic Club second. No American was placed in the second heat, Hellstrom, the Swede, winning from Lieut. Halswell, the great English runner, through an error of the latter at the turn into the home stretch. R. P. Crabbe, the great Cambridge University runner, beat the Yale champion, Eli Parsons, home in the third heat, but Parsons of course qualified, while Paul H. Pilgrim of the Pastime Athletic Club won the fourth heat from John Runge, the German. It is not considered that either Runge or Hellstrom will be in the race to-morrow, but the two Englishmen are deemed very dangerous by the Americans, who, however, are counting much on the wonderful form shown by Lightbody, their flaxen-haired runner.

The only reverses suffered by the Americans were in the five-mile race and in the pole vault. In the former their defeat was expected, none comparing with the great Englishman, Lieut. Hawtrey. He won easily in 26:11 4-5, with over a lap to spare on his nearest competitor, who, to the surprise of every one, was a Swede. His achievement was cheered to the echo.

In the pole vault, however, the Americans hoped for success in spite of the fact that the world's record holder, Gonder, the French vaulter, was a contestant. The champion won, though he was far below his capabilities. He cleared 3 meters and 50 centimeters, which is equal only to about 11 feet 5¾ inches. Sunderstrom, the Swede, was second. Glover, the American, had to be content with third, only clearing 3 meters 35 centimeters, or a trifle under 11 feet.

MISS ANGLIN SUES RAILWAY.

Seeks to Recover from New Haven Road for Broken Arm.

Through the filing of a suit yesterday in the United States Court by Hazelton & Hazelton, lawyers of 220 Broadway, it was learned that Miss Margaret Anglin, the actress, now playing in this city, was hurt in a railway accident last Summer.

Miss Anglin asks $50,000 damages. Her complaint states that on July 23 last she was driving a a pair of ponies in Stamford, Conn. The New York, New Haven and Hartford Railway passes through that section of Stamford on an elevated structure, but has a surface track a few yards away. Miss Anglin drove under the elevated road, and just as her carriage reached the surface track, an engine hidden by the elevated road, struck the wagon and overturned it. Miss Anglin was thrown out, her arm broken, and she was otherwise injured.

Judge's Wheel Stolen.

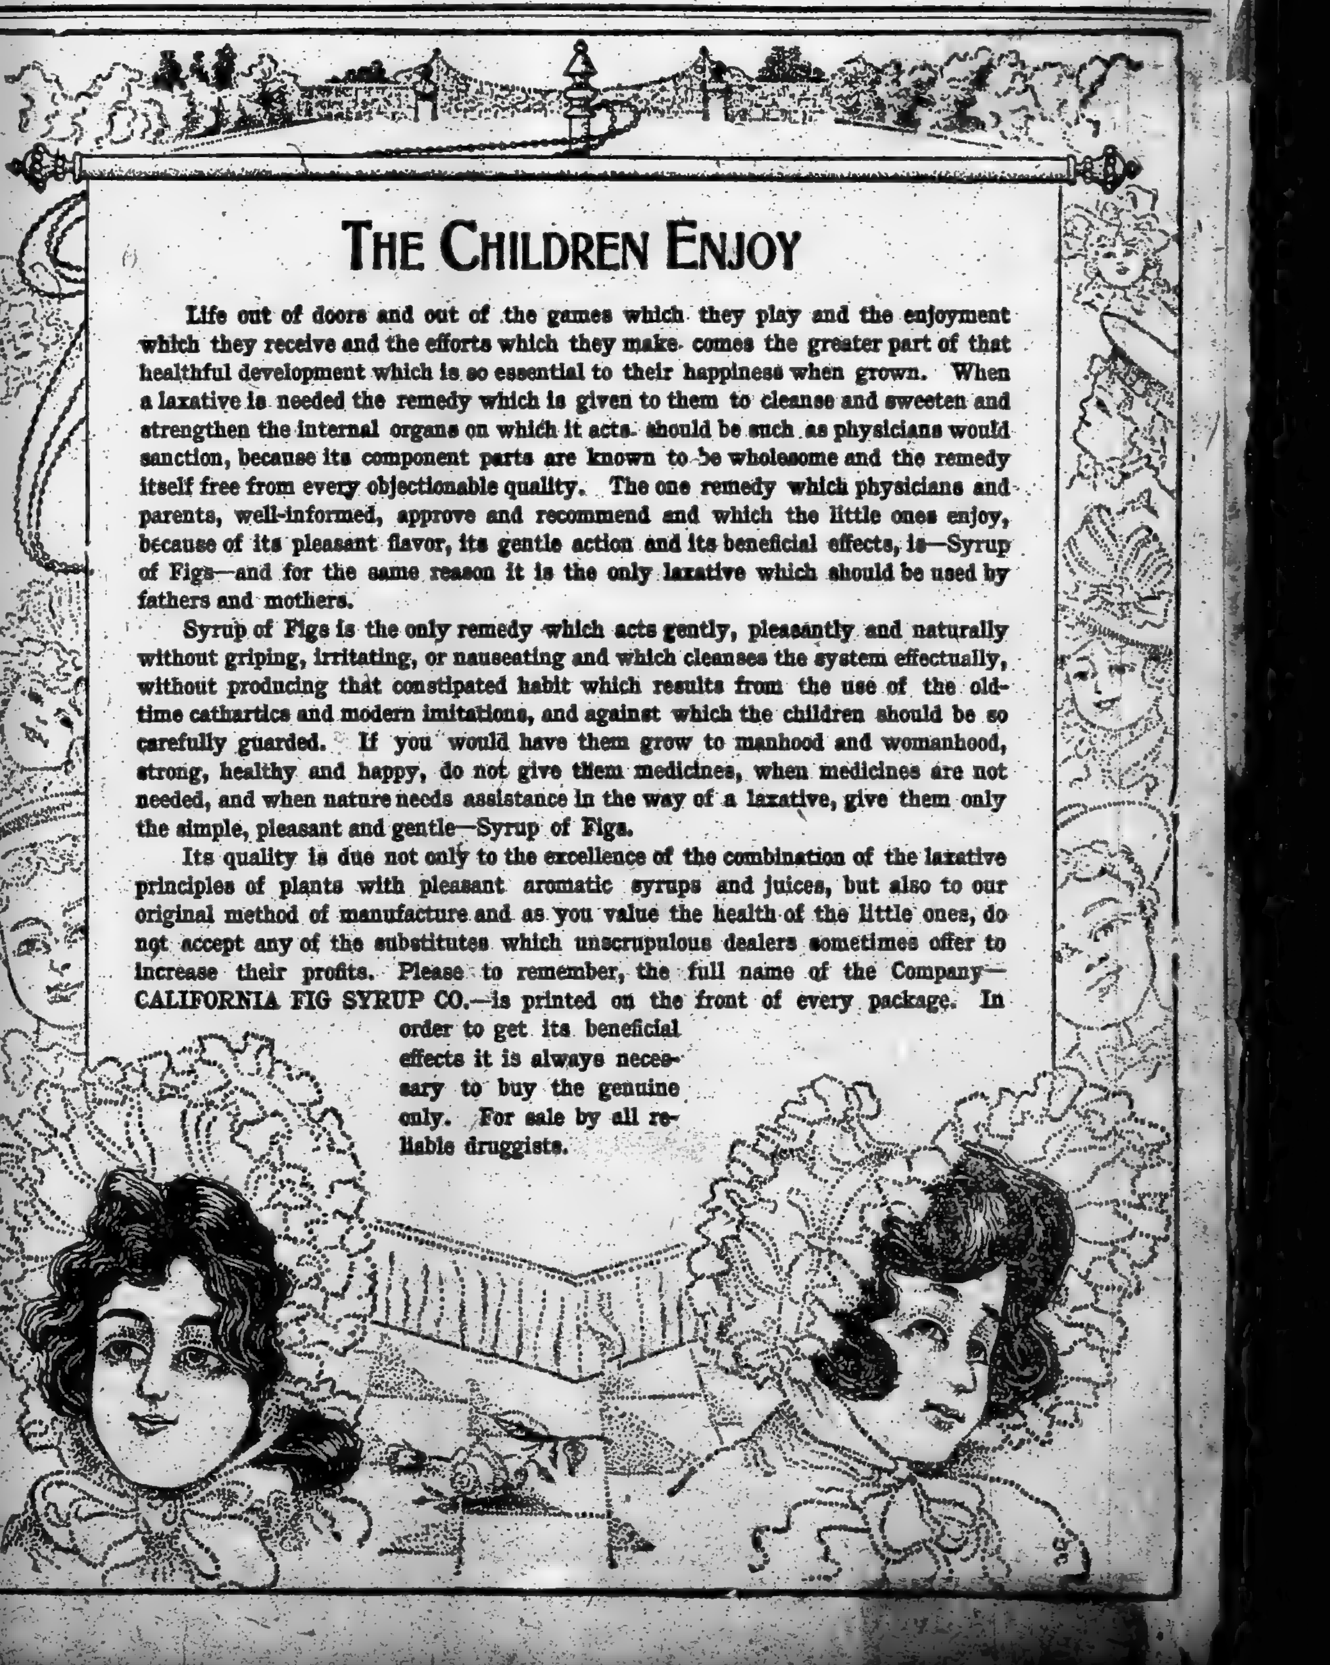
Judge Charles W. Parker, of the Circuit Court, Jersey City, has decided that he will no longer make the run from his home to the courthouse and back on a bicycle. The reason is that while he was holding court yesterday his wheel was stolen. This is his second loss, the first wheel having been stolen three months ago.

POLICE AT A WEDDING.

The Undertaker Bridegroom Had Received a Threatening Letter.

Four Newark policemen were present at the wedding in St. Peter's Catholic Church, Newark, yesterday, of Charles J. Guenther, an undergraduate of 92 Newark Street, and Miss Rose Scharffenberger. Just before the wedding Guenther received an anonymous letter in a feminine hand in which the writer threatened him.

Guenther reported the matter to the police and the policemen were on hand for the ceremony, which passed off without any interference.



THE CHILDREN ENJOY

Life out of doors and out of the games which they play and the enjoyment which they receive and the efforts which they make comes the greater part of that healthful development which is so essential to their happiness when grown. When a laxative is needed the remedy which is given to them to cleanse and sweeten and strengthen the internal organs on which it acts should be such as physicians would sanction, because its component parts are known to be wholesome and the remedy itself free from every objectionable quality. The one remedy which physicians and parents, well-informed, approve and recommend and which the little ones enjoy, because of its pleasant flavor, its gentle action and its beneficial effects, is—Syrup of Figs—and for the same reason it is the only laxative which should be used by fathers and mothers.

Syrup of Figs is the only remedy which acts gently, pleasantly and naturally without griping, irritating, or nauseating and which cleanses the system effectually, without producing that constipated habit which results from the use of the old-time cathartics and modern imitations, and against which the children should be so carefully guarded. If you would have them grow to manhood and womanhood, strong, healthy and happy, do not give them medicines, when medicines are not needed, and when nature needs assistance in the way of a laxative, give them only the simple, pleasant and gentle—Syrup of Figs.

Its quality is due not only to the excellence of the combination of the laxative principles of plants with pleasant aromatic syrups and juices, but also to our original method of manufacture and as you value the health of the little ones, do not accept any of the substitutes which unscrupulous dealers sometimes offer to increase their profits. Please to remember, the full name of the Company—CALIFORNIA FIG SYRUP CO.—is printed on the front of every package. In order to get its beneficial effects it is always necessary to buy the genuine only. For sale by all reliable druggists.

FOR SAN FRANCISCO.

Like the disaster that evoked it, the relief movement for San Francisco's sufferers surpasses all previous exhibitions of the spirit of charity in our history, and transcends the utmost achievement of like nature that history anywhere puts to the credit of humanity. In one week from the day on which San Francisco was ravaged by shock and flame the Nation's sympathy and generosity had given $14,000,000 for the relief of the homeless and destitute people of the stricken city. In the world's annals there is nothing like it.

The giving was altogether spontaneous. Nobody remembers any particular appeal for help. The quick sense of the people as they read of the crumbling buildings, of the burned homes, of trade crushed out, of industries prostrate, and of pervading ruin and desolation told them that prompt aid must be given. Their beneficence anticipated all appeal and exhortation, and the volume of their bounty quickly rose to the measure of the affliction that called it forth.

What a sweeping correction of careless popular misjudgment! What a crushing rebuke for the base, conscienceless calumniators of the American people, with mean minds and foul pens portraying for pay an imaginary race of hyena-humans and palming them off upon the public as typical examples of the business and official life of this Nation! The men they have villified were the first and largest givers. The fortunes they have denounced as culpable have put bread in the mouths and roofs over the heads of men and women and little children, who, but for them, would be sleeping supperless in San Francisco's parks, exposed to cold rain and night wind. The City of New York, which the scavengers with muck-rakes have depicted as the very abode of Mammon, as a city of men wholly given over to the frenzied pursuit of money, without hearts, without pity, without fear of any law, despoilers of the poor—this city of New York has sent $2,500,000 for the relief of San Francisco.

The spectacle of suffering was the "touch of nature" that made all this people kin. A Nation that gives fourteen millions in a week to lessen the pain of the bereaved and afflicted is not calloused, its humanity is not cankered and shriveled. The American people are big-hearted. Their treatment of San Francisco is magnificent.

SUBWAY FRANCHISE PAYMENTS.

There must have been a dozen lawyers engaged in the preparation of the contract executed by the city for the construction and operation of the Subway. They mulled over it for months. It was a prodigious big document, too, filling a printed book of 180 pages. Yet this contract is now pretty certainly on its way to the courts for interpretation upon some fairly wide-open questions of doubt and difficulty.

Controller METZ asks the Interborough Company to pay over 1 per cent. of the city's $45,200,000 of bonds as a contribution to the sinking fund called for by the terms of the contract, which provides for such a payment, save that it shall be exacted during the first five years only if the contractors' profits amount to more than 5 per cent. a year. Mr. METZ figures out about 7 per cent. profits for the Subway. Mr. BELMONT replies that the profits are only 3.04 per cent. He reaches this result by deducting $1,249,458 rental to the city, representing interest on the bonds from the gross earnings remaining after deducting operating expenses from gross receipts. Mr. METZ contends that this rental payment on bond interest should not be deducted before estimating the percentage of earnings.

The contract declares that "the operating expenses of the road shall include actual expenditures for repairs and maintenance and interest on borrowed money." Whose borrowed money: the company's or the city's? The money that built the Subway was borrowed by the city. Does the language of the contract apply to city borrowing or only to company borrowing? Further, the contract declares that "the profits shall be determined by deducting from the gross receipts the operating expenses as above defined." This throws no light on the subject, since it does not remedy the defect of the prior definition.

Mr. BELMONT may convince the courts that rental is an operating expense, but we presume the city will inquire with some diligence into the composition of his capital account amounting to $36,000,000. This includes "capital stock to acquire Subway lease, $12,100,000." How was that sum fixed? Nominally Mr. McDONALD had the lease. Did the company pay him $12,100,000 for it? Who appraised its value, and by what process? The percentage of annual earnings, of course, depends upon the amount of capital. Fictitious investment figures upon "prospective values" would work an injustice to the city.

WHAT IS "ENORMOUS" WEALTH?

The question that Mr. ROOSEVELT raised in his Washington speech of the 14th was indirectly discussed by Mr. TAFT in his address at Yale. It is the question of taxing the transmission of "enormous" fortunes. Mr. TAFT is much milder than the President in the language employed and in the suggestions made. He merely says that it "may very well be that the enormous accumulation of money in the hands of individuals has reached such a point that it would be wiser to discourage its continuance by heavy inheritance tax or other methods." He does not say that it would be wiser; only that it very well may be. Mr. ROOSEVELT, on the other hand, avowed his "personal conviction" that we "shall ultimately have to consider" some scheme "to put it out of the power of the owner of one of these enormous fortunes to hand over more than a certain amount to any one individual," and this scheme he would apply to wealth "beyond a certain amount, either given in life or devised or bequeathed upon death to any individual." The difference, it will be seen, between the view of the President and that of his Secretary of War is marked. When the latter declares that "neither at the common law nor under the Constitution" is there any obstacle to carrying out his somewhat vaguely supported suggestion, he does not by any means include the President's plan. On the contrary, we imagine it might bother a man who has been a dozen years on the bench to indorse the notion that Congress can "put it out of the power" of any living property owner to give more than an arbitrarily fixed amount of his property to any one person. That is what the President says it is his "personal conviction" that we shall "have to consider."

There is, however, one point in common between Mr. ROOSEVELT and Mr. TAFT. Both plainly declare that there is such a thing as enormity in wealth; both speak of "enormous fortunes," and both—one tentatively, the other emphatically—suggest a limitation to the transmission of wealth beyond an amount to be determined by legislation. It now remains for them to give the public their notion of exactly what constitutes offensive, injurious, and dangerous wealth. They owe it to the public to state the tests by which they would detect the evil nature of the property they condemn. Mr. ROOSEVELT talks of a "certain amount," but it is clear that nothing could be more uncertain than the amount which would or could be declared punishable by fine. The Senate, for example, would be sure to make a very different selection from that of the House; Mr. ROOT, to look at prominent statesmen, would probably have a standard quite other than the Secretary of War or the Secretary of Agriculture; the late Secretary of the Navy might take a different view now from that he would have taken a couple of years ago. The men who have quietly given out of their private means sums of from $20,000 to $100,000 to the sufferers in San Francisco might reckon the enormity of wealth on a very different scale from that of persons of ordinary possessions. And for the variety of conceptions entertained a vast variety of reasons would be given. What test that is convincing or even intelligible can the two distinguished gentlemen who are discussing the matter suggest? We are sure they would differ between themselves, but they ought each to explain.

YELLOW DIAMONDS FOR WHITE.

We remark that there has been quite a shakeup, or rather shakedown, in security prices. Also there has been less demand for call money and greater demand for time money, the former getting out of hearing of the 30 per cent. we still remember as a portent, and the latter getting within hail of 6 per cent. To some the slump in prices may seem really important. We prefer to emphasize the change in the money markets.

The last reports of the crop prospects were best. For February we see railway earnings showing an increase double any recent year for gross, and triple for net. We are proposing to let down the tariff bars because our mills cannot supply the San Francisco demand. Labor is setting its own price. There is almost nothing unsold, and nobody unwillingly idle. These conditions may change, or rather must change. Then our opinions will change; but it is unnecessary to change them sooner, unless some prophet or seer can read in Wall Street's vagaries an indication of impending doom.

There has been some real selling of a necessitous sort and prices have reflected it. Accepting the fall as reflection of San Francisco's trouble, and assuming it to continue, it nevertheless demands no pessimistic construction. The Nation's consuming power is not crippled, dividends are not threatened, and the profits of trade are not in danger.

Conditions are wholesomer. There is less demand for call money because the lessening of the prospects of profit in a rising market has put speculators of that sort out of the running. If there were no demand for time money, the phenomena might bear ominous interpretation; but a good demand for long-time accommodation, with such conditions of trade and industry as we are enjoying, affrights no old hand. Money is not wanted to bolster credit, or to pay unearned dividends. Money is wanted to pay out for labor and materials, and there is nothing depressing about that. It might be depressing if it seemed probable that the money could not be found.

Last week that did seem probable. There were hundreds of millions of the choicest securities which were unattainable except by bidding absurd prices. They are now being marked down, and they are not worth a cent less, judged by yield. The garnerings of the security market for a generation are now being offered, but not necessarily in the public mart. The real sales by the managers of the insurance companies are not made to a brass-band accompaniment, and in a manner to spoil their own market. In quiet parlors the matter will be arranged, quite possibly even below the prices current, but not for that reason in a manner to profit the ingenuous sellers of what they do not own. The insurance companies are not selling the choice lot of speculative properties thrown overboard nowadays, but pools are unloading them and exchanging their yellow diamonds for white.

MR. HARRY H. BENDER.

The Court of Appeals has decided that Mr. HARRY H. BENDER must submit to an investigation by the State Civil Service Commission as to charges of violation of the civil service law in the matter of levying political assessments.

His case is a remarkable one, and shows in a manner more striking than agreeable how the law may be made to delay rather than to secure and expedite justice. The evidence that BENDER had violated the law was submitted to the Civil Service Commission months ago, and it was regarded by the Commission as ample to require the investigation asked for. The time for the investigation was set, and Mr. BENDER agreed to appear before the Commission. When he did so, it was by counsel, who put in a plea of want of authority in the Commission on grounds that to the lay mind appeared absolutely silly. The question was referred to the Attorney General, as the legal adviser of the board, and he, in duly formal and polite language, rendered substantially the opinion we have above expressed. Then the interposition of a Justice of the Supreme Court was obtained, and in one form and another a series of decisions, all in substance the same as that of the Attorney General, were given. The Governor, in the meantime, kindly awaited the last word of the courts, though it was open to him at any moment to set in operation an investigation of his own to ascertain the fitness of his appointee to retain the trust confided to him.

Now it is to be hoped that the matter will vigorously be pressed. The charges against BENDER are very serious. If he be found guilty of the offenses charged he ought promptly to be dismissed from the public service. Of this there is no room for doubt. Whether he has rendered himself liable to indictment, assuming that the charges are true, we are not informed, but it will be time to determine that when the investigation by the Civil Service Commission is concluded.

COLON'S WATER SUPPLY.

Mr. SHONTS, Chairman of the Isthmian Canal Commission, has just arrived from the scene of the dirt-flying operations with gratifying intelligence. A water train has been equipped to carry 250,000 gallons of water daily to Colon, where it is furnished free to all applicants. Water costs nothing to anybody there except a moderate railway charge to those who insist upon being supplied with the peculiar sort of water which they fancy, just as a similar charge is made for table water here.

This is a gratifying statement to be made upon such high authority. There is no longer any sort of anxiety about a matter which had occupied Secretary TAFT's attention, and respecting which there was an exchange of compliments and contradictions between himself and Mr. POULTNEY BIGELOW. It will be remembered that Secretary TAFT stated upon the authority of Gov. MAGOON that on April 1 a permanent reservoir would be supplying as much as was needed of a capacity of 500,000,000 gallons through two standpipes of a capacity of 900,000 gallons. We gather from Mr. SHONTS's statement that the reservoir and the standpipes have been abandoned as useless. A water train is better in every way. It encourages economy, whereas, as everybody knows, when water is supplied through pipes and faucets it is largely wasted. There is no sort of trouble about transporting by railway all the water needed for drinking and cooking, and reckless waste for washing or other purposes is discouraged. The entire cost of the reservoir and standpipes may now be saved or diverted to the canal. The character of the story that there was ever any intention of building any such waterworks, to be opened upon any such significant date as All Fools' Day, is revealed from the selection of such a date.

Mr. SHONTS made no direct statement to that effect, but we may infer that there is now no congestion of the railway. A water train would hardly be placed upon the route unless all traffic was moving freely in both directions and the transcontinental monopoly were thereby supplied with effective competition. Chairman SHONTS being undoubtedly in a position to know the exact facts, it is not for us to adjust the contradiction between him and Secretary TAFT and Gov. MAGOON, not to mention POULTNEY BIGELOW. It was on Jan. 8 that Secretary TAFT pulverized Mr. BIGELOW, and the water is not running through those pipes yet, although Secretary TAFT accused Mr. BIGELOW of falsifying respecting this specific matter. Time sets all things right.

Why does no newspaper of to-day take for itself the name "The Seismograph"? It were a far more significant name than "The Times," "The World," "The Tribune"—that is, more significant of the supreme function of the press of to-day, which is to keep its ear close to the most delicate vibrations of the universal life of humanity all around the globe, and thus to focus in its own centre every slightest jar or ripple of indication from India, China, Europe, America.—The Boston Herald.

Why does not our modest contemporary speak for itself? Seismograph is significant, intellectual, mouth-filling; it would be relished by the Bostonese. Besides, in Boston the instrument would be pivoted at the very centre of these universal jars and harmonies.

Postmaster General CORTELYOU's new postal note of small denominations, designed to obviate the business necessity of transmitting stamps through the mails in lieu of coins, includes special forms for 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, and 9 cents, to be sold at their face value without a fee. The regular postal notes would represent sums from 10, 20, and 25 cents, graded by fives and tens up to $1, besides notes of $1.50, $2, and $2.50. Mr. CORTELYOU has asked Congress to appropriate $150,000 to establish the change, commencing with the new fiscal year on July 1.

Charges of extravagant expenditure directed against the Mayor's non-partisan Water Board are best answered by the Commission's report to April 9. It states that an effective organization has been completed, extensive tests and surveys have been made, plans have been matured, and the Board is fully prepared to "push active construction vigorously" immediately upon the acceptance of the city's application by the State Water Commission. Of the preliminary appropriation for a year and a half, $229,271 has been actually expended during the first nine months.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

"Local Pride" and Its Manifestations.

A marked difference between New York and other cities in the United States is illustrated by the very obvious inclination manifested in the dispatches from San Francisco as much as possible to keep in the background the fact that the militia guards there have made serious mistakes of judgment, and a good many of them, in the exercise of the practically limitless authority which for a few days had to be intrusted to them. Even the killing of Major TILDEN, which seems to have been a particularly bad piece of business and quite inexcusable, is lightly passed over, and the hasty dismissal of the militiamen and the substitution for them of the regular army men are left almost without explanation. Yet it is evident that there has been a good deal of entirely needless shooting at the distracted citizens, as well as some that was justifiable, and that the killings have been comparatively few is probably due chiefly to the poor marksmanship of those who made such misuse of unaccustomed weapons. Had such things happened here the fullest details would have been given, without a thought of what outsiders thought about it, and the men who made the mistakes, instead of being sent home with perfunctory thanks, would have been held to some sort of responsibility for their acts. The difference is due to what is called our lack of local pride. Of course there is no lack here of that excellent quality, but New York has such confidence in itself that it considers concealments and smoothings-over unnecessary and leaves all forms of secrecy to its criminal classes. The two methods of conducting municipal affairs are the result of different conditions and needs, and as each has its merits, so each has its faults. San Francisco, not long ago, refused for months to admit the existence within its limits of more than a few cases of bubonic plague, and it has ever frowned upon any public discussion of its very frequent little earthquakes. Now we are vehemently assured that the health situation in the city is practically perfect, and that there is not the slightest danger of a typhoid epidemic. Yet the conditions for some days will necessarily be very far from ideal, and the peril from typhoid will end only when the refugee camps are emptied. In them, with such occupants, proper sanitary precautions, even under the stern rule of the regular army, will be almost impossible. Optimism is excellent, but a frank recognition of facts is, on the whole, much better, and "business" very rarely finds permanent profit in concealment of any kind.

A Message Is the Last Resort.

Vigorous and accurate as was the Governor's denunciation of the Coggeshall Rake-Off bill it was not enough to frighten the Senate Codes Committee into reporting out the Cassidy-Lansing bill extending the State Constitution to the race tracks. It did make the members of the committee a little nervous, however, and yesterday they went through the form of taking a vote on the measure which they were supposed to have buried forever in their deepest pigeonhole. The thing was done very carefully, and the adverse result desired was neatly attained. Four Senators, one less than the required number, voted to report the bill. They were, according to report, HILL, HINMAN, L'HOMMEDIEU, and MARKS. Two, SAXE and GARDNER, had the courage to vote "no," one, BRACKETT of Saratoga, declined to vote, and two, the virtuous ELSBERG and Brooklyn's eminent MCCARREN, were absent. Far be it from us to say that they stayed away, for all that we know is that they were not present when the vote was taken, and it may be that the two statesmen had business to attend to more important than this little matter of the gambling monopoly. There the little matter rests, however, and as Senator CASSIDY seems to have lost all interest in what used to interest him so much the only chance for further action at this session lies in a special message from the Governor calling the Legislature's attention to the unquestionable fact that the Codes Committee has "considered" this bill quite long enough. It would take some courage to send in such a message, for it would seriously annoy various politically influential persons in various parts of the State, but as the Governor's veto of the Coggeshall bill showed, he does not lack boldness, and he is perfectly well informed as to the nature of the situation. His lecturing of the agricultural societies and all connected with them was a scorching one, and, besides, now that those societies have been deprived of the extra revenues by which their wakening consciences were last soothed to sleep, perhaps their affection for race track gambling has cooled a little. At any rate, it seems as if the effect of a special message would be worth trying. It would at least cause an enjoyable excitement where now there exists only a vague uneasiness.

SMALL TALK OF WASHINGTON.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—Senator Aldrich approached Senator Bailey to-day with a fatherly, gentle smile. He exuded simplicity, open-mindedness, love of his kind, sweet reasonableness at every pore.

"Bailey," he said, "let us agree, just to avoid unnecessary wrangling, and hasten this Rate bill to a swift conclusion, that when we reach the amendments we vote upon them without debate. I propose that as a business proposition, as much in the interest of your side as of mine. I suppose, of course, you will see no objection to that. It's all right, isn't it?"

He looked at Bailey with an air of engaging candor, distinctly resembling Santa Claus. Bailey, who is a rude, cynical sort of person, gave a coarse laugh.

"Ha, Ha!" he said. "And then you can run in any amendment you want, and we won't have a chance to show it up."

Mr. Aldrich returned to his seat looking grieved. His confidence in human nature had received a harsh shock.

When Gov. Edwin Warfield of Maryland was making his speech at the Paul Jones ceremonies at Annapolis yesterday, he recounted the names of the great naval heroes of American history and wound up with that of "Winfield Scott Schley." In Maryland any man can produce the same effect with Schley's name that you can get by talking about the Alamo in Texas. The audience went straight up in the air and has only just begun to come down.

Admiral Dewey, the only one of Schley's judges who decided in his favor, went up in the air as high as anybody there. He pounded his hands together in rapturous enthusiasm and shouted. President Roosevelt, who upheld the other judges and decided the case adversely to Schley, sat looking grimly in front of him.

A well-known New Yorker came to Washington this morning with a dark-blue grouch beclouding his usually sunny countenance. Although he is not a holder of public office, he has never, unless perhaps recently, lost that interest in Republican politics that has kept him usually well informed as to what was going on below the Harlem. Consequently the first question that was fired at him to-day was:

"What's new over in your town?"

"New!" he snorted. "What could be new? With this man up here in the White House, who can't make up his mind whether he wants to run for the Presidency again or be a United States Senator or President emeritus or head of Harvard College or what else, and making muck-rake speeches that get such a response as San Francisco has just given, what could be new?"

And with that the genial New Yorker pulled his felt hat down over his eyes and disappeared into the gloom.

The tumultuous discussion of free seeds or no free seeds had come to a close for the day, and a Committee of the Whole of the House on the State of the Union had risen. Speaker Cannon was again in the Chair. It was the time for the usual run of unanimous consent business, and John Sharp Williams, leader of the minority, had taken his place in a front row, ready to fire in his "I object" at the first request, following out his announced programme of preventing unanimous consent business until the Statehood bill is battered out of conference.

Uncle Joe stood in his favorite attitude, on one foot, with the other resting in the chair behind him, and his cheerful glance caught the alert attitude of the great objector. With a thump of the gavel he handed a bill to the clerk and said: "The Chair lays before the House the following bill, which the clerk will read":

Away rattled the clerk, reading at sixty miles an hour without a stop for breath. Williams sat with his hand at his ear, as if striving to catch what it was all about, and an expression of wondering perplexity on his face. The clerk finished reading.

"Those in favor say 'Aye,' those opposed 'No,' the ayes have it," said Uncle Joe.

Bang went the gavel and the bill was passed. Half a minute more and the trick had been repeated, with Williams, still in a trance, looking on without a word of protest.

"Shucks," said Uncle Joe to Grosvenor, as the House adjourned, "what's the use of unanimous consent?"

Hillburn, N. Y., April 24, 1906.

The Kaiser's Horse.

From The Chicago Evening Post.

A new crime has been duly catalogued in the German statutes. It is now considered a flagrant example of lese majeste to speak disrespectfully of any horse from the imperial stables, and a stableman, who applied a vile epithet to the favorite mare of the Kaiser, has been sent to prison for three weeks. This would indicate that divinity doth hedge not only a King, but his stables as well, and is a fine object lesson in decorum and general deportment. A society for the prevention of cruelty to animals is certainly not needed in circles controlled by his German Majesty.

Significant.

From The Louisville Courier-Journal.

A significant feature of the present controversy between mine owners and workers has been the evident desire of each side to win the support of public opinion. Both have been eager to present their cases and to issue statements calculated to meet with popular approval. The realization has come to them that public opinion is a potential influence and that neither side can hope to last unless it has back of it that influence.

MR. CARNEGIE'S VIEWS.

Now, as Years Ago, for Taxing Rich Estates Heavily at Death.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

THE TIMES asked for my views of graduated taxes upon great estates. I cannot do better than refer you to the following from "The Gospel of Wealth," published sixteen years ago. I have seen no reason to change these views. Mr. Gladstone shared them fully, and I am glad to welcome the latest and most conspicuous apostle—the President.

ANDREW CARNEGIE.

The following, marked by Mr. Carnegie, is taken from the article mentioned by him, which appeared in The North American Review of June, 1889:

"It is not suggested that men who have failed to educate their sons to earn a livelihood shall cast them adrift in poverty. If any man has seen fit to rear his sons with a view to their living idle lives, or, what is highly commendable, has instilled in them the sentiment that they are in a position to labor for public ends without reference to pecuniary considerations, then, of course, the duty of the parent is to see that such are provided for in moderation. There are instances of millionaires' sons unspoiled by wealth, who, being rich, still perform great services to the community. Such are the very salt of the earth, as valuable as, unfortunately, they are rare; it is not the exception, however, but the rule, that men must regard, and, looking at the usual result of enormous sums conferred upon legatees, the thoughtful man must shortly say: 'I would as soon leave to my son a curse as the almighty dollar,' and admit to himself that it is not the welfare of the children, but family pride, which inspires these legacies.

"As to the second mode, that of leaving wealth at death for public uses, it may be said that this is only a means for the disposal of wealth, provided a man is content to wait until he is dead before he becomes of much good in the world. Knowledge of the results of legacies bequeathed is not calculated to inspire the brightest hopes of much posthumous good being accomplished by them. The cases are not few in which the real object sought by the testator is not attained, nor are they few in which his real wishes are thwarted. In many cases the bequests are so used as to become only monuments of his folly. It is well to remember that it requires the exercise of not less ability than that which acquires it to use wealth so as to be really beneficial to the community. Besides this, it may fairly be said that no man is to be extolled for doing what he cannot help doing, nor is he to be thanked by the community to which he only leaves wealth at death. Men who leave vast sums in this way may fairly be thought men who would not have left it at all had they been able to take it with them. The memories of such cannot be held in grateful remembrance, for there is no grace in their gifts. It is not to be wondered at that such bequests seem so generally to lack the blessing.

"The growing disposition to tax more and more heavily large estates left at death is a cheering indication of the growth of a salutary change in public opinion. The State of Pennsylvania now takes—subject to some exceptions—part of the property left by its citizens. The budget presented in the British Parliament the other day proposes to increase the death duties, and, most significant of all, the new tax is to be a graduated one. Of all forms of taxation this seems the wisest. Men who continue hoarding great sums all their lives, the proper use of which for public ends would work good to the community from which it chiefly came, should be made to feel that the community, in the form of the State, cannot thus be deprived of its proper share. By taxing estates heavily at death the State marks its condemnation of the selfish millionaire's unworthy life.

"It is desirable that nations should go much further in this direction. Indeed, it is difficult to set bounds to the share of a rich man's estate which should go at his death to the public through the agency of the State, and by all means such taxes should be graduated, beginning at nothing upon moderate sums to dependents and increasing rapidly as the amounts swell, until of the millionaire's hoard, as of Shylock's, at least

The other half
Comes to the privy coffer of the State.

"This policy would work powerfully to induce the rich man to attend to the administration of wealth during his life, which is the end that society should always have in view, as being by far the most fruitful for the people. Nor need it be feared that this policy would sap the root of enterprise and render men less anxious to accumulate, for, to the class whose ambition it is to leave great fortunes and be talked about after their death, it will attract even more attention, and, indeed, be a somewhat nobler ambition to have enormous sums paid over to the State from their fortunes."

Protest Against Wild Fowl Bill.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The game laws prohibit killing wild ducks and geese in this State after Jan. 1. The law is a wise and economic measure.

For two years Senator Burr from Long Island has endeavored to repeal the anti-Spring duck shooting law, but owing to the strong fight put up by sportsmen from all parts of the State, except Long Island, aided by the Audubon Society, the law still stands. This year Senator Burr is making a third effort. He promised his constituents to repeal the law and he is trying his utmost to "make good." One of the most prominent Senators, who is now and always has been a champion of bird and game protection, has just wired me: "Burr gave notice this morning to suspend rules and pass duck bill. Politics back of it."

This means that the Senator from Long Island is trying to repeal a wise economic law by political pressure. It is necessary for the press and the public to speak out loud and at once or New York State will take a retrograde step that it will take years to overcome. The question of Spring duck shooting has not two sides. It is wasteful to kill wild fowl after they have started north to the breeding grounds, and the only persons who wish to legalize the practice are a few selfishly interested persons on Long Island who have no regard for the problem of the conservation of game. They are for themselves; let the future take care of itself. I hope THE TIMES will ask the public to write or telegraph to the Legislature to kill the Burr bill, Senate No. 515.

War in Houston, Texas.

From The Houston Post.

To think that two boys can fight for fifteen minutes in front of the leading hotel of the city, and carry their battle even across the street, causing 200 wildly interested spectators to blockade the sidewalks and even interfere with traffic in the centre of the street, and not a policeman near enough in all that time to preserve order. It is no wonder that robbers can enter homes in the residence district in daylight, when such things can occur at high noon in the very heart of the city.

GOVERNOR AND GAMBLERS.

Approval of the Veto of the Coggeshall Bill.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The moral sentiment of the State ought to find fullest expression in support of the Governor's veto of the Coggeshall bill to protect gambling on the race tracks.

In a critical hour Edmund Burke called the attention of the people of England to the distinction between bribery of individuals and "the equally degrading and infinitely more dangerous bribery of classes." This bill, with its bold effrontery in containing and increasing the bribe of the rural voters by the distribution of some quarter of a million dollars among the county fairs, is that form of bribery at its lowest, as the Governor has pointed out.

The iniquitous Percy-Gray bill allowing gambling within the race track fences in the face of the constitutional prohibition was, as those who recall the circumstances of its passing, as crooked a piece of legislation as the State has seen, and an outrage upon the decent sentiment of the people. It made legal and gave the warrant of the State to an act on one side of a fence which the State in the most formal way had made illegal on the other side of the fence and everywhere else on the ground of its immorality. We have borne the obloquy of it under the dominion of the magnates of the racing association for upward of a dozen years, and when there seemed to be a chance of repealing it the same influences have so far defeated the effort as to secure the substitution of this Coggeshall bribery bill, as it should be properly called.

The Governor has boldly come to the rescue and in vigorous terms pointed out the fact that the toleration which the Percy-Gray iniquity has received is due in large measure to the peculiar kind of bribery carried on in connection with it.

It may be too late to repeal the Percy-Gray bill at this session, and as the papers say, The Jockey Club may be "safe for a year," but the Governor has challenged the attention of the State, and should receive prompt, unmistakable, and grateful support.

Insurance Affairs Still Need Attention.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I was very much pleased to read the letter published in to-day's TIMES signed "An American Policy Holder," for I, like many others, began to fear those who have been neglectful of the true interests of the policy holders were being protected by the concentration of the public interest in the sad California calamity.

I am specially interested because yesterday I received from one of the three great life insurance companies notice of payment of premium due next month on a $25,000 policy on which I have been paying for over thirty years. I was led to expect the yearly additions after ten or twenty years would almost pay the premiums, but I find it is nearly $500 short of doing so, and that the sum payable next month is $1.25 less than it was last May! We want further information as to who permitted the payment of such salaries and tolerated such extravagance as makes such premiums necessary after thirty years' payments.

Temper or Temperament?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In Charles Gore's "Lux Mundi, Incarnation," Page 261, we read: "The dogmatic temper is the temper of one who is imperiously confident that he is right, when he is not."

Temperament is a special type of mental constitution and development due to natural characteristics of the bodily organism, often inherited.

"The forces that impel action reside in temperament," writes Dr. Henry van Dyke.

A TIMES correspondent writes of "The Presidential Temper" and pronounces it "vindictive." Would it not be fairer to speak of "The Presidential Temperament" and observe that it is sanguine—an athletic, muscular, vital temperament—quite opposite to the bilious (choleric) temperament that sometimes breeds vindictiveness?

Not a Direct Tax.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In an editorial in THE TIMES about a week ago which commented upon President Roosevelt's "muck-rake" speech, it was intimated, if not clearly stated, that a tax levied by the United States on inheritances would be a direct tax and hence encounter the same constitutional difficulty which the income tax did. Of course, such is not the case. The Supreme Court of the United States has held (Knowlton vs. Moore, 178 U. S., 41) that an inheritance tax is not a tax on property but a tax on the right to devise property, and hence is not a direct tax in the meaning of the Constitution.

THE JEWISH QUESTION DISCUSSED BY GORKY

Address to Russian Social Democrats at Grand Central Palace.

RECEIVED WITH ENTHUSIASM

Russian Writer Says Treatment of the Jews Is the Most Shameful Manifestation in the World.

"The Jewish Question" was the subject selected by Maxim Gorky for an address delivered before 5,000 Russian Social Democrats in the Grand Central Palace last night. The writer was received with the same enthusiasm which characterized his appearance in Grand Central Palace two weeks ago.

He said, in opening his address, which was delivered in Russian, that the Jewish question embodied one of the saddest and most shameful manifestations in the world.

"The Jewish question," he said, "so thickly bespattered with the miry calumnies and lies of people who created it, is, to my mind, essentially plain and simple. It has its origin in the coarse psychology of that man whose relations to the world are determined according to this formula: 'The world exists that I may live in it calmly and comfortably.'

"To people whose eyes are turned only upon their own sweet selves, who see nothing, desire nothing on this earth but the satisfaction of their sordid needs, to such people the Jew must ever remain incomprehensible and hateful. They must hate the Jew because he is an idealist, and it would seem as if in the whole world there exists no power capable of destroying his truly restless, inquiring, and rebellious spirit.

"Throughout the difficult path of human progress toward light the Jew appeared as the rebellious protestant. He was always the man in whose hand, raised aloft over the universe, blazed the inextinguishable torch of vehement protest against the base and vile forms of life, against rude violence to man, reeking corruption, and spiritual darkness.

"This idealism, indomitably striving for the reorganization of the world in the spirit of truth and justice is the chief cause for the hatred of the Jews. They brought disquiet to the satiated and contented; they threw light upon the dark side of life. Energetic and ardent, they always brought ferment into existence, a restless searching for the truth; they roused the people, giving them no respite. And finally—and this is the main thing—out of this idealism of the Semites arose a terrible monster for the masters of life, a monster for the masters, but a religion for the workers—Socialism!

"In Russia the Jewish question is preeminently a political one. The chief enemy of the Russian Jews is Russian officialdom, which holds every Jew to be a revolutionist. This view has its irrefutable evidence in the history of the Russian revolutionary movement. The proportion of so-called political criminals among the Jews in the Russian movement of emancipation is very great.

"In Russia the Jews are revolutionists to a greater extent than anywhere else. Everything is done to stifle them, to kill their bodies and their souls; but the wonderful vitality of that race does not yield to the pressure of evil powers, and its intellectual alertness, its quick, warm impressiveness only adapts itself to the conditions.

"It is impossible to enumerate all of the means the officials used in their efforts to suppress the Jews, but the results are the very opposites of what they aimed at. The Jews stand in the front rank of the intellectual opposition, and from the very beginning of the open fight with the Russian Government, the Jews perished by hundreds in the prisons, in Siberia, and in the Russian fortresses.

"Everything that concerns the Jewish question in Russia can be formulated thus: the Russian Government persecutes the Jews so furiously, because it regards them as its most active opponents. This was not long ago confirmed by Sergius Witte, who in his address to the Jewish deputation literally said:

"'If Jews should happen to get into the Douma, they must not discuss there the general politics of the empire, but only their own affairs.'

"But in Russia the foolhardiness of Sergius Witte as well as his insolence is well known to everybody. It is an old story.

"Having its root in the politics of the Government, anti-Semitism has not penetrated into Russian society because these two forces are irreconcilably hostile to each other, and that which the one sanctions, the other rejects. The intelligent elements of Russia are at present not infected with the poison of anti-Semitism; they know very well the role which the Jews play in the Russian revolution. But here, I must remark, to my great sorrow, that the Russian intelligent public never conducted itself in relation to the Jews as in justice it should have done."

Mme. Andreieva was present, but did not make an address. Meyer London occupied the chair.

HONORS FOR FRENCH GUESTS.

Admiral Campion and His Staff Entertained at the Capitol.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—The officers of the French fleet, under Admiral Campion, again supplied the chief social incident of the day at the Capitol. The Secretary of the Navy, Mr. Bonaparte, entertained the visitors at a large luncheon at the New Willard, while this evening found them the guests of honor at a dinner and reception at the French Embassy. Only a small official party attended the dinner, but at 10 o'clock the Ambassador and Mme. Jusserand welcomed several hundred representatives of general society.

The hosts were assisted by the wife of the First Secretary, Mme. Des Portes, and the Viscomptess de Faramond, wife of the Naval Attache, with the entire embassy staff. All the military guests were in full uniform, while the band played the National airs of France and America throughout the evening.

A buffet supper was served in the dining room, which, despite the modest exterior of the house, is one of the most beautiful apartments in Washington.

Invited to meet the guests of honor were the Vice President and Mrs. Fairbanks, with all the Cabinet officers and their families; the Admiral of the Navy and Mrs. Dewey, the German Ambassador and Baroness von Sternburg, the Austrian Ambassador and Lady Durand, the Russian Ambassador and Baroness Rosen, the Brazilian Ambassador and Mme. Nabuco, the Mexican Ambassador and Mme. Casasius, the Italian Chargé d'Affairs, Senator and Mrs. Spooner, Senator and Mrs. Foraker, Senator and Mrs. Lodge, Senator and Mrs. Elkins, Senator and Mrs. Bulkeley, Senator Kean, the Misses Kean, Senator Crane, Senator Warren, Senator Bacon, Gen. and Mrs. Corbin, Mr. and Mrs. Wayne MacVeagh, Miss MacVeagh, Justice and Mrs. White, Justice and Mrs. Holmes, Mr. and Mrs. Pierce, Mr. and Mrs. Boardman, Miss Boardman, Mr. and Mrs. Spalding, Mr. and Mrs. Crosby and Miss Crosby, Mrs. Pinchot, Gifford Pinchot, the Misses Oliver, Assistant Secretary of the Navy and Mrs. Newberry, Mr. and Mrs. W. C. Eustis, ex-Vice President Morton and Mrs. Morton, Mr. and Mrs. Norman, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Keep, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Lee, Mr. and Mrs. Chatard, and Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Henderson, Jr.

During the afternoon Admiral Campion and his staff drove to Fort Myer, where they were treated to a splendid exhibition in special drill by both cavalry and artillery. To-morrow they will make a trip to Mount Vernon aboard the Dolphin.

TOASTS OF CLUB WOMEN.

Eclectics Drink, in Pure Croton, to Husbands and Children.

"Our Club," "Our Husbands," and "Our Children" were among the toasts given at the annual luncheon of the Eclectic Club held yesterday at Delmonico's.

The 250 women present stood, while drinking the first toast, ("in pure Croton,") but the following, by Mrs. Herbert D. Lounsbury, was applauded most vigorously:

Here's to our husbands!
Though they love themselves most,
They'll always come home
To be coddled and kissed—
It's a joy and a pleasure
That's not to be missed.

"In bringing up the subject of 'Our Children,'" said Mrs. Edward Goldschmidt, "I feel as if I were violating all the tenets of woman's clubdom, and I can't see why I was the one selected to fly in the face of tradition in this way. However, all this does not mean that club women are not good mothers, for the best children are said to be those whose parents do not talk about them."

Mrs. Richard H. Stearns gave a humorous recapitulation of the subjects debated during the year. It began thus:

All hail to the club pyrotechnic!
Whose rockets of wit in the air
Illumine the name of Eclectic,
The club that can both do and dare.

In "Our Honored Guests," Mrs. Eldridge J. Moore paid tribute to "the Belle of belles," Mrs. Belle De Rivera, President of the City Federation; Mrs. Clarence Burns, Mrs. Arthur Elliott Fish, "the cripples' friend," and to Mrs. John Fowler Trow, "who'll make you think you never had much sense before she taught you parliamentary law."

A debate as to whether the clubwoman is the representative woman preceded the luncheon. When the time came to vote whether the affirmative or the negative had put up the better argument the "nays" made as much noise as the "yeas," so this important question remains unsettled.

ENTERTAIN SECRETARY TAFT.

Formal Reception Tendered Him by General and Mrs. Grant.

A reception was tendered to Secretary of War and Mrs. Taft on Governors Island yesterday afternoon by Major Gen. and Mrs. Frederick D. Grant.

The reception lasted from 4 to 6 o'clock, and was attended by most of the officers stationed on Governors Island and other posts about New York City.

FIFTH AV. THEATRE SOLD.

Property Leased by F. F. Proctor Bid In by J. A. Fynes for $1,490,000.

Yesterday's auction offering of the Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre property at Broadway and Twenty-eighth Street resolved itself into nothing more than a confirmation of a report current for the last two weeks that the Gilsey estate had succeeded in disposing of the property at private sale.

Auctioneer Bryan L. Kennelly opened the auction sale with an announcement that the property would not be offered for the account of the Gilsey estate. The buyer at private sale was the International Amusement and Realty Company, and after a few perfunctory bids at yesterday's auction the parcel was struck down to a representative of that concern on a bid of $1,490,000.

The property was conveyed yesterday by the Gilsey executors to the International Amusement and Realty Company for $1,300,000. The company gives back a 5 per cent. mortgage for $975,000.

J. Austin Fynes is President of the company. Mr. Fynes was formerly general manager for F. F. Proctor, but recently severed his connection with the Proctor enterprises.

The Fifth Avenue Theatre and the adjoining holdings of the Gilsey estate, all of which were included in the sale, cover a plot fronting 105 feet on Broadway and 151 feet on Twenty-eighth Street. The present annual rental of the theatre, under a lease expiring May 1, 1907, is $50,000.

Mr. Fynes said last night:

"I have bought the Fifth Avenue Theatre property for myself and entirely with my own money as an investment. I shall use the property as I see fit."

THEATRICAL NOTES.

Next Monday night at Daly's Theatre Daniel Frohman will present Fredreick Paulding's new comedy, "Cousin Louisa," with Mary Van Buren in the leading role. The cast will include Charles Cherry, Sam Reed, Florence Ravelle, Paula Gloy, and Mrs. Kate Denin Wilson.

Mrs. Fiske and the Manhattan company will appear in the three one-act plays "Dolce," "The Eyes of the Heart," and "A Light from St. Agnes," at the Manhattan Theatre Friday afternoon as a benefit in aid of the Bide-a-Wee Home for Animals.

E. H. Sothern and Julia Marlowe will begin an engagement of Shakespearean repertoire at the Academy of Music on Monday, May 28. A change of bill will be made each week. The plays to be given are "Romeo and Juliet," "The Marchant of Venice," "The Taming of the Shrew," "Much Ado About Nothing," "Twelfth Night," and "Hamlet."

MR. SELIGMAN DESCRIBES UNDERWRITING METHODS

Address Delivered Before N. Y. University School of Commerce.

THE SYSTEM'S DEVELOPMENT

Value of Underwriting in Bringing New Issues of Corporate Stock Before the Public.

"Underwriting, the Sale of Corporate Securities," was the subject of an address delivered yesterday evening before the School of Commerce and Finance of New York University, by Isaac N. Seligman. He pointed out that underwriting or the unloading of a man's responsibilities upon the shoulders of another, began with the meeting of merchants at Lloyd's Coffee House in London. Now it has assumed enormous proportions.

Literally an underwriter, he explained, is an insurer. A corporation, in the raising of funds, finds it useful to deal with bankers, because it is enabled thereby to sell all the securities it desires at once, and secures the indorsement of disinterested parties as to their value.

"No banker," he said, "wishes to purchase thirty or fifty millions of bonds at his own risk. It might be impossible for him to market his holdings at a critical time, and every banker has interests in many directions. He desires insurance against the failure of the public to buy the securities, and it is this insurance that is the bank underwriting now under discussion.

"Originally, the underwriter was placed under an obligation to apply on the public issue for a certain proportion of the securities. He was not asked to buy the whole amount he had underwritten, but he still received a commission on the whole amount. The banker thus limited his risk on the public sale, and the underwriter, if the issue was a success, earned his commission without being compelled to put up any money or buy any of the securities.

"Very frequently, however, the banker may not think it advisable to market immediately the underwritings he has underwritten. In such a case he forms a syndicate for the purpose of purchasing and holding the securities until the time is ripe to offer them to the public for the account of the syndicate. Strictly speaking, this is not an underwriting, but the term has come to be applied not only to the syndicates that buy with a view to the subsequent sale of the securities to the public, but to syndicates in which it is intended from the first the members should hold their allotments permanently."

Mr. Seligman illustrated his point by the Pennsylvania increase of stock in 1906 from $251,000,000 to $400,000,000. At the time the market was breaking, and the railroad feared that the shareholders would not absorb the first $75,000,000 at 120, the price at which they were offered. It applied to banking firms and found them willing to take at 120 all the shareholders refused, in consideration of a commission of 2½ per cent. on the whole issue. The mere announcement of this fact gave strength to the securities, and practically all the shareholders took out their pro rata assignments.

After pointing out the value of underwriting in bringing before the right persons new issues Mr. Seligman said:

"The main intention is to bring the securities to the attention of the investors who wish them—that is, to market the securities in a favorable way rather than to transfer the risk from the shoulders of the banker to those of others. It is not the transference of risk and opportunity of profit so much as a distribution of securities to those who need them."

Sometimes underwriting does not contemplate a general offering of new securities at all. It is merely a notice to the public that they will be sold at a certain price, at which the holders of the old securities may subscribe, and the underwriters agree to take whatever is left over. In the same way when a property has been well advertised by litigation or newspaper discussion, it is practically certain that its entire stock will be subscribed locally. If, then, out-of-town bankers are asked to underwrite, they will have merely a passive part to play.

WHY EDDIE DIDN'T RETURN.

The Schooner's Skipper Told His Father, but 'Twas a Tough Job.

When the four-masted schooner E. B. Sutton, from Singapore, was warped to a pier in this port yesterday the first man to climb aboard was E. N. Cavagnauge, who is employed by the Standard Oil Company in Brooklyn. He walked into the cuddy with an expectant smile on his face, and said to the sun-tanned skipper:

"My name's Cavanaugh. Where's that son of mine, Eddie, the rascal?"

The skipper looked straight at his questioner for a minute, then rummaged in the bills of lading and knitted his brow.

"Looking for Eddie, eh?" he said.

Cavanaugh explained that it was all right about Eddie; everything was forgiven, and maybe his parents would let him stick to the sea-going business after all. A boy who had enough grit to ship before the mast and rough it 'round the Horn, in spite of his parents' disapproval and an education in a Brooklyn high school, was likely to be a good navigator some day.

"Yep," said the Captain absently, looking blankly at the barometer. "Cavanaugh? Eddie? Yes, I think I know him. Didn't—he—run away at Singapore?"

The father's face fell. The skipper rumaged among the bills of lading again.

"No, he wasn't the one," he continued. "Let's—let's go to the shipping office and look at the ship's articles. He'd be ashore now, anyway."

On the way to the offices of Chapman & Co., in State Street, the skipper and the father chatted about boys and the sea and ships. Cavanaugh laughingly told how Eddie had run away and how his mother had fretted until they learned he'd gone with the schooner and saw the E. B. Sutton reported at Singapore and cleared for New York.

"It's Marryat and Cooper and those writers that set their heads going," said the father, "but we forgave him, and the mother got his room papered new and has a fine dinner ready for her sailor boy."

"But it's a tough life," said the Captain, talking to the cobblestones. "You never know. Why, off the Horn last trip out, a young fellow, not much older'n your son, went by the board. A heavy sea, and that was the end of him. A man who'd said he was the boy's—the young fellow's—father brought him aboard and before the Commissioner here.

"We sent his pay and things through the Consulate at Singapore to the sailor's boarding house—the address the—the father gave. He wasn't his father, I reck'n. The name wasn't ever heard of at that address, anyway."

"Poor young fellow," said the father; "I ought to be thankful—"

"Here!" interrupted the skipper suddenly stopping at the door of the shipping offices, and laying his huge hands on the father's shoulder.

The two men faced each other. The father's mouth tightened. The skipper looked away over the Battery Park to the river.

"Was it?" whispered the father.

The skipper lowered his head slowly.

EDDY-SPRECKELS WEDDING.

The Ceremony to be Performed in Paris on Saturday Evening.

SACRAMENTO, Cal., April 25.—A friend of Spencer Eddy, Secretary of the American Embassy at St. Petersburg, and of Miss Lurline Spreckels of San Francisco, says Miss Spreckels and Mr. Eddy are to be married at 8 o'clock next Saturday evening.

According to plans made some time ago the marriage is to be in Paris. Mr. Eddy was in the United States several weeks ago while Miss Spreckels was recovering in Paris from an operation for appendicitis. It was said then that the marriage would take place within the near future. Miss Spreckels is the granddaughter of Claus Spreckels, the sugar man.

WEDDINGS OF A DAY.

BARKLEY—MILLS.

The wedding of Charles Brackett Barkley and Miss Marion J. Mills, a sister of Mrs. William Alexander Ewing, was solemnized yesterday afternoon in the Central Presbyterian Church, and was an all-white affair, as the families are both in mourning. The bride, gowned in white chiffon and point lace, wore a tulle veil and carried valley lilies. She was given in marriage by her brother-in-law, Dr. William A. Ewing, and the house reception following at the Ewing residence in West Fifty-eighth Street was for relatives and intimate friends only. Mrs. George McLaughlin, in Brussels net, was matron of honor; Miss Marion Ewing, the young niece of the bride, in white mull and lace and a white hat trimmed with white sweet peas, and carrying the same flowers, was the maid of honor. The bridesmaids, in white organdie and lace, were the Misses Edna Graham Sorim, Florence Bates, Eleanor Denning, Margaret Armstrong, and Mrs. Ogden Sherwood. Harland Stone was Mr. Barkley's best man, and the ushers were Dr. George McLaughlin and Messrs. Charles Seton Henry, Frederick Tansley, and Mr. Grosvenor.

DONALDSON—HUNTER.

Keith Donaldson, formerly of Philadelphia, and Miss Evelyn Willis Hunter, daughter of Edward Willis Hunter, formerly of Memphis, were married in St. Thomas's Church yesterday at 4 o'clock by Bishop Gaylor of Tennessee. BOARD OF EDUCATION SUSPENDS HOSTILITIES

Quits Long Enough to Vote to Raise Maxwell's Salary.

HE WILL GET $10,000 NOW

Or at Least as Soon as the By-Laws Committee Can Act—His Assistants to Get $6,500.

By uniting in an attempt to raise the salary of City Superintendent Maxwell from $8,000 to $10,000 and the salaries of the eight Associate Superintendents from $5,500 to $6,500 annually, beginning Sept. 1, 1906, the warring factions in the Board of Education buried the hatchet at their meeting yesterday.

Commissioner Abraham Stern of Manhattan, the majority leader, who heads the anti-Maxwell faction within the board, made the motion to increase the salaries. A smile went around when Mr. Stern said:

"It is surprising that I should offer this resolution in view of the fact that I have so often criticised the acts of City Superintendent Maxwell and the Board of Superintendents. There is an explanation due from me.

"While the Board of Superintendents have not always acted in accordance with the wishes of this board, it has, I believe, acted honestly and in good faith. Whatever errors it has made have been errors of judgment. Probably no man has been more abused on this floor than City Superintendent Maxwell. No matter what happens in the schools, the City Superintendent is criticised. Without reflecting in any manner upon the ability of our Superintendent of Buildings, to whom we gave a salary of $10,000 recently, I believe that the office of City Superintendent is more important than that of Superintendent of Buildings. The salaries should be made at least equal.

"We all recognize the ability of City Supt. Maxwell. It is not painful for me to say this. I have often criticised Dr. Maxwell, but I recognize his qualifications and ability, and I believe that it is only fair play that his salary should be increased."

Commissioners Tifft and Greene gave their testimony to "the great and signal ability of Dr. Maxwell," as Mr. Greene expressed it. Since the by-laws must be amended before the increase can be granted, the matter was referred to the By-laws Committee.

The board passed a resolution requesting the Board of Estimate and Apportionment to take the necessary steps to acquire title to a parcel of property 200 by 300 feet, at First Avenue and East Sixty-seventh and Sixty-eighth Streets. The assessed valuation of the property is $248,000. The board wants to build upon it a central depository for its supplies.

City Supt. Maxwell submitted a report showing that there are now 68,667 part-time pupils in the schools, as against 65,094 the same period last year. This is an increase of 3,573. These part-time pupils are distributed among the boroughs as follows: Manhattan, 24,209; Brooklyn, 36,952; Queens, 6,872; Bronx, 470, and Richmond, 164.

FOR A NEW STATE LIBRARY.

Bill Providing for $4,000,000 Structure Comes Up To-day.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 25.—About $4,000,000 of the money that comes in from mortgage taxation and other indirect revenue channels may be used to build a State library that will compare favorably with the Library of Congress.

The Senate Finance Committee tonight voted to make a favorable report on Senator Raines's bill, which appropriates $400,000 for a site for the library and which provides for the submission of plans for a building to cost $3,500,000. It will probably come up in the Senate to-morrow.

The bill calls for the appointment of a commission to consist of the Governor, State Architect, Chancellor of the Regents, the Commissioner of Education, and the Superintendent of Buildings to select the site and arrange for the plans for the building. Architects from all over the country are to be invited to compete. Twenty thousand dollars will be given in prizes to the first, second, and third choices made from among the plans.

The idea is to have the State Library, the Department of Education, the Regents, the State Museum, and all the other educational bureaus of the State situated in this building. At present these different departments are scattered through the Capitol and in private buildings outside.

The floating dock and convoy will start Friday through the canal.

"A Tale of Old Egypt and Little Old New York"

THE FALSE GODS

By GEORGE HORACE LORIMER

Author of "Letters from a Self-Made Merchant to His Son"

Mystery is the keynote of Mr. Lorimer's new novel—strangely perplexing, always absorbing, ever increasing mystery. It deepens and doubles until it reaches gigantic proportions; then culminates in a ludicrous climax. A hustling newspaper man is the hero; a great hall filled with mummies and idols and ruins from the Nile is the scene; and the sacred statue of Isis provokes the startling investigation.

BRYAN'S WELCOME IN INDIA.

Hindu in Allahabad Asked Him to Appeal for More Missionaries.

The Christian Treasury of Allahabad (India) writes: "The visit of W. J. Bryan to Allahabad will not soon be forgotten by those who had the privilege of hearing him in the Katra and Jumna Churches, in the Young Men's Christian Association, and Muir Hall—four addresses in one day. Mr. Bryan won the hearts of all who heard him. At the close of his address in the Katra Church E. David, an elder in the church, voiced the appreciation of the congregation and Christian community, sending through Mr. Bryan greetings and thanks to the American churches for all they have done for India.

"At the close of the address in the Young Men's Christian Association Hall a Hindu arose and asked Mr. Bryan to make an appeal to the American churches for thousands of missionaries, women as well as men, paying a tribute to the work of missionaries in India. Nor must we forget the visit of Mr. and Mrs. Bryan to the Mary Wanamaker Girls' High School, which, under the wise and sympathetic management of Miss M. P. Forman, Miss Tracy, Miss Misra, and others associated with them, has grown to be one of the best schools in the province.

"The address of Mr. Bryan to the girls will not soon be forgotten. Mr. Bryan's visit to Allahabad, although only forty-eight hours, was full of inspiration and help to those who heard him. The board in New York could not do better than to send out every year or two elders of the mind and spirit of Mr. Bryan."

The Secretary was directed to place upon record a minute expressive of the high esteem entertained by this board for his signal service to the cause of life insurance, in the varied relations he held to it for more than a generation past; for his warm attachment to the Metropolitan; his great pride in its career, and for the spirit of helpfulness which always animated him in its behalf.

The board further expressed its high estimate of the fine qualities of mind and heart which made him conspicuous; deplored the fact that a life so admirably equipped for usefulness could not have been longer spared to the world, and extended its sympathy and sorrow to his widow and family and to all with whom he was allied by the ties of kinship and affection.

CHAMPIONS' CLEAR LEAD IN THE PENNANT RACE

Beat Quakers in Game Full of Doubt, 9 to 7.

AMERICANS GO WAY BACK

Greater New Yorks Lose to Washington with Chesbro Pitching —Other Results.

The champion New Yorks gained a clear lead in the race for the National League pennant by defeating the Philadelphia team yesterday, and incidentally the Quakers dropped back to third place by reason of Pittsburg's victory over Chicago. In the American League greater changes in the standing of the teams were made. The Athletics had no trouble in retaining the lead in their game with Boston, but Washington's victory over the Greater New York advanced the "Senators" to second place, while the local Americans fell back to seventh position. Four clubs are tied for third, with St. Louis quite a prominent factor.

GIANTS WIN FROM QUAKERS.

Philadelphia Pitchers' Wildness Costs Them the Game, 9 to 7.

The 5,000 spectators who sat for 2 hours and 10 minutes at the Polo Grounds yesterday and saw the champion New Yorks and the Philadelphia team struggle to break the tie for the leadership in the National League, witnessed a variegated quality of baseball with much that was decidedly interesting and quite as much that was not. They saw the champions win by a score of 9 runs to 7, but at the same time they saw the Quakers deliberately fritter victory away when it was within their grasp. Their batting alone entitled them to the game, but by the most inferior pitching that has been seen here this year all the advantage gained by good hitting was lost.

Ames was not at his best, for, besides giving four men bases on called balls, he was charged with a balk, and was batted for a home run, three doubles, and eight singles. The Philadelphians used four pitchers, two right and two left handers, and the work of the latter pair was very damaging to their team. With the score 6 to 5 in favor of the visitors, after they had finished their part of the seventh inning, four Giants in succession were sent to first on called balls, and they all tallied. Lush took the place of Kane in this inning, but his career was of short duration, for at the close of the inning he was supplanted by Nichols, who retired the local batsmen in regular order. The lead gained by the champions as the result of the four runs on called balls was too great to be overcome, although an error made by "Sammy" Strang in the eighth inning had all the appearance of a chance for the Quakers to tie the score.

The champions lost their premier catcher, Bresnahan, early in the contest, Umpire Emslie sending him from the bat and out of the game for his violent and objectionable manner of protesting a decision on a called strike. McGraw took Bresnahan's place at the bat and Bowerman succeeded him behind the plate. The score:

CHESBRO'S PITCHING EASY.

Washington Takes First Game from Greater New Yorks, 7 to 2.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 25.—New York was defeated here to-day by the Washingtons by the score of 7 to 2. Although the visitors made enough hits to score several runs, Pitcher Patten was invincible when men were on the bases. In each inning, except the first three, the Washington left-hander was touched freely, but only in the fourth could the visitors bunch enough hits to get into the run column. Chesbro was batted hard at the start, and there was nothing fluky about the three runs the locals scored. "Happy Jack" was steady in the next two innings, but weakened in the fourth. He gave a base on balls, and Schafly beat a bunt, which La Porte threw into the "bleachers." Even though he had not made this error both runners would have scored on Hickman's terrific drive over the left centre field fence, the longest drive on these grounds. Chesbro departed after this inning and Le Roy finished well, a base on balls and two hits being made off him. The score:

COLUMBIA, 4; PENN, 3.

Before an enthusiastic attendance of about 200 spectators Columbia's nine defeated Pennsylvania's team yesterday afternoon at American League Park by a score of 4 to 3. The game was the most amateurish imaginable, was wretchedly played on both sides, and was rendered almost farcical by umpiring that was worse even than the play. It was saved from being wholly ludicrous by the closeness of the score and an exciting finish which was something like old-time college contests. The score:

Notes of the Thoroughbreds.

The English steeplechase horse, Desert Chief, winner of four races in five starts abroad, was landed yesterday from the transport steamship Minneapolis, after having been detained for nearly a week by the customs officials. The horse was bought by G. Hugh Brown, proprietor of the Brownleigh Park Stable, for $1,250 in England, and, as he was not declared as imported for breeding purposes, a bond was required under the customs laws, the present owner having stated his intention of racing the horse.

The Picket, second choice for the Brooklyn Handicap and a horse that has been heavily backed by Western horsemen for that race, had his fastest gallop since he was brought to New York from Kentucky at the Sheepshead Bay track yesterday, when he covered a mile in 1:43. The Picket, winner of the Brooklyn two years ago, still is trained by Carroll Reid, who trained him for his former victory.

Jockeys Garner and W. Robbins carried off the riding honors at Aqueduct yesterday, with two winners each. Garner, who still goes to school when not required to be at the race track by his employer, Enoch Wishard, landed Mary Morris and Donna Elvira first, while Robbins rode Jack McKeon and Campaigner. Both McKeon and Campaigner are trained by ex-Jockey James McLaughlin, who was the only trainer to saddle two winners.

Colonial Girl showed herself to be very close to a race in her work at Gravesend yesterday, when she galloped a mile easily in 1:45. The mare, which beat Hermis in the $50,000 World's Fair Handicap at St. Louis, probably will make her first appearance of the season at Jamaica.

Following Roseben's easy win in the Sterling Stakes at Aqueduct yesterday, D. C. Johnson, owner of the horse, stated that it was his settled intention to start Roseben for both the Excelsior Handicap, to be run Saturday at Jamaica, and the Metropolitan Handicap at Belmont Park. The Excelsior, at a mile and a sixteenth, will be the longest distance race in which Roseben ever has started.

A scheme for the establishment of Winter racing at Richmond, Va., was talked about at the Aqueduct track yesterday. Under the existing rules of the Jockey Club a Winter track in Virginia must be outlawed, but the promoters of the plan are hopeful of obtaining concessions of some sort for the venture.

Yachts to Race Home from Bermuda.

The Brooklyn Yacht Club has received the proffer of a $500 cup from a wealthy Bermuda planter, now residing in New York, which he proposes to give for a race from Bermuda to New York for the yachts that compete in the Lipton Cup race from New York to Bermuda. The latter race is to be started on May 26, and the boats are expected to reach Bermuda within seven days. It is proposed to start the return race about June 9, in order to allow for any contingent delay, and to bring the boats back to New York waters in time for the early July events.

Four boats have thus far entered for the 650-mile race. The challenger is Frank Maier's Tamerlane, the winner of the Brooklyn Cup last year. She will represent the New Rochelle Yacht Club. The others are D. R. Floyd's Lila, G. D. Robinson's Gauntlet, and the Bonnie Kate, formerly the flagship of the Bensonhurst Yacht Club, but recently purchased by W. B. Goddard from Commodore Bellowes.

Mob Lynches Negro Youth.

OAKWOODS, Tex., April 25.—A 17-year old negro boy was lynched early to-day by a mob of seven men, who took him from the officers who had arrested him. The negro had entered the home of a widow near town. He was caught and fully identified. The deputy sheriff who had the prisoner in charge fired several shots at the mob, but without effect.

Roller Skaters Organize.

Speed and fancy skaters of the New York Athletic Club have organized with the intention of continuing their practice upon roller skates through the Summer on the floor of the Metropolitan Rink, Fifty-second Street and Broadway. Several of the amateur skating clubs, whose games and races on the ice during the past Winter attracted so much attention, have also welcomed the opportunity for keeping in the best of trim all the year round, and a number of new organizations all affiliating with the Amateur Athletic Union are in process of formation. Two new clubs were formed this week. The most important is composed entirely of skating members of the New York Athletic Club, and will wear their emblem. This number includes Phil J. Kearney, who captured several championships on the ice during the season; Arthur Y. Sarony, William W. Swan, W. R. Lee, W. L. Smith, and Harry P. MacDonald.

The Metropolitan Skating Club, the other organization, is composed of other amateur racers who have frequented the rink since its opening. They are Howard McKeefey, W. T. Hayward, Clive Martin, Allen Taylor, H. G. Doran, and E. L. Crab. Three other clubs are expected to become full fledged before the end of the present week.

AUTO CLUB AROUSED OVER ALCOHOL BILL

Governors Will Request Senate to Remove the Duty.

SUBSTITUTE FOR GASOLINE

Manufacturers Experimenting with the New Fuel for Motors—Believe Success Is Assured.

Automobilists learned with considerable surprise and disappointment yesterday the news that the Free Alcohol bill has virtually been buried in the Senate Committee on Finance, and is likely, so the reports from Washington intimated, to remain there until the adjournment of Congress. When the bill passed the House two weeks ago with only seven votes against it, automobile engineers and manufacturers hailed it with general satisfaction as offering an opportunity to test alcohol as a motor fuel. In fact, experiments have been in progress for several months by a number of manufacturers in the use of alcohol, and in some cases the results have been so successful as to lead to favorable predictions that a number of alcohol motors would be seen on the market as soon as the Free Alcohol bill became a law. The provisions of the bill do not remove the duty of about $2 a gallon on alcohol intended for spirits, colognes, &c., only being taken off of denatured alcohol, or alcohol made unfit for use except for commercial purposes.

President Dave Hennen Morris of the Automobile Club of America said yesterday that he could hardly believe that, in view of the large majority vote for the bill in Congress, 224 to 7, the Senate would refuse to consider it.

"The Automobile Club, at its next meeting of Governors," added Mr. Morris, "will surely discuss the situation, and if the Governors coincide with my views on the subject, a strong resolution will be drawn up and sent to the Senate Committee on Finance urging immediate consideration of the bill. As a club, our members are all heartily in favor of it. I feel certain that many of the Senators are friendly to it. Personally, I do not believe the Standard Oil interests are opposed to the bill. Gasoline is growing scarcer, and therefore dearer, all the time, but, even with the opportunity of employing alcohol in many directions where gasoline is now used, there would still be a demand for all the available gasoline. Automobiles cannot use gasoline for all time, of that I am sure, and alcohol seems to be the best substitute that has yet appeared."

It was learned yesterday that at least two manufacturers have brought their alcohol motor experiments to such a satisfactory point that they are ready to install alcohol motors in trucks, commercial vehicles, and omnibuses as soon as the duty on denatured alcohol is removed.

German Aeronaut Did Not Go Up.

Two important causes contributed to prevent the proposed balloon ascension yesterday from the Central Union Gas Works, foot of East 138th Street, in the Bronx. The first was the failure of the balloon to arrive on time, and the second was the high wind, which would have prevented the proper filling of the balloon had it been on the spot. The aeronaut was to have been William Hendel, a German, who came to America lately, bringing his balloon with him. Mr. Hendel told Leo Stevens, who has been storing the balloon, that in Germany he made over twenty ascensions. As Mr. Hendel speaks little English, it has been difficult to ascertain the amount of his experience, and, as he could show no certificate of aeronautical ability, the gas works refused to furnish gas for the balloon unless an experienced pilot accompanied him. Had the conditions been favorable, Leo Stevens or one of his assistants would have gone up in the air with the German.

Bostwick Yacht Launched.

The fast speed yacht, The Limited, building for ex-Commodore Albert C. Bostwick of the Larchmont Yacht Club at the Seabury Yards at Morris Heights, was successfully launched yesterday morning. Miss Marie Seabury broke a bottle of wine over her bows as she left the ways. Her owner is at present abroad, but the boat will be rushed to completion and will be ready for delivery on his return in the middle of next month. The Limited is a 98-foot flush-deck turtle-back craft, 87 feet 8 inches on the water line, with 11 feet 6 inches beam and 4 feet 6 inches draught. She is from the board of Henry J. Gielow. She will be equipped with a Seabury engine of moderate horse power, but sufficient to drive her at a sustained speed of twenty miles an hour.

Automobile Notes of Interest.

The loss to automobile manufacturers and dealers in the recent San Francisco disaster has been considerable. Word has recently reached the Olds Motor Company in this city that the San Francisco agency has been completely destroyed, several cars being lost. A number of other agencies have fared equally bad.

New York tradesmen, as well as automobilists in general, are pleased over the action taken by the National Association of Automobile Manufacturers at the meeting of its Executive Committee recently, which practically indorsed the holding of the automobile carnival and open-air show at the Empire City track on May 24, 25, and 26. It conforms with the wishes of every one interested in motoring.

Beginning with the current month and continuing until December, the motor car will be an active factor in the sporting world. Already thirty-six events have been scheduled, of which eleven are slated for the United States, two for Canada, four for France, three for Italy, three for the British Isles, two for Hungary, three for Germany, two for Belgium, and one each for Sicily and Switzerland.

Until the return of Chairman Harding of the Automobile Club of America, who has charge of the work now being done by the club in placing signboards on the main highways between this city and Boston and also to Philadelphia, nothing definite will be done. The design has been chosen and the signs are being made. Mr. Harding will return to the city in a few days and early in May it is expected the first of the new signs will be placed.

The Michelin Products Selling Company, Inc., exclusive importers of Michelin tires in America, of 31 and 33 West Thirty-first Street, have established a subsidiary company to repair all makes of tires under Michelin methods under the name of the Michelin Tire Repair Works. J. A. Straus of 242 and 244 West Forty-first Street is manager.

Information received from F. L. Smith of the Olds Motor Works indicates that the progress already made on the Olds racing car which will be a candidate for the Vanderbilt Cup race assures its being thoroughly tried out long before the elimination races in September.

The boat is commodious for her class. Forward there is a chain locker, with forecastle aft of this with accommodations for her crew. Two staterooms, the full width of the vessel, follow this, with adjoining bath. Aft of the turtle-back deck is a steering deck covering the engine room, with galley and dining room and cockpit in the stern. She is lighted throughout by electricity and fitted with every modern convenience.

MOTOR LOZIER CARS

"BUILT IN AMERICA"

AVAILABLE HORSEPOWER

¶ The available horsepower of a motor is determined—much or little—by the amount of friction to be overcome before the power developed reaches the point of contact of the wheels with the road.

¶ A rough path from the motor to this point of contact leaves but little power for real business, whereas a smooth, easy channel to this same point carries greased lightning into the wheels.

¶ And this is where THE LOZIER MOTOR CAR can say for itself that, in order to secure this easy channel, there are more Hess-Bright Ball Bearings used in its construction than in any other car built. Hess-Brights are acknowledgedly the very best (and the most expensive), and they are used throughout in every bearing of the transmission and wheels.

¶ This, with the accurate construction of every part of the mechanism along the power route to the point of contact (including TWO Universal Joints between the clutch and transmission), delivers from the motor the maximum of power with the minimum of friction loss.

¶ Which means that THE LOZIER MOTOR, with its consequent big reserve horsepower, never has to do overtime.

¶ 35, 40, 60 H. P., $4,500, $5,500, $7,000.
"Legitimately high-priced."

¶ We have on hand a few Baker Electrics, one Type C, 35 H. P. LOZIER Demonstrating Car, and a Second-hand Pope-Toledo, Thomas Flyer, Winton, Locomobile, Auto-car Darracq and Panhard.

Received Hartford, Ct. 4/25/'6

San Francisco, April 25, 1906.

M. J. Budlong, President,
ELECTRIC VEHICLE COMPANY,
Hartford, Conn.

Three of your forty-five horse power Columbias have been used by myself and assistants; Shaughnessy & Wills, continuously night and day since earthquake April eighteenth and are still in service. The machines have conveyed us over our steepest grades, through all parts of burning city, having had to run over ruined streets, cracked and piled up in many places with fallen bricks, stones and other debris. Their work has been perfect at all times and I marvel that an auto can stand up under such unusual and severe tests. Have been skeptic about automobiles previous to this great work but now give them my hearty endorsement.

SYSONBY ON SICK LIST, STAKE DATES IN DOUBT

Great Horse May Be Declared from Big Spring Handicaps.

MR. KEENE TO DECIDE TO-DAY

Champion of 1905 Suffering from "Skin Disease" and Out of Training for the Present.

H. De Courcey Forbes announced yesterday at the Aqueduct track that Sysonby, the champion race horse of last season, and the top weight and favorite for all the big Spring handicaps, was ailing, and temporarily at least out of training, and that the horse in all probability would be declared out of his early engagements. Misunderstanding of the statement made by Mr. Forbes was responsible for a report that Sysonby already had been declared out of the big handicaps, and caused much comment, as this Spring there has been more future betting than usual on the popular races which are the mediums of Winter betting.

The announcement of Sysonby's sickness, Mr. Forbes said, was in accordance with James R. Keene's wish to have the horse's condition made public, and so prevent public disappointment and the loss of money in future bets should Sysonby not train into condition in time to start for the handicaps, in all of which he is entered. Mr. Keene was not at Aqueduct, but at the Waldorf-Astoria last night he added to Mr. Forbes's statement that Sysonby had been ailing for nearly a week, and that while he would not be able to say until he had seen, what races he would be declared from, it was most improbable that Sysonby would start in either the Metropolitan, at Belmont Park, or the Brooklyn, at Gravesend. Mr. Keene expects to visit the training quarters of his stable at Sheepshead Bay this afternoon for consultation with James Rowe, his trainer, and then will determine the matter of declarations.

Trainer Rowe kept secret the fact that the horse was sick until Mr. Keene authorized announcement of the trouble yesterday, when it was stated that if Sysonby ever had been in any real peril of permanent infirmity, the danger point had been passed. Sysonby's sickness was described as what trainers commonly term "skin disease," a form of sickness which last season put a stop to the training of the Whitney fillies Artful and Tanya through the last half of the racing year. Through the time that Sysonby was alarmingly sick he was attended constantly by two veterinary surgeons, Drs. William Sheppard and R. W. McCully. The sickness which Sysonby still is suffering from is not regarded as dangerous, and in the case of a horse of less note would not have called for even a veterinarian's services. The "skin disease" is attended by fever and eruptions and a scaling of the hide, and the most serious part of Sysonby's sickness, according to report, being that his feet and legs became feverish, and there were signs of the eruption about his ankles.

With Sysonby eliminated as a starter, the odds offered by Western bookmakers will require revision all around. Until yesterday The Picket was the horse next in favor to Sysonby for the Brooklyn, The Picket being second choice at 8 to 1, while in the Suburban Artful was second choice at 10 to 1.

The betting on the Brighton still is to be developed, though Sysonby has been held at a short price since the odds were adjusted. Before the announcement of the doubt as to Sysonby filling his handicap engagements, and therefore while the old prices were an offer, D. C. Johnson backed his horse Roseben for both the Brooklyn and Suburban Handicaps, placing $1,000 against $10,000 on Roseben for the Brooklyn, and $1,000 against $20,000 on the horse for the Suburban immediately following the victory of Roseben in the Sterling Stakes at Aqueduct yesterday.

PRATT GETS WHIP CLUB CUP.

Light Competition for Tandem Prize in Brooklyn Show.

By winning the five-hundred-dollar challenge cup for tandems offered by the Whip Club of Brooklyn last night, Herbert L. Pratt becomes the absolute owner of the trophy. The event was the feature of the second night of the horse show of the Riding and Driving Club of Brooklyn, held at the club house, Park Plaza. Only three tandems were entered in the competition. Mr. Pratt drove Lady Eocene and Lady Barbara, winners of the tandem championship at the Boston show last week. Jay F. Carlisle handled the reins over Eliquence and Revenue, and William H. Moore entered and drove his imported pair, Foraker and Empress.

According to the terms governing the competition owners were to drive, and the cup was to be won three times before becoming the absolute property of an exhibitor. Both Herbert L. Pratt and Jay F. Carlisle had two legs on the coveted trophy prior to last night's competition, and William H. Moore entered his pair with the hope of keeping the cup in competition. A. G. Vanderbilt entered Rustling Silk and The Youngster, but declined the issue, as did Miss Mollie C. Maxwell, with Venus and Adonis. There was little real competition, and the judges quickly arrived at their decision, which endorsed that of the Boston judges. Mr. Pratt's tandem was evenly matched, of splendid action, form, conformation, quality, and substance, and showed a remarkably good road pace when in competition. Jay F. Carlisle's tandem secured the reserve ribbon, and Judge Moore's entry was shown the gate. Summaries:

TAFT REVIEWS THE TROOPS.

Secretary of War Guest of Honor at Military Show.

There was a snap and swing about both the military manoeuvres, and the athletic events at the military and athletic tournament last night in the Madison Square Garden. Secretary of War William H. Taft was the reviewing officer, and the men were put upon their mettle. It was a gala day and night in the big arena, Major Gen. Frederick D. Grant being present and participating in the honors with his chief.

While the regulars of the United States Army came in for their full share of the laurels it was the boy cadet corps that easily won the heartiest applause and who carried the spectators before them as if storming breastworks. It was the midget drum corps, with a toddler not three feet tall for drum major, of the Hebrew Benevolent and Orphan Asylum that captured the crowd at the matinee review which was held by Brevet Brig. Gen. John G. Eddy.

In the evening the dress parade of the boys of the New York Institute for the Instruction of the Deaf and Dumb and "The Star-Spangled Banner" of their fifers and drummers that set the crowd a-tingling, and as one they arose and respectfully stood while the National air was being played, and at its close there was a volley of applause in which Secretary Taft joined.

During the evening show of the troops in the ring the old-time flavor of recklessness took possession of the cavalrymen and artillerymen. Three times the pyramid of ten riders tumbled to the tanbark as they galloped over the hurdles, while the drivers sent the machine-gun teams about at such a pace in the flying platoon drill of the Third Battery that one of the guns turned over and bumped along for twenty yards before the horses were stopped and the carriage righted.

In the athletic events the competitors of the Twenty-second Regiment of Engineers made a sweep of the heats and also in the championships, which were decided. Three of their sprinters, Daniel Frank, C. E. Peabody, and A. J. Crockett, won places in the finals of the 100-yard championship, the only other man in the event being D. L. Waters of the Thirteenth Regiment Heavy Artillery. A fine lot of hurdlers of the Twenty-second's team, including C. Gemeinder, Jr., Daniel Frank, and J. J. McLaughlin, got in the finals of the 220-yard hurdle championship. Summary:

WORLD'S AUTO RECORD.

One Mile at Standing Start in 53 Seconds at Atlantic City by Christie.

ATLANTIC CITY, April 25.—Fully 10,000 persons witnessed the automobile races to-day on the beach track. They were rewarded by seeing one world's record broken, while in all of the races there was plenty of excitement, and the time made by the regular stock touring cars was excellent. All the races were at one mile.

Walter Christie was the hero of the day by virtue of his remarkable performance with his remodeled Christie car that he used last year in the Vanderbilt Cup race. The 110 horse power machine is greatly improved, of which it gave ample evidence in the one-mile race with standing start, which Chrie won handily in the new world's record time of 0:53, beating his own record for the distance by 1 1-5 seconds, made last year on the Cape May track. He had two competitors, W. H. Hilliard, in his 80 horse power Napier, coming second, and the 50 horse power Thomas car was third.

In two time trials at flying starts, H. E. Rogers, driving a 20-horse power Stanley steamer, made 0:42 3-5, and Montague Roberts, driving a stripped 50-horse power Thomas car, did 0:56 4-5.

The race for the John H. Lyons Cup, open to American touring cars of 30-horse power or less, was run in two heats and a final, close finishes being seen in all. The result was a triumph for the Stoddard-Dayton cars, P. F. Rockett getting first in 1:17 3-5, and F. S. Walton, second, both driving 30-horse power Stoddard-Daytons. Walton also won the price handicap for four-cylinder cars. The touring car race for vehicles selling at $4,000 or less, was won by a 35-horse power Pope-Toledo, driven by Godfrey S. Mann.

The big Daracq car, which Henry drove last Fall when he won the Vanderbilt Cup, broke its transmission. It will be ready to race to-morow, and will be driven by Guy Vaughn. The races were run off promptly and the management was perfect. The results of the seven contests are:

A crowd of 15,000 people witnessed the races and the beach was kept clear. Following is summary of events:

ROSEBEN WON AT A MILE GALLOPING IN FRONT

Sprinter Beat Ram's Horn as He Pleased for Sterling Stakes.

ALL OTHER CHOICES FAILED

Campaigner, Donna Elvira, and Veronese Were Long-Chance Winners at Aqueduct.

Roseben, champion sprinter of America last year and holder of the world's time record for six furlongs, moved forward a peg yesterday, when at the Aqueduct race track he won for the first time in his career at a mile.

Roseben and Phil Finch, five-year-old geldings, had up 127 pounds each; Ram's Horn, a four-year-old colt, had 126, and Eugenia Burch, a six-year-old mare, had 125. The race was the only feature of the afternoon's programme, and until the time for its running the betting men discussed the condition of the track, which showed to be a trifle slow, and whether or not it would suit Ram's Horn, the Western colt which, coming East with a tremendous reputation, was regarded as Roseben's most dangerous competitor.

Ram's Horn and Phil Finch, coupled as the Williams entry, were backed, chiefly because bettors insisted on considering Roseben as only a sprinter, and had records to show where he had been beaten in the only two races he ever ran at one mile, with an additional defeat at seven furlongs against him last season. Even with the prestige of his victory in the Carter Handicap, ten days before, Roseben would have been second choice to the Williams entry but for the fact that he had full confidence in his own stable, and that D. C. Johnson, his owner, alone bet enough money on him to keep him favorite to the close of the betting, Roseben, with an owner's commission, said to be $30,000 wagered on his victory, starting at 20 to 17 on, while 11 to 10 was laid against the Williams entry at post time.

Roseben, ridden by the stable jockey Lyne, was sandwiched between Phil Finch, on the rail, and Ram's Horn, third in position at the post, the horses breaking the moment they were in line at the barrier. At the first jump Roseben showed in front, Ram's Horn taking second place as soon as the horses were in motion, with Phil Finch third. For the remainder of the race the positions were the same, Roseben drawing out four lengths clear on the far turn, and under a pull through the last six furlongs, winning in a big gallop with the utmost ease, though Lyne let him go on for the last two or three strides, when Ram's Horn, under the whip, closed to within two lengths of the winner. The time of the race was 1:40 1-5, the first furlong in 0:13, the quarter in 0:24, making the second eighth in 0:11, the three furlongs in 0:36 2-5, and the half mile in 0:48 2-5.

Roseben was the only favorite to win in the course of the day. Long-chance winners turned up in both of the races for two-year-olds, Perry Belmont's Donna Elvira, bred by the owner, and a daughter of Ethelbert, running in front all the way in the four and a half furlongs for fillies, and winning at 7 to 1, and Campaigner, at 8 to 1, taking the half mile for beaten horses. W. C. Daly's Veronese, at 7 to 1, was the third long-chance winner. Summary:

Roosevelt Cup Boats After Quincy Cup

Of the eighteen boats building for the Roosevelt Cup, seven are to race for the Quincy Challenge Cup that is being revived this year. These are the Sears, Curtis, Foster, Bremer, Percival, and Prince boats, besides the challenger owned by Charles Francis Adams, 2d. The Percival yacht from Burgess and Packard designs is laid down at their yard. The Prince boat, at Graves's yard, will be turned over to painters and riggers this week.

The contrast between the designs of these craft will furnish one of the most interesting technical problems of the year. The Prince boat is 37.5 feet over all, 6.5 beam, and 5.2 draught. Her water line must be 20.3 feet to comply with the rules. The boat at Graves's is only 33 feet over all, with 20.5 feet water line, 6.5 beam, and 5 feet draught. The boat designed by Crane for Commodore Clark of the Eastern Yacht Club is 44 feet over all, with 20 feet water line, 6 feet beam, and 6 feet draught, the most extreme lines yet laid down. There is keen interest to know the dimensions of the Herreshoff boat for S. M. Sears and the Gardner boat for Trenor L. Park.

THE FINANCIAL MARKETS

Stocks Lower—Call Money Rates 3½@4½ Per Cent.

Resumption of Pool Liquidation—Banks Feeling Pacific Coast Drain.

The course of prices in yesterday's stock market gave further indication of liquidation by pools and speculative holders of stocks, and in addition to this the weakness in certain issues which have been favorites with the fire insurance companies suggested moderate sales, at least, by these institutions for the purpose of securing funds to meet their losses in San Francisco. In the forenoon session prices continued to display the strength which characterized them on Tuesday, scoring in this period gains of a point or more in many directions, but this movement was followed by a period of dullness lasting well into the closing hour of business, when a break of little less than 6 points in Consolidated Gas became the signal for general declines, in the course of which earlier gains were canceled and replaced by substantial losses. The liquidation noted in speculative holdings seemed to be in pursuance of a policy well defined in the markets of the past few days to press these stocks for sale only upon rallies in prices. Evidences of moderate fire insurance company selling were found in the declines in such stocks as St. Paul, New York Central, Delaware & Hudson, Lackawanna, and Union Pacific preferred, although in no individual case was the amount of stock offered large. The sharp break in Consolidated Gas led to the belief that at their meeting to-day the Directors of the company will make a drastic reduction in the dividend rate hitherto paid upon this stock. There was little in the news of the day to account for the action of the stock market, advices from San Francisco indicating satisfactory progress in the work of preparation for the rebuilding of the city and reporting reductions in the early estimates of the losses suffered. The statement of The Iron Age that exaggerated notions had been formed of the amount of structural steel which will be at once required for construction purposes in San Francisco served to moderate the enthusiasm that these preconceptions had aroused.

Shipments of currency to Pacific Coast points in heavy volume once more failed to find reflection in the money market, where rates for call funds were practically unchanged, although for short periods there was a slight increase in the bids. The banks, however, are feeling the drain, as the loss of $2,778,000 to the Sub-Treasury proves. Rates for demand sterling were a trifle easier, but no further engagements of gold in London for import were announced. Cables from Paris described the Russian loan offering as a success there, in spite of the drawbacks in the shape of strike disturbances and election uncertainties, and the Paris cheque on London moved up to a point indicating a cessation of calls upon London for funds. Opinion as to the action of the Governors of the Bank of England concerning the official discount rate varied, but the fortunate outcome of the Russian bond offering will, of course, exert a strong influence toward the continuation of the present rate.

RAMSEY AND GOULD AGAIN IN CONFLICT

Contest Over Ohio Right of Way May Last Months.

GOULD GETS AN INJUNCTION

But It's Only Temporary—The Lorain Southern and the Lorain & West Virginia the Roads Involved.

Joseph Ramsey, Jr., formerly President of the Wabash Railroad Company, is engaged in another contest with the Goulds. Dispatches from Pittsburg announced yesterday that the Gould and the Ramsey interests have come into conflict at Wellington, Ohio, where Ramsey's road, the Lorain Southern, and the Gould road, the Lorain & West Virginia, are seeking the same right of way.

The Williams farm at that place, according to the dispatches, has become the active scene of conflict. Both roads are attempting to establish their right to traverse the disputed ground, and as a result options on the property, condemnation proceedings, and injunctions have followed each other in rapid succession. The last move, an injunction proceeding, was taken by the Gould road. It is only a temporary stay, however, and, according to Western advices, the Ramsey forces have in no wise been daunted by it.

Last Fall, when Mr. Ramsey failed of re-election as President of the Wabash, after a spirited contest between himself and George Gould for the proxies of the Wabash stockholders, it was said that the relations of the two men continued friendly, despite the efforts on the part of Mr. Ramsey to wrest control of the Wabash from the Gould interests. The announcement that Mr. Ramsey has again come in contact with the plans of the Gould roads suggested something quite different to Wall Street.

The Lorain Southern, the new Ramsey venture, was organized early in March, to construct a line from Lorain on Lake Erie to the Ohio River, where it is to tap the Hocking coal fields and other coal lands along that river. Mr. Ramsey obtained control of the Industrial Railroad at Lorain, and included it in the Lorain Southern.

Work on the first section of the road, from Lorain to Wellington, was begun last month and was to have been completed by July 1. The contract for these twenty-five miles of line and for an additional thirty miles southward from Wellington was awarded to the Ohio Construction Company.

An interesting fact in connection with the building of this line is that W. D. Holliday, formerly assistant general freight agent of the Wabash Railroad at Pittsburg, is President of the construction company. Thus the promoter and builder of the new line are both former Wabash men. That they should so early in the development of their plans come into open conflict with the Gould interests serves to emphasize the severance of the relations between Mr. Ramsey and the Gould interests.

The extension of the Gould lines toward the east has been marked by a long series of vexatious contests in the courts as well as by other forms of opposition inspired by railroad interests which looked wit hlittle favor on the extension of the Gould system toward the Atlantic seaboard.

That the present episode at Wellington is likely to be added to the list of those which have caused embarrassment to the roads that have come into conflict at one time or another during the course of the Gould invasion of the Eastern railway field, is indicated by the account of the legal proceedings forwarded from Pittsburg. According to these advices, the court before which the injunction proceedings were brought has expressed the opinion that the relations of the Lorain Southern and the Lorain & West Virginia have become so entangled that it will take months to unravel the legal net that has been woven around the two companies.

NO RISE IN STEEL RAILS.

Leading Companies Will Take 1907 Orders at $28.

The United States Steel Corporation, the Lackawanna Steel Company, and the Pennsylvania Steel Company announce that they will accept orders for steel rails for 1907 at the present price of $28 a ton. The Tennessee Coal and Iron Company recently increased its price for open hearth rails from $28 to $29, and it is said that the demand for rails is so large that the Steel Corporation and the other large producers could, if they desired, demand more than the present price. They have, however, adopted the policy of maintaining the present schedule. This statement on the subject was made yesterday by E. H. Gary, Chairman of the Board of Directors of the United States Steel Corporation.

"The subsidiary companies of the United States Steel Corporation have been considering the question of prices for standard rails for 1907. The orders already booked are sufficient to keep the mills fully employed to the end of 1906 or later, and many of the railroad companies are desirous of placing orders for next year.

"The demand is so great that it has been suggested that the price can be advanced, and there are some good reasons in favor of an increase. Although it is believed the rails which are now being produced by the rail makers generally of this country are the best in the world, both as to composition and method of manufacture, still it is felt the price of $28 a ton is a fair price under existing conditions, and that is the price fixed for 1907 by the companies above referred to."

John G. Reading Is Added to the Protective Committee.

John G. Reading, President of the Pennsylvania State Bankers' Association, was added yesterday to the protective committee recently named by the holders of Toledo Railway & Terminal bonds upon which interest was defaulted on Jan. 1 last. The additional members will be chosen from representatives of the Maine banks, which hold a large amount of the bonds.

The agreement of deposit under which the bondholders are to be asked to deposit their bonds was to have been issued yesterday, but it was decided to wait until certain members of the committee who were not present at yesterday's meeting could be consulted about the matter. The local market showed considerable strength in the early trading. Copper shares were in good demand and gains were seen all along the line. Amalgamated and Boston Consolidated were features of the strength, each gaining about two points over Tuesday's closing figures, but later losing a part of the advance. There was considerable activity in United Copper, gaining about a point. Commission houses with Western connections were buyers of Daly-West, the stock advancing to 16 1-2. In the afternoon realizing orders made their appearance and some reaction followed the market closing.

Special Deposits Partly Repaid.

The Sub-Treasury received yesterday $1,100,000 in payment of the special deposits recently made against gold imports. The National banks have now returned to the Sub-Treasury about $7,000,000 of the special deposits amounting to $19,000,000 which were made by Secretary Shaw to facilitate gold imports.

IRON AND STEEL NOTES.

Steelmaking Irons Generally Firm—Keen Rivalry in Foundry Irons.

Commenting on the situation in the iron trade, The Iron Age says:

"Steel-making irons are generally firm. In the Central West a sale of 20,000 tons of Bessemer has been made for an Eastern works. In the Chicago district the malleable foundries are in the market to cover their contracts with the implement makers, the tonnage in sight being 20,000 tons. Car builders there, too, have been buying, and steel foundries are in the market for basic pig. In the East a leading interest is feeling the market for a large block of basic pig for the third quarter.

"Other Eastern steel works have bought smaller quantities, and 10,000 tons of Virginia basic steel have been sold. In foundry irons the market is not in as good a position. There is keen rivalry in spots, with corresponding concessions on business in competitive territory.

CHICAGO QUOTATIONS.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 25.—Small sales of Chicago Telephone served to break the stock from 107½ to the low price of 105 this morning on the local Exchange. It seems likely that the price is discounting a dividend reduction. Illinois Brick was also weak, supposedly from a similar cause. The stock fell to 52⅝ on small sales. Gossip in the street now contradicts recent statements by Directors to the effect that dividends are safe for the rest of this year. It is said the competition developing will necessitate the use of the company's surplus for other purposes than dividends. Can preferred sold at the easy figure of 61½. Kansas City Light improved from 62 to 64; Match was firm at 129@130. Biscuit was fairly active at 65, but this was below the New York parity almost a point. South Side Elevated weakened to 90. Subway sold early as high as 56.

New York exchange was 40c. discount. Time and call loans, 5@6 per cent.

THE OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Light Trading in a Firm Market on the Curb.

Most Stocks Show Gains at the Close —Coppers Less Active.

Substantial gains were made yesterday in many of the curb stocks, and, although the trading was light, the market seemed in better shape than at any time since the first bad news from San Francisco. What little activity there was in industrials resulted in slight advances in all except American Can common and Bethlehem Steel. The former closed at 7⅞ after sales of 200, ⅛ down; 100 shares of Bethlehem Steel common sold at 26⅛ in the morning after an opening at 27. Boston Copper sold up from 22¼ to 23. Nevada Consolidated sold as high as 19⅞, but closed at 19½. Tennessee Copper and United Copper both sold off on light trading, the former losing 2 points, on sales of 800 shares. The mining shares, on the whole, did not have their accustomed share in the trading.

The principal transactions reported yesterday in the outside market, with high, low, and last prices, were as follows:

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

"I think," said one trader, "that we begin to see over the top of this San Francisco calamity. The worst has surely been discounted, at least for the present, and in many cases the loss has been greatly over estimated. I feel, therefore, rather more bullish." "Yes," said another, "but you can't tell when or where there may be another earthquake." The difference between them was that one had covered up his shorts and gone long, while the other was still short. Insufficient to the day is the evil thereof so long as a man is short of the market.

***

There is a distinct novelty about rumors of earthquakes. The opportunity for them is extremely rare. It was rumored yesterday afternoon that San Francisco and the adjacent territory had suffered a series of fresh shocks—seventeen, to be precise. It was perhaps a mere coincidence that this rumor appeared simultaneously with a display of fresh weakness in the stock market. Mr. Harriman telegraphed a denial to the Union Pacific offices here, but prices continued to decline. This is not the first false earthquake rumor that has reached Wall Street since the San Francisco calamity. Once last week, just before the closing of the stock market, it was rumored that the Northwest had been visited with an earthquake and that Duluth had been destroyed.

***

The bull element in Wall Street will be glad when the San Francisco story disappears from the front pages of the newspapers.

The market was strong yesterday in the forenoon on short covering, and weak again in the afternoon under spasmodic liquidation and a renewal of bear pressure. The volume of transactions either way was smaller than the average of the last few days. Trading grew dull on a continuation of Tuesday's recovery, and at midday the market was very narrow. From that time on prices showed an inclination to sag, and in the last hour they were helped along with fresh bear selling. The very pronounced weakness of St. Paul in the last hour, together with an abrupt decline of 5½ points in Consolidated Gas, exerted a depressing effect upon sentiment. There was evidence in these stocks and elsewhere of bona fide liquidation, assisted by speculators. Wherever any special weakness developed the bear crowd hammered the market. The United States Steel stocks were reactionary, as a result, no doubt, of profit taking. Amalgamated Copper was well supported. It was one of the few active stocks to close at a small advance.

There is now present in the stock market a very aggressive body of bearish sentiment. It is rumored that a large amount of capital has been definitely pledged to a bear campaign, and while this may not be true, there is no doubt that a number of big speculators are co-operating on the bear side. For this reason it is expected that the market will be subject for some little time to raids and harrassments; it is to be expected, too, that rallies in the market will invite bear selling in considerable volume. Twice since the first break on the San Francisco disaster the bear element has sold stocks heavily on rallies, and each time it has had an opportunity to cover at a profit. This is likely to occur again and again, so long as it is profitable. The bullish idea of the situation is that the bear crowd will be tempted to sell stocks heavily on a recovery which will afterward hold, and thereby lose its market. The market so far has been unable to hold its rallies, and each time that it fails to do so the short selling increases.

***

The Pennsylvania's appetite for money seems insatiable.

***

One of the things which the Pennsylvania will have to finance shortly is its share of the new issue of Baltimore & Ohio stock. If it should fail to take its share individuals might wonder why.

***

The bears who have been assisting the liquidation of securities by insurance companies and individuals which they deemed would be necessary to cover the losses at San Francisco started on the assumption that the insured loss would amount to about a quarter of a billion of dollars. It is now believed that the loss to insurance companies will be much less, some authorities estimating it under $100,000,000. If it were possible to show the shrinkage that has occurred in the market valuation of securities as a result directly or indirectly of the San Francisco disaster it would probably be found greatly to exceed $1,000,000,000. It has probably amounted to $1,000,000,000 or more in the New York market alone. Meanwhile the losses suffered by railroads like the Atchison and the Southern Pacific have begun to be expressed in hundreds of thousands instead of in millions, as at first. These are a few of the arguments that are used to support the assertion that the immediate effect of the San Francisco calamity has been sufficiently discounted in the security markets for the time being, with allowance, of course, for liquidation in special securities for special reasons. It appears now that the break in United Railway issues was altogether out of proportion to the loss actually suffered, as well as to that in prospect through loss of earnings.

***

The contrariness of Consolidated Gas, as a stock, is apparent. At the close of the market on Tuesday it was conspicuous as the only active security which had not declined during the excitement of the preceding five days. Yesterday it turned extremely weak, even while the general market was fairly strong, and suffered a maximum decline of 5½ points. It is assumed that the dividend will be reduced. When the stock is strong guesses range from 6 to 5 per cent., and when it is weak they range from 4 to 3 per cent. Persons whose speculative information on Consolidated Gas is as trustworthy as it is possible for such information to be, strongly repudiate the idea of anything less than 5 per cent. With the stock selling near 130, it would seem that a reduction to the rate of 5 per cent. had been pretty well discounted. If the rate were cut to 4 per cent., it would be expected to sell lower, perhaps down nearly to par. The bear element is counting upon a reduction to 4 per cent., and would doubtless be taken unawares with any less drastic decrease. Brokers who have watched the trading closely assert that there is a large political short interest in the stock, and predict that it will retire in confusion. No political or other outside element has ever run a successful bear campaign in Consolidated Gas that can be recalled.

***

What have the bears contributed to the relief of San Francisco?

***

A trader whose reasoning is rather shrewd than deep says: "The San Francisco calamity has ceased, in my judgment, to be a direct factor in the market from the speculator's point of view. What we must determine now is the extent to which people have been obliged to modify their plans. I have no doubt that some plans have been abandoned outright, and it must have been necessary to defer and alter others. We can only wait to see what rearrangements will be made. It looks as if the bull crowd in Steel common would go ahead with its programme essentially unaltered. The same seems to be true of Amalgamated Copper, but when you go over the list you find a lot of stocks concerning which the opinions you might have entertained two weeks ago are positively worthless under these altered conditions, especially under the altered state of mind which we know to exist in certain quarters."

***

The strength of Amalgamated Copper was due in some part, no doubt, to the fact that the stock will sell to-day ex-dividend 1¾ per cent. Some importance will be attached by traders to the actions of the stock with the dividend off. If it "recovers its dividend" that will be referred to as an achievement in all respects worthy of the security. The market position of Amalgamated Copper seems to be very strong, with this one reservation, that a great many and all sorts of people are bulling the stock. Under certain conditions a preponderance of bullish opinion is an aid rather than an obstacle to bullish operations.

***

Some brokers report that the lower prices are beginning to attract outside buying.

***

One of the largest banks in the Street is very optimistic in its views; another is gloomy. One of the most prominent private banking houses in the Street is disposed to encourage bullish sentiment, and several others are not by any means of that disposition. Thus is sentiment divided in banking circles. It is not to be wondered at that speculative opinion also is divided, or that brokers are at extremes, some advising the purchase of stocks, others advising that they be sold on every rally, and others refusing to give any advice whatever, except to say that the risks are great.

Eastern Texas—Showers Thursday and Friday, cooler Friday, fresh southerly winds.

Western Texas—Fair Thursday and Friday, cooler Friday in northern portion.

New Mexico, Arizona, and Utah—Fair Thursday and Friday.

Tennessee and Kentucky—Showers Thursday and probably Friday, cooler Friday.

Oklahoma and Arkansas—Fair Thursday; Friday fair and cooler.

Despite a heavy spot demand in Liverpool and higher futures there, the New York cotton market yesterday made only a feeble response of 1 to 3 points at the opening, and after gaining 1 to 3 more sold off 6 to 13 points, which carried May down to 10.91, July to 10.81, and October to 10.82. A slight rally followed toward the close, reducing the net loss to 5 points in May and July, and October and December finished 2 points above the previous close.

Liquidation in May seemed to be the feature of trading, but the volume of business was small.

The trade is in suspense pending notice day to-morrow. One large Wall Street house estimates that tenders of 30,000 to 40,000 bales will be made on May contracts. It is the general impression that this will break the market. Others say that spot holders will not dare to give up that amount of cotton in the face of the large and legitimate demand. Five hundred and seventy-five bales of American cotton arrived here yesterday from Liverpool on the White Star liner Bovic, and a prominent spot dealer said he understood more was on the way. A leading member of the Exchange said that this cotton was the leavings of a 9,000-bale shipment from here which had been picked over. Mr. Ellison, the English statistician, raised his estimate of the world's cotton consumption for the season to 18,918,000 bales. This was considered rather bullish.

Lancashire operators have granted the 5 per cent. May increase demanded, and late Tuesday spinners bought 2,000 bales of spot cotton in Liverpool, making the total sales for the day 12,000 bales instead of 10,000. Yesterday 12,000 bales more were sold in Liverpool at a one-point advance to 6.04d. against 4.07d. last year. Notwithstanding the heavy spot demanded, private cables stated yesterday that Liverpool traders were bearishly inclined. Futures there opened steady at an advance of 2 points and closed quiet and 1 to 2 points higher for the day. May-June, 5.85; July-August, 5.85; August-September, 5.81; October-November, 5.62, and December-January, 5.61. New Orleans reported a strong spot demand, but Southern markets were generally quiet and unchanged. Manchester yarns were firm. Prices asked for cloths checked business. The local spot market was quiet and unchanged at 11.65 against 7.55 last year and 13.85 the year before.

Cotton Opinions.

ATWOOD, VIOLETT & CO.—No abatement in the consumption of cotton is apparent in any direction, and the market is accumulating a very large short interest in contracts which may prove difficult to cover when the situation becomes clearer.

BAILY & MONTGOMERY—There is a very large short interest in the market, according to popular impression, and while the general temper is bearish, it looks as if any further decline will be by slow stages.

RICHARD SIEDENBURG & CO. received the following cable from Liverpool: "Ellison's estimate of consumption too small. Some buying on settlement Lancashire operatives' wages for twelve months. Don't think the improvement will last; no speculative feeling."

THEODORE PRICE—From Ellison's figures the conclusion to be drawn is decidedly bullish. European consumption of all growths to date is 850,000 bales in excess of last year, when the total consumption of the world, all growths, was 1,260,000 bales in excess of the average for the previous four years. In spite of the fact that mill stocks are still 800,000 bales in excess of last year, and that the European visible supply according to the latest figures is 170,000 bales larger than last year, Ellison estimates that by the end of the European season the surplus stock at the European mills will be 377,000 bales under last year. A more conclusive proof of the enormous activity and unprecedented prosperity in the European cotton textile trade is scarcely required.

JOHN MUIR & CO.—We prefer the long side from this level down and think purchases of the July position will prove profitable.

Following are the opening, highest, lowest, and closing prices:

	Opening.	Highest and Lowest.	Closing.	Prev. Close.
January	10.42	10.44-10.37	10.42	10.40

Market closed steady. Estimated sales, 400,000 bales. New Orleans closed firm, 3 up for May, at 10.99; 4 up for July, at 11.12; 5 up for October, at 10.81, and 5 up for December, at 10.82.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

WHEAT—The May wheat option was again a centre of interest yesterday and showed a disposition to increase its premium over the later months. Locally it closed ¼c net higher against no change in new crop positions. While going short rather extensively on all bulges, the crowd was evidently nervous regarding the situation in that delivery and several times ran to cover, causing sharp upturns which were not in every case followed by later positions. This was followed by irregular conditions toward midday, with reactions in new crop months during the afternoon. Cash closed rather firm in New York at 90½c for No. 2 red, free on board, afloat; No. 1 Northern, Duluth, 88½c, opening navigation.

CORN—The corn market started out with a rather bullish undertone, and throughout the forenoon continued firm, showing at times advances of ⅝c over the previous night's close. Efforts to realize profits, however, produced heaviness in the afternoon. Cash corn was reported to have a firm undertone. No. 2 corn closed at 56c, nominal, in elevator, and 5c, free on board, afloat; No. 2 white, 57c, and No. 2 yellow, 57c, free on board, afloat.

Old Colony Absorbs Trust Co.

BOSTON, April 25.—The Directors of the Adams Trust Company of this city to-day voted to accept an offer of the American Loan and Trust Company to sell its stock to that company. The latter company was recently acquired by the Old Colony Trust Company, so that by to-day's action the Adams Trust Company virtually goes over to the Old Colony. The Adams Company has a capital of $1,000,000 and deposits aggregating $4,000,000.

TRADING IN BALTIMORE.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, April 25.—Utter lack of speculative support caused another drop in United Railways trust stock certificates; they sold down to 16¾, a decline of ⅝ since yesterday and 2⅝ since early in the month. The income bonds were more active at 71⅜, an advance of ⅛.

Payment for the State of Maryland's Baltimore and Ohio Railroads Washington Branch stock will be made Friday by the Maryland Trust Company, to which it was sold at its bid of $2,500,000. The trust company made the purchase for the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, and since it acquired it, has been engaged in securing State securities, which the statutes require to be used in payment. This stock has been purchased through Baltimore brokers from local institutions which had it as investments, and in New York, where a large block of Maryland stock was held. It is understood that all of the securities necessary for the purchase have been acquired. The transaction will let loose about $2,000,000 in Baltimore, which should go far toward relieving the tightness in the local money market.

Houston Oil was active to-day. Suffolk & Carolina 5s scored an advance of 2⅝, and Atlantic Coast Line Consolidated 5s advanced ¼. Seaboard 4s were active.

The market closed dull, with some issues showing declines from yesterday. Sales: Bonds, $118,000; stocks, 1,378 shares.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 25.—What promised to be a good local market to-day was spoiled in the last hour by the break in New York. It carried the two local leaders—Reading and United States Steel—with it, and the general list followed them. Up until that time the local market presented an encouraging appearance. There was a little more commission house buying, and sentiment showed an improving tendency. Most stocks closed at net losses for the day. Insurance stocks suffered to-day at the public auction sales. Fire Association broke from 416¼ to 350, Pennsylvania Fire from 751 to 500, Delaware from 32 to 26, Girard from 406 to 388. Alliance again sold at 15, and Insurance Company of North America at 24½. Sales of the stocks named were in small lots only.

Total sales, 33,306 shares. The list:

LIGHT LURES BIRDS TO DIE.

Hundreds of Them Fling Themselves Against Montauk Point Lighthouse.

Special to The New York Times.

MONTAUK POINT, L. I., April 25.—The Montauk Lighthouse here has recently caused the death of hundreds of ducks and geese which, attracted by its powerful rays, crashed into the heavy plate glass and were instantly killed. So great is the force of impact that some times the birds are found with their necks and wings broken.

At this season of the year when the song birds, too, have commenced their migration northward, scores of them perish in a similar manner, more than a hundred having been found in a single morning. In thick weather the birds most frequently fly against the light.

BOARD OF ESTIMATE AND APPORTIONMENT.

Public notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, held March 30, 1906, the following petition was received:

To the Honorable, the Board of Estimate and Apportionment:

The petition of the Williams Terminal Railway Company respectfully shows:

1. That your petitioner is a street surface railway corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of New York, having filed its certificate of incorporation in the office of the Secretary of State of New York on the 29th day of July, 1905, for the purpose of constructing, maintaining, and operating a street surface railway in the Borough of Brooklyn, City of New York.

2. That your petitioner desires to obtain from the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of The City of New York its consent to and a grant of the right, privileges, and franchise to use a portion of Bowne Street, in the Borough of Brooklyn, City of New York, for street railway purposes, and for the construction, maintenance and operation of a single track street surface railway upon and along the surface of said Bowne Street, a description of such proposed railway being as follows: Beginning at a point southeast of Imlay Street, where it will connect with the track of the New York Dock Company, and running southeasterly along Bowne Street to and into the property of J. H. Williams & Co., on the easterly side of Richards Street, the entire length of said road not to exceed nine hundred feet, together with the necessary connections, switches, sidings, turn-outs, turn-tables, cross-overs, and suitable stands necessary for the accommodation and operation of the said railroad by the overhead system of electricity, or other power lawfully employed by connecting railroads, all in the Borough of Brooklyn, City and State of New York.

3. Your petitioner further shows that there is no adequate means of transportation provided between the termini of the proposed railroad, and your petitioner believes there is a public demand for the construction and operation of this proposed railroad, and that such construction and operation will be a public convenience and benefit, the said railroad to be used for freight only.

Wherefore, your petitioner prays that the notice of the time and place when and where this application will be first considered be given, pursuant to provisions of Section 92 of the Railroad Law, and all other laws applicable thereto, and that consent or grant be given in the form of an ordinance subject to the laws and ordinances applicable thereto, and upon terms and conditions to be fixed in accordance with the provisions of the Greater New York Charter.

INTERBOROUGH REPORT DISPLEASES CONTROLLER

Objects to Rental Payments as Operating Expenses.

GROSS RECEIPTS TOO LOW

Reported Earnings Inconsistent with Recent Stock Profits—Corporation Counsel Investigating.

Dissatisfied with the reported earnings and expenditures of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company for the Subway in its first year of operation, Controller Metz said yesterday that he had called on the company for an itemized statement of its operating expenses. This is in addition to the expressed determination of the Controller to object to the action of the company in charging its rental payments to the city as "operating expenses."

"The gross receipts reported to me are also unsatisfactory," said the Controller yesterday. "I want to know if the company has included in its reported receipts the money it gets for its advertising privileges. That amounts to $500,000 a year on a conservative estimate. The report submitted to me by the Interborough officials kills two birds with a single stone and the stone is hurled in their own interests decidedly.

"In the first place the report figures things out so that the company owes the city nothing for the year toward the sinking fund. That lets the company out of $482,000 in the beginning. Then the report shows that the Subway is earning but 3.64 per cent. on its invested capital. That makes Subway operation unattractive to other interests which might wish to compete for the next Subway contracts. There is something at the bottom of it all though, and we are going to get at it immediately."

Borough President Bird S. Coler of Brooklyn who was Controller when the Subway contract was signed, took a keen interest in the situation yesterday.

"The company has no right on earth to charge in its rental payments as operating expenses," he declared. "Such payments, in a regular railroad company belong under the heading of 'fixed charges,' and there is absolutely no excuse for the method of bookkeeping adopted by the Interborough. The officials of the company cannot show the public that they have earned only 3.64 on their invested capital when it is known that they made $25,000,000 for themselves on the increased stock market price of Interborough stock, and made it by putting the price of stock up on their reports of heavy earnings."

Albert B. Boardman, counsel for the Rapid Transit Commission, would not discuss the matter yesterday, saying that it would be referred to him by the board for an opinion. Controller Metz yesterday put the matter in the hands of Corporation Counsel Delany for a further investigation.

WESTON A PATRICK WITNESS.

Formerly for the Prosecution—Says Rice Wasn't Chloroformed.

Former Coroner's Physician Albert T. Weston was the only one of the medical experts cross-examined by District Attorney Jerome yesterday afternoon when the hearing on the motion for a new trial for Albert T. Patrick, convicted of the murder of William Marsh Rice, was resumed before Recorder Goff in General Sessions. The examination lasted for three hours.

Dr. Weston said that he acted as an expert for the people at the original trial of Patrick and that he drew $900 from the County Treasurer for such services, although he did not go on the stand. He sent in a bill for $1,200 for work which, he said, occupied about five days, outside of his attendance in court at part of the trial.

When the first motion was made for a new trial, Dr. Weston testified yesterday, he appeared as an expert for Patrick. At that time he testified, according to minutes of the hearing read yesterday by Mr. Jerome, that he had learned of no additional facts bearing on the death of Rice since the trial.

Dr. Weston insisted under further cross-examination that he had always held that Rice did not die from chloroform. At first he thought that he had told former Assistant District Attorney Osborne and two of the people's medical experts of this opinion, but finally the witness said he could not remember that he had mentioned his views on the cause of Rice's death to anybody but Coroner's Physician Edward J. Donlon.

"Do you mean to say," Mr. Jerome demanded, "that though retained by the people and thinking yourself entitled to $1,200, for your services, you left the representatives of the people under a misapprehension as to the actual cause of Rice's death?"

"I want to explain," began the witness, but was not permitted to proceed further. His examination will go on to-day.

The battle between the prosecution and the defendant hinges on the question whether certain symptoms observed in the lungs of Rice at the autopsy were produced by the administration of chloroform prior to death, or by the injection of an embalming fluid into the veins of the dead body. It was contended by the people's experts at the trial that the congestion of blood found in the lungs of the dead man could only be the result of chloroform poisoning, and that an embalming fluid forced into the veins after death could not drive the blood to the lungs.

A position diametrically opposed to that of the prosecution's experts is now taken by the pathologists and expert embalmers whose affidavits are appended to the motion papers in the present proceedings.

TUNNEL BLAST KILLS TWO.

Third Man, Hurt by Explosion, Asked Surgeon to Kill Him.

At East and Borden Avenues, Long Island City, in the same spot in the Pennsylvania and Long Island tunnel where some months ago two Italian workmen were buried alive for nearly twenty-four hours, two Italians were killed by dynamite yesterday and another so seriously injured that his recovery is unlikely.

The tunnel at this point runs under the yards of the Long Island Railroad. It is customary before the night shift of workmen quits work at 7 o'clock to set off whatever blasts have been prepared. At 6:30 yesterday morning the fuses were attached and the cartridges fired. The foreman of the night shift, Nicholas Barbil, who lives on Fourth Street, Long Island City, counted the explosions and noted that one was delayed.

He and the seven men on the night shift waited a while, then, deciding that the fuse had failed, started along the tunnel in the direction of the rock wall which they were engaged in shattering. As they reached the rock the blast went off.

Barbil, Giovanni Delcia of 66 Tenth Street, Long Island City, and Giuseppe Valoni of 104 Third Avenue were standing directly over the blast. Valoni and Delcia were instantly killed.

The day shift was just coming on and there were many hands to extricate the three from the débris. The bodies of the two dead were sent to an undertaking establishment.

Barbil was taken to St. John's Hospital. On the way he recovered consciousness, but was in such pain that he asked the ambulance surgeon to put him out of his pain.

A BOOTBLACKS' UNION NOW.

Will Tackle the Free-Shine Question and Sunday Hours.

"In fide mia!" groaned the boss of the bootblacks in a Times Square barber's shop yesterday. "Look at dat!"

He held up a communication in Italian calling for a grand rally of the United Bootblacks' Protective League at 504 Pearl Street to-morrow night.

"Deesa fel," he explained, "wanta me to join da union. I no joina da union. Eet ees graf, amico, mio. Da union say shut up da bootblack beezness at dissa time. I shutta heem up, but nobody else shutta up hees beezness. I pay t'ree dol' to join and I pay feefty cents a month. Somebody gitta da mon and I gitta da lemon."

The rally is for the purpose of making the league control the bootblacking business along the lines of other unions. One of the matters to come up for discussion will be the custom that obtains among proprietors of shoe stores to give free shines to patrons. This has long worried the bootblacks not employed in shoe stores.

Another proposition is that licenses shall be required of the bootblacks in barber's shops and of those who carry the little hand boxes on the streets. A Sunday closing hour, 3 o'clock, is also in the list of the reforms.

SUES HAMILTON W. CARY.

Dressmaker Wants $6,099 for Gowns for Mrs. Cary, Who Died Insane.

Bertha Adams, a dressmaker, is suing Hamilton W. Cary of 801 Fifth Avenue, before Justice Greenbaum and a jury in the Supreme Court, for $6,099, which she says is due her for dresses supplied to Mrs. Cary between July 6 and July 31, 1905. Mrs. Cary died last January, after she had been adjudged insane.

Mr. Cary admits that his wife received the dresses, but declares that the dressmaker knew that Mrs. Cary was insane when she supplied the gowns. He says that he offered to return them, but that the dressmaker refused to receive them. He asks that the complaint be dismissed and that the plaintiff be compelled to return to him $2,300 which Mrs. Cary advanced in part payment.

The trial will be continued to-day.

WILL AIR THE SEWERS.

Manhole Covers to be Lifted Nightly to Let Gases Escape.

Borough President Ahearn announced yesterday that the manhole covers on sewers on the west side would be removed for several nights in order to allow the escape of gases which have caused explosions there recently. He said that Chief Engineer Horace Loomis of the Bureau of Sewers and E. J. Lederle are making an examination of conditions which led up to the explosions, but that they are not prepared to report.

When Dr. Darlington of the Department of Health was informed last night of Mr. Ahearn's plans he said he didn't believe that there was any danger of causing disease by noxious vapors when the manhole covers are removed. He said his department was also investigating the subject, but wasn't ready to report.

READY TO START WORK ON NEW WATER SYSTEM

Board's Report on Preliminary Surveys Received by the Mayor.

RESERVOIR SITE EXPLORED

Many Miles of Aqueduct Lines Mapped—Only $229,271 Spent of $1,602,000—Awaiting Approval

Mayor McClellan has received from the new Board of Water Supply its report for the period between June 9, 1905, when it was organized, and April 9, 1906. The report is a voluminous document, signed by J. Edward Simmons, Charles N. Chadwick, and Charles A. Shaw as Commissioners. The progress of the board's preliminary work is reviewed in detail, after which the Commissioners outline the present status of the work as follows:

"Many survey parties are busy along the lines of the Catskill aqueduct and in the basin of the great Ashokan Reservoir to be constructed on Esopus Creek, near Kingston. A force in the New York office is engaged upon the designs and upon procuring necessary equipment and men.

"Test borings with both wash drills and diamond drills are in progress at many points, for in order to drive tunnels and dig trenches for a great aqueduct and to build huge dams for the largest water supply reservoir yet undertaken it is quite as important to know about the rock and earth beneath the surface as to have surveys made of the topography. The principal points of investigation are the site of the main dam for the Ashokan Reservoir and the crossing of the Hudson River for the Catskill aqueduct. These investigations are being directed under the advice of two of the foremost expert geologists of the country. Many holes were sunk into the bed of the Hudson River by working from a lighter. Several diamond drill holes have been driven at the margin of the river to a depth of about 500 feet. There is much difference in the character of the rock on the opposite sides of the river, and complete information must be had in order to design and construct the crossing safely and economically.

"Many miles of aqueduct lines have been surveyed and mapped. Scores of test borings have been drilled. Many rain and stream gauges have been established. A laboratory for testing materials is being equipped. Available sand, gravel, stone, and cement for building aqueducts and dams are being prospected and tested. Samples of soil are being collected from the bottom of the Ashokan Reservoir, and will be analyzed to determine the necessity for stripping the reservoir to remove organic matter in order to maintain the excellent quality of the water to be stored in it. Many temporary field offices at convenient points have been leased, and designs for the necessary permanent offices are being studied. Triangulation stations for the survey of the reservoir site have been planted on the tops of the surrounding mountains, and good progress has been made on the survey. Much necessary information has been collected. Field and office methods have been systematized.

"While prosecuting its work with vigor, the Board of Water Supply has had the best ultimate economy constantly in view. Up to April 1, 1906, of the $1,002,000 appropriated for its work for the six months of 1905 and the current year the Board had actually expended only $229,271. Unpaid liabilities actually incurred are only $16,000, besides which there is in force one contract for test borings, under which no money has yet been earned by the contractor owing to delay caused by a taxpayer's injunction, which the court recently vacated. It is estimated that the total expenditures under this contract will not exceed $80,000.

"In conclusion the board desires to state that its organization is fully prepared to push active construction vigorously immediately upon the receipt of the approval of the city's application by the State Water Supply Commission."

GOTHAM HOTEL SALE RUMOR.

Report Denied, However, by a Director and Real Estate Agent.

According to a report published yesterday afternoon contracts have been signed for the sale of the Hotel Gotham, at the southwest corner of Fifth Avenue and Fifty-fifth Street. H. B. Cocheu, a Director in the Fifty-fifth Street Company, which owns the property, authorized a denial of this report and added that no negotiations which might be made the basis for such a report are pending. Bryan L. Kennelly, the broker mentioned in connection with the deal, also disclaimed having conducted any such negotiations.

The Gotham is a twenty-story structure, and was completed about a year ago. It is valued at about $3,000,000. Some entertaining features attended the opening of the hotel owing to the fact that its efforts to obtain a liquor license were successfully opposed by the Trustees of the Fifth Avenue Presbyterian Church, directly across the street. Subsequently there was an attempt to secure special legislation on this point in favor of the hotel, but the measure was defeated.

GOT A PERFECT POLICE MARK.

Logan, Who's Done Many Things, Gets 100 Per Cent.

In an examination for a place on the New York police force, John Francis Logan of 33 Taylor Street, Brooklyn, recently got the mark of 100 per cent. Taylor is the second man in twenty years to achieve this perfect mark. The other man was Harry Fulcher, now a policeman attached to the Adams Street Station in Brooklyn.

Logan is 5 feet 9 inches in height, weighs 165 pounds, and has a forty-one-inch chest, which expands 6 inches. He was born in Brooklyn, but has traveled all over the world. He served three years as a soldier in Cuba during the Spanish American war, was slightly wounded on four occasions, and also served at Fort Riley, Kansas, in the regular army.

Upon receiving his discharge from the army he joined "Buffalo Bill's" Wild West Show, touring Europe with the show as a rider. He next went to Panama as a Sergeant in the United States Panama police service. Not liking the climate he resigned and went to South America. Then he returned here to join the New York police force.

A deluge of flimsy fabrics has gone through the cravenetting process, which can rainproof even crape.

The results have been hard on the reputation of cravenetted coats, because few men realize that "Cravenette" is a process, not a cloth.

In our rain-coats we use nothing but all wool and fast color cloths that we can guarantee; making serviceable garments which should not be confounded with the "Cravenettes" freely offered at a fraction of our prices. $18 to $35.

CITY TO SAVE $780,000 ON LIGHTING CONTRACTS

New Bids Are That Much Lower Than Last Year's.

MAYOR HAS APPROVED THEM

Contracts All Ready and Will Be Signed This Week—Biggest Saving in Electricity.

There will be an annual saving of $780,000 a year to the city under the new lighting contracts, which have been approved by Mayor McClellan, Corporation Counsel Delany, and Commissioner Ellison of the Department of Water Supply, Gas and Electricity. These contracts will be signed before the current week is out. The saving noted is in comparison with the figures obtained by Commissioner Oakley, which were the last submitted by the lighting companies until the present figures furnished by Commissioner Ellison.

As a matter of fact, no bids were made for gas lighting, but the Stevens law fixes the maximum price that the gas companies may charge, and the bids made for the maintenance of the gas lamps plus the legal price for the gas that will be consumed, calculated on the consumption under the last contracts made, shows the saving.

After conferences with the Edison people and the Corporation Counsel, Commissioner Ellison succeeded in getting the company to agree to count all the lamps in Manhattan and the Bronx together. The bids were made at prices graded according to the number of lamps in use, but they were made separately for the different boroughs, and there was practically no possibility of the minimum price being reached.

For a 450-kilowatt lamp the price bid was $100 per lamp for the first 5,000 or less, with a reduction to $80 per lamp when the number reached 15,000. The company now agrees to count the lamps in Manhattan and the Bronx under one contract. The city now uses 4,650 such lamps and will pass the 5,000-mark before the end of the Summer. For all over 5,000 and less than 7,500 the price will be $95 a lamp, a year.

The greatest saving, however, is in the service of electric current. The new price is 7½ cents per kilowatt hour; the old price was 12 cents. For power the old price was 10 cents, and the new price is 6 cents, both showing a large reduction below the legal rate of 10 cents under the Stevens law.

In Brooklyn, where lamps of 825 kilowatt are the rule, the price is $90 per lamp. The city agrees to the figures, but under advice from the Corporation Counsel will not contract for the supply until arrangements can be made to replace the 825-power lamp with 450-power. The city also demands a modification of the rate asked by the Brooklyn Edison Company (12 cents per kilowatt hour) for the incandescent lighting of public buildings. The Commissioner holds that if the New York Edison, of which the Brooklyn company is a subsidiary company, can furnish the power at that rate the Brooklyn company can do as well.

SAVED HIS LACES, WANTS PAY.

Mrs. Miledeberger Helped Her Uncle Out of a Smuggling Scrape.

The suit against Thomas Emberson, who was indicted in 1899 for smuggling laces into the United States, by which Mrs. Emma L. Miledeberger, his niece, seeks to recover $5,000 for alleged services, was put on trial before Justice Davis in the Supreme Court yesterday.

The plaintiff alleges that on April 4, 1898, Emberson gave her power of attorney to take charge of his financial affairs. Soon after, she says, the defendant fled to Canada, because the Federal authorities were after him for smuggling fifty packages of laces into this country. These, she says, were seized, and later eighty-one similar packages were also taken by the Government.

Emberson was subsequently indicted, she declares, and she had the indictment dismissed and got $30,000 worth of laces back by paying $12,000 duty to the Government. She says that she also found customers for the laces. When Emberson returned he paid her only $600. The defendant says that amount was ample remuneration for her services.

Ex-Judge Dittenhoefer testified that Mrs. Miledeberger's services were worth more than $5,000. He acted as counsel for Emberson while the charges of smuggling were pending.

The plaintiff told of the various visits she had made to the offices of the Federal authorities in Emberson's behalf. She said she was constantly shadowed by Secret Service men.

MRS. HOWARD GOULD LOSES.

A Portrait Painter Gets a $5,682 Verdict Against Her.

A verdict for $5,682 was awarded to Henry J. Thaddeus, a portrait painter, against Mrs. Howard Gould by Justice Greenbaum in the Supreme Court yesterday. The artist sued for $5,000, the contract price of a full-length portrait of Mrs. Gould.

She declined to take the picture, partly because she thought it did not resemble her and partly, she said in her answer to the complaint, because Thaddeus had told about painting the picture after he had promised to keep it a secret, as she wanted to surprise her husband with it.

Counsel for Mrs. Gould moved for an adjournment because she and her husband are abroad. Justice Greenbaum denied the motion, and in addition to the amount sued for allowed Thaddeus $682 in costs and interest.

HURT BY FALLING WALLS.

Two Accidents of the Same Kind in Brooklyn Injure Workmen.

Several men were injured in different parts of Brooklyn yesterday by falling walls. The wall of a building under construction at Fiftieth Street and Sixth Avenue fell, burying a number of workmen. Hugh Reillel, of Fort Hamilton Avenue and Ninety-ninth Street, had an eye knocked out and received other injuries from which he may die. He and four other men were taken to the hospital.

The cement coating on the wall of a warehouse at Forty-sixth Street and Second Avenue crumbled and fell and carried down the scaffolding on which the men were working. Olaf Olesen of 77 Woodhull Street, and Adolph Gunnerson, of 151 President Street, were seriously injured.

MINERS' FINAL OFFER SENT TO OPERATORS

Most Features Objectionable to the Owners Now Eliminated.

10 PER CENT. INCREASE HOLDS

But the Demand is Modified So That It Will Chiefly Benefit Boys and Unskilled Laborers.

Special to The New York Times.

WILKESBARRE, Penn., April 26.—Two separate and distinct propositions, both final, were submitted to the anthracite operators to-night by President Mitchell and the General Scale Committee of the miners of the three hard coal districts. Both are shorn of all features heretofore objectionable to the operators, except the demand for a 10 per cent. increase in wages, which is modified so that breaker boys and other company employes shall get increases ranging from 15 per cent. down to 5 per cent., allowed for miners and other inside workers.

If either proposition is accepted, it will mean an increase in the cost of coal to the operators of 10 cents per ton, but the increase of wages demanded is distributed largely among the boys and inexperienced employes, while the large body of skilled laborers is surrendering all but a slight advance.

With the mailing of the proposition to President Baer of the Reading and the members of the operators' sub-committee a call was issued by President Mitchell and officers of the three anthracite districts for a convention of mine workers, to be held in Scranton on Thursday, for the purpose of hearing the report of the committee and of determining the policy to be pursued.

The new propositions submitted to the operators are textually as follows:

PROPOSITION NO. 1.

That the award of the Anthracite Strike Commission be renewed and continued in force, subject to the following modifications:

(a)—That all persons employed in the collieries, washeries, strippings, and breakers, who now receive—minus the sliding scale—$1 or less per day of nine hours shall have their wages advanced 15 per cent.

(b)—That all persons employed in the collieries, washeries, strippings, and breakers who now receive—minus the sliding scale—above $1 and not to exceed $1.25 per day of nine hours, shall have their wages advanced 12½ per cent.

(c)—That all persons employed in the collieries, washeries, strippings, and breakers who now receive—minus the sliding scale—above $1.25, but not to exceed $1.50 per day of nine hours shall have their wages advanced 10 per cent.

(d) That all persons employed in the collieries, washeries, strippings, and breakers who now receive—minus the sliding scale—above $1.50, but not to exceed $1.75 per day of nine hours, shall have their wages advanced 7½ per cent.

(e) That all other persons employed in the collieries, washeries, strippings, and breakers, including contract men, shall have their wages, allowances, and rates of payment—minus the sliding scale—advanced 5 per cent.

PROPOSITION NO. 2.

That an advance equal to 10 cents per ton upon the total production of anthracite coal be added to the wages and earnings of all persons employed in the collieries, washeries, strippings, and breakers; such advance to be added to the wages and rates fixed in the award of the Anthracite Coal Strike Commission; the apportionment to be on a percentage basis, in such manner as may be determined mutually between our respective committees.

"In formulating these two propositions," the document goes on to say, "we have eliminated every feature of our former proposals, to which you have objected except that of wages, and in the matter of wages we have kept in mind your oft-repeated statement that to grant our original demands would result in advancing the cost to the consumer of domestic coal $1.20 per ton. While we have not been able, even by the most careful analysis, to ascertain by what process of reasoning you have reached your conclusions as to the alleged necessity of an advance in cost amounting to $1.20 per ton, we beg to assure you that we have no desire, neither would we consent, to become parties to any compact that would increase the cost of domestic fuel $1.20 per ton.

"As indicated in the two propositions submitted herein, we propose a resumption of work upon a basis that would increase the labor cost of all coal produced by an amount not in excess of 10 cents per ton, and as between 60 and 70 per cent. of all coal produced is sold as prepared sizes, the increase in the labor cost of domestic fuel would not exceed 16 cents per ton.

"In passing judgment upon these propositions, we request that you give consideration to the conditions now existing in the anthracite fields. Years ago it was not uncommon for boys of 12, 10, and even 8 years of age to be employed in the breakers and to tend doors in the mines. As a result of legislative enactment no boy may now be employed in the breaker who is less than 14, or in the mine who is less than 16 years of age. It follows as a matter of common justice that the wage paid to a ten-year-old boy would be totally inadequate and unfair when paid to a boy of 14 or 16 years of age.

"And it will not be seriously contended that any man who receives less than $2 per day can support and educate his family in a manner at all conformable to American standards; especially in the mining industry, where men are not given the opportunity to work more than 225 days in any one year. And yet there are many thousands of boys who receive from 50 to 60 cents per day, and thousands upon thousands of men with families to support who receive between $1.25 and $1.75 per day.

"In considering the advance proposed for contract workers, we request that you keep in mind the great hazard incident to their employment and the skill and experience required by this class of labor. In the year 1905, 644 fatal accidents and more than 1,200 non-fatal accidents occurred in the anthracite mines. Of the larger proportion of these accidents, contract miners and their laborers were victims, and 1905 was not an exceptional year.

"For decades these terrible conditions have existed. Indeed, the whole region is filled with widows and orphans, with men maimed or sightless; the hospitals and charitable institutions are overtaxed with the victims of mine accidents. The support and maintenance of these unfortunates is borne in a large measure by those who depend upon the mining industry for their livelihood."

SUMMER COAL $7 A TON.

Retailers Say Operators Have Not Made the Usual Cut.

The price of coal in this city will be higher this Summer than it was at a corresponding time last year. Retailers sold stove, egg, and nut coal, the sizes used by the average householder, at $7 a ton yesterday. This time last year it sold for $5.85 a ton. The dealers said that the price of $7 would probably be maintained throughout the Summer, as nothing has developed as yet warranting the assumption that there will be an advance beyond this figure.

Coal is usually cheaper in Summer than it is in Winter, and the mine operators on April 1 each year generally reduce the price to retail dealers 50 cents a ton. When the trouble between the operators and the miners arose, the former guaranteed the retailers of this and other cities that they would not advance the price of coal this Summer. They haven't advanced the price, but they haven't decreased it as usual.

Pea coal, used for steam generation, will sell around $5 a ton, as against $3.75 a ton last year. This variety is also usually subject to a reduction of 50 cents a ton, but the decrease in price will not be allowed this year.

A retail dealer said yesterday:

"When the strike seemed certain the retail men had to make preparations for it. As a consequence, the charges for lighterage were very heavy. Retailers in this city had to hire every scow or other craft capable of carrying big quantities of coal and get a whole Summer's supply under cover before the trouble began. That cost money. This firm, for instance, has a $10,000 contract that must be filled at any cost. We had to buy and hire many boats to insure the receipt of the coal to fulfill it. Then wages have gone up. We are paying our hands here in the yards a greater amount than we paid last year, and that is so all over the city. It is an important item. There are many other things which figure in the situation and cause us extra expense."

WOMAN GUEST TOOK POISON.

Accident, Says Belleclaire's Manager, but Mrs. Dumont Is Under Arrest.

A young woman, who gave her name as Mrs. Ivan Dumont, swallowed two corrosive-sublimate tablets at the Hotel Belleclaire, Seventy-seventh Street and Broadway, last night. It was contended at the hotel that she took them by accident, but she was held at Roosevelt Hospital as a prisoner on the charge of attempted suicide.

Mrs. Dumont has been a guest at the Belleclaire, off and on, for two or three years. She comes from New Orleans, and appears to have plenty of money. The last time she was in New York she was accompanied by a baby and nurse, but this time she came alone.

Last night she telephoned from her room to Milton Roblee, proprietor of the hotel, to say she had taken poison and was in urgent need of help. Dr. Castelli, the hotel physician, was at once summoned, and he called in Dr. Henry McAdams of 233 West Seventy-second Street, who ordered that Mrs. Dumont be removed to Roosevelt Hospital. Detectives are working on the case.

BARRED BY BLACK SKINS.

Des Moines Hotel Men Decline to Entertain Negro Presbyterians.

Special to The New York Times.

DES MOINES, Iowa, April 26.—Negro delegates to the Presbyterian General Assembly, which will be held here in May, will be barred from all the hotels and must be taken into the homes of prominent members of their denomination in this city.

The Committee on Arrangements for the General Assembly held a session to-day at which the situation was discussed. The proprietors of all hotels who had been consulted by the Chairman of the committee, steadfastly insisted that they would close their doors before admitting a negro delegate.

They were informed that many of the delegates were men of National prominence, including President D. J. Sanders of Biddle University, South Carolina, and others of standing almost equal to that of Booker T. Washington.

The landlords said it made no difference so long as their skin was black. The Chairman discovered that some of the leading members of the local churches were disposed to draw the color line, and appointed a sub-committee to arrange to secure accommodations for negro delegates in private families which were less particular.

SHAW CENTRE OF TROUBLE.

Secretary's Visit to St. Louis Made in Trying Circumstances.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, April 26.—There was no demonstration to-day to mark the arrival of Secretary Shaw. For several minutes he remained at Union Station waiting for the Reception Committee to discover him, and he threatened to become his own Reception Committee.

A dinner was served to a party of eighteen at the Hotel Jefferson, at which mingled the faithful and the hoi polloi. The diner was not of Sim Harris's planning, nor was he permitted to sit at the table. It was arranged by National Committeeman Akins and State Chairman Niedringhaus. But, though Harris was not allowed to partake of the feast, he had his revenge later.

As Secretary of the Missouri League of Republican Clubs, which invited Mr. Shaw here, he refused to permit Akins or Niedringhaus to sit on the stage to-night. Akins sought to get around this by procuring a box for his wife and several ladies who were to be her guests.

When Harris found that Akins intended to sit in the box he caused an order to be issued that no men would be allowed to sit in boxes; that they would be reserved exclusively for ladies. Thus Akins was thwarted again.

Secretary Shaw had sharp competition. He delivered his address in Music Hall, in the centre of the Exposition Building, while a dog show was in progress in the west wing and a roller skating rink in the east, with only a thin plank wall between. The noise was a constant annoyance, and prevented many in the audience from catching the speaker's words.

APPORTIONMENT PLAN MADE; ODELL BEATEN

ROSALSKY TO KEEP POWER

Richmond and Queens to be Coupled as the Second District—Suffolk and Nassau Joined.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 26.—Following a meeting this afternoon of the Apportionment Committees of both houses of the Legislature, at which a plan for apportioning the Senate districts of the State was agreed upon, a caucus of the Republican Senators was held to-night, at which the committees' plan was adopted, but not without some hard fights.

The feature of to-day's action was the absolute ignoring of the Odell-Halpin plan for the reapportionment of New York County and the adoption in its entirety of the Parsons-Page plan. The Parsons plan makes three Senate districts safe for the Republicans. These districts comprise the territory now within the Fifteenth, Seventeenth, and Nineteenth Senate Districts. The Republican leaders who will, no doubt, have a say about the nominees in these safe districts are Page, Gilman, Colby, Wilson, Parsons, Gruber, A. R. Page, and McKee.

The Parsons plan also makes possible the continued leadership of Judge Rosalsky in what is now the Eighth Assembly District. The Odell plan would have so changed the Assembly district lines as to put Rosalsky and Adler out of business. This was one of the features on which the biggest fight was made. Mr. Parsons said no later than yesterday that he would not stand for any plan that would knock out good Republican leaders who deserved good treatment at the party's hands.

The Democrats are reasonably sure of nine of the twelve New York Senate districts. Under the reapportionment, the membership of the Senate is increased by one, and that additional member goes to Kings. This would give Kings eight Senators, four of whom will be Republicans. The Woodruff plan was closely followed.

For the first time in more than fifty years Richmond County will not be a part of the First Senatorial District. It is to be coupled with Queens and constitute the new Second District. Outside of the New York and Kings County Districts, the Queens-Richmond District exceeds in population every other district in the State.

The new Second is heavily Democratic. Suffolk and Nassau are joined as the First District, and will be heavily Republican. For many years Suffolk and Richmond have made the First District, and owing to the almost even break between Suffolk and Richmond, politically, a First District Senator has never been able to get a re-election.

Westchester County entire constitutes the new Twenty-third, and is continued as a single district, giving William L. Ward control of a Senator if a Republican be elected. Orange and Rockland make the new Twenty-fourth. As heretofore, the Senatorial delegates will be controlled by Odell and Judge Tompkins. It is a safe Republican district.

Lou Payn's district, the new Twenty-fifth, composed of Columbia, Dutchess, and Putnam, has not been disturbed. Ulster and Greene are continued as one district, only the number being changed to the Twenty-sixth.

Brackett gets a hard rap by having Washington County taken from his district. This leaves him Saratoga and Schenectady. The taking away of Washington deprives Brackett of strong allies.

Barnes keeps control of Albany and ex-Gov. Black of Rensselaer. Of single districts, Essex, Clinton, and Washington are joined as the new Thirty-second. This puts Secretary of State O'Brien and Isaac V. Baker, Jr., in a district together.

Senator Malby's district remains the same, as does Senator Coggeshall's. This is also true of Senator Cobb's. Senator Wilcox's district has Yates added to Seneca and Cayuga, and makes it more solidly Republican than ever.

Raines's district is undisturbed. George Aldrich continues to control two Senate districts. Senator Tully loses Yates and gains Allegany and increases the Republican plurality. Stevens loses Allegany but gains Genesee. This brings Congressman Wadsworth and Archie C. D. Sanders into the same district, and between them they may defeat Stevens for a renomination. This condition of affairs brought out a stiff kick from Stevens at the caucus.

L'Hommedieu loses Genesee, which will greatly reduce his plurality, but he will have to deal with the delegates from but two counties. Erie County retains three districts as before. The lines, however, have been so changed as to make two districts absolutely safe for the Republicans, and one safe for the Democrats. The new Fifty-first District is composed of Chatauqua and Cattaraugus.

That the Odell plan was hopeless was made sure after Saxe had made a plea for it, and Elsberg had tried delay tactics by moving that the whole matter be referred to a committee, to report on Tuesday next. This was lost, 28 to 6.

The greater part of the session was devoted to speeches by Malby for Odell, and Brackett and L'Hommedieu for their own districts. When it was finally seen that delay could not mend matters, the plan of the committee as outlined above was agreed to by the caucus, and will be reported to the Senate to-morrow.

RAID SECRET CONGRESS.

Get Executive Committees of Revolutionists in St. Petersburg.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 26.—Apparently convinced that the new organization of the unemployed is a cover for the long-predicted renewal of armed revolt simultaneous with the convocation of the National Parliament, and being determined not to be caught napping as they were at the zenith of the movement led by Father Gapon, the police to-day again descended upon the Socialist Labor leaders and bagged the entire Executive Committees of the St. Petersburg Social Democrats and Social Revolutionists and a number of prominent labor leaders who were holding a secret congress in the capital.

Several meetings had been held, and the speeches rivaled in virulence the famous meetings of the Workmen's Council during the October strike. The police had held off, hoping to bag the entire congress, but the tip was given, and a majority of the members escaped. These members are so enraged at the arrest of their leaders that they threaten giant demonstrations by the unemployed, which will be certain to result in bloodshed.

FATHER GAPON IN FINLAND.

Priest Reported Hanged Now Said to be Living at Kukokola.

LONDON, Friday, April 27.—The Daily Mail's St. Petersburg correspondent says that Father Gapon is living quietly at Kukokola, Finland.

It was recently asserted that he had been captured and hanged by revolutionists; also that he was a prisoner of the Holy Synod.

BARNES ESCAPES THE PROBE.

Party Vote Protects Roosevelt's Nominee for Washington Postmastership.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Senator Penrose's Committee on Post Offices and Post Roads to-day killed the proposition to investigate the conduct of Benjamin F. Barnes on the occasion of the ejection of Mrs. Minor Morris from the White House. The result was achieved by a strictly party vote.

Barnes, who is Assistant Secretary to the President, has been nominated by the latter for Postmaster of Washington. Senator Tillman filed charges against him with the committee and named a number of independent eye-witnesses of the ejection whom he wanted summoned. The committee refused to summon them, and ordered that the nomination of Barnes be favorably reported.

The majority votes were cast by Chairman Penrose and Senators Proctor, Burrows, Scott, Crane, Fulton, Hopkins, and Carter, all Republicans. In the minority were Senators Clay, Culberson, Simmons, and Rayner, all Democrats.

WILL OF E. S. WILLING.

Son Gets Bulk of Estate—The Daughters $225,000 Each.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—The bulk of the $1,000,000 left by Edward S. Willing, who died at his residence, 510 South Broad Street, on April 10, is devised to his son, John R. Barton Willing, and his two daughters, Ava Lowle Willing Astor, wife of John Jacob Astor, and Susan Ridgway Willing Lawrence, widow of Francis Cooper Lawrence, Jr.

Mr. Willing's will appoints his son executor, and leaves $225,000 to each of his daughters. The balance of the estate goes to his son, with the exception of bequests of $3,000 each to his granddaughters, Eleanor W. Patterson and Violet W. Morris; his niece, Ella W. Jackson, and his nephew, Richard F. Willing.

There are a number of specific bequests disposing of heirlooms and jewels.

FIGHT IN FIFTH AVENUE HOTEL

Two Men Come to Blows Over Use of Republican Headquarters 'Phone.

There was a fight late yesterday afternoon in the headquarters of the State Republican Committee, at the Fifth Avenue Hotel, and soon a hatless man ran to the sidewalk, calling for police protection. It was near at hand; for Policeman McCabe of the traffic squad stood at the nearest corner.

McCabe learned that a man had asked to use the headquarters telephone, and that the man in charge of the office had refused to permit it. The man who wished to use the instrument then, it is alleged, slapped the other in the face, and the clerk used a chair with telling effect. McCabe locked up the man who wished to telephone in the Tenderloin Station on the charge of assault. The prisoner said he was William Smith of Buffalo. The complainant said he was James Blatchman of 341 Bedford Avenue, Brooklyn.

Friends who came to bail out "Smith," according to the police, said that he was William Hazzard. "Smith" was bailed by William Leary, who said he lived at 67 East Fifty-fourth Street.

JUMPED FROM A FERRYBOAT.

Elderly Woman Rescued from East River After Attempting Suicide.

Mrs. Annie Moore, 49 years old, of Freeport, L. I., is in St. John's Hospital, Long Island City, suffering from shock and exposure due to her having jumped into the East River from a ferryboat yesterday afternoon. At the hospital it is said that the woman appears to be a victim of melancholia. Her condition is serious. She was rescued from the river by a deckhand, assisted by two policemen.

Mrs. Moore reached Long Island City by train from Freeport about 4:30 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and boarded the ferryboat Rockaway for Manhattan. After the boat had left the slip the woman suddenly jumped from her seat in the cabin, rushed out on the after deck, climbed the rail, and plunged into the river.

The woman floated away from the Rockaway, but fortunately was carried in the direction of the ferryboat Sag Harbor, which was approaching the slip with a load of passengers from Manhattan. Among them were Policeman Bernard Starkey of the Seventy-fifth Precinct and Policeman John Kenell of the Twenty-fourth Precinct.

James Burns, a deckhand, got a ladder and a rope. The Sag Harbor ran close to the woman and the two policemen lowered the ladder down the side. Burns descended it and succeeded in getting the rope under her arms.

TEXAS TOWNS WRECKED BY TORNADO AND FIRE

Only Three Houses Left Standing in Bellevue.

HICO AND HAMILTON SUFFER

Relief Train on the Way from Bowie—Telegraphic Communication Interrupted.

Special to The New York Times.

DALLAS, Texas, April 26.—A tornado swept over Clay County, in North Texas, at 7:15 o'clock this evening.

Bellevue and Stoneburg were wiped off the map, and there was a heavy loss of life in both places.

A special train was started from Bowie, which is about twelve miles from Bellevue, as soon as the news of the tornado reached that place. Physicians and trained nurses, with medical and surgical supplies, were aboard.

The news came to Bowie shortly after 8 o'clock, when a messenger on horseback dashed into the town to implore aid. He said there was not a house left standing, and that there were dead and injured people on every hand.

He said that fire had followed almost on the heels of the storm, the household fires and lamps setting the ruins ablaze. By the time he reached Bowie the reflection of the flames could plainly be seen.

The reports are very meagre from Stoneburg. All the news to be had had come by the way of Henrietta, which dispatched relief parties to the village.

Bellevue and Stoneburg were not the only towns to suffer. Hamilton and Hico were both in the path of the storm, and while there was no loss of life there, as far as has been learned, the property loss was very heavy.

A telephone message from the City Marshal of Hico says that the tornado practically destroyed Hamilton, and that while from messages that have reached him he does not believe there was any loss of life there, it is quite possible that later advices from the town may add to the death list.

The tornado struck Hamilton and Hico about 6:15 o'clock, so that if it was the same storm that swept Bellevue and Stoneburg it must have covered the 100 miles intervening in about an hour.

BELLEVUE, Texas, April 26.—A tornado which swept through this place to-night destroyed everything in its path, and as a result probably the entire town is a mass of ruins.

Only three buildings are now standing, at least eleven persons are dead, and a number are injured.

The tornado was followed by fire, which consumed the wreckage.

This report is being sent from the top of a telephone pole, a mile from Bellevue, but it is as close as a wire can be had.

The town of Bellevue consisted of over 200 houses. Among those who are known to have been killed are:

R. L. Russell, wife and four children.

A. D. Carr.

Tom Mount.

W. W. Bell, candidate for County Treasurer of Clay County.

Two members of Gray family.

The seriously injured:

Two daughters of N. E. Smith of Bowie.

Mrs. Gault.

Mr. Gray and seven members of his family, two of whom have since died.

Mrs. McGraw.

The whole business section of the town and all stocks of merchandise were destroyed.

A. D. Carr was caught in a building, and crushed to death. His body is believed to have been cremated.

The tornado was a mile wide and traveled eight miles, leveling everything in its path, ruining crops and destroying all farmhouses and buildings on the way. This section is thickly settled and it will be to-morrow before there are complete reports of the dead.

Every house was equipped with a storm cellar. The people ran to them as soon as they heard the tornado approaching.

Those who had no storm cellars or could not reach them were the ones who suffered.

DEAN'S GAMBLING WARNING.

Will Expel Any New York University Law Students Caught at It.

Dean Clarence D. Ashley of New York University School of Law, issued a warning yesterday to the law students under his tutelage to the effect that any one caught gambling would be expelled and criminally prosecuted.

This step has been taken, it is understood, because some of the students had been in the habit of leaving the lecture room during study hours and playing "craps" and other games in the smoking room. The Dean threatened to report the matter to the State Examiners with a view to preventing those who were caught gambling from admission to the bar.

The students say that if any card playing or dice throwing was indulged in at the university, it was merely for amusement. Now that the affair has leaked out, it is said that there will be no more games.

THE TEXAS IN PERIL.

Hole in Battleship's Bow Was Reopened in a Gale.

BOSTON, April 26.—The battleship Texas arrived here to-day after a dangerous experience in a storm while on her way from Charleston, S. C., to this port, to which she was ordered for permanent repairs on account of an accident while blowing up a derelict off the Florida coast.

The battleship has a hole in the bow as a result of striking a part of the wrecked derelict. That was patched at Charleston, so that the vessel could sail for Boston, but the temporary repair work was weakened in a gale on the way up the coast, and a great volume of water poured into the berth deck of the battleship.

Vigorous work at the pumps relieved the danger. The Texas was placed in the dry dock immediately on her arrival here.

LIMIT ON NEWS SPECIALS.

500 Words a Day from San Francisco the Rule Up to Yesterday.

The delay in telegraphic communication with San Francisco has affected the special service of all the newspapers. No single newspaper in the United States, up to yesterday, was allowed to receive a dispatch of more than 500 words a day over the Western Union wires from San Francisco and Oakland. This rule was made during the confusion immediately following the earthquake. The limit to a special newspaper dispatch set by the Postal Telegraph Company during the same period has been 100 words.

The Associated Press, because of the wide territory it serves and the fact that its information is generally distributed among the newspapers of the country, has been, according to custom, an exception to the rule, and its reports have been full and prompt.

First news of the earthquake had hardly reached the corners of the country when newspaper correspondents began to flock into San Francisco. There are so many there now, Assistant General Manager Barclay of the Western Union said yesterday, that if they had unlimited privileges the company would be swamped and private business could not be attended to.

"We simply had to set a limit on the dispatches," said Mr. Barclay when he was asked yesterday about the rule. "Much as we have done since the earthquake, normal service is not yet restored and will not be for several weeks. The rule applies to every newspaper, but not to The Associated Press. We think that, with conditions as they are, any paper ought to be able to get along with the Associated Press account and with a skeletonized dispatch of 500 words. That is the best we can do now."

Until the day before yesterday nearly all special and commercial dispatches from San Francisco were delayed at least twenty-four hours.

INSISTS ON CONTRIBUTING.

Berlin City Council Resolves That It Has a Right to Give Us Money.

BERLIN, April 26.—At a meeting of the Berlin City Council to-night the President referred feelingly to the disasters at San Francisco and in the vicinity of Mount Vesuvius. He said that although President Roosevelt had proudly declared that the United States was not in need of foreign assistance, and notwithstanding the munificent amount which had already been collected for the relief of the sufferers in California, it was Berlin's duty to contribute.

The President then moved that the Mayor express to Ambassador Tower Berlin's deepest sympathy and inform him that "we have a right and duty to assist." The Council agreed to the resolution.

The City Council of Stuttgart to-day adopted a resolution of sympathy with the San Francisco sufferers and appropriated $120 for the fund being raised for the Vesuvius sufferers, $120 for the families of the victims of the mining disaster at Courrieres, France, and $750 for those left destitute by a recent disaster in the Black Forest, Germany, where a newly built hotel collapsed with the loss of fifty lives.

A shot fired by the gunboat to bring the bark to struck a house on shore and killed two of the inmates.

TIFLIS, April 26.—A band of robbers in the guise of soldiers robbed the Treasury at Dushet, near Tiflis, to-day of $117,500.

CARNEGIE'S COLLEGE YELL.

"Hi-Ka, Li-Ka, K-e-n-y-o-n," He Shouted at Students' Command.

Special to The New York Times.

GAMBIER, Ohio, April 26.—Andrew Carnegie attended the Edwin M. Stanton Day ceremonies here to-day. He was the principal speaker.

"In these days of materialism," he said, "when so many are devoted to the pursuit of wealth as an end, the aim and value of a Stanton, who placed his country above popularity, fame, or wealth, cannot be overestimated."

At the Kenyon College luncheon after the ceremonies the students had a little celebration of their own. Carnegie having been conferred the degree of Doctor of Laws by the college, they taught him the college yell: "Hi-ka, li-ka, K-e-n-y-o-n, Ken-yon, Ken-yon."

Carnegie repeated it. They insisted upon his yelling it. He did so with apparent enjoyment.

WASHINGTON'S DIARY SOLD.

Purchased by Library of Congress at Pennypacker Sale for $700.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—The total sum realized by the sale of Gov. Pennypacker's library was $8,739.95. The greatest interest in the auction to-day attached to the Washingtonia. Washington's diary of twenty-two pages of manuscript in his own hand, written in 1767, was purchased by the Library of Congress for $700. A volume of pamphlets gathered and bound by Gen. Washington, containing his autograph and armorial book plate, went to Dodd, Mead & Co. of New York for $525.

A splendid illuminated manuscript of the fifteenth century in sixteenth century binding was bought by William J. Campbell of this city for $280.

ANGRY GOVERNOR IN SAN FRANCISCO

Pardee Refuses to Withdraw the Militia.

CITY MUST REMAIN DARK

Experts Fear to Have Lights Turned On.

CITIZENS GET ALL FUNDS

Dr. Devine of the Red Cross Plans the Distribution of Supplies—Special Camp for the Chinese.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 26.—Friction between the citizens of San Francisco and Gov. Pardee over the requests for the withdrawal of the State troops and for a special session of the Legislature came to a head to-day.

Gov. Pardee, who has not attended the conferences of the Citizens' Committee and the military authorities for several days, came to Fort Mason to-day and met Mayor Schmitz and the members of the Citizens' Committee, Major Gen. Greely, in command of the Federal troops, and Dr. Edward Devine of the Red Cross. Both matters under dispute were thrashed out, but the Governor did not accede to either request of the city leaders.

Gov. Pardee opened the discussion by bringing up the request of Mayor Schmitz and his committee for the withdrawal of the National Guard from San Francisco. He spoke highly in favor of the National Guard and referred to the splendid service performed in the war with Spain. He said he regarded the request for their removal as a reflection on a well organized and highly efficient body of men.

Pardee Too Indignant to Talk.

Gov. Pardee plainly declared that he was indignant over the attitude taken against the guard and the charges preferred. In fact, he was so indignant that he thought it best not to make any further remarks.

Mayor Schmitz immediately replied in conciliatory fashion that he and his committee had not made any charges against the guard. On the contrary, they had thanked the Governor for the militia's services. If charges had been made they were made by outsiders. The object in making the request for the withdrawal of the troops was to concentrate the control of the city in the Federal troops and to prevent conflict of orders.

Major Gen. Greely here felt it necessary to interpose and explain. He said that so far as he knew there was no conflict of authority, and that, as a United States Army officer, he could not assume charge of the State militia. The Mayor was the head of the city, and every request made by him had been followed and he would continue to recognize the authority of the Mayor in giving directions for the safety of the people. The civil authority was superior to the military, and the Mayor was the only head that he would recognize.

The State troops have not yet been withdrawn, and the meeting adjourned without any announcement that they would be.

Call for a Special Session.

The question of a special session of the State Legislature caused some debate. Garrett McInerney, representing the lawyers of San Francisco, requested Gov. Pardee to state whether a special session of the Legislature would be called. He said that certain legislation was necessary and that a good deal of uncertainty and uneasiness would be felt until some definite announcement was made by the Governor.

James D. Phelan added that the bankers of San Francisco were also anxious for a special session.

Gov. Pardee replied that it was his present intention to have a special session, but that he did not purpose to take any hasty action.

Mayor Schmitz closed the discussion by making a formal call on the Governor for a special session of the Legislature.

There was a long discussion over the advisability of starting a number of electric street railway lines. The committee did not yet feel that all danger of fire from this source was passed, and the Mayor finally appointed a committee to investigate and report on this subject.

Capt. Payson of the Water Committee made a report about the water supply. He said that a number of the city's most important reservoirs had been destroyed or much damaged, and the water pipes were in no condition to meet the demand. There was no storage water for fire purposes, and consequently no means of protection against fire if it should break out at this time.

Herrmann Schussler, the Spring Valley Water Company's chief engineer, expressed the opinion that it would be unwise to experiment with the electric lines. He compared the unburned portion of the city to a "lot of kindling wood standing on end," and said that "since we have saved that much of the city we should do nothing which might endanger it now."

Citizens Control All Finances.

Chairman James D. Phelan made a statement for the Finance Committee. He said that the plan for the handling of the relief fund as outlined in President Roosevelt's proclamation of Wednesday was perfectly satisfactory to the Finance Committee. He stated that the idea was to centralize the control of the fund in one body. Gov. Pardee then turned over to him control of the contributions which had been sent daily to the Governor. Brig. Gen. Funston also formally surrendered the $35,000 remaining unused of the $50,000 contributed by the Guggenheim interests.

APRIL 1906

Thus, control of the entire relief fund is now in the hands of the Finance Committee. The Rev. Mr. Baker of Oakland was made a member of the Finance Committee, to represent Gov. Pardee.

Gen. Greely announced at noon that the army had taken over control of the relief stations for the distribution of food. Distribution will be under a system devised by Dr. Devine, the special agent of the Red Cross Society. Gen. Greely said that waste and "repeating" under the new system of distribution would not occur.

Gen. Greely said that he had divested himself as far as possible of all departmental duties, which would continue in the hands of Gen. Funston, and would devote himself to the sanitation of the city, the unusual relations of the army with the city, and to other special affairs.

Col. George Torney, who is in immediate command of sanitation, announced that the situation was encouraging. Every pecaution had been taken in the city parks, where tens of thousands of people were finding shelter. The control of the city parks had been transferred to the city Board of Health, and Col. Torney said that the daily reports of Dr. James W. Ward, Health Officer, were favorable.

If a suggestion made by Col. Torney is adopted, a camp for Chinese will be established on the golf links of the Presidio, controlled by the army. Col. Torney said the Chinese, confident of the ability of the Federal Government to give them the fullest protection, had expressed their willingness to camp there. The final disposition of these people could then be made as the city saw fit.

Plans for Spending Relief Fund.

What to do with the immense amount of money that has been contributed to the relief of San Francisco's homeless people was the question that to-day received careful consideration by all those now engaged in relief work. So many inquiries have come to the heads of the various departments, civil and military, asking for and by whom the money contributed would be expended, that The Associated Press was asked to communicate to the country the assurance that every dollar would be put to the use for which it was intended.

While the complete details of disbursing and accounting for the immense sum of money already contributed have not been formulated, they have been thoroughly discussed in committee, and may be briefly stated as follows:

All expenditures will be authorized by the Finance Committee of the Citizens' and the Red Cross funds. The members of this committee are bankers, business men, and jurists of San Francisco, and Dr. Devine of the National Red Cross Society. This committee will audit all accounts and make a detailed report to the War Department, where a final audit and statement will be made.

At noon to-day the distribution of food to the City of San Francisco was formally turned over to the United States Army. Under this system many abuses that have prevailed in the giving out of supplies by various local and outside relief organizations, acting independently, will be discontinued, and the direction of all the stations will be centralized in the depot of the Quartermaster of the United States Army, at the post under Major Duvol.

Red Cross Works for Harmony.

The impression, which seems to have prevailed in Eastern cities, that there was friction over the concentration and distribution of Red Cross supplies was corrected to-day by Dr. Devine, General Agent of the Red Cross Society, who repeated his assertion of yesterday that absolute harmony prevailed and that the work was carried on to the entire satisfaction of everybody. He wished it to be known that the Red Cross work had been carried out in a most satisfactory manner and that the transfer of all its supplies now on hand would be made without the slightest confusion.

The reports from the leading hospitals at the Presidio and at Golden Gate Park to-day showed that the number of patients is fewer than yesterday. The decrease is probably due to the fact that the privilege of free transportation over the railroads to any part of the State expired at noon to-day, and many of the patients who were suffering from minor injuries and complaints left the hospitals in time to take advantage of the generosity of the railroads.

A statement by Dr. James H. Ward, President of the Board of Health, to-day, showed that there are now thirty hospitals in use, all the smaller institutions established during the confusion of the first few days following the fire having been abolished and the patients removed to the larger establishments. Tuberculosis hospitals have been established separately from the others.

Every well and other source of water supply throughout the city is examined by competent Inspectors, to provide against any possibility of contamination. The garbage of the city is taken out to sea in barges. All unsanitary camps have been removed, and the ground which they occupied has been quarantined. The medical supplies have been concentrated at the Presidio General Hospital, and from there distributed to the various hospitals and relief stations.

A most rigid inspection is maintained, and any case of contagious disease is promptly isolated and quarantined.

The Oakland Tribune to-day says:

"An engineer states that the area devastated by fire in San Francisco approximates 10,000 acres, or about 15 square miles. There are few cities in the world where so much valuable property was contained in an equal territory. Within this 15 square miles were nearly 100 banks, some of the finest buildings in the world, thousands of mercantile and manufacturing establishments, and more than 230,000 inhabitants, besides 40,000 transients.

"Notwithstanding the enormous and widespread destruction, the homes of 150,000 people are still standing and practically uninjured. There still remain the great shipyards at the Potrero, the Pacific Mail docks, the stock yards at South San Francisco, the docks and manufactories along the water front from Mission Creek to Hunter's Point, the Mint, Post Office, and a large retail district on Fillmore and Devisadero Streets."

One of the most encouraging reports with reference to the work of rebuilding the burned district is that of the San Francisco Planing Mill Owners' Association. Fifteen of the thirty-nine mills escaped the fire, and two of them are now in operation. The association says it will soon be in position to furnish all the mill work necessary.

Three of the handsomest buildings in the business district of this city are to be restored as soon as men and material can be obtained. The first of these is the St. Francis Hotel, the second the Crocker building, and the third the Shrove building. The interior of these structures was burned out. Their reconstruction will consist of practically nothing but a replacing of floors, partitions and fittings. This announcement is official.

President L. P. Ripley of the Santa Fé Railroad has given instructions to spend immediately the $300,000 recently set aside for the completion of the company's China Basin Terminal. During the past two years the Santa Fé has spent over $2,000,000 in filling in the basin and preparing it for tracks and freight warehouses. The $300,000 is to be used for building the tracks and warehouses and thus put the terminal in shape for use within the next sixty days.

Quick Relief by Steamer.

The steamer Buckman of the Alaska Line, in command of Capt. E. B. Wood, arrived here late last night with volunteer physicians, Red Cross nurses, and a cargo of 2,200 tons of provisions and supplies for the homeless people of this city.

The Buckman was sent to San Francisco by the Chambers of Commerce of Seattle and Tacoma to carry relief. A large sum of money was raised by the two Northern cities, and no ship was ever loaded and put out of a Pacific Coast port in so short a time as was the Buckman.

The vessel sailed from Seattle Sunday night and made fast last night to the Government transport dock, where Secretary Sheffield of the Alaska Club of Seattle, who is in charge of the cargo, immediately turned it over to the military authorities.

The cargo brought by the Buckman was carefully chosen. It contains milk, canned goods of every variety, meats of all kinds, cereals, even tobacco, matches, and corncob pipes. On the way down from Seattle the crew and passengers baked several thousand loaves of bread to be ready for immediate distribution upon arrival. The Buckman also brought 3,000 blankets and 400 tents.

Marines Destroy Liquor.

The marines yesterday destroyed a considerable quantity of liquor in that section of the city in which they hold sway. This branch of the navy controls and polices the best portion of the residence district, and although they have ruled with an iron hand, their authority has been exercised with such good judgment and discretion that not a single complaint has been made.

It was understood by storekeepers whose places escaped that they could open for business, but they overlooked the fact that only such places as had no bars attached would be permitted to do so. As a result a detail of marines destroyed hundreds of dollars' worth of liquor yesterday in places which had been opened. Other proprietors had the choice of closing again or having their stock poured into the street.

With the relaxation of the military law and the abolishing of passes permitting people to return to the city, thousands of curiosity seekers were attracted from across the bay to-day.

A panic was narrowly averted on the ferryboat Piedmont as the vessel was making a trip to this city. Thousands of persons crowded both decks of the steamer, and standing room was scarce. Opposite Goat Island the paddle wheel struck an abandoned scow with a crash.

Many of the passengers ran to the opposite side of the boat, which listed heavily. The cry went up that it was capsizing, and a mad rush was made for life preservers. They were torn from the cases and quickly donned. The officers were unable to cope with the throng, and it was not until the vessel had been safely docked that order was restored.

The steamer Alameda arrived yesterday from Honolulu, having on board a cargo of sugar, which will probably be distributed by the Relief Committee.

G. H. Umbsen, a real estate dealer, a passenger on the Alameda, said:

"Instead of being of assistance to us in our hour of need, the people of Honolulu will find that when San Francisco is in trouble the entire group of Hawaiian Islands must also suffer. Unless provisions reach Honolulu within a short time the residents there will likely be in dire straits."

NO TIP OF $100,000.

Bell Boy Brought Good News to San Franciscan, but Wasn't Made Rich.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—"I will give $100,000 for news of my family," said E. S. Harrison of San Francisco today, pacing the lobby of the Bellevue-Stratford in a distracted way. "I haven't had a line of news," he continued to friends, "and I am nearly crazy. Yes, I will give $100,000 for a telegram. Even bad news would be better than this."

As he finished speaking a bellboy called "Mr. Harrison."

"That's it, boy," shouted the excited man, taking the envelope from the tray.

"They are safe!" he shouted joyfully.

Questioned later the bellboy exhibited a ten-cent tip. Mr. Harrison still has his $100,000.

Some Get to Oregon and Governors Exchange Telegrams.

Special to The New York Times.

SALEM, Ore., April 26.—Several small children, unable to identity themselves and without accompanying kindred, have been sent on refugee trains coming to Oregon from San Francisco. Gov. Chamberlain of Oregon to-day telegraphed to Gov. Pardee of California, saying:

"Many children and some babies are coming through here unidentified and unaccompanied by any one, cared for only by strangers. Can they not be gathered together for subsequent identification? As it is they will be lost to their parents."

To this Gov. Pardee replied thus: "Telegram about children received. Have informed San Francisco and Oakland committees. Oakland has established place for children. No distress or sickness yet. Oregon has helped us very greatly."

RELIEF WORKERS HUSTLING

British Tourists in the Disaster—Harriman Says Troops Saved the Day—But Everybody Helped.

From a Staff Correspondent.

OAKLAND, April 26.—Here is an illustration of the way in which the relief work is being done in San Francisco.

The Los Angeles Citizens' Committee and the Chamber of Commerce of that city sent an expedition to furnish hot meals to the refugees in the districts where the necessity was the greatest. The expedition consisted of thirty-five cars, with every sort of supplies, eighty cooks, fifteen carpenters, eighty horses, and many wagons and motor cars. The expedition even brought its own water and ice.

Within three hours of its arrival five cooking camps had been established in the Potrero district and 1,500 hot meals, consisting of soup, roast beef and potatoes, biscuits, bread and butter, and coffee were being served.

E. H. Harriman, President of the Southern Pacific, who is living in his private car at the Oakland station and superintending the relief and other work of the railroad, told me this morning that he believed it was the magnificent discipline of the Federal troops that had saved the day, but it seems to me that almost every one concerned deserves equal credit.

Certainly it would be hard to find a finer body of men than the California State Militia or men more efficient and forbearing, while the local police and the State and local officials have all been indefatigable and cool-headed. The only men about whom complaints have been made were the hastily organized citizens' guards, composed in part of youths. These have now been disarmed and disbanded.

As for the spirit of the people, that, I hope, was sufficiently indicated in my dispatch yesterday, but it may be added that a large proportion of the refugees absolutely refuse to accept free food, declaring that their self-respect would suffer. They have insisted on paying for all they receive.

Every one with whom I have talked is impressed beyond everything else with the admirable fortitude of the people.

"I didn't hear a whimper anywhere," remarked Secretary Metcalf to-day.

The Secretary went on to say that while his conversations with prominent San Franciscans on the train coming here had made him extremely hopeful of the future of the city, what he had seen since his arrival had made him not only hopeful, but confident. That also is Mr. Harriman's view. The city will be rebuilt at once, he declared emphatically.

It has been made certain to-day that almost the whole damage done by the earthquake shock mentioned in my telegram yesterday was to buildings. Only one life was lost—that of a woman who was working in the kitchen of her home in the Mission district. She was instantly killed by the fall of the chimney, which crashed through the roof.

There are many English tourists here, most of them on the way to Japan. Some of them suffered considerable hardship owing to the impossibility of cashing drafts.

"I never expected to be a tramp," remarked one of them to me.

Each day the Governor issues a proclamation declaring the following day a legal holiday. By this means the banks are enabled to keep closed. It is expected that this condition will last for thirty days in San Francisco. One bank in Oakland is open.

SOUTHERN SOCIETY HELPS.

Gives $500 to California—That's All the Treasury Contained.

Enthusiasm in giving money to San Francisco precipitated a warm debate at the "International Dinner" of the Southern Society in the Hotel Astor last night. Pretty nearly everybody in the big ballroom—and the guests numbered some 300—took part in the debate and told what he thought ought to be done. The difference of opinion arose as to the amount the society should contribute. A gift of $500 was decided on.

President Marion J. Verdery brought up the subject. He said that the Southern Society's treasury was by no means depleted, but that every member would be willing to see the last cent vanish is necessary, to go to the sufferers on the Pacific Slope. He recommended a gift of $500.

"Make it a thousand," cried several enthusiastic Southerners at once. Then from those who had not spoken came cheers of approval.

Theere came over President Verdery's face an expression in which were mingled appreciation of the generous sentiment and doubt. He then said:

"As much as I admire, and am delighted at, these generous sentiments, the difficulty is that the gentleman allows his generosity to get the better of his knowledge of the society's exchequer. So I state the original motion."

"Aye!" shouted the 300 with one voice.

It seemed to be settled then—but is wasn't. A Georgian arose and asked where was Georgia coming in. Then those at one of the tables contributed $50. Somebody announced it, and President Verdery said he would be glad to receive subscriptions this morning or any day thereafter. That was cheered, too.

This dinner was unique in the annals of the Southern Society. Each nation of the world had a table to itself. The Orient's envoys to the dinner were the Japanese Consul General, Mr. Uchida, and the Chinese Consul General, Kit Fu Shah. Every Southern State had its table, too.

Speeches were made by President Verdery, ex-Assistant Secretary of State Francis B. Loomis, Consul General Uchida, George von Skal, Neil McPhatter, and others. The Rev. Dr. Alexander McCall pleased his hearers mightily by finding an element of kinship between Scotland and the South.

TIDAL WAVE IN THE PACIFIC.

Relief Steamer Nearly Overwhelmed by It Off Cape Blanco.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 26.—The steamer Buckman, which has arrived here with relief supplies, encountered off Cape Blanco a terrific sea which crew and passengers believe was caused by a subterranean eruption, and which for a time threatened to engulf the ship.

Off Cape Blanco yesterday the steamer ran into rough weather and high seas. Off to the west passengers and crew saw a great wall of seething water approaching at great speed. The great wave struck the ship with terrific force, smashing two of the boats. Tons of water rolled over the decks, which quivered from stem to stern and threatened every moment to founder.

Capt. Wood, his first officer, and the chief engineer were swept from their feet and almost washed overboard.

The seas continued running high until late in the afternoon. Capt. Wood and the passengers are confident that the great wave was caused by some disturbance under the ocean.

HELP IN REBUILDING.

Orders for Steel to Have Precedence—Plans for Model Homes Free.

PITTSBURG, April 26.—Orders have been issued by the officials of the Carnegie Steel Company making all contracts for structural and other steel material to be used in the reconstruction of San Francisco "emergency orders" and giving them precedence over all other contracts.

John C. Neale, structural engineer of the Carnegie Company, started last night for San Francisco to take charge of the structural force of the United States Steel Corporation on the Pacific Coast. He will direct the operations of the company at that point during the worst stages of the rebuilding.

The order relating to emergency material for San Francisco, it is said, will apply not only to direct contracts from that city, but also to contracts placed by builders who may receive orders to begin the work of rebuilding.

It is also stated that it will apply to pipe, bridge material, and to any rails which may be necessary in the reconstruction of the street railway lines.

The City and Suburban Homes Company of this city sent this telegram to Mayor Schmitz of San Francisco yesterday:

"The City and Suburban Homes Company, the largest builder of model tenements and model small houses in New York, offers San Francisco its plans, drawings, and specifications, without charge, should the city determine to erect homes for wage earners. The company believes its large experience will be serviceable in the present emergency, and will materially expedite rebuilding.

So They Will Have a Little Tea of Their Own for San Francisco's Benefit.

Mrs. A. D. Spooner, manager of the Bijou Theatre in Brooklyn, the only woman member of the Theatrical Managers' Association, wrote to Mrs. Alice Fischer Harcourt, President of the Twelfth Night Club, a few days ago and asked if the members of that organization, composed mainly of actresses, wouldn't contribute to the success of the all-day benefit performance in behalf of the San Francisco sufferers at the Metropolitan Opera House on May 4.

Mrs. Harcourt replied that the club would be delighted to have the opportunity, and she was informed that the Twelfth Nighters would be expected to serve tea. Many of them immediately bought quantities of tea, sugar, lemons, and confectionery and made other preparations for their part in the benefit.

Yesterday Mrs. Harcourt received word from Mrs. Spooner that their agreement was canceled and that the privilege of serving tea had been given to the management of a restaurant at Eighth Avenue and Fifty-eighth Street. The Twelfth Night Club felt hurt at the change, but not to be deprived entirely of their opportunity to help, its members decided that they would sell tea at the Berkeley Lyceum on May 4, and probably the day after.

Isabelle Irving, Amelia Bingham, Eleanor Robson, Mrs. Otis Skinner, Carolyn Wells, Dorothy Donnelly, and Louise Galloway are members of the Twelfth Night Club and will be among those who will take part.

Union Pacific Is Not Tied Up.

OMAHA, Neb., April 26.—Reports that the Union Pacific Railroad is so tied up by handling relief supplies for San Francisco that it cannot handle other freight promptly, were declared to-day to be erroneous. The Union Pacific, notwithstanding its efforts in forwarding supplies to San Francisco, is moving all its freight in both directions with facility and dispatch.

ST. JOSEPH, Mo., April 26.—Mrs. Jacob August, 77 years old, widow of a merchant of St. Joseph, with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr and Mrs. Morris Baer of New York, arrived here to-day from San Francisco. They were in the Palace Hotel when the earthquake occurred, but escaped without serious injury. Mr. Baer paid $150 to be taken to Golden Gate Park in a garbage wagon.

MORE REFUGEES IN CHICAGO.

Aid Societies Care for Them—Wedding Hastened by Earthquake.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 26.—Refugees from San Francisco continued to arrive here to-day. Preparations were made by the relief and aid societies to care for 1,000 additional persons, and 163 came in on a special train over the St. Paul, 155 on the Northwestern, 120 on the Rock Island, and others on the Burlington and the Santa Fé.

Many were laborers who owned no property in San Francisco and, seeing no immediate future for their trade there, returned to relatives or former homes in the East.

On arrival here the trains were met by agents of the relief and aid societies, who had doctors and nurses on hand. Some women were faint from exhaustion and received special attention. Others were taken to restaurants in the depots, where food was provided. Nearly 800 box lunches were given out.

Two refugees, James Cummings Blythe and Miss Emma H. Yerner, got a marriage license here. Mr. Blythe explained to the clerk that they were to have been married in July, but that the earthquake had changed their plans.

Will Be Married in San Francisco.

Arnold W. Brunner, an architect of this city, left for San Francisco on Tuesday to be married to Miss Emma B. Kaufman on May 8. The Kaufman home was destroyed by the fire following the earthquake, and the place where the wedding ceremony will be performed has not yet been decided upon.

THREE FIRE COMPANIES REINSURE THEIR RISKS

One More May Do So—All Likely to Continue Business.

LOSS KNOWN ONLY IN OUTLINE

Queens Fire Company Will Take Its Loss Out of Surplus—No Quibbling Expected in Paying Off.

Three fire insurance companies reinsured all their outstanding risks yesterday because of their losses in San Francisco. Rumors were in circulation in the fire insurance district that one other company, a small one, was considering the advisability of a similar step.

The American Insurance Company of Boston, which stopped accepting new business on Tuesday, has reinsured all its risks in the Firemen's Insurance Company of Newark. The capital of the American of Boston was $300,000, its assets $796,852, and its net surplus $89,168 on Jan. 1 this year.

The American Insurance Company of Philadelphia has reinsured all its outstanding policies in the Commercial Union Assurance Company of London. Its annual statement of last January showed assets of $2,971,731 and a net surplus of $266,616 on a capitalization of $500,000.

The Mercantile Fire and Marine Insurance Company of Boston has reinsured all its outstanding risks in the American Central Insurance Company of St. Louis. The Mercantile had assets of $754,476, and a net surplus of $101,793 on Jan. 1. Its capital stock is $400,000.

In the case of none of the three companies has the extent of the San Francisco loss been ascertained beyond a general outline sufficient to show that a reinsurance of the remaining business was needed to release the legal reserve on premium income in order to meet the California liabilities.

The management of the Mercantile Fire and Marine has decided not to put the company in voluntary liquidation. With payment of the conflagration losses in process of adjustment and books cleared of other liabilities, the company will continue underwriting.

After a meeting of the Directors of the Queens Fire Insurance Company yesterday afternoon, it was said that there was no need to sell any of the company's securities to meet its San Francisco loss, which is estimated at $1,300,000, as the surplus funds of the company are amply sufficient to meet all demands resulting therefrom.

Fire underwriters have been much interested in some of the genuine photographs which have come from San Francisco because they believe that the pictures show in many cases unmistakable evidence of buildings destroyed by earthquake without the aid of fire. How to learn the extent of loss by earthquake alone is perhaps the greatest problem facing the adjusters of the companies. So far as losses were due to the earthquake solely, the companies would have no legal right to pay them under their policies. It is, in a large measure, the belief that the percentage of easily distinguishable earthquake loss is considerable that makes underwriters think the insurance loss will run from 55 to 60 per cent. of the damage to insurable property, as against 70 per cent., the ratio of insurance loss to total insurable property loss at Baltimore.

San Francisco has had so many slight earthquake shocks in past years, according to underwriters, that the exemption of fire insurance companies from purely earthquake losses has been well understood by California merchants. There is, however, no disposition in local insurance circles to recede from the position of the leading companies last week that there would be no quibbling over liability to policy holders in the case of buildings which were destroyed or damaged partly by earthquake and partly by fire.

The Merchants' Association wrote to the Mayor yesterday, urging the great necessity for speedily completing the auxiliary high pressure water service in the downtown business districts.

BOSTON, Mass., April 26.—At a meeting of the Directors of the American Insurance Company of Boston, held this morning, it was voted to accept the offer of the Firemen's Insurance Company of Newark, N. J., to reinsure its business. The American Company is the oldest in the United States, having been formed in 1818. Practically all of its stock is held in this State. At the last public sale of its stock, made at auction on March 21, the stock went at $125 a share.

BRITISH LOSSES $35,000,000.

Latest Estimate of the Insurance Experts and Reflections Thereon.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

LONDON, April 27.—The Times in its city article this morning estimates that the British fire companies will not have to pay more than $35,000,000 in settlement of the San Francisco claims. This estimate, it says, is based on the expectation that the actual settlements for fire losses will range between thirty and thirty-five times the amount of the companies' premium income in San Francisco. This expectation is founded on the experience derived from the study of many conflagrations.

"But," says The Times, "even if we have put the total losses to be paid too low, there is not the smallest fear that the foundations of the insurance world will be shaken. On the contrary the ease with which the British companies, with perhaps one or two exceptions, will be able to meet their losses will show the soundness of the financial basis on which the British fire insurance companies have been built.

"The San Francisco disaster is really the best advertisement they have had for a generation. There is, however, one moral, and it is not a new one. It is that only really strong companies with abundant resources have the right to go to America for business. Only those companies which can withstand tremendous shocks can live and make money in that land of catastrophes."

Philadelphia Puts Up Fire Rates.

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—As a result of the San Francisco disaster the Fire Association of Philadelphia to-day advanced its premium rates in the congested central district of this city 25 per cent. The American Fire Insurance Company announced that it had reinsured in the Commercial Union Assurance Company of England its entire outstanding risks except the perpetual insurance. There is a virtual assurance that most of the other companies will follow the initiative of the Fire Association.

41 DEAD AT SANTA ROSA.

Reports Also in of Earthquake Damage in Northern California.

SANTA ROSA, Cal., April 26.—The latest figures show 41 dead, 63 injured, and 7 missing here. The entire business section of Santa Rosa and many residences were destroyed. Twenty fires started, but the water supply was unimpaired, and within three hours the flames were under control.

Cut off by the disaster from communication with the rest of the world, Santa Rosa knew nothing of the destruction of San Francisco until the arrival from that city of a train load of 1,000 refugees, begging for help that could not be given them. But nearby towns came to the rescue, and after a period of hunger and suffering, aid was received.

As soon as the dead were buried business men began clearing a passageway through the streets and teams were put to work hauling away the rubbish. It is the intention at once to begin rebuilding the city on a more elaborate scale.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 26.—News has just been received here of the damage done by the earthquake of April 18 in the northern counties of the State. In Lakeport, Lake County, a severe shock was felt.

The Lakeview Hotel was badly damaged, and the Masonic Hall, in course of construction, was reduced to ruins. Several other brick blocks were cracked, chimneys toppled over throughout the town, and show windows of business houses for the full length of Main Street were shattered. No one was injured.

At Albion, Mendocino County, a heavy shock was felt. The Occidental Hotel is a wreck. All the big sawmills in this region are badly damaged. They will have to shut down for some time. So far as can be learned there were no lives lost.

At Anderson, Shasta County, chimneys tumbled down and windows, dishes, and furniture of houses were demolished. There are many wide fissures in the earth. Slides along the Southern Humboldt Lumber Company's Railroad line took place. The damage to the Southern Humboldt Lumber Company's dam across Indian Creek will run into the thousands.

BANKS FLY THEIR BANNERS.

Will Pay $500 Apiece to Depositors—Savings Banks Agree.

Special to The New York Times.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 26.—While the care of the sufferers and the upbuilding of the city are being planned, the finances of San Francisco are receiving the close attention of moneyed men.

"Bankers' Row" is being organized on Laguna Street, west of Lafayette Square. The Crocker-Woolworth National Bank, the Central Trust Company, and the Mercantile Trust Company already have placed their cotton banners on residences overlooking the tented camps of refugees in the square. This is bringing together those who have money in the vaults and those who need it.

The Clearing House, representing the commercial banks, held its usual morning meeting to-day. While details are not completed arrangements were made to pay depositors not exceeding $500 on their accounts. Each of the banks has or will have considerable sums to be transferred to its credit by correspondents in London, Paris, and New York. These transfers will be made to the Mint on Fifth Street, and the money will be available at that point.

The bankers are waiting for the opening of their vaults so that they may reach their books and papers. Checks and blanks, which are yet to be printed, will form a necessary part of the banking machinery it is proposed to put into operation. It may be three weeks before the bankers will make any of these preliminary payments.

It has been proposed to treat the country correspondents the same as the depositors, but the banks of the interior demur, saying that the time is approaching when the farmers will need money, and that $500 apiece will be of little use to them.

The savings banks have come together and are now working in harmony for the first time. They will all open for business on the same day. The commercial banks set the example. The savings banks representatives say they have not yet considered the question of demanding notice from depositors before paying out money. In Oakland the savings banks are paying up to $30 without notice.

The savings banks are reported to be in most satisfactory condition. The Hibernia Bank alone carres $25,000,000 in United States bonds, together with other gilt-edged securities that may be converted into cash at any time.

The banks in Oakland, across the bay, were opened for the second time to-day, and from all appearances the occasion might have been the ordinary banking of the various institutions. At several of the banks only a small group of persons was in sight to transact business, while at one or two places not more than two or three patrons occupied the attention of the tellers.

Yesterday a great deal more money was deposited than withdrawn, which officials take as a further indication that business has continued without interruption, and that business men and others have only been awaiting an opportunity to deposit their money.

RED CROSS ANTICIPATED ACTION OF ROOSEVELT

Heeded San Francisco Protest Before the President Did.

NOT TOLD OF PROCLAMATION

Somebody Neglected to Send Over a Copy Until the Committee Told Loeb of Its Action.

Miss Mabel T. Boardman, a member of the Executive Committee of the American National Red Cross Society, addressed a meeting of the New York County Red Cross Society in the Astor Gallery of the Waldorf-Astoria yesterday. Afterward she talked with reporters.

From her it was learned that President Roosevelt's proclamation of Wednesday declaring that the Red Cross should act as an auxiliary to the San Francisco Citizens' Committee had been anticipated by the Executive Committee of the society. This committee acted without knowledge that the President was about to rescind his former proclamation putting the entire relief work under the Red Cross, and its instructions, designed to end the friction in San Francisco, had gone to Dr. Edward Devine, its agent, before Mr. Roosevelt acted on the protest of the leading men of San Francisco.

Miss Boardman explained that on Wednesday morning the Red Cross Executive Committee received a telegram from Dr. Devine explaining the situation in San Francisco arising out of the objection of the citizens to Red Cross supremacy in the relief work. The Executive Committee, having no thought that it would be necessary to consult the President, decided that Dr. Devine should act with the local committee and not attempt to supersede it, and instructions were wired to him immediately. Dispatches from San Francisco, it may be said, indicated that Dr. Devine had ended all the friction before the President's proclamation was received.

The first knowledge that the Red Cross people had of the President's proclamation saying that the Red Cross should be auxiliary, and that all contributions should be sent to ex-Mayor Phelan at San Francisco, came late in the afternoon, although the headquarters of the Red Cross Executive Committee is in the War Department, near the White House.

Miss Boardman said the committee thought it probable that President Roosevelt would be interested in the telegrams exchanged between it and Dr. Devine. Mr. Loeb was called up on the telephone and told of the matter.

"Haven't you received a copy of the proclamation?" Mr. Loeb asked.

He was informed that the committee had not.

"He said that he had ordered a copy sent us," said Miss Boardman, "and he said it should have been sent at noon."

"What time was it when you were informed of this?" she was asked.

"About 4 o'clock. The messenger arrived about 5 minutes after we had talked with Mr. Loeb," she said.

Col. William Cary Sanger, who had been one of the speakers at the meeting, interposed at this juncture and said that perhaps in her frankness Miss Boardman would say something that might be misconstrued.

It was explained by some one that the delay in the transmission of a copy of the President's proclamation affecting the Red Cross to its committee should not be blamed on Mr. Loeb.

Miss Boardman said that the telegram received by the Executive Committee from Dr. Devine had been filed in San Francisco the night before, probably before the protest of San Francisco citizens was filed. Dr. Devine was at the meeting which resulted in the protest being wired the President, and his telegram to the Executive Committee of the Red Cross was a natural result.

According to Miss Boardman, the society had directed affairs toward the present situation in San Francisco, without any suggestion from the President, through the proper channel—the Executive Committee of the American National Red Cross Society.

Miss Boardman said that the only request of the Executive Committee to Dr. Devine was that in the relief work in San Francisco the funds turned into the society should be disbursed so that they could be audited separately that the society might make an accounting.

After Miss Boardman had talked the following telegram was received and given out:

"William C. Langdon, Secretary, 500 Fifth Avenue:

"There is absolutely no friction; President's statement and Red Cross instructions acceptable to local people. Finance Committee is now Joint Committee of Relief and Red Cross. Accounts will be kept so as to be audited by War Department. Wired Washington to-day as follows: 'Do not infer from our messages that Red Cross has less to do than you anticipated. Recommendation referred only to channel for handling moneys. Supplies may be consigned to Red Cross or military. We have charge of distribution except physical handling, which is by Quartermasters. Hope to establish same relations in Oakland.

"EDWARD T. DEVINE,
"Special Agent."

This telegram was accepted by officers of the Red Cross as meaning that Dr. Devine was working with the local committee in perfect harmony, and that supplies were being distributed through the Quartermasters. It also informed the Red Cross that this work is being done according to the official instructions of the Executive Committee and that the second proclamation of the President has pacified the San Francisco people.

TAFT UPHOLDS GREELY; WILL SEND 2,500 TROOPS

Secretary Changes Tone of Dispatches to General.

MORE SOLDIERS ARE NEEDED.

Commander at San Francisco Points Out That He Is Acting In Harmony with Civil Authorities.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Secretary Taft returned to the War Department to-day after an absence of three days. Coincident with his reappearance at his desk there was a change in the tone of the dispatches to Gen. Greely.

The acid that has recently tinctured the War Department messages to the commander of the Pacific Division was eliminated, and Gen. Greely was specifically assured that there was no lack of confidence in his judgment as to the necessity for additional troops or in his discretion and ability to handle the situation in San Francisco. He is to get the troops he wants, although yesterday his request brought forth a tart reply.

Oliver Explains to Greely.

The dispatch containing this right-about-face change to Gen. Greely was signed by Gen. Oliver, Assistant Secretary of War, who was yesterday authorizing the sending of dispatches of the sharpest sort to Gen. Greely. Yesterday, however, Gen. Oliver was Acting Secretary.

Here is the dispatch which conveyed to Gen. Greely the news that there had been a somersault in the department's attitude:

"Reference your message April 25, desire to say no lack of confidence in your judgment as to necessity for additional troops. Everybody here desirous of extending all support possible to you, but Secretary of War has been absent several days, and I naturally wished convincing proof of necessity before assuming responsibility for action involving legal questions and about $200,000 of expense.

"Secretary is now back, has ordered troops, and directs me to assure you of his confidence in your discretion and ability to handle situation.

"OLIVER,
"Assistant Secretary of War."

Later in the day Secretary Taft issued orders to two regiments of cavalry and three regiments of infantry to proceed at once by rail to San Francisco and report to Gen. Greely for temporary duty. This was a complete compliance with the request which yesterday, in Taft's absence, so horrified the department.

Before the message was sent there had been received from Gen. Greely a dispatch in which he defended himself for asking for more troops. It will be remembered that yesterday Gen. Ainsworth, "by order of Acting Secretary Oliver," sent him a dispatch practically calling on him for such a defense.

His reply to this demand says that he had asked for more men only "after the most careful consideration, and that 2,500 men was the minimum number of troops outside this division considered absolutely essential to comply with the reasonable requirements of the civil authorities of the State and city." He called attention to the fact that his first dispatch asking for reinforcements had stated that the number he requested was only one-half that for which the civil authorities had urged him to apply.

Greely's Defense of Request.

"It is recognized," continued Gen. Greely, "that the present use of the army in the unprecedented disaster in California is beyond the strict letter of the law, and extreme caution has been and will be exercised to avoid complications, the division commander realizing the responsibility devolving upon him. The interests of the War Department have been scrupulously guarded by insisting on requests being reduced to writing. The municipal authorities are practically helpless, their condition having been set forth in telegrams this morning.

"It is not understood what are the recent developments which caused the department to consider the prospective conditions as favorable to a reduced military force.

"Every effort is made to keep in touch with affairs everywhere through trained inspectors. They report to-day conditions in the poorest district, which are portentous of difficulty, unless carefully handled by competent and experienced officers.

"Supplies and shelter are available for additional troops, who will be quartered largely in small detachments at well selected points. Should conditions render it impracticable to furnish entire number of additional troops requested, every effort will be made on the part of myself and the rest of the army to faithfully and efficiently handle the situation.

"The utmost conservatism consistent with efficient aid of the municipal authorities and the people has been the rule. Estimates from various sources place the destitute between 200,000 and 250,000, which leaves me but one soldier to every hundred destitute people and the additional force would give only two to the hundred. While inclined myself to place the number somewhat below 200,000, yet the judgment of others cannot be safely ignored. I hope within two or three days to have matters so in hand as to state quite clearly the situation as regards numbers, conditions, approximate daily expenses, and other factors of vital importance."

He Appeals to Taft Also.

Gen. Greely also sent this telegram to the Military Secretary:

"Desire especially to call attention of Secretary of War and Chief of Staff to necessity for additional troops. Not only is the present force inadequate to fully guard the interests of the city, but they have been necessarily overworked in the past and are overtaxed to-day. Distances are simply enormous, and conditions demanding military action can best be observed by sending as large a force of mounted men as is practicable.

"The spirit and conduct of the troops, officers and men, have maintained the high standing of American Army, and a continuance of physical stress and mental responsibility is not advisable in the present high tension of affairs."

Upon receipt of this dispatch the Chief of Staff caused to be made out a tentative schedule of troops available for assignment to San Francisco, and on the direction of Secretary Taft, made up an estimate of the expense of sending them to San Francisco. The troops included in the schedule were the First Cavalry from San Antonio and Fort Clark, Texas; two squadrons of the Eleventh Cavalry from Des Moines, Iowa; the Eleventh Infantry from Fort D. A. Russell, near Cheyenne, Wyoming; the Twenty-seventh Infantry from Fort Sheridan, near Chicago, and ten companies of the Twenty-eighth Infantry from Fort Snelling, near St. Paul, Minn.

It was found that the cost of transporting these five regiments each way from and back to their regular stations would be about $100,000, entailing an extra expense on the Government of $200,000 to give Gen. Greely his reinforcements. Later in the day the Secretary decided to comply with the request and the orders were issued making the tentative schedule positive.

Two companies of the Eleventh Infantry are now at Fort McKenzie, and may not rejoin headquarters in time to go with the rest of the regiment to San Francisco. If they do join in time, Gen. Greely will have fifty-four companies, averaging 50 men each, or 2,700 in all. If these two companies do not get in, he will have 2,600.

Hidden Fraud

If man's sins merely hurt the sinner, society would not have to protect itself. There is no knowing what moral obliquity may have existed a generation ago on the part of some one then interested in real estate you now think you own. A forgery, a false personation, an abandoned wife, or other form of wrongdoing has invalidated many an apparently perfect title.

Better put the risk of such things on a ten million dollar company.

MAY GO TO SAN FRANCISCO.

Educators Urged to Meet There Just to Cheer the City Up.

The National Educational Association is to show its loyalty to San Francisco in an odd way. Several months ago the annual meeting of the association was arranged to take place in San Francisco, but when the earthquake came it appeared likely that the plans would have to be changed.

But notwithstanding the confusion on the coast and the evident lack of accommodations to be had in San Francisco, the association may hold the meeting there after all, basing its action on the ground of brotherly love. Ossian Lang, editor of The School Journal, the association's organ, says in that publication for the current week:

"Shall we refuse to accept the hospitality of San Francisco because she will not be able to be as lavish in her entertainment as she has always proved herself to be in the past? The only right thing to do is to stand by our promise. We will visit the city in her bereavement and cheer her people by our presence. If there be no palatial hotels to minister to our comforts, we will camp in tents on the plain."

It is suggested that if the people of San Francisco do not desire the meeting there Los Angeles shall be selected.

GAS FOR SAN FRANCISCO.

Company Has Money to Pay Interest and Make Repairs.

The San Francisco Coke and Gas Company, which was one of the sufferers in the earthquake, announced through its New York agents yesterday that the interest on its $2,500,000 bonds due May 1 will be paid with cash already on deposit with the Knickerbocker Trust Company.

The company, which is capitalized at $5,000,000, previous to two years ago had been selling its product to a distributing company, but in 1904 laid its own system of pipes. The greater part of the damage sustained, according to the reports from San Francisco, was to the pipe lines.

The company announces that the damages will be repaired immediately, and that the company will be ready to turn on its gas as soon as the citizens are ready to use it. The company makes the statement that it has sufficient funds on hand to pay for all repairs.

THANKS TO THE A. P. MEN.

General Manager Stone Acknowledges Their Splendid Services.

This dispatch was sent yesterday from the headquarters of The Associated Press in this city to its branches all over the country:

I desire to make formal acknowledgment of the splendid service rendered by every one in connection with the San Francisco disaster. Naturally and properly first praise belongs to the men in San Francisco, including not only the staff of editors, telegraph operators, and other employes, but the relief men from Los Angeles and Portland, who assisted in San Francisco and Oakland. But the event has called for exceptional work in almost every city in the country. It has been a period of long hours and ceaseless vigilance for which almost every man in the service deserves special recognition and thanks.

LUTHERANS LOST CHURCHES.

General Collection Asked to Aid Congregations in California.

Special to The New York Times.

YORK, Penn., April 26.—The Board of Church Extension of the General Synod of the Lutheran Church throughout the United States in session here to-day received word that their entire church property, valued at $100,000, in San Francisco, was destroyed, and their $10,000 church at San José was also a complete wreck.

The Board has sent out an appeal to all of the Lutheran churches throughout the United States to take up a special collection to aid in rebuilding these edifices.

Cornell Drops Work to Sympathize.

ITHACA, N. Y., April 26.—The students of Cornell gathered in the armory to-day to express their sympathy to the students of Leland Stanford and the University of California for their losses in the recent earthquake. All university work was suspended that all might attend. President Joseph Bond Phillips of the senior class presided, and resolutions of sympathy were passed unanimously. Relief contributions are pouring into the registrar's office.

Architect Burnham Returns.

Daniel H. Burnham, the architect who was employed by the Merchants' Association of San Francisco, in 1904, to design various improvements, the object of which was the beautifying of the city, arrived from Europe on the Hamburg-American liner Deutschland yesterday morning. He said he had heard nothing from Mayor Schmitz, although San Francisco dispatches say he has been asked to go to that city immediately.

Fear Two Consuls Are Lost.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—The Danish Minister, Mr. Brun, is much alarmed about the Danish Consul at San Francisco, H. H. Birkholm, who has not been heard from since the earthquake. The French Embassy also is still trying to get trace of the French Consul General at San Francisco, who has failed to respond to all inquiries directed to him.

AID FUNDS GROW AS FAST AS EVER

No Let-Up in the Giving for San Francisco.

NATION'S TOTAL, $16,500,000

This City's More Than $3,000,000—Unitarians and Druggists Are Raising Large Purses.

With the plans for aiding the earthquake sufferers in San Francisco and vicinity beginning to take shape, the grand totals of the relief fund took another big jump yesterday. The figure last night, as nearly as an estimate on actual figures can be made, were $16,500,000 for the entire country.

Of that amount $3,000,000 has been raised in this city. The local relief figure passed $3,000,000 yesterday, in fact. Here is a table of the amounts acknowledged up to last night by the principal relief agencies in this city:

Mayor's and Red Cross Funds, (estimated)	$805,000
Chamber of Commerce	764,463
Direct individual contributions	465,000
Merchants' Association	166,892
Stock Exchange	150,000
Churches, (estimated)	100,000
Theatrical benefits, &c.	60,000
Jewelers' Board of Trade	30,148
American Unitarian Association	21,060
Cotton Exchange	20,000
National Exchange Bank	17,107
Salvation Army, (estimated)	16,000
Produce Exchange	11,150
Tobacco Board of Trade	10,000
Silk Association	8,975
Consolidated Exchange	6,500
Clothing manufacturers	5,280
Curb brokers	1,400
Total	$3,008,726

There were developments yesterday indicating that the public interest in the relief work, far from slackening, which might have been expected after the collection of funds has been in progress for more than a week, has been quickened instead. At the office of Jacob H. Schiff, Treasurer of the Red Cross and of the Mayor's Relief Committee, $107,000 was received yesterday, more than on any other day since the subscription was opened.

Among the contributors to the Red Cross fund yesterday was Miss Bessie Gilbert, a professional cornetist. She walked into Mr. Schiff's office yesterday afternoon with a little bag filled with quarters, dimes, nickels, and even pennies. In all there were $32.10, which she had realized by playing her cornet in the streets.

At the Chamber of Commerce nearly $10,000 was received for the relief fund. After the meeting of the Chamber's Relief Committee at noon, a second instalment of $150,000 was sent to ex-Mayor James D. Phelan at San Francisco.

Morris K. Jesup, President of the Chamber of Commerce and Chairman of the Relief Committee, gave out this telegram which he received from E. H. Harriman yesterday:

"Morris K. Jesup,
Chamber of Commerce, New York.

"Mr. Devine is here and joins in this message. What is needed now is systematic organization. Mr. Devine is devoting his energies to this end. The situation will probably remain unchanged for the next few days. Until a system is perfected and the various committees, which are energetically at work, have decided upon a method for procedure I will gladly convey to Mr. Phelan and his associates your methods and advise you from time to time what, if any, changes take place.

"The means of communication by telegraph and telephone in San Francisco proper have been practically wiped out, so that most of the communications are made through the medium of automobiles, and therefore makes it difficult to send out continuous information, unless something unusual occurs. There have been no severe shakes since Wednesday last. Probably those that have occurred would not have been noticed, only that the people were continually expecting them, which formerly they did not do.

"E. H. HARRIMAN."

At the uptown office of the Red Cross in the Bristol Building at Forty-second Street and Fifth Avenue, $17,445 came in with the first mail. At the two bureaus for receiving clothing and other supplies for the earthquake victims, which the society has opened at 11 East Thirty-fifth Street, and at the Church of the Eternal Hope in West Eighty-first Street, the workers were deluged yesterday with donations. It was said that about seventy packages of clothing had been received. They will all be sorted and repacked for shipment to San Francisco by a corps of volunteer women workers. Among the gifts received yesterday was a large box of sewing materials of every description necessary for the repair of garments.

The Merchants' Association committee received $10,278. Most of this was from employes of business firms who had made up purses by contributing small amounts. The Relief Committee has sent out several carloads of provisions and medical supplies, but is now awaiting word from the Citizens' Committee in San Francisco before sending any more or forwarding any of the money collected.

The National Association of Retail Druggists took steps yesterday to raise a fund of $200,000. About 200 San Francisco druggists have lost their stores, either altogether or in part, and it is the plan of the organization, if possible, to raise $1,000 for each of these to set them on their feet again.

The relief fund of the American Unitarian Society will be considerably increased by collections to be taken up next Sunday. The Unitarians will distribute the funds through a denominational committee of their own in San Francisco.

THE TIMES yesterday received a contribution of $10 in a letter signed "1890-1893." The money will be forwarded to the Red Cross to-day.

The fund at Newark amounted last night to $70,000.

These are the larger contributions made yesterday to the local relief funds:

RED CROSS HOLDS A MEETING.

Announces Opening of Two Clothing Depots—Miss Boardman Speaks.

The New York County Branch of the Red Cross had a meeting in the Waldorf-Astoria yesterday, presided over by the Chairman, Robert C. Ogden. It was announced that the Red Cross had opened in the city two depots for receiving clothes, blankets, and supplies for San Francisco. These depots are at 11 East Thirty-fifth Street and at the Church of the Eternal Hope, 142 West Eighty-first Street. At the former 2,000 garments were received yesterday, and the space set aside for the second depot was quickly filled.

Mrs. W. K. Draper, the Secretary of the New York Branch, announced that so generous had been every one that the society was working without a cent of expense. Rooms, meeting places, telephones, messenger boys, telegraph wires, typewriters, furniture, and every other item had been contributed free of charge. One of the typewriter companies sent its champion operator for the office work at 500 Fifth Avenue, and this young lady was so enthusiastic that she worked last Sunday and brought her beau along. Even the two Postal messenger boys, supplied free to run errands, have been licking envelopes and stamps.

The Law Reporting Company supplied for the meeting yesterday a full battery of stenographers and typewriters in order that the press agent of the society, supplied free by Mr. Carnegie's Simplified Spelling Board, might handle his job right.

Miss Mabel T. Boardman, a member of the National Executive Committee of the Red Cross, made the talk of the afternoon. She is soon to spend three weeks in England on behalf of the society and will visit many cities in this country afterward in an endeavor to swell its membership so that it will have an income large enough to meet all emergencies in times of war or calamity.

Referring to the San Francisco disaster, Miss Boardman said that the fire following the earthquake had hardly started when the society wired Judge Morrow of the Ninth United States Circuit Court putting itself at the disposal of the city. No reply came to this wire and the society decided to act of its own accord. Requests were sent to all of the State Secretaries asking them to issue appeals for the sufferers. The society being unable to reach San Francisco by wire, request was made of Secretary Taft to send a message to Gen. Funston asking whether funds were needed.

"That telegram went out one afternoon," she said, "and the next morning came the reply from Gen. Funston: 'No relief funds needed; nothing to buy.'"

Miss Boardman said that that was what was expected. Then came telegrams from all parts of the country asking to whom might be consigned carloads of provisions, eggs, beef, flour, &c. The Executive Committee dared not consign the first of these to the Red Cross in San Francisco, as they had received no word from it. The first trainloads were sent to Gen. Funston. After this the New York branch suggested that Dr. Devine be sent to San Francisco as special agent, and he was appointed by the Secretary of War.

Miss Boardman then came to the question of the consolidation of the Red Cross and the local Relief Committee in San Francisco. She said on this point:

"Now, there is the question which comes to you people in the State, the consolidation of the California Red Cross and the Relief Committee there. This will make everything work harmoniously. Dr. Devine requested that we should make the payments of New York to James Phelan, who is the Chairman of this Finance Committee.

"We have already telegraphed $100,000 at Dr. Devine's request, and have telegraphed to them recognizing this consolidation, of which we are very glad.

"We have received from Dr. Devine a request for something to be done to house the people better under the present circumstances. We have telegraphed, or the Secretary of War telegraphed to Gen. Greely for us, to see what arrangements could be made so as to have somewhat more permanent structures than merely tents for these people. We have been offered lumber, both for furniture and for temporary buildings, but we are holding it up, and other necessities also, to ascertain just what will be required. We will then be able to advance the money."

ALL SORTS OF AID.

California Club Getting Many Gifts—Their Euchre To-day.

A lot of land is the latest large gift received by the California Club for the benefit of the San Francisco sufferers. This is in Amityville, Long Island; is 125 feet by 25, and is warranted to increase largely beyond its present value within the next two or three years. It was presented to Mrs. Russell Bassett, Treasurer of the club, by J. F. Mincher, President of the Federal Land Company, to be raffled off for the benefit of the women and children made homeless by the disaster.

In money $235 has been received. Of this $100 was given to the California Club by the Eclectic Club, of which Mrs. Doré Lyon is President, and a second $100 is given the California Relief Association through the California Club by A. C. Mainard.

At the big euchre to-day at 2 o'clock there will be a representative lot of prizes. They are constantly coming in. The club begins to think there will be a prize for each player. One of the best to arrive yesterday was from Howard & Cockshaw. It was a beautiful little heart brooch, covered solidly with pearls, and with a heart-shaped ruby in the centre.

A box seating four for the Saturday matinée at the Savoy is another prize, and there are two tickets for the Saturday matinée at Daly's. Several business houses have helped. The Professional Woman's League has sent a handsome collar and cuff set of lace, a sofa pillow, loving cup, and other minor articles. More autographed photographs of women of the stage to be sold at the euchre were received yesterday. The patronesses of the euchre are Mrs. William K. Vanderbilt, Mrs. E. A. Harriman, Mrs. C. B. Alexander, Mrs. Hermann Oelrichs, Mrs. C. P. Huntington, and Mrs. Ogden Mills. The California Club wants to have as large a euchre as possible, and the tickets, which are $1 each, will be sold until the last minute at the door.

For small donations of supplies the California Relief Committee has opened a reception station at the Broadway Arcade, Sixty-fifth Street and Broadway, where articles for the San Francisco sufferers may be sent.

HELP FROM THE THEATRES.

Mrs. F. W. Vanderbilt Pays $1,000 for a Box at the Casino.

The Joe Weber Company took in $800 at its "department store" in the Gilsey House yesterday for the San Francisco relief fund. Another bazaar is to be opened in the foyer of the Belasco Theatre to-morrow afternoon at the matinée of "The Girl of the Golden West." Flowers, candy, autographed photographs, &c., will be sold. This will continue on Monday and Tuesday also.

Mrs. Frederick W. Vanderbilt paid $1,000 yesterday for a box for the San Francisco benefit to be given on Sunday night at the Casino. The professionals who will appear at this benefit will include Mrs. Fiske in the last act of "Becky Sharp," Margaret Anglin, Henry Woodruff, Adele Ritchie, Fred Walton, De Wolf Hopper, Will Danforth, Louise Dresser, Blanche Deyo, Estelle Wentworth, and Maude Raymond.

A benefit in which well-known singers, musicians, and vaudeville performers will take part, will be given at the Hippodrome on Sunday evening. Victor Herbert will lead an orchestra of 350 pieces. Mme. Schumann-Heink will be among the soloists, and a chorus of 500, made up from opera companies, including the Fritzi Scheff Company, will take part.

BERNHARDT WEEPS.

Plays at a $15,500 Frisco Relief Benefit, and Speaks Tearfully.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 26.—Mme. Sarah Bernhardt's big Texas tent was set up on the lake front to-day, and this afternoon it was filled so full that the sides had to be raised.

The French actress had come up from an Indiana tour to play for the San Francisco relief fund. With her on the programme were E. H. Sothern, E. S. Willard, Robert Lorraine, and several others. The total receipts were $15,500.

Mme. Bernhardt was induced to make a speech. Tears streamed down her face as she spoke.

"The calamity in San Francisco has had an echo in the hearts of the people of the entire world," she said. "But those who, like myself, have had the joy of visiting that admirable city, have the feeling of a yet deeper sorrow. Nevertheless, as evil brings with itself some good, I, who know the great American Nation, think that, like the Phoenix, San Francisco will rise again from its ashes greater, more beautiful, and stronger against the fury of the elements.

"The public of Chicago, to whom I owe so much happiness and to whom I am so much indebted, has once more proved its kindness to me by coming under my tent to bring its share of offerings, thus allowing me to take a very small part in that brotherly impulse of the United States toward her unfortunate sister."

Buffalo's Appropriation Illegal.

BUFFALO, N. Y., April 26.—The appropriation of $25,000 made by the Board of Aldermen for the San Francisco relief fund has been declared illegal by the Corporation Counsel. In making the announcement Mayor Adam requested citizens to add $25,000 to the $25,000 already secured by individual subscription.

To Help the Teachers.

To furnish sustenance for the teachers of San Francisco this Summer, if it is needed, the Interborough Council of Teachers has decided to collect subscriptions. It appointed a committee yesterday at the Board of Education hall to take up the work.

Japan Subscribes $200,000.

TOKIO, April 26.—The Emperor of Japan has donated $100,000 for the relief of the people of San Francisco, and the business men of Tokio and Osaka have contributed a like sum.

THE NEW OFFICE DIRECTORY.

R. G. Dun & Co. Had Two San Francisco Places for a While.

R. G. Dun & Co. have been advised by their San Francisco manager, Jay Lugsdin, that after spending two or three nights in the hills back of San Francisco, he opened a temporary establishment for the Mercantile Agency at Oakland. In the meantime his first assistant, Mr. McKillop, established an office and started operations at 2,516 Octavia Street, San Francisco, having been unable to find his superior. There were, therefore, for several days two offices in operation, one in San Francisco and one just across the bay.

The forces have now been united, and the agency soon will be able to render its usual service to its patrons.

CHINA TO HELP HER OWN.

The Empress Dowager Had Asked to Contribute to Our Fund.

HONGKONG, April 26.—In response to an appeal from Sir Chentung Liang-Cheng, the Chinese Minister at Washington, the Chinese of Hongkong to-day remitted a first installment of $10,000 in gold for the relief of the sufferers by the San Francisco disaster.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—The $10,000 subscribed by the Chinese in Hongkong is exclusively for the Chinese victims of the disaster, in view of the position taken by President Roosevelt against accepting foreign contributions.

The Empress Dowager of China offered a personal subscription of $75,000 to Minister Rockhill for the relief of the San Francisco sufferers, but Mr. Rockhill was instructed to-day by the State Department to decline, with an expression of the appreciation of this Government. It is probable, however, that this money will be sent direct to Chinese representatives in San Francisco for the use of the homeless Chinese. Nine charitable organizations in Hongkong have already subscribed $40,000 for this purpose, and smaller amounts have been contributed in other citeis.

"AID" COLLECTOR ARRESTED

Charged with Fraud for Getting Money for the Telegraphers.

Charged with fraudulently obtaining money from brokers under the pretense of collecting contributions to a relief fund for the suffering telegraph operators of San Francisco, a man who said he was John Brown of 262 Fifty-third Street, Brooklyn, was arrested yesterday by Detectives Trayer and Connor. The prisoner said he was 24 years old and a boilermaker. At the Old Slip Police Station a lot of receipts in blank, bearing the name of Thomas J. Hull, manager of the Broad Street office of the Western Union Telegraph Company, were found on him.

The prisoner, accompanied by two other men, visited the offices of several brokers and asked for subscriptions to a benefit to be given for the relief of the telegraph operators of San Francisco. Three firms, at least, met the requests, and subscribed a total of $25. Shoemaker & Bates and John G. Burgtorf each gave $10, and Millett, Roe & Hagen contributed $5.

Shoemaker & Bates, after subscribing, became suspicious of the men and telephoned to the Western Union office. They were informed that no benefit of the kind was being given. The police were called, and the detectives arrived in time to arrest one of the men before he had left the Shoemaker & Bates offices at 30 Broad Street.

Chinese Wanted in Honolulu.

HONOLULU, April 26.—Local Chinese are agitating a plan to bring their San Francisco homeless countrymen here in view of the labor shortage in the islands. They have filed a petition with the acting Governor asking him to assist such a plan.

To Europe to Forget the Disaster.

Among the passengers who sailed for Europe on the North German Lloyd Liner aMin yesterday was Mrs. Stefana Cohring of San Francisco, who was one of the first to get out of the city after the earthquake. She said that she was completely broken down as a result of her experiences, and that she wanted to get as far away from the stricken city as possible, in the hope that the change would restore her health. Mrs. Cohring is 72 years old.

FOOD.

SUN STROKE

Does Not Come If One's Nervous System Is Well Fed.

"I must tell you how food changed my condition. Seven years ago I had a sun stroke and was confined to bed 19 months.

"I was in bad condition to resist the shock at the time, as my nervous system had been poisoned from chronic constipation. My nerves were shattered by the stroke, kidney trouble followed, and my stomach became so weak that everything I ate, particularly everything containing starch, seemed to turn at once to gas in my stomach, causing palpitation of the heart and sinking spells from pressure on that organ.

"My head was packed in rubber ice-bags constantly for five months to reduce the temperature which sometimes ran as high as 108. The doctors frankly told my people that they could do nothing for me, to be prepared for my death at any moment.

"While in this condition, helpless and hopeless, a friend one day called my attention to an advertisement of Grape-Nuts food, which he had found in a magazine, and advised me to try it. I did so, and the effect was salutary from the beginning. I found that I could digest Grape-Nuts and cream without distress, and my improvement the very first week I used it was so encouraging that I persisted, steadily growing better, till at last I was entirely recovered—nerves, heart, stomach, all resumed their normal tone, the poison symptoms entirely disappeared, and I gained 35 lbs. This was more than 5 years ago. I was soon enabled to take up my regular duties. I need not say that I continue to eat Grape-Nuts food, and that it is an important part of each meal to all of us. It has made of my eleven-year-old son, who before was a nervous, sickly child, as rosy, robust, and healthy a boy as you would care to see, and has relieved my other children from stomach and bowel troubles, from which they formerly suffered." Name given by Postum Co., Battle Creek, Mich.

For Men With an Exacting Disposition

Distinctive Suits at Fifteen to Forty-five Dollars.

It is better that men should ask why your product finds a place on high than why it does not.

Granted that there be a doubt, we can demonstrate to you why our garments for men have found a high place.

The basic reason lies in our tailoring system. It was devised to do a thing better than it ever had been done—especially the little things.

Our garments are cut individually---the two sides of a coat, the two sleeves, and so on, stay with each other as a specific garment. In our suits you will find the cloth and inter-lining cut to the same size, the canvas and even the stay-tapes shrunken, and if the fabric be a plaid or a stripe, you will find the pattern on the sleeves, pockets, cuffs and trousers to meet and match the body of the garment. Such are the little things.

The big things are beyond the narrow limits of a tape-string. They have their source in expressive tailoring which promises a measure of distinctiveness and character that makes a garment ready for the service of even the exacting men.

The best of it all is this: the same system governs the production, and the same tailormen fashion the suits at fifteen dollars and those at forty-five. Do you understand the inference?

The Suits at $15 to $45

New single and double breasted models, with straight, round or angular edges; side, centre or false vents; flap or welted pockets; French cuffs, false cuffs, or without cuffs; half lined with silk, mohair or serge. The fabrics include a big collection of worsteds and velour finished weaves in overplaids, stripes, herringbone and mixtures, together with plain gray, black and blue.

TELEGRAPH COMPANIES ARE OVERWHELMED STILL

The Way Through the Piled-Up Messages Not Clear,

AND SLEEP IS VERY SCARCE

The Western Union Has Sent 175 Extra Men to California—The Postal's Wires Not All Restored.

Anything like ordinary hours of sleep has been pretty nearly unknown among the telegraph men since the earthquake nine days ago, and the day of rest is not come yet. Nor is there any evidence of its approach. Officers of both the big telegraph companies admitted yesterday that it would be weeks before conditions are anything like normal. Despite Herculean efforts, messages have piled up until the operators are swamped.

"It's been nearly three thousand years," a Western Union man said yesterday, "since Solomon wrote that 'to everything there is a season, and a time to every purpose under the heaven,' but it's just as true now. It's time for us to sleep. Not that we are going to. The wish is only what you might call a far-off 'yearning.'"

Assistant General Manager Barclay of the Western Union said yesterday that never before had any task like this been before the telegraph companies. The nearest approach to it was on the occasion of the Galveston flood, but that, so to speak, was not a circumstance compared to the job in California now.

"Though the greatest excitement is over now," said Mr. Barclay yesterday, "the work on hand to be done is just as great as ever. Of course we have done a great deal, but much remains to be done. It will be several weeks before normal conditions prevail."

Hard to Deliver.

The delivery of messages is still the greatest problem of all. Names of those to whom messages are sent are still bulletined carefully in San Francisco, Oakland, and neighboring towns, but many messages remain undelivered. The Western Union's idea of publishing the names in the Oakland and San Francisco newspapers proved to be impracticable, because there was not room enough for them. If the names were published, Mr. Barclay says, there would not be much room for anything else in the papers.

Down at 195 Broadway the Western Union employes, from the loftiest to the humblest, have stuck at their posts day and night; and it has been the same way in the Postal Building, 253 Broadway. The expense to which the companies have been put is enormous, for every operator and hallboy and elevator man that does duty overtime gets extra pay for it.

Sending money has been a hard task. Hundreds of thousands of dollars in small consignments have been wired from New York alone. The banks having been put out of business in San Francisco, the paying off has to be done in Oakland, and it is there that the biggest crush has to be handled. Mr. Barclay, talking about this, said:

"Right now in Oakland there is a line, with hundreds of people in it, waiting at the main telegraph office. Some of them are getting money, some of them ordinary messages.

Conditions Elsewhere.

"In lesser degree, the same condition prevails at other cities along the Pacific Coast. The San Francisco and Oakland situation is not the only one we have to meet. Messages by the thousands are being sent to and from Los Angeles, Sacramento, and other towns where exiles have taken refuge.

"We have already sent 175 operators to San Francisco and the other cities, most of them, of course, going to the scene of the earthquake and fire. It may be necessary to send more. Where do we get the extra men? Why, usually from the larger cities through the country. We take four, say, from our Kansas City office, three from St. Louis, four from Louisville, and so on.

"We get the best operators we can for the San Francisco job. In most cases we don't have to employ new men to take their places in the inland cities. The men that are there work overtime; they are perfectly willing to do it, as they get paid for every extra hour.

"We have all the wires running into San Francisco now that we had before the fire. There are seven sub-stations, and they are all busy. A new main office is being provided for us."

The Postal, still in a badly crippled condition, is using motor cycles, automobiles, horses, and other means to deliver messages in San Francisco. Practically all the Postal's business is done from Oakland. Launches and tugs are kept constantly going back and forth across the bay.

The Postal Still Crippled.

The scheme to establish headquarters on Goat Island was not a great success, though the company has done something from there. Every effort is being made to get the normal number of wires back into San Francisco.

"Our building was in the very middle of the area of destruction," said Traffic Manager Davis yesterday, "and we were run completely out. Our men out there have been more than faithful—they have been brave. But they were cleared out by the military. They had to get out of the way of fire and falling walls.

"It would be absurd to claim that anything approaching normal conditions prevails yet. We can say that we are making every effort in our power to restore normal conditions, but when our wires will be in the usual working order again it is impossible to say.

"We may be able to establish headquarters at the ferry to-day, but I can't be certain of it. The confusion is nearing an end now, and we are hoping every day to get a good foothold."

TRANSFERS IN FRISCO.

Larger Yesterday Than on Any Day Since the Disaster.

Transfers to San Francisco through the Sub-Treasury yesterday were larger than on any day since disaster overtook that city. The amount sent to the Pacific Coast yesterday was $3,126,000, compared with last Thursday's transfer of $3,000,000, which was the largest amount sent previously in any one day. The news yesterday from Oakland that the banks of the city had resumed business during the day was regarded as responsible, at least in part, for yesterday's heavy demands upon the New York banks.

Bankers in this city have for some days past pointed out the possibility that the actual resumption of business by the banks in and around San Francisco would result in further large demands being made upon New York City for cash.

What the New York City banks lost yesterday, because of Sub-Treasury transfers to San Francisco, they more than made up by special deposits made by the Government with the National banks against gold imports. Gold engagements announced yesterday amounted to $4,000,000, of which $2,000,000 was taken by the National City Bank, $1,000,000 by the Chase National, and $1,000,000 by the Hanover National Bank.

Some of this gold, it was said, was secured in Paris, and the balance in London. The resumption of the gold import movement is said to be due largely to the transmission to this market of foreign insurance funds. One of the bankers concerned in yesterday's gold engagements said that to his knowledge some of the insurance companies were drawing on their home offices yesterday, and he expressed the opinion that the drafts of this kind would run to very large amounts.

Estimates of the total amount to be sent to this country by all the foreign insurance companies vary considerably, some of them running as high as $75,000,000. In some quarters it is confidently expected that the transfer of this money to the New York market will result in very heavy gold imports.

Arrivals of the gold from abroad enabled the banks yesterday to pay off $5,000,000 of the special deposits which they had previously secured against gold imports. The Sub-Treasury, therefore, received yesterday $1,000,000 more than was paid out against fresh engagements.

The foreign exchange market was relatively quiet yesterday, the fluctuations being narrow compared with those which accompanied the earlier announcements of gold imports. Demand sterling declined early in the day to 4.8425, rallied to 4.8440, and closed about 10 points below the high for the day. Call money was easy. Time money in large demand. Rates were 5½ per cent. to 6 per cent. for one month and 5¾ for other periods up to six months. Some loans for longer periods were reported made at 5 per cent.

MISS MADIGAN BADLY HURT.

Auto Scared Her Horse and She Was Thrown from Vehicle.

LAKEWOOD, N. J., April 26.—Miss Nellie Madigan of New York was badly hurt in a runaway accident late this afternoon. Miss Madigan is the daughter of John Madigan, who is connected with the Emigrant Savings Bank. She was out driving when a passing automobile frightened her horse, which ran away.

As the horse ran down the road the carriage struck an obstacle in the roadway and Miss Madigan was pitched out of the vehicle. She was carried to a near-by cottage and a physician was summoned.

An examination showed that her left arm was broken, her lips cut and several of her front teeth broken. The horse ran a long distance before it was captured. It is said that Miss Madigan is to be married next month.

AUTO WRECKED ON A HILL.

Narrow Escapes from Death in an Ossining Accident.

OSSINING, N. Y., April 26.—Three men narrowly escaped with their lives in an automobile smash-up on the Post Road about a mile below this place to-night. The car was wrecked by dashing into a wall, but only one of the men was sufficiently injured to require medical attendance.

The automobile was owned by William Harris, a resident of Irvington, whose chauffeur invited two friends to take a ride with him this evening in his employer's car. They came to Ossining, and on the way back, while descending a steep hill, the chauffeur lost control of the car. It dashed into the gutter alongside the road and crashed into a stone fence.

Henry Dixon of Irvington suffered from shock and bruises, and was brought to the Ossining Hospital. The chauffeur and the other man departed without giving their names.

PROTEST GERMAN MUSICIANS.

Union Players Say They Violate the Contract Labor Law.

German musicians employed on board German steamships entering this port have been making considerable extra money in this city by playing at entertainments and in concert here while their ships were in port.

The Musical Mutual Protective Union, the big union of musicians of this city, has entered a protest with the Government. A committee of three, representing the local Musical Union, called yesterday afternoon at the office of Collector Stranahan, in the Custom House.

The members of this committee stated to Collector Stranahan that the members of the German bands employed on about all of the German steamers entering this port were violating the contract labor law.

Collector Stranahan spoke to Robert Watchorn, Commission of Immigration, who said he would investigate the matter.

SOCIETY IN WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—The series of Washington entertainments in honor of the officers of the French fleet came to an end to-day with a trip to Mount Vernon. The excursion was made on the President's yacht Dolphin, with Mr. Newberry, the Assistant Secretary of the Navy, acting as host. Luncheon was served on the yacht, an hour or more being spent on shore.

Among the guests invited to join Mr. Newberry's party were Rear Admiral and Mrs. Rae, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Cowles, Assistant Secretary of State and Mrs. Bacon, Gen. and Mrs. Elliott, Commander and Mrs. Fremont, Lieut. Commander and Mrs. Spencer Wood, the Misses Oliver, Mrs. Charles S. Bromwell, and Mrs. Albert Key.

The French visitors returned to Annapolis this evening to rejoin their ships, which sail to-morrow for New York, where they will be accorded still further attention.

C. J. Glidden Touring China in Auto.

Word has been received from Charles J. Glidden, the world-encircling automobile tourist, who writes from Saigon, Cochin China, that up to March 24 last he had covered 6,900 miles on his trip. He started with Mrs. Glidden early in December from Bombay, India. He has traveled 4,405 miles in India, 509 miles in Burmah, 1,334 miles in Ceylon, and 652 in Cochin China. Mr. Glidden is now touring China and from there he will cross to Japan. The total distance he has traveled since he began his world tours in 1901 is 32,000 miles. Mr. Glidden expects to return to New York about June 19. By that time the A. A. A. committee will probably have completed all arrangements for the second Glidden cup tour. The committee, of which Paul Deming is Chairman, will hold its first meeting next Tuesday.

LETTERS SENT HOME ABOUT THE EARTHQUAKE

Anguish of the Fleeing Reflected in a Young Woman's Account.

THE WILD RUMORS THAT CAME

"Looks Like the End of the World," Wrote Mrs. Redded to Her Parents in Orange.

The following letter written by a young woman of San Francisco to her mother in New York gives some idea of the excitement that accompanied the disaster. It was written in Oakland last Saturday and got here yesterday. It says:

"Terrible, horrible! No words can express the condition of affairs here. I have been trying ever since Wednesday morning to telegraph you that we were all right, but the wires were all cut, and not a word could be sent. The city is all gone—that is, all the business section—and the fire was checked yesterday.

"Piedmont wasn't hurt at all, but Oakland is pretty well wrecked. We saw the fire spreading all over the city from here. Oh, such a terrible sight! And the poor people—well, they are just frantic. Oakland was packed with people wandering the streets—no place to go, nothing to eat. All sleeping in the squares and on the sidewalks. The Oakland ferry was free to cross, and all that could piled over, but finally the fire stopped them coming over.

"One woman, well-dressed, showing she was well-to-do, but all alone, staggered into the ice-cream parlor at Oakland with her hair all down and her face horribly burned, and fell on the counter. She managed to gasp out, 'Just give me something to eat!' and fell prostrate. That's the kind of scenes you see here. Old men and women, with nothing but their night clothes with coats over them, staggering along with bundles of bedding.

A Family's Plight.

"Another case was a young fellow—he looked poor, tired, and sick—wheeling a go-cart with a little tot in it, and the mother following, wheeling a baby carriage with another tiny tot, with two other little tots hanging on to her skirts, and all their worldly goods stacked up in the front of the carriage. Talk about heartbreaking! I just cried for them. Nobody can picture the scene, and you don't want to.

"Some of the people havn't had a thing to eat, with dark circles under their eyes. But they now have food, and the Oakland people have clothed those that didn't have any, and last night carloads by the hundred came in, so the food famine that was predicted is all right.

"It was reported that the whole of America was no more, and I pictured you in a bunch of ruins. Oh, you don't know the tension my nerves have been under. I've been keeping cheerful, for Blanche and the children's sake, but now I'm all in. I can hardly write.

"Blanche pictured Paul killed, from the reports we heard, but let me tell you about Paul. Tuesday night he had sort of a forewarning—just couldn't sleep; and he read on the bulletin board at Omaha that Oakland, Berkeley, and Piedmont were completed demolished. He never expected even to find us. There were several San Francisco men up there, and they just cried like babies. Well, Paul said he was going, and they wanted to know where he was going to. He said to find his wife and children, even if the earthquake had swallowed them; so he came—horseback, train, on a machine, and on foot.

"Paul said he had sent twenty telegrams, but we didn't get one. So that's the condition. All the business here is ruined, and nobody so far has been allowed to cross to the city. The men whose wives and children are over there haven't been able to learn whether they are alive or dead, and have to be contented with wandering the streets of Oakland. And their faces! Poor things, the sight of them all is frightful. They just beg the people with automobiles to take them around by San José, (which is wiped off the map.) But the poor things haven't any money to pay, and they are left.

Jewelry Store Raided.

"And Shreve's beautiful new place is gone with the rest; but before it caught on fire the soldiers raided it and stole everything they could lay their hands on—shot each other to get more valuables. If it's not one thing it's another.

"The people were crazed in the city. They crowded around the fire, probably trying to save some of their family, and the officers and soldiers had all they could do to drive them away. Why, they just let the fire circle right around them, and had to be driven through it. That's the way so many of them were killed.

"The college militia, here at Berkeley, were all sent over to help patrol the city.

"Paul said his business will start in right away this side of the bay, and that I can stay with him all right. The Emporium went with all the rest, but Paul said F—— would have all the chance he wants of working out as day laborer. That is the way all of the men that were ruined are going to do."

Another description of the disaster is contained in a letter which was received yesterday by Mr. and Mrs. George Le Port of Valley Road, West Orange, from their daughter, Mrs. K. M. Redded, who was at the Hotel Rex, Turk and Market Streets, San Francisco, at the time of the earthquake. The letter was written the day after the disaster, and says in part:

"We stuck by the Rex Hotel until the fire crept too near. Friends came to our rescue and took us all to their home, beyond the danger point of the fire up on the hills. The United States militia is guarding the city. The hilltops are black with people, who fear another shock. We carried quilts and pillows on the hills and sat up there all the night, and such a night! Families with what little belongings they could rescue from the wreck or fire, horses, cows, dogs and babies, and general humanity by the thousands watching the city all blazing and waiting the inevitable.

"We will again sleep on the hills to-night. Blocks and blocks of houses lie flat, crushed like egg shells. Provisions are giving out, but we are just waiting and hoping and trusting for the best. Not one of us has given away to our feelings, each trying to comfort the other. We would be a burden to the others should we give way.

"They are blowing up all the largest buildings with dynamite to save the spreading of the fire, and this is all that is going to save the city. We can hear and see it all, and such a sight! It looks as if the end of the world had come."

CALIFORNIAN OPPOSES SUSPENSION OF DUTIES

Says the Tariff Wall Might Thus Be Broken Down.

POINT TO BE DECIDED SOON

Needham of the Ways and Means Committee Has, However, Not Made Up His Mind Yet.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—The proposal to suspend tariff duties on building materials for San Francisco will doubtless be decided in a few days by the Ways and Means Committee. The members are holding informal consultations on the subject.

One of the members of the committee, Representative Needham, is from California. In the informal consultations on the subject Mr. Needham has been opposed to any such suspension, and under the circumstances his voice is extremely potent with his fellow-committeemen. In explaining to-day why he, a Californian, took such a position he said:

"Of course, we want to do all that is proper and desirable for San Francisco, but I do not think there is occasion for hasty or hysterical action. There are many things to be considered. We want to find out whether the steel manufacturers of this country can supply the demand. I have seen it stated that the mills are so pressed with orders that they cannot meet the home demand. If that is true, it would doubtless have great weight with the committee. But if the home manufacturer can fill the orders there are other questions to be considered.

"Now, I am only discussing every phase of the situation, and have not outlined any policy in my own mind. As I said, we don't want to be hysterical, but to go ahead in a businesslike way. One other consideration which I have in mind is the fact that California is one of the greatest beneficiaries of the Dingley Protective Tariff act. Without it the State could not prosper.

"The protection given our raisins, our citrus fruits, wines and agricultural products is absolutely necessary for our salvation. The freight rate by water from Sicily, Italy, France, Spain, and Portugal to New York is just one-third of the railroad rate from California to the same market, and then we have to compete in addition with the cheap labor of Europe.

"Can California afford to make the first breech in the protective tariff wall? That is one of the questions to be considered. Moreover, the lumber interests of the whole Pacific Coast, including California, which has a big stake, are protected against the competition of the British Columbia lumber dealers. We must find out whether our people desire to take down the barrier, submitting a great industry and a fixed economic policy to foreign inroads.

"California is just starting into glass-making, under the protection of the Dingley act. That is a small industry at present, but under Republican policies, entitled to protection with the large ones. Now, the point to be considered is whether, in view of our interest in varied protected industries, we will be justified in asking Eastern States to submit to suspension of duties on steel and glass and other building material.

"I note that when the duty was suspended for the Chicago fire the lumber interests of Wisconsin and Michigan succeeded in getting exemption from the suspension of duties. I don't know whether California could ask to have her lumber exempted and Pennsylvania steel sacrificed.

"But, as I said, if this country cannot furnish us with steel and other materials, of course, we ought to consider taking off the duty on foreign goods. But, in seizing the temporary advantage of lower duties for this crisis I am very sure our people would not want to risk breaking down the great economic system of protective tariff which has built up the State, and without which there can be no prosperity for California."

"JUNGLE GANG" ESCAPED.

But Man They Held Up and Who Fired at Them, Is Arrested.

The "Jungle Gang," composed of hoodlums who loiter in the vicinity of Eleventh Avenue and Forty-seventh Street, held up John Kerr of 727 Eleventh Avenue last night.

"Dig, and dig quick," said the leader of the highwaymen.

"Sure, I'll dig," responded Kerr.

He dug up a revolver and fired two shots at the fleeing robbers, attracting the attention of Edmund Ridings of 604 West Fifty-fifth Street.

"Stop it, man; you'll kill somebody," said Ridings, not understanding that Kerr had been held up.

"Mind your own business," replied Kerr. The two men grappled and were having a lively time of it, rolling in the street, when Policeman Banks of the West Forty-seventh Street Station arrested them. The highwaymen escaped.

GOT $5,000 BY SHELL GAME.

Patrons of Auto Races at Ventnor Victimized—One Man Lost $4,200.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 26.—Thimble riggers running a shell and dice game at the Ventnor auto race course to-day got $5,000 from patrons of the races.

Charles Litchman says he lost $4,200, and seven men were arrested on a trolley car on suspicion of having been concerned in the swindle.

Litchman identified two of the men, who were held in $1,500 bail each. They gave the names of Charles Barber and Albert Allen. The others were discharged.

CARNEGIE'S COLLEGE GIFT.

Muhlenberg College to Get $20,000 if $65,000 More Is Raised.

It was announced at a dinner of the Lutheran Social Union of Brooklyn, at the assembly in that borough last evening, that Andrew Carnegie had offered to give $20,000 to Muhlenberg College, at Allentown, Penn., on condition that $65,000 more be raised for the school.

This announcement, made by Dr. J. A. W. Haas, President of the college, caused great cheering. Ex-Mayor Charles A. Schieren presided at the dinner. The other speakers were the Rev. S. G. Weiskotten of the Church of the Redeemer, Brooklyn; the Rev. A. L. Steimle of the Church of the Holy Trinity, Brooklyn, and the Rev. Mr. Wenner of Christ Church, Manhattan. Borough President Coler also spoke.

MRS. DOWIE VISITS PROPHET.

Gladstone, Their Son, Went No Further Than Elijah's Door.

CHICAGO, April 26.—Overseer Jane Dowie, wife of the deposed head of the Christian Catholic Church, visited her husband to-day at the Auditorium Annex. This is the first time Dowie and his wife have seen each other in several months. When General Overseer Wilbur Glenn Voliva assumed control at Zion City Mrs. Dowie cast her lot with the new administration, and since then has publicly repudiated her husband several times.

Mrs. Dowie was accompanied by her son, Gladstone Dowie, but the latter did not enter the room occupied by his father. Mrs. Dowie remained in her husband's apartments for half an hour, after which she and her son returned to Zion City.

NO INDORSEMENT FOR SHAW.

Iowa Republicans Fail to Commend Roosevelt's Secretarial Selection.

FORT DODGE, Iowa, April 26.—At the Tenth Iowa Republican District Convention the Committee on Resolutions refused to commend President Roosevelt for selecting Leslie M. Shaw as Secretary of the Treasury. The vote in committee was 9 to 5.

The convention renominated by acclamation Congressman J. P. Connor. Resolutions were adopted which indorse the Roosevelt Administration, Gov. Cummins, and Senators Allison and Dolliver. There is a tariff revision plank and the election of United States Senators by a direct vote of the people is advocated.

COLBY SCORES A POINT.

His Plainfield Fight Drives the Machine to Make Concessions.

Special to The New York Times.

PLAINFIELD, N. J., April 26.—State Senator Everett Colby of Essex, the reform leader, has brought boss-ridden Plainfield to time without firing a gun. The City Republican Committee, controlled by the MacMurray-McCardell machine, passed a resolution last night declaring that it represented no faction and that hereafter the voters alone must dictate nominations.

One month ago Judge W. Runyon, known as "the brains of the ring," came out in an open declaration against machine domination, and said that thereafter he would be allied with the reform movement in New Jersey.

Senator Colby prevailed upon him to accept the leadership in Union County, the home of Senator Kean, leader of the State Republican machine, and since then he has been working night and day to intrench his forces. The Colbyites say that the local machine's move shows that they see the handwriting on the wall.

OPERA TROUPE HERE, COOL TOWARD FRANKO

Charges That He Deserted Them in San Francisco.

BUT EVERYBODY IS JOLLY

A Grand Home-Coming All the Way from Philadelphia—Burgstaller Has a Singing Hen.

The Pennsylvania ferryboat of the Twenty-third Street line, leaving Jersey City at 8:30 o'clock last night, carried nearly 200 musicians, opera singers, and chorus girls, all members of the Metropolitan Opera Company. They were the last of the company, with the exception of Mme. Eames, to leave California after the earthquake and fire.

They were greeted at the Jersey City Station by hundreds of friends who wildly cheered. In true European fashion the men embraced, the women shed tears and laughed at the same time; others danced for sheer joy at their safe home-coming; while yet others broke into snatches of opera, light and heavy.

Director Conried had arranged to anticipate much of the reunion excitement by sending a special train to Philadelphia. There the immediate relatives of the opera company spent an hour or two hearing the narratives of adventure in the Pacific metropolis. All the way back to Jersey City the special was a flying bit of story, thanksgiving, and enthusiasm. Wine was opened and speeches made.

At the Twenty-third Street Ferry the stories had to be told all over again, and, the first tragedy of them having been outlived, the opera people came to the humorous incidents.

"Did you hear about Herr Burgstaller and the hen?" asked Charles Meltzer, Director Conried's representative.

Burgstaller's Singing Hen.

Herr Burgstaller was immediately surrounded. He does not speak English fluently, but he has a way of telling things.

"You vishes to hear how I safe the huhn!" he roared. [He can't speak gently.] "We sleep one night in the—the—the—yes, the Jevverzon Square.

"On Thursday we get vagons, such as you garry loggage on, and we all sit in and drive to the verry. Near the verry I see the poor huhn running away from the flames. I jump out and I cry out:

"'Huh, my vrients! I will take this huhn and I vill take it to Europe and I vill remember it by Zan Vranzisco.

"So I teach the poor huhn to sing like a bird. I teach it to sing the 'Voodbird' song from 'Siegfried.' My huhn does very well, a good pupil, but it does not catch the keys I pitch the 'Voodbird' on. But it vill in time, when it go to Europe."

By the rail on the upper deck Anton Van Rooy was telling Herr Direktor Conried how the chorus and others had escaped. Somebody asked him if it was "as bad as reported."

"Bad!" cried Herr Van Rooy. "Nothing the newspapers have printed grasps the situation. It is beyond expression."

Snatches of chorus chatter came from the saloon while Herr Van Rooy was talking.

"Just think of it," cried one feminine voice, "I woke up with a lot of things clattering on me, and there was the sky over me instead of roof."

Saved a Pug Dog.

"How's the pug, Marcelle?" cried a male voice above the drone of three or four voices humming the "Habanero" from "Carmen."

"It's doing well," replied Marcelle. "Poor little thing, it followed me all around the park, whining. And when I at last took up the miserable little dog, I found its paws burned. But I'm curing them slowly."

She was Marcelle Dignesti, one of the chorus, and the pug dog she had rescued is going back to Italy with her. When the company left the ferry at Twenty-third Street, Burgstaller had his "singing hen" in a basket slung over his arm, and Signora Dignesti had her bandaged pug in her arms.

Three of the company were slightly hurt. They are M. Tossi, one of the chorus; Frank De Fontoney, baggage master, and his wife, who is in the ballet.

The chief kill-joy of the occasion was the differences existing between Nahan Franko and the members of the orchestra. The musicians charge that he left them to look after themselves in San Francisco, and failed to return to a rendezvous at the Presidio, after he had dispatched assuring telegrams from Oakland. Mr. Franko says he was unable to return, owing to the flames. The fact that he took an early train for New York, however, has left a bitter feeling among the musicians.

It has been decided to hold a meeting at the Metropolitan Opera House to-day, at which Herr Conried will act as arbiter between conductor and orchestra. A decided coolness toward Mr. Franko was noticeable in the company on the way from Philadelphia.

Out of fifty-five instruments the musicians lost all but ten pieces. Out of nine baggage cars, the company saved only thirty trunks.

One boy, who was an orphan employed by the San Francisco manager, and who was left destitute by the fire, was adopted by the opera folk. An artist named Vincent, who also lost everything, was brought East with the company.

Twenty-two members of the "Cherry Blossom" theatrical company, who were at the Hotel Roland in San Francisco at the time of the earthquake, arrived here yesterday. They fled from the Hotel Roland to the Plaza and then to the Golden Gate Park. Their money gave out when they reached Chicago. A benefit given there for them landed them here. Much of the clothing they wore was given them to replace necessary garments they lost.

NON-UNION MEN ATTACKED.

Workers on the Central's Glenwood Power House Were Beaten.

Trouble between union and non-union iron workers has broken out at the Glenwood power house of the New York Central Railroad near Yonkers, and two workmen have been severely handled by men said to represent the union element. A strike has existed for more than a year and the American Bridge Company has been employing non-union labor to finish the power house.

Yesterday in the noon hour two of the non-union workers were set upon just south of the Glenwood Station and badly beaten by a gang of eight or nine men.

An appeal was made for police protection. This was readily given, and the company imported armed detectives to take care of the handful of men at present working on the roofing. The company will make a strong effort to break the strike.

1,600 Woodmen Initiated.

The Modern Woodmen of America, armed with megaphones, horns, and rattles, took possession of the Grand Central Palace last night to initiate more than 1,600 new candidates. Every one of the 52 camps in this city and about 200 camps from other places were represented. The new membership represents nearly $3,500,000 of insurance.

CONGRESS HEARS OF PERILS

In New York to Tariff Investigators—Hepburn Wanted Proof.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—When Representative Rainey of Illinois made his tariff speech on watches in the House a few weeks ago, he ingenuously mentioned the fact that in pursuing his inquiries he had "been up to N' York." That was the point seized on to-day in the House by Mr. Boutell of Illinois, who undertook to defend the tariff and answer Mr. Rainey's allegations against the watch trust.

He compared the experience of the man who goes to New York with that of the man who went from Jerusalem to Jericho, with the exception that the New York visitor, when he returns home, instead of describing his hectic and expensive night on the Bowery, reports that he was sandbagged in front of a church as he was returning from a lecture.

"My colleague went to New York," said Mr. Boutell, "and fell in with this watch seller, who sells watches at 100 per cent. which he has just re-imported across the waters from New Jersey. He is a practical philanthropist, this watch seller, and a great financier. The victims of the Stock Exchange could take lessons from him to their profit."

Col. Hepburn started off with a fine old "rally boys" tariff speech, and quoted a remark by Mr. Rainey to the effect that the Steel Trust had sold rails in this country at $27 a ton, while at the same time it sold rails to a Canadian competitor of the United States road for $23 a ton.

"Where is the proof?" he demanded. "He gives us no proof. How does he dare to come here with such a statement and bring no proof?"

The demand for proof was like setting a match to a powder train. In a second half the Democratic membership of the House was standing up and clamoring for recognition. The Republican applause was drowned by the Democratic demand to be heard. Finally some semblance of order was restored, and then Col. Hepburn placidly remarked that he declined to yield for further interruptions.

PASTOR BOARDMAN IS OUT.

Washington Heights Church Without a Minister—Swaffield Also Quits.

The controversy in the Washington Heights Baptist Church has been followed by the resignation of its pastor, the Rev. Dr. Boardman B. Bosworth. The Rev. Dr. Walter J. Swaffield, the pastor of the Lexington Avenue Baptist Church, which was merged with the Washington Heights Baptist Church some time ago, made known his desire to resign recently.

The situation as it now stands is that both pastors have gotten out to leave the field clear for a new pastor entirely for the Washington Heights Church. This was deemed the wisest solution of the proposition. It was done as Dr. Bosworth said last evening, "for the good of the church."

The church stands on a bluff at the corner of Convent Avenue and 145th Street. Although the trustees have several men in mind for the pastorate, none has yet been selected. Both in pamphlets which have been issued and in speech the Washington Heights congregation, as well as Dr. Bosworth, have openly declared the New York Baptist Mission Society responsible for their trouble, and also for the extinction of the Lexington Avenue Church, which has been bought by the Methodist denomination.

The meeting at which the consolidation was effected took place as far back as April 2. The Washington Heights corporation decided upon it by a vote of 41 to 35. The Lexington Avenue property was sold to the Methodists for $86,000. Of this sum about $6,000 will be reserved to pay the floating debt of the combined church, and the balance is to be paid over to the Trustees of the new church.

The agreement was that as soon as the Trustees of both churches sign the agreement the ministers of the Lexington Avenue church, as well as the Washington Heights church, should resign. This was done within the last few days. On presenting their resignations both ministers were to receive one year's salary in advance.

The Rev. Dr. Bosworth was asked last evening if he had resigned, and had decided, as was rumored, to go into business. He said:

"I have resigned from the Washington Heights Baptist Church. I have not given up the ministry, however. I shall take a rest, and ultimately resume, I hope, the ministry of some church. I have no definite plans which I can speak of."

CHAPPY MORAN LOCKED UP.

He and Harry Dillon Charged with Wire-Tapping at Hot Springs.

HOT SPRINGS, Ark., April 26.—"Chappy" Moran of New York and Harry Dillon are under arrest in Hot Springs, Ark., charged with wire tapping. The information was laid by L. A. Marcier of New Orleans, to whom the two offered to sell advance news of the winners of the different tracks for $1,500.

Moran and Dillon had their plans fully matured, and their arrest was made just in time to prevent a coup. Moran had been arrested previously on the same charge, the last time on the Latonia track. About five years ago he swindled Mrs. Heber Markham, a wealthy New York woman then taking the baths at Hot Springs, out of $10,000.

DOG FOLLOWED REFUGEES.

And Is Coming East with Five Long Islanders Escaped from the Fire.

CHICAGO, April 26.—Five refugees from San Francisco were cared for to-day at the Harrison Street Police Station and sent on to their former homes on Long Island. They are Mrs. Amelia Berg, her daughter Anna, son John, and Herbert Winant and his wife, who is another daughter of Mrs. Berg.

They were followed all the way to Chicago by Sport, a pet dog, who, when the family fled from San Francisco, got across the bay somehow and rejoined his owners in Oakland. The dog has gone East, too.

HARRIMAN PUSHES AWAY PHILANTHROPY'S CROWN

Denies He Said He Had Shed His Husk as a Financier.

WALL STREET STILL SMILING

It Never Really Believed That Nice "Interview" That Came When Harriman Rushed to San Francisco.

E. H. Harriman put aside yesterday the work of helping in the rehabilitation of San Francisco long enough to telegraph to the headquarters of the Union Pacific in this city a repudiation of an alleged interview with him which was sent to Wall Street from Pittsburg last Friday.

The interview, which Mr. Harriman says was not an interview at all, but a mere fabrication, was published by one of the Wall Street news agencies. Wall Street was interested in it largely for the reason that it appeared to reveal Mr. Harriman in a new light—it almost led the Street to correct its belief that Mr. Harriman was a man of action rather than of words. Mr. Harriman himself disillusioned Wall Street yesterday, and the Street was sorry.

Wall Street, however, had had its share of amusement. The spectacle of Mr. Harriman in a public interview begging his questioner to permit him to "emerge from his husk as a financier," and in another sentence referring to himself as "a railroad magnate," had not been lost on the Street's sense of humor. Mr. Harriman's references in the supposititious interview to "unscrupulous financiers" who were "rigging the stock market" were phrases which highly interested the groups gathered around the tickers in brokers' offices.

The philanthropists of Wall Street, the men who wholeheartedly give advice to others which they fail to accept themselves, welcomed this interview with Mr. Harriman because it pictured him as no longer having any thought of his railways, but only of suffering humanity. There surely was a chance for these philanthropists to have more to say about these railways than they had had in the past. But Mr. Harriman puts an end to this dream by repudiating the interview from the first line to the last.

The friends of Mr. Harriman, those who knew him too well to be led to suppose that the change in air from New York to Pittsburg could have wrought such a wondrous change in him, were not led into any such mistakes. They were amused, but remained incredulous. One of them sent a copy of the interview to Mr. Harriman that he, too, might be amused. Whether he was or not, he failed to say in his dispatch, merely denying that he had begged anybody's permission to come forth from his husk or that he had forgotten himself to the extent of saying that unscrupulous financiers were rigging the market.

These were some of the statements attributed to the head of the Union Pacific which had amused Wall Street most, and which presumably most amused, or may be, aroused Mr. Harriman himself:

"I am rushing to San Francisco, not as a railroad magnate to safeguard damaged property, but to work like any other good citizen for the regeneration of that ill-fated city. That would be my instant course toward the coming city of this country even were not my 20,000 miles of Western railroads and Pacific Mail steamship lines mirrored in the prosperity of the 'Queen of the Golden West.'

"While I have given no interview on this situation and have never mentioned the stock market in my talks for publication, I may say that unscrupulous New York financiers have taken advantage of this National calamity to 'rig' the stock market.

"Permit me to emerge from my husk as a financier to say that I almost wish that the damage was more equitably divided.

"My thoughts are all for the city and its people—not one minute for the Union Pacific, the Southern Pacific, Pacific Mail Steamship Company, Oregon Railroad & Navigation Company, Panama Line, or Portland & Asiatic Steamship Companies."

Wall Street read this and much more of like tenor, and read again. Now Mr. Harriman says the Street must read it no more, or if it reads must not believe.

POLICY HOLDERS CONTROL.

Samuel Untermyer Seeks to Give Them Full Lists of Insured.

Samuel Untermyer, counsel for the International Committee of Policyholders of the Mutual and New York Life Insurance Companies, has asked Senator Brackett to seek an amendment of the new law covering the elections in mutual companies, whereby the companies shall be compelled, in printing their lists of policyholders as now provided, to print twenty-five extra copies for deposit with the State Superintendent of Insurance.

These copies Mr. Untermyer would have issued to such associations of policy holders as may be approved of by the State Superintendent for use during the five months between the publication of the lists on June 15 and the elections on Nov. 15, the idea being that they should be returned to the companies after the elections, together with all copies in the hands of the State Superintendent unissued.

This amendment is sought with the view to correcting a situation that appears to offer serious obstacles to any policy holders' organization that seeks access to the lists. As the law now stands, the companies must maintain two lists at their home offices, and at the office of each of their general agencies in any State or Territory of the United States and in every foreign country, as well as at the office of the State Superintendent of Insurance.

But inasmuch as a list of 600,000 policy holders such as the Mutual and New York Life possess, will be a book about the size of the New York City Directory if gotten up on the ordinary lines of such publications, it is estimated that it would take any force that could be put at work at any given point at least all of the time between the filing and the elections to make the copies for policy holders' organizations, even if representatives of the companies did not get at the lists in advance and block the whole proposition.

If the change cannot be obtained in the law, it is the purpose of the International Committee to seek the extra copies from the companies, and, if they are refused, to appeal to the policy holders for assistance in collecting the names, using this refusal as evidence of an indisposition to allow any effective policy holders' campaign to be made.

Bernard N. Baker, Chairman, and John De Witt Warner, counsel for the committee, whose activities are confined to the policy holders of the Mutual Life, threw some additional light yesterday upon the letter which John D. Crimmins wrote to Mr. Baker after receiving some of the Warner Committee's literature. This letter, in which Mr. Crimmins declined at some length to ally himself with the movement, was obtained by the management of the Mutual Life and read at the meeting of the Mutual's Trustees on Wednesday.

Mr. Warner said yesterday:

"I fear that Mr. Crimmins overestimated the importance of the communication which we sent him. It was not an invitation to join our committee as he appeared to believe, but simply a printed circular inviting him, in connection with a host of other Mutual policy holders, to ally himself with the movement by sending us the numbers of his policies in the company and a contribution of $1. He appears to have gone to a great deal of trouble in declining to join us."

Mr. Baker's reply to Mr. Crimmins says in part:

> I do not know what amount you have paid up on your $150,000 insurance. I have $100,000, and have paid up some $46,000, on which no dividend has ever been paid, as they are accumulative or deferred dividend policies. I do not know how you are placed. But can you for one moment blame me or any other man of moderate means (as I am) who has $46,000 invested in a company, and who not even exercises the privilege of voting his stock, uniting with others to do so? What would become of our National or civic life if every officeholder were allowed to re-elect himself? This neglect of the policy holders themselves to do their own full duty has resulted to-day in one of the greatest scandals, to the discredit of our whole country, that has ever been known.
> We are being awakened to a new standard in this country of business honesty and business policy, and also a recognition of the real duty of trusteeship.
>
> I note your determination to give your vote to a continuance of the present board or to any committee they may appoint to solicit proxies and that you will advise others to do so. This, of course, is your own personal privilege. I only want you to accredit our committee with the same honesty in their intentions as you feel you are showing in voting for the present management.

THREAT TO MUTUAL LIFE.

British Policy Holders' Committee Talks of Secession.

LONDON, April 26.—In accordance with the resolution adopted April 20 by the committee of British policy holders of the Mutual Life Insurance Company of New York a circular has been issued to all the policy holders in the United Kingdom.

This circular, which is signed by Lords St. Oswald, Armstrong, and Northcliffe and by the following members of the House of Commons: Harmood-Banner, Seaverns, Benn, Howarth Booth, Barclay J. Baron, and Sir Wilfrid Lawson, cites the demands cabled recently to the Trustees of the Mutual Company, and contends that while the suggestions made by the Trustees that an actuary be appointed to verify the reserve and liabilities, might reassure the policy holders as to the solvency of the company, it would not remove the serious causes of dissatisfaction with the present management nor aid the policy holders in obtaining the proper control of the company's affairs in the future.

While not accepting as true all the charges made in the United States against the management, the committee fears that without a radical change in the management no provision for the auditing of the company's affairs from time to time will suffice to satisfy the public of the United Kingdom. The circular adds:

"It seems to the committee that it is impossible that the company can, with any prospect of success, continue doing business in this country so long as the present New York management is in authority. The present expenses are out of all proportion to the results."

After reciting the resolutions passed on April 20, the circular proceeds to say that the chief desire in Great Britain and the United States is that the movement for a thorough reorganization as a policy holders' company shall meet with success. The circular ends with the following statement:

"Should unforeseen circumstances frustrate the accomplishment of this object, it would become a necessary demand that the British interests be separated from the American and that the British policy holders be formed into a separate organization."

HIGGINS TURNS DOWN BIG HEARST DELEGATION

Whereupon the Capitol Rings with Cheers for the Congressman.

GOVERNOR IS DENOUNCED

The Committee Contents Itself, with Seeing Senator Brackett and Speaker Wadsworth.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 26.—Gov. Higgins to-day turned down a committee of 400 persons appointed last night at the Hearst mass meeting in New York to come to Albany and protest against the killing of the Murphy Recount bill.

When Gov. Higgins refused to see the delegation the members set up a cheer for Hearst that was heard in the Senate Chamber on the floor above. Their shouts and cheers were mingled with angry denunciations of the Executive. They declared his action an affront that could not be tolerated.

When the delegation entered the Executive Chamber Secretary Perley informed Clarence J. Shearn, who headed the visitors, that the Governor would be very glad to see the delegation did not his duties prevent.

"Say, when can we see the Governor?" asked several.

"The Governor, as I said, would be very glad to see you," replied Secretary Perley, "but he is very busy just at this time. It is near adjournment, and his time is fully occupied. A representative of Mr. Hearst was so informed several days ago."

The secretary added: "You could see him after adjournment."

"We don't want to see him then," shouted a score.

When it became evident that the Governor would not appear, several said: "We ought to tar and feather Higgins."

The delegation finally trooped to the Senate lobby, where it demanded a hearing.

The Senate did not accord it, but one of its number—Mr. Brackett—came out, and for ten minutes held the crowd with a few observations as to the justice of its cause. The Senator made a favorable impression by his earnest declaration that he was with them if the law was not sufficient for them to have their alleged wrongs righted. Brackett is a candidate for the Republican nomination for Governor.

"I suppose you address me as Chairman of the Judiciary Committee," said the Senator. "I want to say that the bill was reported by our committee. Some may oppose it because the law in quo warranto proceedings gives power enough. I can only say this: That if that is not sufficient I shall do all I can to give power enough."

An attempt was made to cheer Brackett. Shearn and his chief lieutenant, Clement J. Driscoll, ordered the crowd to desist. But later, when Brackett declared with vehemence that Thomas F. Ryan, August Belmont, or Gov. Higgins did not "own" him, the delight of the crowd could not be so easily suppressed.

Cries for Senator Raines then went up, but he did not appear, and the crowd moved over to the Assembly side to see Speaker Wadsworth.

They were determined to have an audience with one of the heads of the State Government, and Wadsworth was the last hope. He turned the gavel over to Rogers of Broome and for a long time remained in his room with the Independence League orators firing their arguments at him. Mr. Shearn and ex-Judge Palmieri spoke.

Speaker Wadsworth said in reply: "I do not feel at liberty, gentlemen, at this time to make any statement or to send any message as you suggest. I merely desire to say that this matter is being considered in the utmost sincerity by the Committee on Rules.

"It has been a pleasure to me to have you gentlemen come in, and I am going to take pains to lay your statements before that committee as well as I can remember them."

MORTGAGE TAX BILL DEAD.

Wadsworth Forces Rally and Fix May 3 for Adjournment.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 26.—The new Mortgage Tax Repeal bill in all probability is dead. Speaker Wadsworth's forces bested the Cox-Agnew-Dowling combination in the House to-day and passed the concurrent resolution to adjourn on May 3 by a vote of 66 to 55.

It is not believed that the Senate will pass the bill in time to give the House a fair opportunity to vote on it, and Speaker Wadsworth evidently intends to put every obstacle possible in the way of the measure.

There will be no waiving of the rules in the Senate for the benefit of the bill. Senator Malby is working against it by saying that if it passes the lessened revenue will cause the cutting out of more than $1,000,000 of appropriations.

Had the Cox-Agnew-Dowling combination been able to keep a majority of the votes in the House to-day, it would undoubtedly have forced the leaders to give the repeal bill the right of way in order to prevent a later adjournment.

Assemblyman Cox this morning offered to stop the fight if a promise were made that the repeal bill would be reported out of the Rules Committee when it came from the Senate, but the Speaker would not agree.

MERRITT BILL PASSES.

Regulates Issues of Stock by Railroad Companies.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 26.—The Assembly to-day passed the Merritt bill, which provides that railroad corporations must first obtain the consent of the Board of Railroad Commissioners before issuing stocks or bonds or transferring franchises.

This measure was drawn to prevent in the future such combinations or wholesale issues of stocks as obtained in the formation of the Ryan-Belmont merger, unless some responsible body passes upon the proposition.

Gov. Higgins Signs Insurance Bill Looking to That End.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 26.—Gov. Higgins to-day signed the insurance bill which relates to lobbying and handed down a memorandum in which he says that it is quite probable that future legislation will strengthen the measure.

"This bill aims to insure publicity as to the relation of attorney and client and principal and agent existing in connection with legislative matters," the memorandum reads in part, "and thereby to prevent secret lobbying and the use of so-called 'yellow-dog' funds, and I approve it for the reason that it is a measure of importance to remedy a real evil.

"Future legislation will doubtless improve in some respects its provisions. The Massachusetts act allows a person to enter himself upon the docket as legislative counsel exclusively and prohibits a person whose name is so entered from rendering service otherwise than by appearing before a committee and by doing work properly incident thereto or by giving legal advice as regular legal counsel of corporations or associations. The Massachusetts statute further provides for a separate docket of legislative agents who may by all other lawful methods than the above, promote or oppose legislation.

"It would seem that lawyers of high repute might draw a distinction between the work of the legislative counsel and the work of the legislative agent and might decline to register their appearance under this bill, which does not distinguish between the two classes of employment.

"The bill contains no provision for the disbarment of legislative counsel or agents for improper practices, and in my judgment the bill would be strengthened if such a provision were added thereto."

WANT VAGRANCY DEFINED.

Assembly Returns the Winters Bill to Committee.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 26.—Republicans and Democrats joined to-day in the Assembly to send back to the Rules Committee the Winters bill, defining the meaning of the term "vagrants." Mr. Merritt led the Republican opposition and Mr. Oliver that of the Democrats.

Though the bill had the indorsement of Police Commissioner Bingham and Inspector McLaughlin, Oliver declared it was a measure to extend police graft. Mr. Lynch of Erie declared if the bill should become a law most of the Republican officials of Buffalo would not be able to go to the railroad stations to get out of town without being arrested.

The bill provided that anybody who had ever been convicted of a crime, "and having no visible means of support," found loitering about railroad stations, steamboat landings, banking houses, any public place or at any public gathering, "acting suspiciously and unable to give a satisfactory explanation of his presence," may be imprisoned for six months.

MAYOR'S VETO UPHELD.

Senate Indorses His Action on Buildings and Bridges Bill.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 26.—After a struggle in the Senate to-day Mr. Grady, with the aid of Senators White and Elsberg and supported solidly by the city members, succeeded in having sustained the Mayor's veto of the Yale bill which provides that where the city builds new buildings and bridges to replace those destroyed by it in making reservoirs for water storage it shall maintain these roads and bridges forever and be liable for any damage that may result from accidents thereon.

Grady said that the bill, which affects principally Putnam County, was the worst piece of political jobbery ever attempted against New York City, and he did not believe that even the Republican majority could support it.

Those who voted against the veto were Allds, Barnes, Brackett, Burr, Carpenter, Coggeshall, Cordes, Fancher, Fechter, Goodsell, Lewis, L'Hommedieu, Malby, Prime, Raines, Smith, and Wilcox.

MRS. CARY'S BIG BILLS.

Dressmaker's Suit Reveals One Account of $21,000 for Gowns.

Justice Greenbaum in the Supreme Court yesterday ordered the jury to return a sealed verdict in the suit brought by Bertha Adams, a dress maker, to recover $6,099 from Hamilton W. Cary for wearing apparel supplied to his wife in July, 1905.

Mrs. Cary was adjudged insane, and died last January. Cary's defense was that Mrs. Adams knew his wife was insane, and that she refused to take back the gowns when he offered them to her.

Eleanor Smith, a nurse who had attended Mrs. Cary, said that in her opinion Mrs. Cary was insane.

Cary testified that he was married in 1898, and that his wife then had an income of $54,000 a year. She drank to excess. From October, 1904, to February, 1905, he said, he paid Mrs. Adams $21,000 for gowns for his wife. He said he also got $80,000 from his mother-in-law to pay other bills his wife had contracted. These were chiefly for jewelry and dry goods. He declared that after paying Mrs. Adams one bill of $14,000 he had warned her not to sell anything more to his wife.

The witness said that one Sixth Avenue department store had allowed Mrs. Cary credit to the amount of $30,000 a year. He said that he never learned that his wife drank until after they were married.

THE "CREATION" AT CORNELL.

Beginning of a Three Days' Musical Programme at Sage Chapel.

Special to The New York Times.

ITHACA, N. Y., April 26.—The Cornell Festival Chorus, assisted by Emil Mollenhauer's Boston Festive Orchestra and Miss Josephine Knight, soprano; Albert Quesnel, tenor, and Leonard B. Merrill, bass, presented Haydn's "Creation" to a large audience to-night in Sage Chapel.

This is the first of a three days' musical programme of three vocal and two orchestral concerts under the auspices of the Cornell department of music. The chorus, selected from the best talent of the Ithaca Conservatory of Music, the Cornell Glee Club, and the Sage Chapel choir, gave a splendid rendition of the musical masterpiece.

MISSOURI WON FIRST PRIZE.

Battleship Led Others of First Division in Target Shooting.

GUANTANAMO, Cuba, April 26.—The Kearsarge, commanded by Capt. H. Winslow, and the Missouri, commanded by Capt. E. C. Pendleton, both belonging to the First Division of the First Battleship Squadron of the Atlantic Fleet, have returned here from the target range. The Kentuky remained to pick up the targets.

Later the battleships will proceed northward, accompanied by the Maine, flagship of Rear Admiral Evans, who is in command of the squadron.

The Missouri won the first prize for the best all-around shooting.

RIPPER BILLS PASSED OVER THE MAYOR'S VETO

Some One Lost the Ogdensburg Executive's Message of Protest.

SPARED MALBY'S FEELINGS

City's Entire Democratic Administration, Even to Policemen, Removed from Office.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 26.—The Ogdensburg ripper bills, which, in the interest of Senator Malby and his Republican allies, change the date of the elections in that city to the even instead of the odd years, and legislate out of office every place holder, even to policemen, in the City of Ogdensburg, which went Democratic at the last election, were passed in both branches of the Legislature to-day over the veto of Mayor Hannan.

In some mysterious way the veto message of the Mayor denouncing the ripper bills and showing the disposition of the people of his city toward them was lost before it arrived at the desk of the Clerk of the Senate. When Senator Grady asked that any message of the Mayor be read, it was announced that there was no message, and only a simple veto.

When the bills came up for passage in the Assembly the same request for the veto message was made by Minority Leader Palmer, and there also the Clerk announced that no message had been received with the bills.

Meanwhile a copy of the Mayor's veto had found its way into the hands of Mr. Salomon of New York, who asked that it be read, but the Speaker held that the copy was unverified, and that it could not be put on the record. The bills were then rushed through.

The sidetracked message of Mayor Hannan, after telling of the public hearing in his city on the bills, continued:

"It was evident that popular sentiment was strongly opposed to the proposed amendments to the charter. It was charged, and proved to the satisfaction of the Common Council, that the proposed bill was introduced for partisan purposes, and not in the best interests of the city. The opposition to the bill established the fact that the measure provides for a biennial election in the City of Ogdensburg, to be held at the same time with the general election and on even years, when an election for President and Governor takes place. It was urged that this was not in the interest of good local government. The opponents of the bill maintain that if the election was to be held in the Fall it should take place on the odd years, when the citizens of Ogdensburg could express their will at the polls unprejudiced by the greater and more absorbing interest in the Federal and State elections.

"The opponents also pointed out the fact that this proposed measure placed Ogdensburg in a class by itself with reference to the time of electing its city officials. It appeared that there is not a single city in the State of New York under 80,000 inhabitants which holds its biennial elections in the even years. The proposed measure is contrary to the spirit of the Constitution of the State of New York.

"Assemblyman Gray and Senator Malby attempted to justify the measure, but gave no explanation of why the time of the election was fixed on even years or why it was necessary to legislate the city officials out of office. They substantially admitted it was a partisan measure, introduced for partisan purposes, and that they attempted to pass the bill irrespective of the wishes of the people of Ogdensburg.

"The Common Council duly considered the arguments and unanimously decided to disapprove the bill."

Basins Being Excavated for the Dry Dock in the Suez Canal.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—In order to avoid an absolute closure of the Suez Canal to the shipping during the six days that will be occupied in the passage of the dry dock Dewey, it has been found necessary to provide a number of pockets at the sides in which the dock can be placed during the night while other shipping uses the canal.

The Navy Department has been advised that owing to the existence of two large bodies of open water in the canal, at Port Ismailia, and the Little Bitter Lakes, which may be thus used by the dock, the excavation of two side basins will meet the needs of the case. Dredges are now at work making the pockets in advance of the passage of the dock.

HOTEL FOR A BISHOP.

Gift of New York Woman—Churchman Has No Plans for Property.

Special to The New York Times.

TROY, N. Y., April 26.—Bishop Michaud of the Burlington (Vt.) diocese has received the papers apprising him of the transfer to himself of the Congress Hall property at Sheldon Springs, Vt. He knew nothing of the gift until the papers came to him by mail.

The property was given to him by Mrs. Emeline Fitch of New York, who has owned it for twenty years. The hotel has been unused for many years. It was built in 1868 by Dr. S. S. Fitch and S. F. Carlisle, and was at one time a popular resort.

The building is 123 feet by 96 feet in size and four stories high. It accommodates about 150 guests. The Bishop has made no plans for the use of the property.

M'CLELLAN ACCEPTS THE ELSBERG BILL

A Good Measure, He Says, 20-Year Clause Included.

THINKS CAPITAL WILL BID

If It Does Not City May Apply to Legislature to Have Law Amended.

Mayor McClellan announced yesterday afternoon that he had signed the Elsberg Rapid Transit bill, and had returned it to Albany, with a memorandum of his approval. The bill now goes to Gov. Higgins for final action. Here is the Mayor's memorandum of approval:

"By the enactment of this bill many radical changes will be made in the existing rapid transit law. The majority of these amendments have been so widely discussed, and are generally so well understood, that I do not consider it necessary at this time to further review the general features of the bill.

"Even the opponents of the measure have conceded that many of its provisions are meritorious, and that their adoption will prove of advantage to the city. In fact, as the bill now stands, there is but one clause to which any serious objection has been offered. This relates to the section limiting the length of future leases to twenty years with the privilege of one renewal for twenty years in addition.

"It has been urged that such a term is too short to prove attractive to responsible bidders, and that the investment of private capital in an enterprise of this kind under such conditions would be impossible. If these contentions are well founded the city will be forced either to construct and equip the prospective roads at its own expense, or else to abandon all hope of securing new transit facilities in the near future.

"I fail to see, however, any substantial reason for believing that this limitation will have such an effect. I think that in the light of past experience, both here and abroad, we have the right to expect that private capital will be freely offered for investment in an enterprise which should prove to be profitable even under these conditions.

"Nine years ago there was incorporated into the new Greater New York charter a provision to the effect that in the future no franchises upon the surface or over the public streets should be granted for a longer period than twenty-five years, with the privilege of one renewal of twenty-five years in addition. There were some at that time who believed that such a restriction would prohibit the building of future surface or elevated roads within the city limits, but their fears proved to be unfounded.

"Within the past nine years many applications have been made by various corporations for franchise rights under this law. The New York, Westchester and Boston Railroad is now constructing, and the New York and Port Chester Railroad Company is now seeking to construct, their lines upon these conditions, and have agreed to pay large sums to the city as compensation for the granting of their franchises.

"The concession for the newly built underground road in Paris, known as the 'Metropolitan Railway,' was offered for a term of thirty-five years, with no privilege of renewal. The city agreed to excavate and build the roadbed itself, but the lessee was obliged to lay the rails, construct the stations, and equip the road. There were six bidders for the privilege, and according to the latest reports the investment has been found to be a most profitable one.

"If enterprises such as these have attracted responsible investors, it cannot be said that a forty years' lease of an underground road in the City of New York would prove wholly uninviting to private capital. I say a forty years' lease advisedly, for I do not regard a twenty years' lease, with the privilege of a renewal of twenty years thereafter, as amounting to nothing more than a naked lease for twenty years.

"Whether or not I am right in thinking that under these conditions the City of New York may expect active competition for these franchises, there is another consideration which, in my opinion, lessens the force of the objections advanced against this clause. The contracts for the new routes which have already been adopted cannot under the present conditions be advertised for some months to come, and it will therefore be impossible to tell whether or not the bidding will be satisfactory until almost the end of the present year.

"If it should prove that private capital will not be offered under these conditions, and that the city by itself cannot construct and equip these new roads, it will be perfectly feasible to apply to the next Legislature for a satisfactory amendment to this law.

"If the bill becomes a law the city may gain much, and at the worst can suffer little harm. On the other hand, if I should refuse to accept the bill I should be responsible for depriving the city of certain conceded advantages and for denying it any relief from the terms and conditions of the present law. Under these circumstances my duty is plain, and I therefore have no hesitation in accepting the bill on behalf of the City of New York."

STAY IN GOULD VERDICT.

Court May Reopen Case to Permit Mrs. Howard Gould to Testify.

As a result of a verdict returned on Wednesday against Mrs. Howard Gould and in favor of Henry Jones Thaddeus, a portrait painter, who sued to recover $5,000 for a portrait he painted of Mrs. Gould and which she refused to accept, Howe & Hummel applied for and obtained an order from Justice Newburger yesterday to show cause why the default should not be opened to enable Mrs. Gould to testify.

Mr. and Mrs. Gould are abroad, and it was therefore represented to the court that it was impossible for her to testify in the action. The order is returnable next week. This acts as a stay in the meantime, preventing the issuance of an execution.

It is expected that Mr. and Mrs. Gould will return home soon.

ITO SOCIETY ORGANIZED.

Jews in This City Start an American Territorialist Movement.

The Jewish Territorialist movement for the establishment of an autonomous Jewish settlement under a free Government was definitely launched in this country at a meeting held at the home of Cyrus L. Sulzberger, 516 West End Avenue, last night. This was the second meeting held for the purpose of organizing the movement in this country. Those present were Mayer Sulzberger, Oscar S. Straus, Cyrus L. Sulzberger, Adolphus Solomons, Herman Rosenthal, Dr. S. Solis-Cohen, Louis Loeb, Dr. Herbert Friedenwald, the Rev. Goodman Lipkind, and Bernard G. Richards.

The Jewish Territorialist Organization, otherwise known as the Ito, which under the leadership of Israel Zangwill and other prominent Jews in England, has made great progress in Europe, represents the outcome of a division which occurred in the ranks of the Zionists at the last Zionist Congress. The Territorialists are in favor of a Jewish settlement under any favorable and free conditions as opposed to the Zionists, who confine their efforts of Jewish restoration to Palestine. There are many Jews in this country who are in sympathy with this movement, and at the meeting referred to the first steps were taken to organize branches of the Ito in all parts of the country. The constitution and by-laws of the parent organization in England were adopted with such modifications as seemed necessary for American purposes.

Those persons present at the meeting will form a provisional council pending the organizing of various branches. For the present a temporary executive committee of three was appointed, consisting of Mayer Sulzberger, Oscar Straus, and Daniel Guggenheim.

THIRD WEST SIDE EXPLOSION.

Two Men Badly Burned After Lighting a Match in Their Cellar.

An explosion which resulted in injury to two men occurred soon after 10 o'clock yesterday morning in the basement of 771 Ninth Avenue, which is used as a store room by the hardware firm of Shipman & Portal. The injured men are Julius Shipman, 37 years old, a member of the firm, who received severe burns of the face and hands, and Harry Portal, 27 years old, the other member of the firm, who was also badly burned about on the face and hands, and Harry Portal, moved to Roosevelt Hospital.

The cause of the explosion is believed to be the accumulation of illuminating gas, which has been held responsible for the explosions on the west side recently. Shipman & Portal visited their storeroom this morning for the purpose of overlooking their stock, and lighted a match while there. Instantly there was a loud report, which shook the houses on either side of the building, and frightened the inmates. The district affected by these explosions comprises the blocks from Forty-ninth to Fifty-ninth Street, and from Ninth Avenue to the river front. The Fire Department yesterday notified the residents not to use naked lights in the cellars. Last night they placed red danger lights on every manhole cover in this district.

ANOTHER TUNNEL VICTIM.

Laborer Probably Fatally Hurt by Blast in Long Island City.

Michael Sharkey, a laborer, 28 years old, had the right side of his face blown away and his right hand blown off by a premature blast of dynamite in the Pennsylvania tunnel in Long Island City yesterday.

The police could get no explanation from those in charge of the work of the cause of the accident. Sharkey was removed to St. John's Hospital, where it was said his injuries would prove fatal. His home is at 160 Fourth Street, Long Island City.

District Attorney Darrin has decided to make an investigation. So many of the explosions have been due to dynamite going off without apparent cause that the authorities incline to the opinion that they are due to the employment of incompetent men.

No Trial for Ex-Tenement Inspector.

Justice Scott of the Supreme Court denied yesterday a motion for a mandamus to compel Commissioner Butler of the Tenement House Department to try John J. Kennedy, formerly Acting Chief Inspector in his department, on charges. He is now in the Health Department. The charges were filed by tenement house Inspectors. Justice Scott said it would be absurd to order Commissioner Butler to try Kennedy since he has gone to another department.

M., to form an organization, adopt a constitution, and elect officers and Directors.

WILL ASK BELMONT WHY LEASE COST $12,10C,000

Transit Board Finds Discrepancies in Subway Items.

FULL PAYMENT NEXT YEAR

Belmont Says Stock Has Not Been Watered—Suggests an Appeal to the Courts.

Members of the Rapid Transit Commission, at the instance of Controller Metz, will make a demand on the Interborough Rapid Transit Company for an explanation of the item of $12,100,000, in the reported capitalization of the company, for the "acquisition of the Subway lease." The members of the commission, as well as the Controller, declare that this sum is not rightly chargeable as a part of the capitalization that is entitled to earn 5 per cent. dividend annually before the city gets its annual 1 per cent. sinking fund payments to retire the original issue of Subway bonds.

There was no meeting of the commission yesterday, but the members informally canvassed the situation with the Controller, who also was in consultation with the Corporation Counsel, to whom he has referred the letter and statements received from August Belmont. An old member of the commission, who was in the board when the original John B. McDonald contract was taken over by the Interborough, said that the board regretted ever having consented to the transfer, and that no such transfer even would have been permitted had it been known that it was to be capitalized against the city so as to affect the sinking fund payments of the company.

President Belmont yesterday declared that his company would have paid the sinking fund percentage for the first year if 5 per cent. had been earned on the company's capitalization. He declared that the same condition could not arise another year, as the Subway now is making more than the required percentage.

"It is a waste of time," he said, "to discuss the point raised by the Finance Department. The easiest way to arrive at a clear understanding of doubtful phases of the contract is to leave them to the courts. We did not draw the contract, and some of its features are vague. We took the contract as we found it. An intelligent reading of it makes it clear that the 1 per cent. payment to the sinking fund was not to be paid by the tenant until his profits reached 5 per cent. on his invested capital.

"I notice some suggestions with reference to 'water' in the Interborough. There isn't a dollar of water in it.

"The controversy with the Finance Department over the 1 per cent. sinking fund payment cannot arise over the current year's earnings as the net earnings of the Subway now are better than 5 per cent, and are improving all the time. The first year of operation included many extraordinary expenses, for we had a strike on our hands which cut down traffic and involved extra disbursements. None of these things is interfering with the operation now. The sinking fund payment will be made on the earnings for the current year, and would have been paid on the earnings for the last year if the earnings had warranted it. The Controller, under the terms of the contract, always has access to the books of the company, and there is nothing in our bookkeeping which we wish to conceal."

George W. Wickersham, counsel of the Interborough, also issued a statement in answer to the objections stated by Controller Metz to the figures of the Interborough by which the company showed it had earned but 3.64 per cent. on an invested capital of $36,098,152 for the first year.

The investigation of the Controller, the Corporation Counsel, and the members of the Rapid Transit Commission yesterday into the financial conflict between the city and the company brought to light several discrepancies in figures reported by the company. All of these will be laid before the company officially for an explanation. In the meantime Mr. Wickersham was asked about them yesterday, but he declined to say anything until he could make an investigation for his own account.

The capitalization of the company "for the Subway lease" was reported by President Belmont to Controller Metz as $12,100,000. This, it is admitted, was solely for the purchase of this lease by the Interborough Rapid Transit Company of the Rapid Transit Subway Construction Company, which in turn got it from Mr. McDonald. The officers of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company and of the Rapid Transit Subway Construction Company are almost identical.

Last year the Interborough Company filed a report with the State Railroad Commission at Albany, giving its condition for the twelve months ending June 30. In this statement it gave the cost of the lease as $2,757,781. This difference is causing comment by the Controller and the Commissioners. The statement filed with the Railroad Commission gave the cost of equipment of the Subway to June 30, from the opening on Oct. 27 for operation, as $24,769,858.43, of which $2,757,781 was for the lease purchase, $415,288 for engineering and superintendence for Subway shops, $4,170,373 for buildings and fixtures, $8,336,114 for power plants, $7,964,359 for cars and electrical equipment, $356,381 for interest and discount, and $560,381 for miscellaneous items.

In addition the statement said that the company had, during the previous year, paid 6½ per cent. dividends on $35,000,000 of capital stock. The gross earnings of the Subway from Oct. 27 to June 30 were given as $3,630,078.26, and the operating expenses at $1,841,447.75, leaving the net earnings from operation at $1,788,630.51. An additional income of $181,488.71 was reported from other sources, together with expenditures of $839,590.61 for interest on the debt and taxes, leaving a net income from the Subway of $1,130,528.61 for those eight months and four days. To the Controller President Belmont wrote that the net income of the Subway had been but $1,314,080 for the one year and four days from Oct. 27, 1904, to Oct. 31, 1905. According to this the Subway would have lost $16,000 during July, August, September, and October of last year. An explanation of this apparent discrepancy also is sought by the Controller.

Corporation Counsel Delany informed the Controller yesterday that he would have an opinion on the Interborough's contentions ready for the meeting of the Rapid Transit Board next Thursday. Attention was called yesterday to the wording of Section 2 of Article I. of the Subway lease, which gives the Rapid Transit Commission the power, in the event of a default of the company in any of its payments or obligations, to take over the Subway and run it as the agent for the contractors and operators, or else to lease it to any other concern, to carry out the contract for the stated period of years. Under this clause, it was held, the city had every power to protect its interests in the present emergency.

STARTLED THE CZAR.

Premature Publication of the Fundamental Law to be Investigated.

ST. PETERSBURG, April 26.—A great scandal has been caused by the premature publication of the draft of the new "Fundamental Law" or "Constitution" of Russia. The Emperor has ordered an investigation to determine how the news got out.

A remarkable feature of the second degree elections in the Baltic Provinces was the complete defeat of the Germans, who compose the noble, or landowning, class. Even the Russians entered into combination with the Letts, Esthonians, and Jews against the "German Barons" in choosing Radicals and Constitutional Democrats as electors.

MOSCOW, April 26.—The Congress of Monarchists, which has been in session here, closed its deliberations to-day with the adoption of a series of extremely reactionary resolutions, declaring that the new Parliament is not representative of Russian public opinion, and pronouncing itself against the autonomy of Poland and the annulment of the privileges of the Germans in the Baltic Provinces.

The Congress further declared itself in favor of the abolition of the privileges granted to the Finns, and of treating Jews as foreigners and excluding them from all rights, such as the purchase or renting of lands or education in the middle schools or universities.

The proceedings closed with a speech by Prof. Nicholsky, in which, to the accompaniment of cheers, he prophesied a counter revolution, to restore the old régime, which would cost the lives of 5,000,000 Jews and Constitutional Democrats.

JUDICIAL REFORM FOR EGYPT.

Cromer Says the Capitulations Are Incompatible with Conditions.

LONDON, April 26.—Lord Cromer's annual report on Egypt and the Soudan was issued in a Blue Book to-day. He suggests the advisability of an alteration in the capitulations, which he declares are wholly incompatible with the present conditions in Egypt.

He suggests the formation of a separate council composed of subjects or protected subjects of the powers signatory of the treaties under which the judicial reforms of 1876 were accomplished, all legislation to be approved by a majority of this council, and to be promulgated by the Egyptian Government with the consent of the British Government and to be binding on all foreigners resident in Egypt.

Lord Cromer's idea is to do away with the present necessity for obtaining the unanimous consent of nearly all the European powers and the United States before any change of law can be effected. He explains that under the new proposal the powers, with the exception of Great Britain, will cease to exercise any legislative functions, and adds that so long as fifteen separate powers each possess the right to veto new legislative proposals any attempt to introduce reforms necessary to the country is practically hopeless.

Lord Cromer specifically advises against the British Government claiming any special privileges for British subjects. He says their interests are identical with those of all the other Europeans and Americans resident in Egypt, and do not require special protection in the suggested council.

Comparing the cost of the oil used and the repairs of American and British locomotives on the Egyptian railways between 1901 and 1905, the report says that the average cost of the British locomotives for a 137,000-mile run was: Oil, $670; repairs, $3,765; and for the American: Oil, $640, and repairs, $4,150.

PARIS'S FEARS ALLAYED.

No Trouble on May Day Expected Now, but Army Is Ready.

PARIS, April 26.—The Prefect of Police, M. Lépine, this afternoon made a reassuring reply to hundreds of letters which anxious citizens had addressed to the police. He said that all precautions had been taken to maintain order in the streets May 1 and prevent attempts against life or property.

Besides the full police force which will be on duty, reinforcements consisting of 28,000 infantry, cavalry, and artillery will arrive here to-night, to-morrow, and Saturday. These troops will be disposed throughout the city with precise orders. Special surveillance will be maintained over the water and gas conduits. In addition to the troops mentioned, eight squadrons of cavalry relieved from duty in the mining regions have been brought to Paris, and dragoons and hussars are coming from many other points.

In strike circles the men are much calmer. There has been no renewal of the disorders, and the return of the northern ironworkers to their factories indicates a partial break-up of the movement in the mining regions.

The workmen in numerous additional trades have announced their adhesion to the eight-hour movement, but the railroad men and employes of the provision trades do not intend to strike.

The announcement this afternoon that the big department stores will remain open as usual served to reassure the public.

Many Americans have been making inquiries at the American Embassy and Consulate as to the desirability of leaving Paris. The answer given was that there was not the slightest danger and that the proposed demonstration was likely to prove a fizzle.

SPOONER ON RATE BILL REPLIES TO BAILEY

Insists That Senator's Amendment Is Unconstitutional.

JUDICIAL POWER INDIVISIBLE

Doubts Whether the Federal Courts Would Accept the Emasculated Jurisdiction Proposed.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—Senator Spooner, notwithstanding the pain from an acute attack of neuralgia, began his speech this afternoon against the position taken by Senator Bailey two weeks ago in his argument in support of the contention that Congress has the power to delimit the judicial power of Federal courts and forbid the granting of preliminary injunctions. Mr. Spooner's argument was an emphatic reiteration of his original view that the Bailey amendment is absolutely unconstitutional. The speech was not concluded, and will be continued to-morrow.

"The question is a very grave one," said Senator Spooner. "If this is made the law I believe that the rate-making power of this bill will be absolutely lost. You cannot regard the judicial power as divisible, although jurisdiction may be so regarded. If the Bailey amendment is adopted I doubt if the courts would accept the emasculated jurisdiction proposed."

An opinion of Chief Justice Taney was advanced as supporting this view. In the case in question the Supreme Court refused to take jurisdiction of a case coming from the United States Court of Claims because the court in its jurisdiction conferred by Congress had not the power to execute the judgment that the Supreme Court in deciding the case would have given.

He referred to a case where the Supreme Court replied to the criticism made by an Attorney General on a decision by the court. Mr. Bailey broke in to observe that a more remarkable occurrence was the criticism by the President recently of the decision of Judge Humphrey in the packers' cases in Chicago. Senator Spooner declared in reply to the remark that he stood heart and soul for the independence of the three coordinate branches of the Government, and declared that it would be a sorry day when the courts were terrorized by either Congress or the Executive.

He urged that in equity cases it was in the power of the court always to preserve the status quo by injunctions. The framers of the Constitution never, in his judgment, intended that the Federal courts should be shorn of their judicial powers. It was never intended, he said, that they should be subject to Congress when they had once been established and called into being. That the courts should in the exercise of their judicial power have the right to preserve the status quo was a fundamental principle of equity jurisdiction. If the judgment of the Legislature without a knowledge of the facts could be substituted for the judgment of the court with a knowledge of the facts in the case now under consideration, where was the limit in the application of the new principle? If this could be done as to a part of the thing at stake it could be done as to the whole.

Senator Bailey here interrupted to ask if in the absence of a constitutional amendment providing for trial by jury, Congress could have established such trial. Senator Knox said that he had in mind a case where the principle was laid down that if the Constitution had been silent as to trial by jury, the right would have existed. Senator Bailey said that there was also a Rhode Island case where a court held a law to be void because the Constitution of the State had not established the right of trial by jury. "The fact is," said Senator Bailey, "that the framers of the Constitution feared that Congress might abolish the right of trial by jury and they put that in to disable Congress from so doing."

Senator Bailey further contended that Congress could abolish all the courts of equity. To this Spooner declared that just as Congress could not abolish the common law side of the courts, it could not abolish the equity side or transfer the trial of the facts to other than the law jurisdiction. Spooner declared with great force that from time immemorial equity courts had exercised the power to issue temporary injunctions to prevent the continuance of wrong complained of. Now to deny that power would be to declare for the usurpation by the Legislature of the judicial powers. Legislation by Congress to that end would in his judgment be idle as the wind that blows—a farce at the beginning and to the end.

"The right," said he, "to have equity controversies dealt with by equitable methods is as sacred as the right to trial by jury."

AMERICANS IN LONDON JAIL.

Everhart and Simons Held for Fraud in $10,000 Bail Each.

LONDON, April 26.—At the Guildhall Police Court to-day Franklin Everhart and Harry Samuel Simons, Americans, who were remanded here on $10,000 bail each on March 8, charged with conspiracy and obtaining large sums of money by fraud, were committed for trial at the Old Bailey.

Everhart and Simons are alleged to have issued forged shares and certificates in connection with Alaska, Oklahoma, Cripple Creek, and Manitoba mining companies. In London, according to the police, Everhart was Vice President of the "Mining Securities and Investment Corporation," said to be registered at Oklahoma City.

Simons was a Director of the same corporation, with head offices said to be at 220 Broadway, New York. The two men are also represented to have been connected with a number of other companies having offices in New York and New Jersey.

Everhart said he was from Pennsylvania and Simons from Illinois.

GAS DIVIDEND CUT SQUARELY IN HALF

Directors Make Rate 1 Instead of 2 Per Cent. for the Quarter.

EIGHTY-CENT GAS DID IT

Reduction Was Larger Than Expected, but Stock Rallied at the Close of Market.

The long-expected reduction in the Consolidated Gas Company's dividend was announced yesterday. At their meeting yesterday the Directors declared a quarterly dividend of 1 per cent., payable June 15, compared with the previous quarterly dividend of 2 per cent. This, in effect, places the stock on a 4 per cent. basis, providing dividends are paid quarterly as in the past. Directors who attended yesterday's meeting, however, did not commit themselves upon the question of the annual dividend rate on the company's stock.

The reduction in the dividend is the direct result of the recent order of the State Commission on Gas and Electricity and of the subsequent law passed by the Legislature limiting the price of gas in Manhattan and the Bronx to 80 cents per thousand cubic feet, a reduction of 20 cents from the price previously fixed by law.

The action of the Gas Commission and of the Legislature reducing the price of gas to 80 cents resulted in heavy liquidation in the stock of the Consolidated Gas Company. Yesterday the stock sold as low as 131, the lowest price quoted since March, 1903. The actual announcement of the cut in the dividend was followed by a slight rally in the stock, which carried the price up to 133¾, where it closed, with a fractional net gain for the day.

Estimates of the probable effect upon the company's earnings of a reduction from $1 to 80 cents, based on the recent annual reports of the Consolidated Gas Company, indicated that at the reduced price the company would just about earn 8 per cent. on its stock with nothing left for reserve funds. It had been taken for granted that the Directors would reduce the dividend rate, but the reduction announced yesterday was larger than had been generally expected.

The last reduction in the price of gas in New York City was ordered in 1897, when the Legislature reduced the price from $1.20 per thousand cubic feet to $1, the latter rate being made effective in 1901.

MRS. TEWKSBURY HELD.

Committed in London for Assisting Husband to Pass Bad Checks.

LONDON, March 28.—At the Bow Street Police Court to-day, Mrs. Violet Aubrey Tewksbury, who was recently extradited from Paris to London, where she was charged with assisting her husband, Lewis Green Tewksbury, to pass worthless checks, was committed for trial at the Old Bailey.

Mr. and Mrs. Tewksbury were first arrested in London Nov. 26 of last year, and were released on bail. They failed to surrender themselves Dec. 4, and their bail was forfeited. Tewksbury was arrested in Philadelphia March 10, on the charge of grand larceny brought against him by the New York authorities. Mrs. Tewksbury was subsequently taken into custody in France, and on March 30 of this year was extradited from Paris to London after having been in prison in France for five weeks.

When Mrs. Tewksbury was brought up at Bow Street March 31 she denied having any knowledge of using worthless checks and asserted that in all the transactions she had acted at the command of her husband, whom she believed to be very wealthy.

NAT GOODWIN LOSES SUIT.

Selena Fetter Gets $4,075 Verdict for Failure to Use Her Play.

Selena Fetter, the wife of Milton Royle, the playwright, got a verdict of $4,075 against Nat Goodwin for damages and breach of contract in the Supreme Court yesterday. She sued for $20,000. The case was tried before Justice Fitzgerald and a jury.

Miss Fetter alleged in her complaint that she made a contract with Goodwin on Dec. 15, 1903, in which he agreed to produce her play, "My Wife's Husband," in the season of 1903-4, and was to pay her royalties of 5 per cent. and upward.

The jury was told by Frederick E. Anderson, the plaintiff's counsel, that the play was put on by the defendant in Philadelphia, and was pronounced a success. The company then went to Chicago, but was unable to keep the engagement on account of a fire in the theatre. Two weeks later Goodwin's company opened in Cleveland with "A Gilded Fool" instead of the plaintiff's play.

Milton Royle signed the contract on behalf of his wife, as her lawyer, while George T. Appleton, Goodwin's manager, signed for the actor.

MRS. CADIEUX JAILED, HER SON STILL FREE

She Won't Tell Whereabouts of Boy She Abducted.

SHE SAYS HE WAS ABUSED

Woman Jumped from a Window When a Detective Tried to Arrest Her for Kidnapping.

George Cadieux, the boy who was kidnapped on Wednesday from the Odd Fellows' Home, Unionport, spent yesterday in parts unknown in New Jersey, while his mother, who carried him off in an automobile, was in the Harlem Court jail in default of $2,500 bail. She declined to tell where the boy is.

The kidnapping took place at 5:30 o'clock Wednesday afternoon. Mrs. Cadieux called to see the boy and received permission from the Superintendent, Mrs. A. Singer, to take a short walk with him. According to Michael J. Cooney, Mrs. Cadieux's lawyer, he went willingly and walked the three blocks between the home and the main road without the least objection. Mrs. Singer, however, declares he was taken against his will.

In her anxiety to get away, Mrs. Cadieux banged the door of the automobile upon her right hand and cut off the top of her forefinger.

As soon as the boy was missed, Detective Gaynor was put on the case and went to 228 West Thirty-ninth Street, where Mrs. Cadieux lived. She was in bed, and asked the detective to retire while she dressed. As soon as he was gone she slipped out of the back window, dropped to the ground, ten feet below, and scrambled over the fence into West Thirty-eighth Street. The detective followed and caught her.

She was brought before Magistrate Barlow yesterday morning in the Westchester Court. It was said that the boy was committed at the request of the Gerry society for three years to the Nursing and Childs' Hospital, on Saten Island, in December, 1903. He had then been acting on the stage with Andrew Mack. On the closing of the Staten Island institution a few months ago he was transferred to the Odd Fellows' Home. As the Gerry society was not prepared to go on with the case, the examination of Mrs. Cadieux was adjourned until to-morrow, and she was held in $2,500 bail. Her lawyer asked that she might be paroled in his custody, but Magistrate Barlow refused. He said:

"This is a very serious charge, and, in addition, the woman is in contempt of court, as the boy was committed by order of the court."

The lawyer said that Mrs. Cadieux had received many letters from her son, complaining of ill-treatment. On one occasion she had noticed that his ear was very much swollen, and he had said that it had been struck with a whip. Mrs. Cadieux also assured him that when she took the boy away there was blood on his shirt, the result of a beating earlier in the day.

F. C. Merkel, President of the home, and Mrs. Singer, Superintendent, indignantly denied that the boy had been ill-treated. The latter said yesterday: "That woman wants to get her son back, so as to put him on the stage again. A few weeks ago Mrs. Cadieux called me over the fence in front of the house and showed me her son's ear. It was bleeding and swollen. She said the boy said it was the result of a beating. I at once called the janitor, who looks after the boys, and he said he had only given the lad one stroke on the back, and that the ear was frost-bitten. Mrs. Cadieux appeared quite satisfied."

BOY SAVES SISTERS.

Wraps Blanket About Blazing Guest in Martha Washington Hotel.

Miss Sarah G. Eliot and Miss May E. Eliot, sisters, both of Clinton, Conn., who have occupied rooms on the fourth floor of the Martha Washington Hotel for some two weeks past, were preparing to go out yesterday afternoon at 1 o'clock. The alcohol lamp, on which their curling irons were heating, was accidentally overturned, setting fire to the kimona of Miss Sarah Eliot.

She began to scream and run around the room. Her sister was trying to extinguish Miss Sarah's burning clothes when Joe Hopper, an elevator boy, ran in, seized a blanket, and, wrapping it around Miss Sarah, soon put out her blazing clothes. Meanwhile, Miss May, who had been burned herself in attempting to help her sister, was screaming.

There was no panic in the hotel, and no fire alarm was rung in, but there was excitement on the fourth floor. Dr. E. Ellsworth Williams was called in to attend the Misses Eliot. Miss Sarah, the elder, who was burned about the arms and body, was removed to New York Hospital. Her sister was treated at the hotel. She was only slightly burned. The Misses Eliot were visiting their sister, Susan Eliot, a permanent guest at the hotel.

A CHINATOWN IN BROOKLYN?

Red Hook Disturbed Over Rumor of Exodus Thither from Manhattan.

The residents of the Red Hook district of Brooklyn were greatly disturbed yesterday by a rumor to the effect that Manhattan's Chinatown was to be moved to that section of the city. According to the report, leaders in the Chinese colony, believing that the scheme to wipe out Chinatown and make a public park of the site would be put through, were planning to establish a new Chinatown in the district bounded by Richards Street, Hamilton Avenue, and the water front, in Brooklyn.

It seemed yesterday, upon inquiry in the neighborhood, that the rumor arose after three "Americanized" Chinamen had visited Red Hook on Wednesday and consulted with real estate dealers as to the purchase of several small pieces of real estate in the neighborhood. So far as could be learned, none of them bought any property. One man who talked with the visitors said he understood their scheme was to start a shop for the manufacture of articles having a sale among the Chinese.

Despite its slender foundation, the rumor that Manhattan's Chinatown was to be transplanted to Red Hook gained wide circulation in the district. It so disturbed many of the older residents owning property there that they talked of organizing to prevent the reported Chinese invasion.

MOSQUITO BILL SIGNED.

Gov. Stokes of New Jersey Approves Measure Appropriating $350,000.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., April 26.—Gov. Stokes to-day signed the Brown Mosquito bill, which was passed by the Assembly and Senate some weeks ago. Under its provisions an appropriation of $350,000, or $50,000 annually for seven years, becomes available for use in fighting the pest.

The signing of the Brown bill, offered by Senator Brown of Monmouth County, is in many respects a triumph for the Cape May interests. State Entomologist Voorhees has perfected elaborate plans for fighting the mosquito, and the work will begin immediately.

HOSPITAL FOR THE RICH.

Revenue to Help Maintain Chicago Institution for the Poor.

CHICAGO, April 26.—The plan to erect a hospital for the rich which will support the work of the Presbyterian Hospital in aiding the poor and destitute took definite form yesterday, when the announcement was made that $350,000 of the $500,000 sought by the Board of Directors of the Presbyterian Hospital to carry out the project had already been subscribed.

Of the amount to be raised, $300,000 will be used to build the hospital for the rich, which is expected to so increase the revenues of the institution that the annual deficit resulting from the great amount of charity work will be eliminated. The rest of the money will be used to improve the present hospital buildings.

CHEERS FOR GEN. GRANT.

Reviews Military Show in the Garden —Sabre Contest Ridiculed.

The reception of Gen. Grant was the feature of the Military Show in Madison Square. Upon his entry into the Garden last night, escorted by Col. Charles A. Denike, Tenth Regiment, Albany, N. Y., the commanding officer of the review, the General was greeted with cheering that continued for ten minutes, while he lifted his chapeau repeatedly before entering the box. The cheering and applause was again revived when he marched around and inspected the troops.

Martial ardor received a set-back when spectators and soldiers, the latter fresh from the review and seated about the arena, made a flagrant demonstration against a mounted sabre contest in the ring. Officers went about endeavoring to quiet the cat calls and shouts of ridicule, but their commands were only partially obeyed. Otto A. Renne of the New York Turn Verein and Corporal George Lamothe, Seventy-fourth Regiment, brought forth the jeering as they engaged in mimic combat. Their horses showed such signs of fright that the two men were whacking their steeds more with their sabres than in executing cuts against each other. There were loud calls of "Take them off" before Renne was declared the winner.

One military athletic record, that for the championship half mile, was broken by Joseph Bromilow, Twenty-second Regiment. His time was 2:04, which is 2 seconds better than the previous record, held by D. H. Meyer, Seventy-fourth Regiment. With their victories last night the athletes of the Twenty-second Regiment obtained such a lead for the point trophy that they cannot now be defeated as the regimental championship team. In the wall-scaling contest the Eighth Regiment won, but were disqualified as they carried an extra strap to assist them over the wall. Summary:

VANDERBILT'S HORSES LOSE.

Mrs. Gerken and Judge Moore Win Honors at Brooklyn Show.

Alfred G. Vanderbilt met with poor success last night at the horse show of the Brooklyn Riding and Driving Club, which is being held at the clubhouse, Prospect Park Plaza. Although he exhibited in several classes he was unable to secure a single blue. He won several second prizes, and declined the issue in the four-in-hand class, which was the feature of last night's exhibition. He had entered his four famous grays, which won at Durland's last week, but no explanation was vouchsafed of the failure of the team to put in an appearance.

The class, which was for road teams, was expected to produce some lively competition, but only two teams lined up for the judges' inspection. The leaders of Edward H. Hawke, Jr.'s, four balked and backed into the wheelers and acted so badly that the judges disqualified the entry and declined to award the second ribbon. Judge William H. Moore secured the blue rosette perforce.

Next to Judge Moore, the honors of the evening went to Mrs. John Gerken. The two competitors did not clash to any extent, and between them they swept the classes in which they were entered. Mrs. Gerken's principal victories were gained with her champion pair, Newsboy and Shopgirl, although the latter was defeated in the class for horses in harness. In addition to winning the four-in-hand class Judge Moore captured a blue with White Gate Majesty, while his champion, King Forest, went down to defeat before Miss Gilbert's The Baron. Summaries:

Dr. Fernando B. Fasola, formerly of Hoboken, who was recently convicted in the General Sessions Court at Jersey City of having obtained $14,000 of Louis Garibaldi and Bernard Vezetti of Hoboken, was yesterday called before Judge Blair, who sentenced him to State's Prison for three years.

BROOKLYN CARS CLEANER.

Board of Trade Committee Reports Improvement on Many Lines.

Marked improvement in the general health of Brooklyn citizens is looked for as the result of the crusade for better sanitary conditions in the street cars, which is being carried on by the committees on health of various civic bodies of that borough. This campaign was inaugurated about a year ago by the Broadway Board of Trade, and was taken up in various parts of the city.

Dr. A. H. Brundage, Chairman of the Committee on Health of the Broadway Board, said yesterday that as the result of the work of his committee, the cars in a large part of the city were in good condition. The lines on which improvement has been shown were those on Broadway, Gates, De Kalb, Park, Myrtle, Hamburg, and Knickerbocker Avenues and Halsey Street.

Among those persons associated with Dr. Brundage on the committee are Dr. Frank F. Wilson, Dr. John Ferguson, Dr. William Schomdelmeier, Dr. H. Lundgren, Dr. Henry Schreiber, and William Jennings.

AUTO RAN INTO A HOUSE.

Building Was Being Moved Across a Street—Two Men Hurt.

CAMDEN, N. J., April 26.—An accident occurred at Berlin last night in which two men were badly injured, an automobile was smashed to kindling wood, and a hole about six feet wide was made in a house.

One of the injured men is W. N. Knox, an automobile dealer of 202 North Broad Street, Philadelphia. The name of the other man has not been learned. Both received injuries on the head, face, and body.

A house that was being moved across White Horse Pike was responsible for the accident. The house was about half way across the road last night. Red lights were placed on either end of the house and the automobile men thought the space between the lights was clear and steered for that. Before the automobile could be stopped it crashed into the house, throwing out both men.

MAJOR DALY MARRIED.

Wedding That Took Place Easter Day Has Just Become Known.

It came out yesterday that Major George Daly, professor of mathematics of the College of the City of New York, and Miss Helen Stietz of Brooklyn were married on Easter.

For reasons of their own, Major and Mrs. Daly didn't want news of the marriage to get out, and Major Daly said last night that he had seen to it that the "City College Monthly" shrould print nothing about it. The ceremony was performed by Father Cryan, S. J., of St. John's University, Fordham, in which Major Daly is a Professor of Military Science. Major and Mrs. Daly are living in Brooklyn.

CAN'T ENFORCE EXCISE LAW.

Queens Attorney Calls Magistrates' Proceedings a Farce.

Assistant District Attorney John Bombach of Queens County said yesterday that the police court proceedings in cases of alleged violation of the liquor tax law were a farce. Bombach appeared before Magistrate Healy in the Long Island City Police Court to prosecute two waiters arrested at North Beach last Sunday by Detectives McLoughlin and Harnett of Inspector Kane's staff.

"A policeman must be an expert chemist if he hopes to secure a conviction in a liquor case," said the Assistant District Attorney. "There's no use trying to secure a conviction in a Magistrate's Court.

CAN DUTIES BE SUSPENDED?

Mr. W. J. GIBSON, whose long experience as counsel of the Board of General Appraisers gives weight to his views upon tariff legislation, expresses the opinion in a letter we publish in another column that the joint resolution suspending for one year the duty on structural steel and other building materials intended to be used in San Francisco violates that article of the Constitution which declares that "all duties shall be uniform throughout the United States." We have received letters of like purport from other gentlemen learned in the law.

A citation from opinions of the Supreme Court sustaining this view would be of some interest. In the Head Money case, EDYE vs. ROBERTSON, Mr. Justice MILLER writing the opinion, the court said: "The tax is uniform when it operates with the same force and effect in every place where the subject of it is found." In the leading Inheritance Tax case, KNOWLTON vs. MOORE, Justice WHITE, in delivering the opinion of the court, reviewed at great length the history of the uniformity clause, and reached the conclusion that "the words 'uniform throughout the United States' do not signify an intrinsic but simply a geographical uniformity." That is, Congress may tax imports of silks at one rate and imports of wool at another, but the tax must be uniform wherever imported. As originally drawn, the uniformity clause formed a part of the clause forbidding a preference in favor of the ports of one State over the ports of another State. The clauses were separated by the Committee on Style.

Structural steel and building materials intended for the use of San Francisco would under the terms of the joint resolution pay no duty whether imported at San Francisco, at New York, or at New Orleans. In that sense the resolution would act with uniformity. Would that be a compliance with the Constitutional requirement? Manifestly when building steel intended for San Francisco and building steel intended for New York forming a part of one cargo were discharged at this port, the San Francisco consignment paying no duty and the New York consignment being assessed at the Dingley rates, the question whether this discrimination between States is not repugnant to the uniformity clause would be raised. Nothing short of a decision of the court would settle it to the satisfaction of everybody.

But if there really is a question, if the point is well taken, why did nobody challenge the Constitutionality of the similar suspension of duties in behalf of Portland, Me., after its great fire, and in behalf of Chicago? The bill rebating duties upon building material for Chicago as originally drawn included lumber. The Michigan lumber interests took good care to have the bill amended omitting lumber, and in that form it passed. It is already evident that the steel interests intend to meet the joint resolution introduced for the benefit of San Francisco by making it unnecessary and practically of small or no effect. Already they have put San Francisco orders ahead of all others, and probably they will reduce prices in that market to a figure that will prevent the importation of any large amount of structural material from abroad.

The resolution is, of course, intensely annoying to the stand-patters. It is a confession that duties do increase cost to the domestic consumer, which used to be denied, and it is an admission, further, that this increase of cost is a hardship. Moreover, it brings up the tariff question, and that is always dangerous.

THE FREE PASS.

It is about as necessary that the courts shall have a reputation for justice as that they shall mete it out. This should lead Judges not to receive railroad courtesies when those giving them may become litigants in their courts; for, no matter how wise a decision may be rendered against a party in litigation against a railroad, the defeated party will never cease to contend that he did not have a fair trial. This weakens the authority and general standing of the court.—Secretary TAFT at New Haven.

The acceptance of free railroad transportation by an executive officer of the Government is just as bad—probably worse. The statute books, State and Federal, contain a great body of laws for the regulation or restraint of railroad corporations. The duty of enforcing these laws devolves upon Executive officers. A Government officer who accepts free transportation, either for business travel or for a journey undertaken merely for fun, might, if he were a weak and complacent person, connive at an indulgent and half-hearted enforcement of the laws applicable to the corporations that had favored him. This would be an injustice to the people.

Or, he might enforce all the corporation laws he could lay his hands on in a savage and ferocious manner, and invent new ways or recommend new laws for the harassment of corporations, merely to show that, as Secretary TAFT puts it, "he was above being influenced by such little considerations" as passes.

The free pass is altogether objectionable and odious, whether it repose in the pocketbook of the judiciary or is demanded and accepted by the legislator or the Executive officer of whatever rank or file. It is a good thing that the great railroads have cancelled their free lists.

THE COAL NEGOTIATIONS.

The Scale Committee has called a convention to consider the correspondence between Mr. MITCHELL and the operators. The sentiment among the men is said to be against a strike, but it is not certain that the decision of the convention will reflect such a sentiment. In the bituminous trade we have just seen a very popular official deposed because his action was unrepresentative of his constituents. In the bituminous trade we are witnessing also the effect of a fight to a finish. Some collieries are able to work, others cannot pay the advanced wages under competitive conditions and must stop. This implies also that some laborers cannot find employment under competition, or if they can that it is only at such reduction of wages as will enable the product to be sold competitively. It is a triumph of cheapness, but at a sacrifice of labor and capital resembling that in the cutthroat railway wars of former years, with their sequel of receiverships and bankruptcies. Is it desirable that an experience which was to nobody's advantage should be repeated in both the bituminous and anthracite trades?

If the market for labor were free it might be desirable, and the same is true regarding the market for coal. But both markets are closed. No trust has ever been legally proved to exist, but that is the way it works. There is only one price for coal, and Mr. MITCHELL controls the only supply of labor. The coal combine naturally resents the working of the labor combine, and the consumers of coal suffer from the combine of the combines. This is not free trade nor fair trade in either labor or coal. The decision, whatever it is, is under duress as regards miners, operators, and consumers alike. The hold-up is unjustifiable in any aspect. Whichever party imposes its will commits a wrong, apart from the reasonableness of what is done.

No one would impede any agreement by the parties in interest, however reached. And yet it is clear that a decision under compulsion other than of reason and right is only laying the seeds of trouble. In the bituminous trade the working of the union has been excellent. It has shown wisdom and moderation, and has benefited the workingman enough to justify the principle of collective bargaining. Return to the conditions of warfare preceding the union's existence is undesirable from any standpoint. The same may be said regarding the anthracite trade. If the operators could smash the union it would be a Pyrrhic victory. It might enlarge profits by cheapening labor, but such a result would not be desirable in the state of the public mind regarding combinations to exploit consumers. For these reasons we urge a settlement, not by conquest, nor by sullen acquiescence in a minimum of concession, but by arbitration which shall certify the merits to the public knowledge.

This was the great merit of the settlement under the President's commission. It would be even better if it could make a new adjustment including both trades. The position of the operators has more nearly commended itself to us than has Mr. MITCHELL's, but we have not been able to approve their non possumus attitude, and we have thought that they were lacking in the highest diplomacy, despite the cogency of their arguments. Their readiness to accept arbitration was somewhat too restricted and too dictatorial. The convention has the power to order a strike, which Mr. MITCHELL lacked. It also has the power to renew Mr. MITCHELL's offer of arbitration, which received public approval corresponding to condemnation of his order to suspend mining during friendly negotiations.

SAN FRANCISCO'S DEBT AND OURS.

According to the debt statement published by us the other day New York's gross debt is $618,796,337, and the net debt $447,882,080. The year's increase was $48,000,000, or roughly twelve times the total debt of San Francisco, which has a special significance just now. It is obvious how freedom from debt has an almost inestimable value at times of disaster, and it is worth remarking how different San Francisco's present condition now is from what New York's would be under similar calamity.

San Francisco's slate is almost clean. Until 1903 San Francisco had no debt whatever, except for parks. Moreover, this nominal debt was fully provided for by a sinking fund, forming no burden against the city's assets, valued nominally at some $30,000,000, but really priceless. Most of these assets were in the form of Golden Gate and Mission Parks, which broke the flames, and provided refuges for the victims of the disaster. In 1903 San Francisco authorized some $17,000,000 of bonds, of which about a quarter had been issued. This is the only burden upon a splendid credit and actual property, and the city will be able to issue all the bonds the law allows to recreate itself in plans admitting of beauty and convenience impossible of realisation except for the peculiar concurrence of unburdened resources and a legitimate demand for liberal expenditure.

As a municipality New York is not so much richer than San Francisco as the difference between their assessed valuations would indicate. A mortgage upon New York's future of a half billion is no slight matter, and soon a billion may be reached. It would only require a decade at last year's rate of progress, and $700,000,000 may be reached even as soon as the end of the present Mayoral term. This is without allowance for little sundries, which are constantly turning up. There has just been printed an estimate of $450,000,000 to be spent upon new subways, and there is nearly $200,000,000 to be spent for a better water supply. To be sure, these might be reckoned as an asset, instead of as a debt, but they are a reduction of resources, for exploitation of that sort cannot be duplicated. And it must be considered that independently of financial limitations there is a constitutional restriction of debt issue. In case of any general disaster here destruction would be upon a scale corresponding to these magnificent figures. Our credit, excellent as it is, could not but feel the burden of the mortgages already existing. There are cities which have been made uninhabitable by their debts, and the debt burden—expressed in taxes and rents—is already far from negligible in New York.

HERESY HUNTING.

It is hardly too much to say that the Protestant Episcopal Church is distinguished among Christian communions for its aversion to scandal. Its insistence on dogma is only what it has to be in order to maintain itself as an organization. Compared with denominations which lay more stress on dogma, it may be said that an Episcopalian clergyman is not much more "confined" than was the legendary "canary bird in a ten-acre lot with the bars down." It seems to follow that when a Bishop of the Protestant Episcopal Church finds himself compelled to put one of his presbyters on trial for heresy, the presumption is that the presbyter thus indicted must have been either very indiscreet or wilfully defiant.

One or the other of these conclusions is in fact indicated by the trial of the Rev. Dr. CRAPSEY of Rochester, so far as the trial has gone. It appears that Dr. CRAPSEY is an amiable and accomplished man, who has in large measure the gift of making friends. But it equally appears that he has taken pains publicly to obtrude private opinions of his own which are in painfully flat contradiction of the tenets of the Church of which he is not merely a member but a minister. The proceedings of the ecclesiastical court apparently leave much to be desired from the point of view of law or of equity. It appears to be true that the chief witness against him thus far, excepting the evidence of his own written and published works, was his own assistant, who cherished the notion of superseding him, and was thereby particularly prompt to mark for animadversion any heretical utterances made by his superior in his hearing. Doubtless the witness does not cut an attractive figure. But, after all, the question is not of the attractiveness of the witness, but only of the accuracy of his report. Unless the accuracy of his report is successfully impeached, it appears that Dr. CRAPSEY has made public utterances of private beliefs entirely incompatible with the tenets of the Church of which he is a minister.

In all this there is no trace of "persecution." There is properly no question of the abridgment of freedom of speech. Every man who joins an organization gives up some part of his freedom of speech. An officer of the United States Army might, for example, privately hold the pious opinion that the President of the United States for the time being was a person of more energy than circumspection, or that the commanding General for the time being was incompetent and objectionable. Both these contingencies have in the past become actualities. Nevertheless, an officer who publicly proclaimed these sentiments would render himself liable to be court-martialed for "conduct prejudicial to good order and military discipline." And justly so. In the same way a clergyman who comes to disbelieve in the accepted tenets of his Church, if he really cannot help proclaiming his disbelief, ought clearly to get out of its ministry and thereby regain his freedom of speech. If, as an insider, he speaks with the freedom of an outsider, he is guilty of conduct prejudicial to ecclesiastical discipline. A clergyman who finds that he disbelieves the doctrines of his Church, and still cannot bring himself to quit its ministry, may be recommended to put a friend into his brains to steal away his mouth.

Gov. HIGGINS as an ally in the cause of mortgage tax reform is doing excellent service. Yesterday we published news from Albany that twenty-six legislators who had voted for the reform—when the people's eyes were upon their representatives—felt at liberty to vote against extension of the session. They were bold enough to vote aye on a question of adjournment, thus preventing the taking of a ballot upon the amended bill. On the other hand, the Governor took a position against such parliamentary tactics, and supported fair treatment for the bill as redraughted to meet his objections. There is evidently no hope for the bill without his help, for the resolution of adjournment which was defeated on Wednesday was passed yesterday. However, progress was made with the bill in the Senate, and while there is life there is hope.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

A Prophet Speaks in Cuba. Havana is to be congratulated on the possession of an Institute of Sciences, which is, or at least may be, a good thing for any city, and ought to serve an especially good purpose in the Cuban capital, where science, including that of government, has, until a comparatively recent date, been rather scarce. A dispatch we printed yesterday, however, indicates that the Havana Institute of Sciences may have been, on the one hand, slightly unfortunate in its choice of foreign lecturers, or, on the other, amazingly lucky, and the uncertainty is disquieting. For we read that a certain Prof. J. F. NOWACK of Vienna has been making before the Havanese, thirsting for up-to-date knowledge, some statements that prove him to be either such a leader of science that he is quite out of sight of the rest of the scientific procession or such a madman that he should be tied at once—before he does something dangerous. For Prof. J. F. NOWACK of Vienna—we do wish we knew whether he is "of" Vienna, Austria, or Vienna, Maine!—has solemnly announced in the Havana Institute of Sciences that study of the conditions of plant life in the vicinity of the city, combined with observations of peculiarities in the sun's appearance, has revealed to him that between May 15 and 19 there will be an earthquake and a tidal wave there, both of much energy, and it behooves the inhabitants of Havana to watch out. Prophecies of this kind are not quite as funny as they seem at first sight and thought. Of course there is no possible connection between earthquakes and any observable conditions of plant life, and the appearance of the sun would indeed be peculiar if it could be interpreted as telling, or even hinting, of cataclysms between May 15 and 19, but in every population there is a large number of very ignorant people and of those supposedly educated to whom anything mystical and prophetic, no matter how absurd, makes an irresistible appeal. Cuba is well supplied with people of both these sorts, and it may well be that a lot of them will be vastly worried by the warning of this person with the solemn and impressive title. Such worriment not infrequently leads to excited action, later deeply regretted. It seems to us that the Directors of the Institute of Sciences if it has such officials and they are not "dummy," should have had a private conversation with their distinguished visitor before they let him talk, and have ascertained whether he was going to talk dangerous nonsense or something worth hearing. It is never safe to trust too far to the public's appreciation of the humorous—in matters of which the public has little definite knowledge.

Virginia Will Speak Later. A savage scolding is administered by The Boston Transcript to the Massachusetts Senate because it has added to the resolution making an appropriation for the Jamestown Exposition an amendment conditioning the appropriation on the receipt of a guarantee satisfactory to the Governor that all citizens of Massachusetts shall be as well treated in Virginia as they are at home. The Transcript declares that the object of this amazing legislation is to make political capital with the large colored population of Boston and calls it "the most fatuous piece of buncombe of which the Legislature has yet been guilty." After saying that the amendment is not only a violation of inter-State comity and civic courtesy, but a bungle even from the demagogic standpoint of its introducer, since it does not go far enough to satisfy the people whom it was designed to please, The Transcript adds: "We may not like many of the laws and customs of Virginia, but we can be responsible for only our own laws and customs. We are perfectly free to criticise what we do not like in her system of legislation and her race distinctions, but it is not right, and therefore not proper, for us to undertake to qualify her legislation or her social practices by our legislation. In so doing we fail to mind our own business. We are beyond our jurisdiction. We are simply supercilious and ridiculous." Another Boston paper suggests that if the amendment is adopted Virginia is likely to reply with a request that before the spending of any Massachusetts money is permitted at Jamestown, Virginia should be assured that Massachusetts makes no discrimination against negroes in the allotment of trade opportunities. That would indeed be a delightful revenge—so delightful that one almost wishes Massachusetts would condition her appropriation as suggested by her Senatorial statesmen.

Preparing for the Worst. Cynics will be apt to note with amusement, and other people with a different emotion, the fact that one of the surety companies calls the attention of automobilists by a public advertisement to the utility and convenience of preparing for arrest by securing one of its "bail-bond powers of attorney" to carry along with them in their cars. We do not remember ever to have seen anything just like this before—a suave suggestion to a large class of eminently "respectable" people that, as they are likely to break the law at any moment and to get arrested therefor, they should avail themselves of a specially prepared means of reducing the pains of majesterial procedure as much as possible! If there are any humorists among the automobilists they will enjoy this suggestion, and certainly the professional jesters should be able to make a lot out of it. We, being very serious-minded, can mention the phenomenon only with a note of sorrow; we are almost tempted to describe it as "indicative of much," a portentous phrase kept for solemn occasions.

Where Are the "Kilties"?

Why is it that Canada is not represented at the military tournament at Madison Square Garden this year? It is the first time for many years that the "Kilties" or some other of the Canadian militia have not taken part in the show. CANADIAN.

MUST APPLY TO ALL.

Tariff Relief for San Francisco Alone Declared to be Unconstitutional.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I read with much gratification the editorial in THE TIMES this morning, "The Tariff Trouble," on the joint resolution introduced in the Senate and House on Monday. The preamble of this joint resolution is as follows:

> Whereas, In view of the fact that there is a shortage in structural steel and other building material in this country to meet the needs of the people of San Francisco and other California cities destroyed or damaged by earthquake shocks on April 19 and conflagration that followed, and that everything should be done to facilitate the reconstruction of the stricken cities; therefore, be it
> Resolved, &c., That the duty on structural steel and other necessary material intended for use in buildings to be constructed in said cities be, and it is hereby declared to be, suspended for the period of one year.

Here is a confession that there is not enough structural steel and other building material in this country to meet the needs of the sufferers of San Francisco and other California cities destroyed or damaged by earthquake and conflagration, and, of course, of the rest of the people; here is also an admission that structural steel and other necessary building material will cost these homeless people more, by reason of the tariff on these things, in rebuilding their homes and places of business than they would without.

There is also an implied acknowledgment in this preamble and resolution that the tariff is not a blessing to the home builder.

The spirit which prompted this resolution in the Senate and House is worthy of all commendation.

It is surprising, however, that the Senator and the Member of the House who introduced this resolution in their respective bodies were not aware that such a resolution would be useless when applied only to the stricken City of San Francisco and other injured towns in California, since, as the Constitution provides: "All duties shall be uniform throughout the United States." This same Senate and House placed this burden upon all the people in this broad land, and the Constitution provides that it cannot be removed as to the part of the people who have suffered from this severe calamity, and whose claims for help and sympathy have awakened the generosity of the Nation to a degree unparalleled in the history of the world, without being extended to all.

Why does not the Congress pass a joint resolution suspending the duty on structural steel and iron and other necessary building material for the whole country for one year? This it can constitutionally do, and thus benefit not only the homeless of San Francisco, but all other people throughout the United States who are trying to build homes, and let all the home builders throughout the whole country have a year of jubilee.

SMALL TALK OF WASHINGTON.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—The way that Senators look at each other's efforts at argument showed itself in a remark Tillman made to-day when he entered the Senate and saw Spooner speaking in reply to Bailey.

"Anybody can talk up a hill," said Tillman, "but Spooner has got to talk up a precipice."

At the close of a tariff speech which more or less scintillated with witty quips at the expense of New York City to-day, Mr. Boutell fired this parting and demolishing shot:

"There is an old Italian adage which says, 'See Naples, and die!' We in this country, adapting that adage to its modern surroundings, say, 'See New York and live—live it down.'"

"The Death Gang."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is unfair to fasten the victim's name to the gang of Paterson murderers upon whom certain persons are wasting sympathy. A decent, harmless family met a terrible sorrow when their young daughter, hardly more than a child, was misled and bestially murdered. Let the name of the perpetrators be attached to the crime; let the young victim's name be forgotten. The scandal of that crime went to India and Japan. The European as well as the American press was filled with the horrors of the trial. The amazingly light penalty was a disgrace to New Jersey and to our American civilization. Leniency was urged on the ground that the offenders had family and business influence, facts that demanded the sternest justice. The only way to spare us a reopening of the noisome affair is to let the too short terms of imprisonment run their course.

Stirred.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The leading editorial of this morning's issue of your newspaper is great; it gives one that choking feeling, followed by a wild impulse to cheer one's self hoarse for the American people. More power to the brain that conceived and the hand that penned such illuminating thoughts.

San Francisco and Chicago.

From The Chicago Tribune.

A Chicagoan who remembers the fire of 1871 can get a measurable idea of the destruction accomplished in San Francisco by a comparison of the condition of the two cities at the time of their respective disasters. The loss at San Francisco is greater, but not so much so as to make a comparison impossible.

The population of Chicago by the Federal census of 1870, using round numbers here and elsewhere, was 298,000. In October, 1871, it was estimated to be 334,000. The population of San Francisco in 1900 was 342,000. In 1903 it was estimated by the Census Bureau at 355,000. Mayor Schmitz estimated it in 1905 at 450,000, but this is undoubtedly too great, as the rate of increase for many years has been less than 1.5 per cent. yearly. About 370,000 would be a fair estimate at the present time.

The Chicago fire covered an area of three and one-third square miles. The San Francisco fire has burned over ten square miles, about three times as much as the fire of 1871. The number of people left homeless in Chicago was estimated by the Relief and Aid Society at 100,000. In San Francisco at least 150,000 are without shelter of their own. Among the homeless there is in this last fire a larger proportion of the extremely poor who are dependent on their earnings from day to day in order to live, and who have nothing saved and no place to go.

The wealth of Chicago in 1871 was much less than that of San Francisco in 1906. Chicago had at that time few holders of long accumulated wealth. The business district had not then its present dimensions; there were not the magnificent buildings, the great department stores and the banks, theatres, and hotels which now adorn the centre of the city; but the business centre of San Francisco may be more properly compared with that of Chicago to-day than with that of Chicago thirty-five years ago. While San Francisco has more of the nearly destitute than Chicago had, it has also more millionaires than Chicago had. Its splendid homes, in the area laid waste by fire, had no counterpart in Chicago. The loss in Chicago was estimated at $186,000,000, but a discount of 10 per cent. must be made from that amount in currency to put it on a gold basis for the purpose of comparison. It is impossible yet to say what the loss in San Francisco will reach, but every new dispatch tends to show that early estimates were too conservative and that the amount is likely to exceed $200,000,000.

The number of lives lost in the two fires will never be exactly known. Inquests were held on 117 victims of the fire in Chicago. Other persons reported missing may swell the total to 200. In San Francisco the loss of life from earthquake and fire will be many times as great.

THE "FOLEY VERSE TRUST."

Pathetic Wail from a "Minor Poet" Against "Shredded English."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Is it not time, now that the President and Congress are united in curbing the great corporations, that attention be called to the great Foley Verse Trust. As is well known, it already practically owns one great daily, and has its octopus tentacles fastened upon a number of other publications. Its only rival, the Wallace Irwin Trust, is not strictly a trust, its large output being due to the Edison Poetoscope. Nothing else can account for the mass of Foley verse delivered from the Far West but a secret rebate system. As to the manufacture of the verse, we make no criticism.

The large output of Shredded English Schoolboy Verse is due entirely to a secret process. Taking liberties with Webster is as old as Chaucer, but never has it been done on such a scale. The works, I am told, are well worth a visit. Out of large bins of choice, selected alphabets an immense vat is filled daily. A fire, fanned by a Divine Afflatus that never fails, burns under the caldron. The secret of the process lies in the exact moment at which the hot air is shut off. Before the mass has time to fuse into good English the shredded verse is dumped out and cut into squares of exact size. There can be manifestly no deviation in quality. Henry Beamus himself is foreman in this shop, and is said to get more product out of an eight-hour day than any other man.

It is said that the Shredded Schoolboy Verse alone, if hung on the equator, would go one-eighth of the way around the world, or stretched line to line would extend from the north to the south pole. I myself saw a freight train of fifty cars, said to be loaded with shredded verse. It was reported that this entire train was donated for the relief of San Francisco, but, as it was headed east, I judge this was a mistake.

We have no quarrel with the quality of the trust verse. It is just as much standard verse as Standard Oil. Any verse above this in quality must be abnormal.

Of course, the writer, who in a limited way is a rival, cannot give his name, as the trust is known to be relentless in pursuit of a competitor, holding that the only other good poet is a dead poet.

It is perfectly plain that Foley is the nom de plume of a poetical trust syndicate.

ENGLISH AND AMERICAN HUMOR.

An Opinion Distinctly Unfavorable to the Yankee Variety.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

They were cousins; he, an American; she, a fair Canadian. After retailing some crude witticism, he remarked, "Like all Britishers, you are slow at seeing a joke."

"Yes," said the fair Canuck; "especially American jokes; they are so frequently based on bad taste, exaggeration, or irreverence, a combination of evil conditions from which British humor has long since emerged, and in which a great part of American humor still wallows."

Then, before the American could catch his breath, she continued, "It is a favorite charge of you presumably cute Yankees that Britishers are not alive to humor—that is, the standard of American humor—and yet, apparently, an obverse condition exists, for an American ingenuously—he thought satirically—confessed to me the other day that he could understand but very little of the supposed humorous reading matter in the columns of the leading English comic journals.

"That is only natural, and not at all surprising, for, unacquainted with the British imperial and political atmosphere, and not educated to the heights of the subtle wit and satire which pervade the pages of those journals, they are to you also, in common with other foreigners, as sealed books. Your Rhodes scholars may 'arrive' there after a few terms," the lady added, "and, with all your raillery at English humor, it is noticeable that American journals are always ready to make use of the English illustrated jokes that come within their comprehension, and the funniest paragraphs that they publish are generally drawn from those perennial founts of clean wit."

Californians Never Say "Frisco."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

For typographical convenience in headlines the word "Frisco" often comes in very handy just now. I am glad to see that THE TIMES keeps this wise restriction on it.

"Frisco" is not used in California by the natives as a colloquial substitute for San Francisco, and the few inhabitants of that city who ever heard it particularly dislike it.

The name was coined many years ago, according to some authorities, by Bret Harte; according to others by the Eastern story writers who attempted to imitate his tales of Californian life. "Frisco" is an exclusively Eastern word. When used in California the native immediately sizes up a man who says it as an Easterner showing off his supposed knowledge of Californian colloquialisms—unless, as happens not infrequently, the native never heard the name Frisco himself and is puzzled to know what it means.

I note that some of your contemporaries, not content with making this word work overtime, are putting an apostrophe in front of it—'Frisco—which is, of course, stupidly wrong. An apostrophe can only represent the omission of one or more letters of a word, not the dropping of a whole word.

New York, April 25, 1906.

"Look-at-Us Attitude."

From The Springfield Republican.

If, in addition to our polite refusal to encourage gifts of money from abroad for the 'Frisco sufferers, we strike a vainglorious attitude and call upon the world to contemplate and admire our ability to "succor our own," the moral effect will be completely spoiled. Philanthropy or charity that advertises itself in the biggest type is not the most pleasing or the most spiritually minded. It is, therefore, a bit jarring to observe so many indications in the newspapers devoted to "optimism," that, after all, the American people are in peril of being consumed in a conflagration of their own enormous pride over their unexampled ability to take care of their own sufferers. Is it anything to brag about? If the work of relief is done promptly and well, there is legitimate satisfaction for every one in the fact, but the "look-at-us" attitude cannot be maintained for a moment, in the eyes of the world, without becoming ridiculous.

Canada's Part.

From The Toronto Globe.

The most interesting aspect of the hundred-thousand-dollar donation made by the Canadian Parliament to the relief fund of San Francisco is the evidence it affords of good-will. There is no room for suspicion of any sinister or even selfish motive, and there can be no question about the unanimity of the Canadian people in their approval of the appropriation.

Reassuring.

From The Columbia State.

The people of San Francisco need not be greatly alarmed over the fact that another slight earthquake shock has been felt in that city. For at least three weeks after the great shock of Aug. 31, 1886, the City of Charleston was visited by slight shocks daily. But none of them was dangerous and finally they ceased altogether.

FOR REBUILDING THE CITY.

Plan to Aid San Francisco by Means of an Association.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

An organization such as outlined in the following paragraphs would aid greatly in rebuilding San Francisco on broad and beautiful lines, and at the same time would offer an opportunity for the profitable investment of capital from all over the country:

Let the "San Francisco Rebuilding and Improvement Association" be organized by leading bankers and business men of that city, with perhaps representatives from other places; this association to receive and administer funds to be loaned to owners of land and to other responsible persons for the building of residences and business houses and the improvement of property.

A low rate of interest, or possibly none at all, should be charged the first year; the rate to be gradually increased until it reaches, say, 6 per cent. at the end of the fifth year. The loans could be continued, where desired, for another five years, or even a longer term, at the latter rate of interest.

The association might also deal in building materials on a large scale, for the purpose of furnishing the community with the best at the lowest prices, and might erect buildings and make improvements itself. It would not prevent independent effort, but would supplement individual work, and would supply enough capital to enable the rebuilding of the city to be carried out in the most substantial and beautiful way, and so permit all the improvements to be made on a plan which will look beyond the present emergency to the ideal city of the future.

Restriction of Private Fortunes.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

To legislate a limit seems to be arbitrary, unjust, and likely to expatriate our most desirable citizens as that limit is approached. A better way must be found to avert the threatened peril arising from the growing monopoly of land and the concentration of its wealth into the hands of the few.

If, as various Biblical prophets in the ages between Exodus and Corinthians have enunciated, "the earth is the Lord's and the fullness thereof"—the rational conclusion must be that He designed that mankind should have an impartial participation in its wealth in accordance with their zeal and labor in His service for the benefit of humanity. The greed of man for long ages having perverted this design and brought about the evils from which we are now suffering—our experience of slavery and the cost of its extinction should lead us to seek to avert the far more terrible conflict presaged between concentrated wealth and the organized masses in the struggle for their natural rights. A wise step in this direction would be some adaptation of Henry George's theory that would gradually restore the land and its wealth to the rightful owners—the people and their Government.

Quick Mail Service in Boston.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Many in our city and suburbs who have suffered the inconvenience and annoyance of an inadequate postal service will no doubt be glad to get an inkling as to the inestimable blessings which will follow the installation of a system of pneumatic mail tubes in New York.

A single instance, showing the efficiency of such a service, will suffice. While visiting in Boston recently, at a distance of four miles from the central Post Office, the writer received letters in just one hour after their receipt at that office.

Excepting in the case of special delivery letters, (and not always then,) such prompt delivery as this, at least in recent years, is unheard of in New York. Let us hope that we may soon be getting our mail in a reasonable length of time after its being posted.

Contributions from Abroad.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am glad to see that the ladies of California have agreed to accept foreign contributions to the San Francisco relief fund.

I consider it was a very mistaken policy for the President to have refused these contributions. It was a blow to international brotherhood and an unnecessary bit of brag.

It appears to me that no self-respecting nation which may find itself similarly afflicted would now accept offers of relief from this country.

Italy's Emigration Record.

From Il Secolo of Milan.

Figures for 1904 show that 470,962 emigrants left Italy; those for 1905, which will soon be published by the Ministry of the Interior, reveal the exodus of 716,342 persons, a number never reached by any other country in the world. Emigration has been providential for Italy, but who can say that if it passes certain limits it may not prove a scourge for national economy?

Gratitude in Chicago.

From The Chicago Evening Post.

Whatever may be said of republics the outside world is getting a fine object lesson to prove that Chicago at least is not ungrateful. A new policeman, Officer Jordan, succeeded in making an arrest the other night a few minutes after he had gone on duty for the first time, and nothing else has been talked of since. Women have gone into spasms of admiration and various strong men have wept like children. Chief Collins has made several speeches of commendation, Mayor Dunne has vowed that the officer shall be promoted, newspaper reporters have been specially detailed to watch his further progress, Halsted Street mothers have named their newcomers Jordan, and there is no little talk of medals and a monument. Thus we may see how virtue pays and how an honest policeman is not without honor in his own city. Perhaps after a while, during the millennium, such a thing as an honest officer may not be so unusual as to upset the regular order of society in Chicago, but for the present we must make the most of our joyful surprises and our unexpected blessings.

Three Lessons.

From The Louisville Courier-Journal.

The value to a thickly populated community of a well-organized military body under capable and resourceful leaders, the wisdom and expediency of some system for providing a reserve water supply, and the resistance of carefully built "anchored" steel structures to earthquake shocks of average violence are three lessons impressed upon the public mind by the San Francisco disaster.

A BLOW INTENDED FOR THE POETS.

I.

Why should the poet drive a quill
  And burn the midnight oil,
Since he may not enjoy the fruits
  Of his incessant toil?
For one who breaks the bruised reed
  And quenches smoking flax,
Now puts the poet's rushlight out
  With his progressive tax.

II.

The poet, when his sun is gone
  And all the world is dark,
Still strives to keep his eyes upon
  The billion-dollar mark,
But should he reach the longed-for goal
  Before he goeth hence,
That tax might make his relatives
  Appear like thirty cents.

III.

Wherefore, I put my lyre away,
  Since hope has gone from me;
The poet only hoards his gold
  For his posterity;
And we may shortly reach the time
  When men may deem it sin
To have a singer weave his rhyme,
  And rake the shekels in.

CLARICE W. RILEY.

WITNESSES RULED OUT IN THE CRAPSEY TRIAL

Objection to Interpretation of Doctrine by Dr. Leighton.

TO SUM UP CASE TO-DAY

Ex-Justice Stiness and Edward M. Shepard in Argument on the Creed and Holy Catholic Church.

BATAVIA, N. Y., April 26.—The trial of the Rev. Algernon S. Crapsey of Rochester before an ecclesiastical court of five rectors of Episcopal churches, on the charge of heresy and a violation of his ordination vows, is nearing its close.

The prosecution abruptly ended its case to-day. The defense endeavored to present the testimony of a number of prominent clergymen as to whether or not Dr. Crapsey's sayings constituted heresy, but the court ruled the testimony out on the ground that no man could qualify as an expert in doctrine, and on the further ground that the witnesses were called to express opinions on subjects which were before the court for decision. The lawyers for the prosecution and defense will sum up to-morrow.

Dr. Crapsey's position on the matter of the Immaculate Conception, enunciated by his counsel to-day, is as follows: He says that he denies the Virgin Birth, but he does not deny the Immaculate Conception. The birth of Jesus, he says, was immaculate. Jesus, however, he believes was the son of Joseph. He was naturally born, although His birth was immaculate and He himself was immaculate. Dr. Crapsey explains that he takes exception to the doctrine that Jesus Christ was the son of the Holy Ghost.

The most interesting incident of the day was an exchange between ex-Justice Stiness of the Supreme Court of Rhode Island for the prosecution and Edward M. Shepard for the defense. This followed the placing on the stand of the Rev. Joseph Alexander Leighton, Chaplain and Professor of Philosophy in Hobart College. After Dr. Leighton had read the full text of the presentment against Dr. Crapsey, Mr. Perkins said to him:

"In your opinion, is there anything contained in the specifications which is contrary to the doctrines of Christ, as the Lord had commanded, and as this Church had received the same?"

"I object," emphatically announced Mr. O'Brian of the prosecution. "I do not understand that the witness is interpreting the doctrine of the Protestant Episcopal Church. He has no more right to characterize and interpret the doctrine of this Church than a man never heard of, because the Church is an organization with its constitution and by-laws. The Church speaks as a Church. This is a question of law and not of fact. Such testimony as this is manifest absurdity."

"It is charged," replied Mr. Perkins, "that Dr. Crapsey has violated his vows as a clergyman in that he has advanced statements contrary to the doctrines of Christ. What is this Church if the argument of the prosecution is correct? Who is the Church but the laity and the clergy? We are the Church. Suppose somebody, as my friend says, held to some doctrine contrary to his interpretation and the whole Church was this man? He would have the whole Church heretic, except the standing committee. This is an important question. It goes to the essence of the whole matter. We want to show what people think; not necessarily what is right and wrong."

At this point Judge Stiness spoke for the first time.

"My associate," he said, "has requested me to define this case to the court. I do this court has to determine two things. First, whether Dr. Crapsey made the statements cited in the presentment. There is no proof necessary, because this is admitted by the defense. Second, whether those statements amount to a violation of the doctrines of Christ. It is not a question whether that doctrine is true. The great question is, Are these things said by Dr. Crapsey in accordance with the doctrines of the Church?"

"I assure my friend," said Mr. Perkins in reply, "that he has not lost the art of the advocate. The matter of the creed has been brought into this discussion. The respondent says his creed with as firm a belief as the counsel for the prosecution. Everybody believes the creed, but we exercise the right to give creeds what interpretation, according to the Scriptures, we choose. It is not the literal meaning we believe; it is our own interpretation.

"For instance, take the statement as to the resurrection of the body. That can mean literally but one thing. Every Sunday we declare that to be our faith, only because we give it a consistent interpretation. We do not deny the statements quoted; we deny the innuendo."

"Toleration of error," rejoined Judge Stiness, "does not establish it as the accepted truth."

Judge Stiness during his argument mentioned the doctrine of the Holy Catholic Church as contained in the creed. He said that it could be taken to mean the entire Church of Christ, or just the Protestant Episcopal Church.

Mr. Shepard picked the Rhode Island jurist up on this point and presented the argument for the defense.

"I think," Mr. Shepard said, "that Judge Stiness hit his controversy at the centre, or heart, when he spoke of the Holy Catholic Church. We assert in the creed that we believe in the Holy Catholic Church. Judge Stiness says that there are two interpretations of this, either one of which a man may hold. He did not deny that each was different from what is literally meant by the Church of the Pope of Rome. Here is one item to which he concedes there are two interpretations. How, I ask, is one part of the creed more sacred than another? Can there be two interpretations to one part of the creed and only one to all the rest?

"The real question is this: A clergyman having taken his ordination vows, devotes himself to the study of Holy Scripture and is driven to the conclusion that the creed has such a meaning. Is it his right and duty to preach that, or is it not? That is the whole question. Gentlemen of the court, we believe in the creed. We place our case and our argument as much on the creed as the prosecution does."

The final arguments for the prosecution to-morrow will be made by John Lord O'Brian, Franklin D. Locke, a lawyer of Buffalo, and the Rev. Francis J. Hall of the Western Theological Seminary, Chicago. The following will sum up for the defense: Congressman Perkins, Edward M. Shepard, and the Rev. Elwood Worcester, rector of Emmanuel Episcopal Church, Boston.

JUDGE'S SON TURNS ACTOR.

Father of Harry Carey, at First Opposed, Surrenders After Seeing Play.

Harry D. Carey, son of ex-County Judge Henry D. Carey of Westchester, capitalist and former President of the New Home Sewing Machine Company, made his début last night as a leading man in "Montana," a play written by himself, before a large audience in the New Rochelle Theatre.

Carey, who is 28 years old, is an athlete and ranchman, and, although his father was strenuously opposed to his going on the stage, the elder Carey joined with the audience in its applause last night. Laboring under a severe strain, Actor Carey, known in the play as Jim Graham, foreman of the ranch, responded to curtain calls. As he left the stage Judge Carey's eyes filled with tears. It is said that Judge Carey, who wished his boy to make a name for himself in the legal profession, said:

"So long as it is Harry's choice and the people are with him, I humbly surrender."

Young Carey is a graduate of New York University. After graduating he went West for his health, and became a foreman of a Montana ranch.

While there he wrote several light melodramas, which are now being produced. When he returned home his father desired that he study law, which he did against his will. It was young Carey's wish to become an actor and portray on the stage the part he played in "Montana," which he wrote while West.

It was learned that Judge Carey and his son had a talk before the play was produced, and it was mutually agreed that if it was not well received in the opening night that the young actor would abandon the stage, and return to the practice of law. Judge Carey's home is at Terrace Point, City Island.

WHAT'S IN A NAME?

No Money, When It's a Horse and It's Name Is "Yazd."

There was a horse called "Yazd" entered in the fifth race at Aqueduct race track yesterday. Strictly speaking he wasn't "called" Yazd at all—he was only named Yazd. He was called almost everything but Yazd by that section of the betting fraternity which thought he had a chance to win.

One bettor who wanted to place $10 on the horse at 12 to 1 to win approached a bookmaker gingerly and after a few preliminary motions of the lips started:

"Say, Bill, give me a chunk o' that there Ya——." Then he stopped.

"Come again, son," replied the man with the pad puffing away at a big, black cigar.

"I say," continued the confused would-be bettor, "give me a hunk o' that horse Yaza."

"No Yaza here, lad," replied the bookmaker with a twinkle.

"I know there ain't," responded the tangled bettor, taking the rebuff good naturedly. "I'll try again. Give me a bunch o' that Yaz-ad thing there."

"You'll have to try it again," repeated the obdurate slate maker. "No such horse here."

"Well," exclaimed the hopelessly confused bettor, "give me a $10 slice o' that hobby horse Yazoo, or maybe it's Bazoo; give me some o' that Yasadl; that Dazad, Zaza, Dizzy. Yes, no? Say I don't want none of it nohow, let it go at that." And he walked off.

Yazd finished third.

THE EAGLES WEREN'T BIRDS.

Animal Dealers Mixed About $1,000,000 Worth of "Cuckoos" on Teutonic.

Half a dozen animal dealers rushed to the dock of the White Star steamer Teutonic yesterday morning with wallets bulging in anticipation of a lively struggle in bidding for "thirty-five cages of eagles," which were listed among the liner's cargo.

"Got to get about forty of those eagles," said one dealer to another. "Good business in eagles on Broadway just now."

"Sure," said the other, "the eagle market is dead ripe."

They nosed about the dock and finally found the purser.

"How about those birds?" asked one.

"What birds?" replied the purser.

"Those eagles," said the dealers.

"Oh, yes, the eagles," said the purser with a laugh. "They're cuckoos, all right. Come on, I'll show you some of 'em."

He took the dealers inside and showed them thirty-five strong boxes loaded with gold eagles.

"Gentlemen, their face value is $1,000,000," said the purser with a wink. "Now go ahead and bid." The dealers vanished.

The confusion arose because the money had been listed as "cages" instead of "cases." It was a shipment of gold for the Hanover National Bank from Liverpool.

SCHWAB SUED FOR $15,000.

Made Offer for Picture, Then Withdrew It, London Dealer Charges.

LONDON, April 26.—Davis Rothschild, a picture dealer, brought suit in the King's Bench Division of the High Court of Justice to-day against Charles M. Schwab of New York for breach of contract in failing to purchase Constable's picture "Dedham Lock" for $15,000.

Counsel for Mr. Schwab denied that his client had contracted to buy the painting. Mr. Rothschild testified that Mr. Schwab had cabled an offer for the picture; that it had been accepted, and that later the offer was withdrawn. The case was adjourned.

THE CHURCH CHORAL SOCIETY

Its Performance of Prof. Parker's Oratorio, "Hora Novissima."

The Church Choral Society's second evening performance was given yesterday in the Church of Zion and St. Timothy, repeating the performance of Wednesday afternoon. The principal number on the programme was Prof. Horatio Parker's oratorio, "Hora Novissima." It is one of the Church Choral Society's chief distinctions that this work, one of the finest, if not the finest, of choral compositions by an American, was written for it, and was first performed by it. This was in 1893, and while Prof. Parker's name and fame have greatly waxed since, both in this country and in England, he has never produced anything else that surpasses it in spontaneity and melodious flow, in richness and effectiveness of color through affluent harmony and skillful instrumentation, in solidity and ingenuity of structure. It is beautiful music. It interprets the sensuous imagery that Bernard of Morlaix derived from his ecstatic vision of the celestial country; and, indeed, though Prof. Parker has employed some of the scholarly devices that belong of right to the sober kind of sacred music, it is a different kind of spirit that prevails in much of this music. It is lofty and serious, but it is full of charm, of warmth and passion, and of a personal outlook. And it is a signal proof of the value of the work that after thirteen years it has lost little of its savor or its vitality.

The evening performances of the Church Choral Society, like those of most amateur choirs, are better than the afternoon performances for various reasons. The chorus was represented in full strength last evening, its volume of tone, while not impressive, was reasonably powerful; and while the chorus did not sing with great spirit or with positive brilliancy of attack, it knew the music, and under the direction of Mr. Richard Henry Warren gave a good performance. The solo parts were in the hands of Miss Eva Emmet Wycoff, soprano; Mrs. Lulu Cornu, contralto; Cecil James, tenor; Ericsson F. Bushnell, bass. At the close L. Boellmann's "Fantaisie Dialoguée" for orchestra and organ was played.

Miss Hawkes Gives a Musicale.

A musicale was given at the studio of Miss Eva Hawkes in the Metropolitan Opera House Building yesterday afternoon, with Sam Franko as one of the artists. Mr. Franko gave Wieniawski's "Legende," accompanied by his sister, Mme. Jeanne Franko, at the piano, and also several duets by Godard with Mme. Nauburg, a pupil of his, Mme. Franko accompanying. This was preceded by a recital given by a number of Miss Hawkes's pupils.

"A Square Deal" Produced.

Special to The New York Times.

WATERBURY, Conn., April 26.—Victor H. Schafer presented to-night at Poli's for the first time on any stage Edward E. Rose's political comedy drama, "A Square Deal," with Otis B. Thayer as star. The play portrays a successful fight against political bossism and graft, and made a decided hit. Clara Knott and Gertrude Bondhill shared with Thayer in the personal success.

An Irving Place Testimonial.

As a testimonial to Franz Kierschner, a member of the Irving Place Theatre forces, who last week celebrated his fifty-sixth anniversary as an actor, Ibsen's five-act play, "Die Frau vom Meere," was presented at the Irving Place Theatre last evening. PUBLIC MEN UNDERPAID, MR. BONAPARTE SAYS

The Secretary Addresses the National Municipal League.

FAULTS OF OUR SYSTEM

The Government Gets Only What It Pays for, Declares Navy Department's Head.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 26.—Secretary of the Navy, Charles J. Bonaparte, who is President of the National Municipal League, was the principal speaker to-night at the annual convention of the league now being held at the Hotel Chalfonte in this city. Secretary Bonaparte took for his subject:

"Why we have unsatisfactory public servants and how we can get good ones."

"In the course of the past ten months," he said, "I have been led by my surroundings and my duties to consider seriously and frequently why our best men so often shun public life, and especially public service, and the subject appears to me of such grave and urgent import to the people that I venture to ask for it on this occasion the mature consideration of the league."

"Why do really first-class men, as a rule, shun public employment in its higher grades? First, because public offices of great responsibility are generally and grossly underpaid. A very little thought should serve to show that the trusts and the multi-millionaires get what they pay for, and we get what we pay for likewise; the only difference is that they are sufficiently sensible to know they must pay for what they want in order to get it, and we are sufficiently silly to think we can get what we want without paying its fair value. I believe this anomaly to be the result of two popular prejudices.

"Of these, the first is the doctrine that all men of right ought to be, and should therefore be made and kept, precisely equal. The second popular prejudice is the fruit of a theory of Government. According to this school of thought, but one question need be asked about a candidate for public office or an aspirant for political power, namely: 'Is he the man best fitted to govern in the public interest?' In this view, it is quite irrelevant whether he will rule as the people may wish to be ruled; the material inquiry is whether he will rule well.

"Now we can as readily get good civil servants as we can get good military servants; we can obtain legislative and executive officers of as high grade as are our judicial officers or even as these ought to be. A free people has always as good a government as it deserves. If its rulers are unworthy, it has shirked the duties and burdens of freemen."

JOHN DALY, GAMBLER, DEAD.

Wealthiest Man of His Calling in New York—Noted Horseman Also.

John Daly, for thirty years a promoter of gambling houses, and reputed to be the wealthiest gambler in New York, died last night at his home, 12 East Fifty-fourth Street. He was 68 years old. He had been in ill-health for about two years, though he still directed his several clubs and gambling houses.

Daly was a native of Troy, N. Y., and was first interested in gambling in that town. He earned the friendship of John Morrissey, the prize fighter, who served New York as a Congressman in the days shortly following the civil war, and as Morrissey was then the owner of gambling houses in New York City, Saratoga, and Troy, Daly came to New York as a protégé of Morrissey and established himself here.

Gambling then was conducted on a "wide open" basis, and Daly made an immediate success, and amassed a fortune so rapidly that in the late sixties he was known as one of the most prosperous of his calling.

Though he conducted several smaller houses as gambling clubs, the first establishment which became conspicuously successful under Daly's management was the place of almost historic fame at 850 Broadway, where the highest gambling then going on in the city was conducted. Later he moved further uptown, and about twenty years ago opened the house which had a National reputation as "John Daly's," at Nos. 39-41 Twenty-ninth Street, at the time of his death. He also operated other gambling houses in the city. He also owned the Long Branch Club, in Ocean Avenue, Long Branch, N. J., where high play went on.

Daly also made books on races, and for a time was one of the largest operators in the race-track betting rings. He made vast profits, though he lost great sums through speculation in stocks and in betting on races. He was a well-known figure on the turf, and for many years raced horses in his own name, and later raced in partnership with David Gideon, in the name of Gideon & Daly, which was established in 1891. In that year they won the Futurity with His Highness, and in the succeeding four years won the same famous fixture twice more with The Butterflies and Requital, in the meantime winning a Suburban Handicap with Ramapo, in addition to a great list of other stakes.

The firm established a breeding farm near Red Bank, N. J., known as the Holmdel Stud, but after Mr. Daly retired from racing this was leased, and now is occupied with E. R. Thomas as tenant.

Daly was a man of quiet, engaging manners, and in the time that he followed his calling in New York made firm friends of men of all classes, and for years was associated with men prominent in politics, though he never interested himself in any other than his own business. He was a generous employer, and even when his houses were closed by the police kept his employes under pay and permitted them to make homes of his clubhouses. His charities were widespread, and it was said last night that an army of pensioners would now have to find some new means of support.

Mrs. John Daly died a year ago. Daly's body will be sent to Troy for burial.

OUR SHIPS WILL GREET FRENCH FLEET SATURDAY

There'll Be a Great Boom of Guns When They Meet.

NORTH RIVER RENDEZVOUS

Frenchmen to Remain Here Four Days—Round of Social Gayety Planned for Them.

The cruisers West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Colorado, and Maryland, composing the armored cruiser division of the Atlantic Fleet, under command of Rear Admiral Willard H. Brownson, which since Sunday have been anchored off Tompkinsville, steamed up into the North River yesterday and anchored to await the arrival to-morrow morning of the French squadron of armored cruisers under Admiral Campion.

The French vessels, which are the flagship Marseillaise, the Aube, and Conde, are expected to arrive in New York before noon, and will proceed at once into the North River, and will anchor between Twenty-third and Fiftieth Streets. The cruisers will come direct from Annapolis, where they participated in the ceremonies over the final burial of the remains of John Paul Jones.

Four days is the limit set for the visit of the French warships. They are among the most powerful ships of their class afloat. The cruisers will probably anchor in a line below the ships of Admiral Brownson's squadron, the flagship Marseillaise being at the head of the French column and opposite the West Virginia, Admiral Brownson's flagship.

The French ships will receive the regular salute from the forts as they pass in, as well as the Admiral's salute from the saluting station on Governors Island. Immediately on their arrival in the North River the ships of both the American and the French squadron will again boom forth greeting, this time the salutes being in honor of the Admirals commanding the two squadrons.

During their brief stay in New York the Frenchmen will be the recipients of many courtesies on the part of the American officers and the citizens of New York. Admiral Campion will, of course, first pay his respects to Admirals Coghlan and Brownson, and then visit Gens. Wade and Grant on Governors Island. All of these officers will at once return the courtesy.

The plans for the entertainment of the visitors include receptions, luncheons, and dinners.

ERHARDT QUITS S. P. C. A.

He Suggests That the Society Organize City Sub-Stations.

Joel B. Erhardt, ex-Collector of the Port of New York, resigned yesterday from the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Two years ago Mr. Erhardt gave notice of his resignation, which, however, was not to go into effect until certain reforms were made.

These reforms, relating to the reports of agents, the joint custody of the society's security, the system of bookkeeping, which is now open to public inspection, and the re-election of a President, have been carried out, many of them through the energy of the retiring member.

In reading his resignation to the Board of Managers yesterday, Mr. Erhardt suggested that the committee seriously consider the organization of S. P. C. A. sub-stations throughout the city and the election of women to the Board of Trustees.

He gave it as his opinion that the Bide-a-Wee Home and the Henry Bergh Society, if they became part of the S. P. C. A., would be advantageous to the welfare of the latter. In his closing remarks, Mr. Erhardt said:

"There is much to be done. One corner of the room has been swept. The rest of the room is not clean."

She was born in New York 65 years ago, and had always lived here. She was a member of Christ Protestant Episcopal Church and was actively interested in many philanthropic organizations, taking an especial interest in the work of the Children's Aid Society. Her father was Gen. James I. Jones, whose country seat on the East River became Jones's Wood, well remembered as a public pleasure ground by New Yorkers of middle age. Her mother was Miss Schermerhorn, a sister of Mrs. William Astor; Mrs. Charles Suydam, and Mrs. John Treat Irving. She leaves a daughter, Miss Eva P. C. Morris, and a son, Newbold Morris. Funeral services will be held at the church where she worshipped to-morrow morning, the Rev. George A. Strong officiating. The burial will be in Woodlawn.

Robert H. Atkinson.

The news was received here yesterday of the death in Waco, Texas, of Robert H. Atkinson, manager for the Mutual Life Insurance Company in that State, who was formerly a resident of Mount Vernon. Death was caused by consumption. Mr. Atkinson was a native of England. Prior to coming to this country he was manager for the New York Life Insurance Company at Montreal. He was 53 years old, and leaves a widow and two children. His brother, Henry Atkinson, was in San Francisco at the time of the earthquake, and efforts to locate him have been vain.

The sky-rocket is an interesting affair. It is brilliant and spectacular, but you can't tell when it will fizzle out and drop. One thing is pretty sure, it will drop some time. The sky-rocket idea is not a happy one in the conduct of a business that is intended to endure. Sky-rocket publications are not the best mediums for the promotion of a sane, healthy business.

Neither THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL nor THE SATURDAY EVENING POST is a sky-rocket publication. By strong, steady, patient methods, these publications have advanced in size and quality, and have grown in the confidence and number of their readers, until now THE LADIES' HOME JOURNAL has 6,000,000 readers per month, and THE SATURDAY EVENING POST 4,000,000 readers per week. Think of it! If one out of a hundred believed in you, it would probably make you rich. It only requires to show them.

Your goods have merit? Merit, plus demonstration, is better than merit alone.

CHAMPIONS WIN GAME IN THE NINTH INNING

Gleason's Error and Marshall's Hit Bring About a Victory.

AMERICANS BEATEN AGAIN

Athletics Shut Out by Boston, Placing Washington on Equal Terms with Leader.

Few changes were made in the standing of the teams in the National and American Leagues yesterday, the victory of the New Yorks and the inability of the Pittsburgs to play on account of rain enabling the National League champions to extend their lead somewhat. In the American League the Greater New Yorks met with another disaster in Washington, while the champion Athletics also suffered defeat. This places the "Senators," who finished next to the tail-enders last year, on equal terms with the Philadelphians for the lead. Boston shut out the Athletics, and this victory places the ex-champions on an even footing with the local team. After defeating Chicago three times and St. Louis and Cleveland once each, the Detroit's downed Lajoie's men again yesterday, placing the Michigan team a close third in the race.

GIANTS TAKE ANOTHER.

Victory Achieved by Gleason's Wild Throw and Marshall's Hit.

With all of Taylor's excellent pitching the champion New Yorks were enabled to win again from the Philadelphia team yesterday by poor judgment and a wretched throw of Gleason, the Quakers' Captain, to first base. So effective was Taylor's delivery that only one hit was made off him up to the ninth inning. The score at that period was 3 to 1 in favor of the champions. Before the Quakers were retired a rather startling change of affairs took place. Thomas had gone out on a fly to Donlin. Gleason, after protesting vigorously a called strike, hit a high ball just out of range of "Bill" Dahlen's left hand. He was allowed to steal second unmolested, and when Ward was called out on the third strike the "rooters" began to leave the grounds. Not much was expected of McGee, who had struck out twice before, but in this instance he caught the ball squarely and sent it to the ropes at left field for a home run. Gleason having trotted home in advance of him placed the total runs 3 for each team.

Devlin had the first opportunity to do something substantial for the champions, but his fly ball was captured handily by McGee. Gilbert, however, was placed at first on called balls. Ward, who made such a fine impression at the bat on the previous day, received an easy chance to make a double play on Bowerman's hit, but he threw high to Gleason, who made a jumping catch to retire Gilbert, and then Gleason made the disastrous throw to first, which enabled Bowerman to land on second. At this juncture the fine hand of Manager McGraw appeared, although he was supposed to have been removed from the game, and Marshall took the place of Taylor at the bat. The latter had an unfortunate experience, striking out three times, twice being called out by Umpire Conway. Marshall in this instance was equal to the emergency, and sending the ball along the right field foul line to the "bleachers," put a two-base hit to his credit and scored Bowerman, which was the winning run.

CHESBRO STOPS PITCHING.

Cannot Control Rain-Soaked Ball, and Greater New Yorks Lose.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—A steady downpour of rain from the fourth inning on proved a blessing for the Washington Club to-day, which defeated the New York 5 to 3. Up to that time Chesbro was getting along better than his opponent, Kitson, and had a run to the good, but as soon as the ball became wet Chesbro had to leave the game, and Griffith, who supplanted him, was not able to hold the Washingtons safe. He forced over the run that tied the game in the fourth inning, and his wild pitch in the eighth gave Washington the winning run. Sharp fielding by New York cut off a couple of runs.

In the first Keeler's bunt hit and Williams's two-base drive gave the visitors a run, but Washington evened it up on Nill's triple and Hickman's two-bagger. Kitson hit Elberfeld in the second, and the "Kid" worked around to the plate on Kleinow's out and Chesbro's single. The local team again tied the score in the third on Kitson's double, Nill's sacrifice, and Schlafly's hit.

New York came right back with another run on Chase's hit and steal and Kleinow's drive to centre. At the start of the fifth rain began to fall. The score:

EASTERN LEAGUE.

Newark Opens Season with Defeat at Hands of Toronto Team.

Special to The New York Times.

NEWARK, N. J., April 26.—The Eastern League season was opened at Wiedenmayer's Park here to-day, when Toronto defeated the Newarks by the score of 2 to 1. Fully 5,000 persons were in attendance. All of the players rode to the grounds in carriages, while Managers Burnham and Barrow rode in an automobile. A brass band headed the procession. The game was a perfect one. Toronto winning by perfect base running. Thoney opened with a two-bagger, went to third on White's out, and worked the "squeeze play," scoring on Tamsett's bunt to Carrick. With two men out in the seventh inning Yale singled, stole second while the ball was being passed from Shea to Carrick, and scored on Long's single. Newark scored in the fifth when Foster got a base on balls, was sacrificed to second by Gatins, and tallied on Brown's drive to right. The score:

Manager McGraw Hits Spectator.

In addition to being ejected from active participation in the game at the Polo Grounds yesterday Manager McGraw of the champion New York, annoyed at what he considered some uncomplimentary remarks hurled at him as he was leaving the playing field after the game, struck a man in the eye with his fist, and then went to the clubhouse. The man assaulted refused to give his name, but he claimed that McGraw's attack was unjustifiable, and when he demanded of a policeman the arrest of the manager the officer replied that he did not see the occurrence, and furthermore he could not make an arrest without a warrant.

Stock Brokers to Play in Boston.

This year the baseball game, which the members of the New York Stock Exchange never fail to play against the Boston Exchange, will be pulled off in Boston. Saturday, May 19, is the date fixed, and arrangements have been made with the New Haven Railroad for a special train to carry the team and its "rooters" to and from Boston. The Stock Exchange numbers among its members some of the cracks of recent teams of the big colleges, and they play real ball.

SYSONBY STILL IN STAKES.

Declarations from Handicaps to be Considered by J. R. Keene.

The inability of James R. Keene to visit his training stable at the Sheepshead Bay race track yesterday to satisfy himself as to the condition of Sysonby left the matter of declaring the horse from his early engagements in the big Spring handicaps still open. Mr. Keene was extremely desirous to go to Sheepshead Bay and see the horse, but other matters prevented.

He was informed yesterday as to Sysonby's present condition and is satisfied that the horse now is doing well and is perfectly restored; but the time lost from training is thought to have set the horse back so far that it is a question as to how long it will be before he can be fitted for a race. Mr. Keene said last night that his only purpose in making any announcement of Sysonby's recent sickness was to let the general public know of the delay to the horse's training and so prevent disappointment by persons who might be tempted to bet on him in future books, when there might be no chance for the horse to start.

Mr. Keene now will wait for a few days and will see what progress Sysonby makes in that time and how much his sickness has set him back before determining on which of the handicaps, if any, he will be declared from. As matters stand, horsemen about Sheepshead Bay agree that it is out of the question that Sysonby will be able to start for the Metropolitan, and nearly as improbable that he will start for the Brooklyn. It even is doubtful that he can run for the Suburban, though that is two months off.

NEW MOVE IN TURF FIGHT.

Western Jockey Club Wants Official Who Will Enlist Belmont Aid.

LOUISVILLE, Ky., April 26.—The Douglas Park Jockey Club, racing under the jurisdiction of the Western Jockey Club, to-day offered the presidency of the local organization to Gen. John B. Castleman, the salary to be $10,000 a year for a term of years. Gen. Castleman has not yet said whether or not he will accept. The Evening Post in announcing the offer says: "Gen. Castleman's selection is due to August Belmont of New York. Mr. Belmont has been urged to aid the Douglas track through his position in the Eastern racing world, and he finally stated that he would do so provided a man of high character and unquestioned standing among the breeders of blooded horses undertook the direction of the new enterprise. In this connection Mr. Belmont is understood to have said that if Gen. Castleman or a man like him would take the place he would back it in every way within his power."

Automobile Notes of Interest.

Judging from the early entries that have been received by the Automobile Club of America for the two-gallon efficiency test on May 5 more cars will compete than have ever been seen in a technical automobile contest. The rules have met with general satisfaction from owners and manufacturers alike.

President John Farson and Secretary Graham of the American Automobile Association will be in the city early next week. On Tuesday the officers of the A. A. A. will take up their new headquarters in the Metropolitan Life Building.

William K. Vanderbilt, Jr., has fairly acknowledged that he does not like the number thirteen. At the recent meeting of the commission to decide upon the date for the Vanderbilt Cup race this year it was proposed to hold it as nearly as possible at the same time as the race of 1905, which was run on Oct. 14. A glance at the calendar, however, showed that the corresponding Saturday of this year will be Oct. 13. Mr. Vanderbilt at once objected to the date and so it was fixed for Oct. 6.

Thousands of orphans in the metropolis will get a step further into the delights of automobiling on June 8, when the New York Motor Club will celebrate orphans' day for the second time. Last year the club took the tots for a twenty-mile run to Coney Island and back. This year the run will be made to Westchester.

Three Columbia automobiles, each of 45 horse power, have been put on an unusually severe test of efficiency during the last few days in San Francisco. John Dougherty, Acting Chief of the San Francisco Fire Department, and his assistants have been using these machines ever since the day of the earthquake. Mr. Dougherty sent a telegram to President M. T. Budlong of the Electric Vehicle Company, saying that the cars had been able to climb the steepest grades, and had traveled through every section of the burned city with perfect success. Mr. Dougherty added that he had previously been skeptical about the use of automobiles for arduous city work, but in the light of his recent experience he is ready to give them his unqualified indorsement.

DRAKE STABLE HAD TWO WINNERS AT ODDS ON

Broadcloth Took the Flushing Stakes and Rebo a Purse.

THREE FAVORITES BEATEN

Phantom Captured the Steeplechase in a Fighting Finish—Close of Aqueduct Meeting.

The first race meeting of the New York season, and the most successful ever held by the Queens County Jockey Club, ended at the Aqueduct track yesterday, with a record of results immensely pleasing to the large crowd of betting patrons on hand for the finish. Though the quality of the horses was not high, racegoers were just as well satisfied by the fact that heavily backed horses won straight through the day, three of the number being favorites at odds on.

The stable of John A. Drake was conspicuous in the results, two of the winning favorites, Broadcloth, in the Flushing Selling Stakes, and Rebo, in an overnight event, carrying the Drake colors. Broadcloth's race was the feature, the Flushing, at one mile, bringing out the best field of the day, with the Drake representative always favorite. Entered to sell for $1,000, the bottom price, and with an additional five pounds off for an apprentice rider's allowance, Broadcloth looked unbeatable, and the form followers figured that the only chance he had to lose was in not getting away. Whatever doubt existed on that score was dispelled when Broadcloth broke head and head with the leaders, and, going to the front in the opening strides, swung over to the rail, and galloped in the lead for the remainder of the distance, beating Grenade by a length, the latter, hard ridden and whipped to the winning post, just managing to get second place by a head from the long chance, Ebony.

Rebo, also in light, and with an apprentice allowance, ran just about the same kind of a race in the six and a half furlongs, first on the card, Rebo taking the lead in the first few strides and galloping far away in front of his field, winning in a canter from Consideration, the second choice. The handicap for three-year-olds at six furlongs aroused a lot of interest in the promise of a meeting between the great sprinting mare Lady Amelia and the fast filly Tradition, but the race became a very tame affair when Tradition was withdrawn, Lady Amelia, at long odds on, then romping away from the poor field left and winning all alone.

The steeplechase handicap at two miles and a half produced a remarkably close contest, with the three horses that stood up through the field fighting out at the finish, Phantom, from the Hitchcock stable, and ridden by Ray, winning under the whip after he had alternated with Ben Crockett, the favorite, throughout the running. Mexican Silver, from the Paget stable, and Golden Shore, second choices in their respective races, captured the purses for two-year-olds in good style. Summaries:

Baseball Seats at Auction.

All indications point to a record-breaking attendance at American League Park on Sunday, when the Athletics of Philadelphia and Greater New Yorks play a championship game, the entire receipts of which will go toward relieving the distress of the sufferers by earthquake and fire in San Francisco. To make the amount as large as possible the box seats at the park will be sold at auction at 5 o'clock this afternoon at the headquarters of the club, the Fuller Building, Broadway, Fifth Avenue, and Twenty-third Street.

OLYMPIC GAMES MARRED BY HEAVY WIND STORM

Sensation Caused by Withdrawal of Austrian Weight-Lifter.

HE FLAUNTS IRATE POPULACE

Many Events Postponed Because of Inclement Weather—Americans Not Represented in Minor Sports.

ATHENS, April 26.—A gale of wind and other unfavorable weather conditions caused the postponement of most of the contests scheduled for to-day in the Olympic games. A few of the field contests were held, and several of the minor sports decided, but in the main the programme was held over until to-morrow.

A sensational and deplorable incident marked the weight-lifting event. Unfounded allegations of professionalism had been circulated against the Austrian competitor, a giant by the name of Steinbach. In spite of the denial of the charges by the authorities which had the widest publicity, the people gathered in the Stadium would have none of him. So angry was their demonstration when Steinbach appeared to contest that after waiting for the hooting to subside and vainly protesting against the disturbance, he retired from the contest, leaving the Greek, Tofales, to compete alone.

There was tremendous cheering when the Greek flag was raised to signal Tofales's victory. It had scarcely begun to die out when Steinbach re-entered the arena, and, walking up to the great weight which, measuring 144.40 kilograms, Tofales had raised with greatest difficulty, he picked it up and raised it thrice above his head with wondrous ease, as though it were mere childs play for him. Then, turning and bowing sarcastically to the populace, he left the arena, while the attendants looked on in silent amazement.

The swimming finals and the diving contests arranged for the morning in the Phalerum attracted quite a gallery in spite of the inclement weather, but the sea was so rough that the events had to be postponed until to-morrow. They will take place at an early hour in the morning.

It was equally impossible to run off any track and field contests with any satisfactory results. Accordingly the minor contests remaining in the Zappeion were held. Here the final foils match was decided, and the English swordsmen met defeat at the hands of the French by a score of 9 bouts to 6. No Americans competed in any event.

The most interesting contest of the day was the javelin throwing, in which the Swedes distanced all competitors. Lemming aroused tremendous enthusiasm by creating a new world's record in the winning event, hurling the weapon a distance of 53.90 meters.

The results of the preliminaries in the wrestling held yesterday were announced. I. Nifiot, the American, who was a competitor, hurt his shoulder and was easily defeated in his bout. His accident, unfortunately, puts him out of the contest.

MORE BALLOON ASCENSIONS.

Count de la Vaulx Going Up Once More—Bishop Off for Europe.

Cortlandt Field Bishop, who is the foreign representative of the Aero Club of America, sailed for Europe yesterday on the French Line steamer La Savoie. Mr. Bishop therefore will be unable to witness the ascension which the club proposes to hold to-morrow from Pittsfield, Mass. Count de la Vaulx and Charles Levee will have charge of the affair, and it will probably be the last ascension that the Count will make, for the present at least, in this country, as he will sail for France within a week.

Mr. Bishop was accompanied by his wife, and he said that while in Paris he hoped to make several ascensions, and acquire more experience in ballooning. He will witness the Grand Prix race, the big French automobile event, which will be held June 26 and 27. Mr. Bishop will remain abroad until October, as he is anxious to see the first balloon contest for the Gordon Bennett Cup. The balloons will start from Paris on Sept. 30. America will have two representatives, and the best aeronauts of Europe will be among the competitors.

The ascension to-morrow at Pittsfield will be made in Count de la Vaulx's big balloon, the Centaure, which he used over a week ago. Several members of the Aero Club will leave late to-night for Pittsfield to witness the flight.

Three of your forty-five horse power Columbias have been used by myself and assistants, Shaughnessy & Wills, continuously night and day since earthquake April eighteenth and are still in service. The machines have conveyed us over our steepest grades, through all parts of burning city, having had to run over ruined streets, cracked and piled up in many places with fallen bricks, stones and other debris. Their work has been perfect at all times and I marvel that an auto can stand up under such unusual and severe tests. Have been skeptic about automobiles previous to this great work but now give them my hearty endorsement.

FAST TIME BY CHRISTIE IN AUTO BEACH RACES

He Beats Vanderbilt Cup Winning Car by Narrow Margin.

CLEVER DRIVING BY WOMEN

Mrs. Cuneo and Mrs. Rogers in Atlantic City Meet—Kerosene Motor Shows Good Results.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., April 26.—The second day's automobile racing on the South Ventnor Beach was productive of exciting contests, another high-class victory for Walter Christie in his remodeled Vanderbilt Cup racer, the defeat of the Darracq car that Hemmery used last year when he won the Vanderbilt Trophy, and the presence of two women in the races, both of whom acquitted themselves most creditably in speed results.

The race which attracted most interest from the experts was the mile event for heavyweight gasoline cars. This was run in two heats and a final. Montague Roberts won the first heat in his sixty horse power Thomas car in 0:50, just beating the eighty horse power Napier, driven by W. H. Hilliard. The second heat brought out the Christie car and the big Darracq, driven by Guy Vaughn. Walter Christie was at the wheel of his powerful 110 horse power machine, and when he passed the Darracq, winning by a few yards, in the good time of 0:46 4-5, the best of the day, he was greeted with generous applause. In the final the Christie, the Darracq, and the Thomas cars were the contenders. Again Christie took the lead and maintained it in splendid fashion, beating the Darracq by about 25 yards, his time being the same as in the former heat.

The touring car championship, for cars of 50 horse power or less, was run in three heats, all of which furnished close races. The impressive manner in which the English Daimler, driven by H. N. Harding, won the first heat led many to believe that this machine would capture the final, but it was distanced by the other cars, the 40-45 horse power Pierce, driven by J. E. Bristol, taking the lead about half the distance from the finish, and crossed the line the winner in 1:07 2-5, followed by the 50 horse power Thomas car, driven by W. C. Thomas.

The two women who competed were Mrs. Joan N. Cuneo, who drove a 10 horse power Maxwell in the time trials, covering the mile in 1:25 3-5, and Mrs. H. E. Rogers, who did a mile in 1:31, driving a Maxwell of similar horse power. The Grout steamer, from which great things had been expected, took 1:19 2-5 for a mile. Montague Roberts, in his Thomas car, did 0:55 4-5.

A novelty in the middleweight trials was a Maxwell car with a kerosene motor. This was driven by C. W. Kelsey, and made the good time of 1:36. The Price Handicap for two-cylinder cars was won after a lively race by H. J. Koehler with a twenty-two horse power Buick in 2:06 1-5. Another Buick got second. The thirty-two horse power Reo car driven by R. T. Lockwood won the middleweight race handily in the fast time of 1:00 2-5, Mrs. Cuneo coming second in her Maxwell car.

A high, cold wind blew directly down the track, favoring the time of the cars and causing some discomfort to the spectators. A good sized crowd was on the scene to witness the starting of the first even. Summaries:

Record Trials, Gasolene Cars, 881 to 1,432 Pounds.—Won by Maxwell 10 horse power, Mrs. J. N. Cuneo. Time—1:25 3-5. Maxwell 10 horse power, Mrs. H. F. Rogers, second. Time—1:31. Maxwell 10 horse power, C. W. Kelsey, third. Time—1:36.

One Mile, Middle-weight Gasolene Cars, 881 to 1,432 Pounds.—Won by Reo Bird, 32 horse power, R. Lockwood. Time—1:00 2-5. Maxwell 10 horse power, Mrs. Cuneo, second. Maxwell 10 horse power, Charles Fleming, third.

One Mile Touring Car Championship, 50 Horse Power or Less, Regular Equipment and Five Passengers.—First Heat—Won by English Daimler, 30-35 horse power, H. N. Harding. Thomas 50 horse power, W. C. Thomas, second. Thomas 50 horse power, Montagne Roberts, third.

Second Heat—Won by Pierce 40-45 horse power, Archibald Hughes. Time—1:07 2-5. Pierce 40-45 horse power, J. E. Bristol, second. Pope Toledo 35 horse power, Charles Soules, third.

Third Heat—Won by Thomas 50 horse power, E. R. Kelly. Time—1:13. Pope Toledo 35 horse power, Stewart Elliott, second.

Final Heat—Won by Pierce 40-45 horse power, Bristol. Time—1:07 2-5. Thomas 50 horse power, Thomas, second. Pierce 40-45 horse power, third.

Price Handicap for Two-Cylinder Cars, Five Passengers; $1,500 Car on Scratch; Second Handicap for Each, $50 Less.—Won by Buick 22 horse power, H. J. Koehler, (6 seconds.) Time—2:06 1-5. Buick 22 horse power, W. Haupt, second. Cadillac 10 horse power, Archie Hughes, third.

Heavy-weight Championship.—Won by Christie car, 110 horse power, Walter Christie. Time—0:40 4-5. Darracq 80 horse power, Guy Vaughn, second; Thomas 60 horse power, Montague Roberts, third.

Runabouts, Gasolene, $1,000 or Less, One Mile.—Won by Buick 22 horse power, H. J. Koehler, second. Time—1:50 3-5. Buick 22 horse power, H. Haupt, second.

Changes in Columbia's Crews.

An important change was made in the boating of the Columbia 'Varsity crew yesterday by Coach Goodwin, when Morris was taken from the four and put at bow in the eight. White was changed from bow to three, displacing Cheadle, who was relegated to the second 'Varsity. This is the second time that Cheadle has been put in the second boat. The changes seemed to strengthen the first 'Varsity, for in a two-mile brush between the two 'Varsity eights and the first freshman crew the first 'Varsity had an easy time winning. The crews are now rowing as follows:

First 'Varsity—Bow, Morris; 2, Roy; 3, White; 4, Helmrich; 5, Ferris; 6, Hoyle; 7, O'Loughlin; stroke, G. Mackenzie; coxswain, Spence.

Second 'Varsity—Bow, Earle; 2, Kendal; 3, Snevily; 4, Wood; 5, Kebbe; 6, McLean; 7, Cheadle; stroke, Mitchell; coxswain, Winslow.

Freshman—Bow, Taylor; 2, Jordan; 3, Spalding; 4, McLean; 5, Hodgkinson; 6, Gillies; 7, Cerussi; stroke, Mackenzie; coxswain, H. B. Taylor.

Notes of the Thoroughbreds.

A sale of race horses in training, consigned by half a dozen different owners, was conducted by William Easton for the Fasig-Tipton Company in the paddock at Aqueduct yesterday. The most important lot was that to dissolve the Piedmont Stable, La Danzador, b. m., 5 years, by Rapallo-Court Dance, bought by W. B. Jennings for $1,500, bringing the top price, and Red, White, and Blue, winner of a steeplechase at the Aqueduct meeting, b. g., 5, by Requital-Our Flag, also going to Mr. Jennings for $700. The other horses, woods from many stables, brought poor prices.

Sir Wilfred, the $15,000 colt bought by Roy A. Rainey at the dispersal of the C. T. Durnell Stable, had the first fast work that he has had since he was brought to New York from California. He galloped at Gravesend, under the direction of J. W. May, and, hard held, finished a half mile in 0:50.

The entire programme for the Belmont Park meeting of the Westchester Racing Association, opening Thursday, May 10, was announced yesterday in The Racing Calendar.

Apprentice Jockey Garner is missing quite a lot of time from school just now, but keeps on riding winners at Aqueduct. Yesterday he was the only jockey to land two winning mounts, being up on both of the J. A. Drake horses, Broadcloth and Hebo.

Ben Crockett pulled up very lame after his race in the Aqueduct Steeplechase yesterday, and Prince of Pilsen finished his run in the same race with a cut on his ankle that may put him on the shelf for a time.

It was announced yesterday that the Long Island Railroad service between Long Island City and the Gravesend race track will not be resumed this Spring, as the Long Island Road's tracks are being put under ground, and the tunnel work will prevent the use of the spur track formerly used for passenger traffic to the Brooklyn Jockey Club's course. When the tunnels are completed the spur on the surface will no longer be of use, so that all future transportation to Gravesend is to be by the elevated road and the trolleys.

Broadcloth, winner of the Flushing Stakes at Aqueduct yesterday, in which race he was entered to sell for $1,000, was bid up by M. Goldman to $2,500, and then bought in by his owner, John A. Drake, for $2,505. The net value of the stake to the winner was $1,220, and the advance on the winner's entered price $1,505, making the Drake stable loser, aside from betting, of $285 by winning the stake.

HARLEM YACHT CLUB RACE.

Cruising Contest Announced for Long Island Fleet to Stratford Shoal.

To the list of yacht clubs that have announced their racing plans for the season, now less than a month off, was yesterday added the Harlem Yacht Club. The most interesting event in its schedule is a long-distance cruising race arranged for Aug. 11, in which a fleet of from thirty to forty yachts between 20 and 40 feet water line are expected to enter. The race will start from Belden Point, off City Island, and the course will be laid to Stratford Shoal Light and return, a total distance of about 100 miles.

The clubhouse will be formally opened on May 19 with informal club races and water sports, while the Spring regatta will be held on May 30, open to all boats enrolled in any yacht club on the Sound. Other club contests are to be arranged for later in the season. Commodore Muhlfeldt's sloop Tammany went overboard yesterday, and others of the fleet will be launched in the next fortnight.

The Indian Harbor Yacht Club's plan for a cruising race for the big boats of the Long Island fleet promises to be very interesting. The date named, June 23, is subject to change to fit the convenience of the larger boats, and it will likely be two or three days later. The plan is to have the fleet reach New London in time for the college boat races on June 28, while that part of it which will race to Marblehead in the Eastern Yacht Club's race from New London will be on the ground.

It is hoped in this way to enlist the big schooners—F. F. Brewster's Elmina and Arthur F. Luke's Corona, and, if possible, J. Rogers Maxwell's Queen—while in the sloop classes it is expected that the seventies, Yankee, Mineola, and Rainbow, will start; and the four sixty-footers, the old Neola and Weetamoe and the new Effort and the Herreshoff boat. As only the schooners will compete in the Eastern race, it may be possible to arrange a race back to New York.

Stocks Irregular—Call Money Rates, 3½@5 Per Cent.

Gold Engagements Amounting to $4,000,000 Announced — Exchange Weak.

In the fore part of yesterday's Stock Exchange session prices broke once more with considerable violence under the pressure of liquidating sales and professional operations for the fall, the latter movement overtopping the actual liquidation. The declines ran till the noon hour, when upon a relaxation of the selling the market became dull, as it has heretofore under similar circumstances, and recovered ground slowly up to the closing hour, when the rally was accelerated by the announcement of engagements of $4,000,000 gold, this development promoting a firm closing, with prices up a point or more from the low level, but generally under that of the previous day. The early break brought prices of many stocks to the lowest figures of the year, these representing unusually severe declines, in view of the brief period within which they have been brought about. Thus at its low point yesterday St. Paul had fallen 28 points from its high record of the year, and Union Pacific 13 points, while corresponding declines were to be found elsewhere through the list. The strongest features of the day's trading were Reading, which closed with an actual gain of 1¼ points; Southern Pacific, and the United States Steel shares. In addition to the announcement of large engagements of gold for import, favorable returns for the month of March were made by a number of important railroads, including the Atchison, which increased net by $388,000; Ontario & Western, whose net gain was $28,000, and Iowa Central, which reported a gain in net of $35,000. Other news developments of interest to the market were the cut of one-half in the Consolidated Gas dividends, the announcement of the calling of a convention of anthracite miners on May 3 to receive the reply of the operators to the latest proposition of the miners' representatives, the terms of this offer having so far been kept secret, and the statement that the Pennsylvania Railroad had issued orders to put into service all stored freight cars, a movement indicating increased activity in the territory served by the Pennsylvania system.

In the money situation the developments of interest were the engagements of gold, which were made under Secretary Shaw's plan and therefore count for two days in the forthcoming bank statement, and the rise in call money rates to 5 per cent., although the bulk of the day's loans was made at a little more than 4 per cent. Transfers during the day to San Francisco were the heaviest made in the course of this movement, and such transfers, together with direct shipments, have now reached a total little under $25,000,000. Rates for demand sterling dropped sharply early in the day, but regained a portion of the loss later, closing, however, well below the gold import point, while the Paris check on London rose 2¼c., indicating complete cessation of Continental demands upon the English money market. The English bank rate was unchanged, the bank's return showing a ratio of reserve of 39⅝ per cent., the lowest percentage at this time in fifteen years, the showing being due in large measure, of course, to loans connected with the Russian borrowing. The Bank of France made a better report, while the Bank of Germany increased its cash by $18,000,000 and reduced loans $15,000,000.

Russian Loan in London Covered.

LONDON, April 26.—The British portion—$65,505,000—of the Russian loan has been covered and the subscription list closed this morning. Many applications were received from Germany and elsewhere on the Continent.

LONDON STOCK MARKET.

LONDON, April 26.—Rates for money were firm in the market to-day, and the demand was fair. Discounts had a rather easier tendency owing to the firmness of French exchange and the hope of further withdrawals of gold, particularly for New York.

Trading on the Stock Exchange was cheerful, and a better feeling prevailed regarding the monetary outlook in view of there being no increase of the discount rate of the Bank of England. Consols hardened and home rails recovered.

Americans opened weak, rallied, and were in better demand. Union Pacific was favored. Later the tone became undecided. Prices fluctuated during the last hour and closed weak, but with trading fairly active.

Foreigners were upheld by Paris buying. Kaffirs were buoyant on Continent buying.

K. & M. STOCKHOLDERS MAY BUY MORGAN STOCK

Offer Big Price for Hocking Valley's Interest in Road.

WANT BETTER DIVIDENDS

They Are Said to be in a Position to Enforce Their Claims if They Are Ignored.

The minority stockholders of the Kanawha & Michigan Railroad Company, who recently united to secure from the Hocking Valley Railroad, which controls the Kanawha & Michigan, some share of the road's net earnings, have made an offer to the Morgan interests to purchase for cash the controlling interest held by the Hocking Valley. The price offered was $75 a share, or 15 points more than the present market value of the company's stock.

The Kanawha & Michigan, which the Hocking Valley Railroad controls, through the Toledo & Ohio Central, is regarded as a very important part of the Hocking Valley system. The offer of the Kanawha & Michigan stockholders is not likely, it is thought, to be accepted. The point is made, however, on behalf of the holders of this minority stock, that the offer to the Morgan interests demonstrates their ability to handle the situation effectively and to secure for themselves what they regard as their rights as stockholders.

While no definite counter proposition has yet been made to the Kanawha & Michigan stockholders, it was learned yesterday that the Morgan interests have practically admitted the fairness of their claims. It was said by representatives of those stockholders yesterday that they expected shortly to receive a formal offer for their stock. What they have been asking is the payment of a dividend on the company's stock commensurate with the road's earnings.

It is considered likely, however, that the Morgan interests will prefer to purchase the minority stock and to bring about, possibly, an actual consolidation of the Kanawha & Michigan and the Toledo & Ohio Central. It is claimed that, operated as an independent company, the Kanawha & Michigan could easily be made to earn 10 per cent. on its capital stock. In the recent past, the minority stockholders claim, the actual net earnings of the road, although operated at a relatively high cost, have amounted to about 4 per cent.

It was said yesterday that the minority interests in the Kanawha & Michigan Railway are disposed to sell their stock to the Morgan interests if what they consider a fair price for the stock is offered them.

The present movement to secure a recognition of the minority stockholders was begun last December under the auspices of a committee headed by George D. Mackay, the other members of the committee being W. H. Goadby and I. L. Ellwood. This committee has obtained the support of $3,900,000 par value of the stock out of a total minority interest of about $4,400,000. This committee has been conducting negotiations for some time with the Morgan interests. The negotiations have been entirely of a friendly character, although the minority interests have from the beginning been fully prepared to make good their demands.

The stockholders have considered that they were in an excellent position to secure recognition from the Hocking Valley for the reason that in addition to the arguments which could be advanced in direct support of their claims, the Hocking Valley Road is said to be especially vulnerable because of its control of the Toledo & Ohio Central, which is a parallel and competing road. Many of the minority stockholders have held that, if need be, an action against the Hocking Valley to force it to give up its control of Toledo & Ohio Central could be used as a means of forcing the Hocking Valley to recognize the claims of the Kanawha & Michigan minority. This argument, however, has not been formally advanced by the committee representing the stockholders, which has assumed the position that recognition of its demands could be procured without going to such lengths.

COPPER DEAL RATIFIED.

United Copper Company's Stockholders Vote—Heinze Addresses Them.

The United Copper Company's stockholders, at a special meeting in Hoboken yesterday, ratified all of the recommendations of the Directors growing out of the settlement of the details of the Montana copper war. It was voted to authorize the Directors to accept $3,500,000 cash and interest for the bonds of the Montana Ore Purchasing Company and of the Nipper Consolidated Copper Company in the treasury, which means their sale at par. their sale at par.

A number of changes were made in the by-laws, allowing the Directors to meet in another State than New Jersey, and to vote by proxy or otherwise the stock of the Butte Coalition Mining Company held by the United Copper Company.

It was also given to the Directors to decide when and how stockholders should have access to the books of the company outside of their privilege as conferred by statute.

President Heinze told the stockholders that the company had in its treasury securities worth more than $20,000,000 at market price, covering nearly every property in the Butte District, Utah, and Colorado, and owned copper and gold deposits in Utah and Alaska. He said the company could maintain its present dividend rate.

IRON AND STEEL NOTES.

San Francisco Orders Will Seriously Delay Outstanding Contracts.

Interest in the steel trade centred yesterday in the news from Pittsburg of the orders issued by the United States Steel Corporation giving business from San Francisco precedence over all orders now on the books. With the present congestion in the steel mills, this will cause considerable hardship to consumers who are already behind on their contracts. How much existing orders will be delayed depends of course on the volume of business coming from San Francisco. Present indications are that it will be very large. Trade advices from Buffalo say that the Lackawanna Steel Company established a new high record of unfilled business on April 1.

Outside of an advance of $1 a ton in wire rods, and a further decline of $1 a ton in bar iron, changes in iron and steel prices over the week have been unimportant.

Payment of Twenty per cent. (20%) of the amount of the subscription shall be made by each shareholder on May 25th, 1906, forty per cent. (40%) on July 16th, 1906, and the balance, forty per cent. (40%), on September 17th, 1906. Warrants must be returned to the Treasurer when first instalment is paid, for which negotiable receipts will be issued, and if not so returned, and the first instalment so paid, the warrants to be void and of no value.

On May 25th any Stockholder having paid the first instalment may also pay the second or both remaining instalments, for which full paid negotiable receipts will be issued.

Interest will be allowed to September 1, 1906, at the rate of five per cent. (5%) per annum from the date on which instalments are paid.

Upon surrender at the Company's office, No. 2 Wall Street, New York City, N. Y., or to its agents, Messrs. Speyer Brothers, No. 7 Lothbury, London, E. C., England, of full paid negotiable receipts on or after September 17th, 1906, certificates of Stock of the Company for its Common Capital Stock to the amount of one share of such stock for each One Hundred Dollars ($100) of full paid negotiable receipts will be issued. The stock when delivered will carry any dividends that may be declared after September 1, 1906.

For fractional warrants, fractional receipts will be issued, and when full paid, will be exchanged for fractional non-dividend bearing stock scrip, which may be converted into Common Stock Certificates on presentation at the Company's office in sums of One Hundred Dollars each, or multiples thereof, and such fractional stock scrip as may not be so converted on or before December 31, 1906, will be redeemed at par.

CALL ON NOTE SYNDICATE.

St. Louis and San Francisco Subscribers to Pay $2,625,000.

Members of the St. Louis & San Francisco $7,500,000 note syndicate were called upon yesterday for the payment of 35 per cent. of their subscriptions. The call will require the payment of $2,625,000. At the time the syndicate was formed it was definitely understood that calls upon its members were to be made only as the work of constructing the New Orleans-Houston line progressed. The fact that such a large percentage of the amount of the note issue has been called was regarded yesterday as an indication that much progress has already been made in the carrying out of the company's plans for the building of the new line.

Rumors of several other calls by syndicate managers were current yesterday, but in some cases at least these referred presumably to payments made under previous calls rather than to fresh demands upon syndicate members.

The question of payments by syndicate members for various bond issues which have been underwritten during the last few months is attracting considerable attention in Wall Street at present, owing to the numerous demands which are now being made upon the money market. It is generally believed that the present unfavorable position of the bond market will result in numerous recent issues being carried indefinitely by the syndicates which took them over from the issuing companies.

UNITED STATES IN THE LEAD.

Sold More Export Goods in 1905 Than Any Other Country.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 26.—According to official statistics of the Bureau of Manufactures, the calendar year 1905 witnessed wonderful strides in the commercial transactions of the leading nations.

The United States, which in 1904 ranked second as an export nation, last year took first rank, and again stands, as in 1903, with the record of selling more goods than any other country in the world. The total exports of merchandise of the principal countries for 1905 were as follows:

Germany, $1,359,077,000; France, $926,917,000; Italy, $332,358,000; Austria-Hungary, $439,625,000; United States, $1,621,581,000; Japan, $158,122,000; British India, $499,546,000, and United Kingdom, $1,606,057,000.

BROKER HATCH GETS BACK.

Reinstated in Stock Exchange His Firm Has Settled with Creditors.

E. Sanford Hatch, who was suspended from membership in the Stock Exchange after the failure of his firm, Hurlbutt, Hatch & Co., in 1904, was reinstated yesterday. Hatch's firm went under at a time when several other firms got into difficulties, and his case became of considerable interest in the Street because of the efforts of some of his creditors to force him, through the courts, to sell his Stock Exchange seat.

Hatch carried the fight through the lower United States Courts, and it was expected that the question would be finally passed upon by the United States Supreme Court, but a settlement with the creditors put an end to the litigation before the highest court was reached. The firm failed in a bear market, and as the settlement dragged on the securities which constituted the assets of the firm continued to appreciate in value, so that the final settlement was made at a much higher rate than had at first seemed possible.

From the despondent way some folks talk it might be supposed that the money now being sent to San Francisco was going to be used to fill up the crevices made by the earthquake and would nevermore return to the channels of trade.

***

The bears are now trading on their profits and are more aggressive for that reason.

It is all very well to attribute each fresh break in the market to the unmoral depredations of an organized bear party, but while admitting that this is partly true it must also be admitted that the success of such manipulation is due very largely to the altered position of the market itself. Stocks have been dislodged in large quantities. The market has been "loosened up." There is room for bearish operations on a scale which would not have been at all feasible a few weeks ago. The floating supply of stocks has been increased, the buying power has been impaired, and confidence has been badly shaken.

Those who would buy stocks are discouraged by their brokers and intimidated by the demonstrations of the bear contingent in the market. Outside of professional circles sentiment is rather distrustful than bearish, but so far as it deprives the market of buying orders the one is the same as the other. When men talk of buying stocks on the breaks they add: "Only for a turn." On the sharp breaks the big shorts go in and take their profits, then wait, and as soon as the market gets dull on the recoveries they go in and sell it again. Every rally invites fresh selling.

The bear crowd has made headway, and is now operating with a degree of confidence which has not been exhibited on the short side before for many months. It appears to have intelligent leadership. Yesterday in the first hour the initiative selling was confined to a few stocks, notably Missouri Pacific, a security that has not been at all active of late, but which nevertheless was believed to occupy an unprotected position. It was sold down nearly 3 points in a hurry. Such incidents, of which there were several, show that the bear crowd has the leadership of men who know how to find the weak spots, and, having found them, to apply the pressure there, with a view to affecting the other market. Other targets in the first hour yesterday were Amalgamated Copper, which had been stronger than the general market on Wednesday, and St. Paul, whose position had been weakened by continuous liquidation. A drive was made also at Union Pacific, but there arose a large demand for it under 148.

***

Brokers supposed to be acting for a well-known bear operator have been executing orders this week in such manner as to give rise to the impression that they were trying to sell stocks as low as they could. Their activity has invariably been most pronounced when the market was weak. Additional evidence of bearish manipulation is the prevalence of extreme predictions touching certain stocks, as that Amalgamated Copper will sell at 60, or that Union Pacific will sell at 140.

***

Commission houses are now trading freely on the short side. A large Western wire house that has been very bullish since Monday, advising the purchase of stocks, sold heavily in the first hour yesterday on miscellaneous orders. This selling was done against its judgment and was in all respects contrary to the tone of its advices to clients since the first of the week. Some of it was long selling, but perhaps more was for the short account.

***

The bullish advices of this house had influenced clients less than the spectacle of declining prices. There is a large body of sentiment which gravitates to that side of the market on which the money is being made at any given moment. The money for ten days has been all on the bear side. The lines of long stock carried by commission houses are steadily decreasing. They were relatively small when this decline started.

***

After the break of the first hour the market rallied in an uncertain, timid fashion, grew dull as prices improved, and was very narrow from about midday to 2 o'clock. In the beginning of the first hour the selling pressure was renewed casually, particularly in Amalgamated Copper, but the market was prepared to show some resistance and the selling abated. There followed a feeble exhibition of strength, on which Union Pacific went from 148 to 149, and Amalgamated Copper from 103 to 103⅞. Those were of all active stocks the most observed, and their strength toward the close of the session was thought by hopeful persons to presage a recovery under their leadership to-day. In the last five minutes, however, both stocks were heavily sold.

***

There is such a thing as keeping a stock too strong in a weak market.

The relative strength of the United States Steel shares, especially the common, again yesterday was regarded from two points of view. The determined manner in which Steel common has been supported recently between 41 and 42 is highly encouraging to those who believe in the market, and hope to see the Steel stocks turned very aggressively to the bull side in the near future; others argue that by holding the stock in this way the bull crowd is assuming an unnecessary strain, and that if its judgment of conditions should happen to be faulty, or if it should have to wait longer for its market than it has expected to wait, the strain might become so great as to force a retreat.

In that event the position of the stock would be more vulnerable than if it had been permitted to go with the other market. Twice last week Steel common touched 41⅝, and was taken at 41⅝ and 41¼ in large amounts. On Monday it touched 41⅛ again, and again large amounts of it were taken by those who had the supporting orders. On Tuesday it touched 41⅝, and yesterday it touched 41⅝ again. At these three fractions—41⅝, ⅝, and ⅝—a great deal of stock has been bought. Now if the support should begin to waver the effect upon the general market would be worse than if no attempt had been made to hold the stock in an arbitrary manner.

As an offset to any criticism of the too conspicuous support of Steel common, it may be mentioned that the crowd which is now holding a bull position on the stock includes some of the most prominent financiers in the Street. It would be very surprising if their combined judgment were wrong, either regarding the stock itself or the general market.

***

Some critics declared yesterday that Amalgamated Copper had been kept too strong on Wednesday. It closed on Wednesday at a fractional advance. Yesterday, selling ex dividend, it was conspicuously weak, suffering a maximum decline of 2⅝ points. It closed at a decline of 1⅝ per cent. The action of the stock, quoted ex dividend, was disappointing to the bull following, the more so as its strength on Wednesday had led many to suppose that it ought to recover its dividend of 1⅝ per cent. promptly.

***

Southern Pacific holds remarkably. It has been relatively stronger than Union Pacific ever since the news came of the San Francisco calamity. It appears to have been well bought between 64 and 65. It touched 64¼ yesterday for the third time, and recovered 1 point, closing at a fractional advance.

***

On the crest of a bull movement which, although brief, was very aggressive while it lasted, St. Paul sold in January at 193. It sold yesterday at 165⅛, down 27⅞ points from the high price of January. It has been much the weakest of the important railroad issues in the last eight or ten days, and while, of course, it is true that a considerable amount of special and unexpected liquidation has taken place, the support has been very indifferent. It is now believed that on the advance to 193 in January and on the decline which followed, a large amount of inside stock was sold, which selling so weakened the market position of St. Paul that the extra liquidation of the last few days met a poor demand. There are those who think that the inside selling referred to as having occurred on a higher level had some relation to the prospective issue of treasury stock.

Inasmuch as the reduction in the price of gas has not yet become effective, and since yesterday's Consolidated Gas dividend was declared out of the earnings of the last quarter, the reduction to the rate of 4 per cent. is not as convincing as might be. The announcement that the Directors had declared a quarterly dividend of 1 per cent. had very little effect upon the price of the stock, which earlier in the day had sold at 131. It finally scored an advance from that point of 2¼ per cent., and closed at a fractional gain. Friends of the stock expected a reduction to only 5 per cent., while the bears were looking for something less than 4 per cent. It had been believed that a cut in the dividend to the rate of 4 per cent. would be particularly unfortunate for the convertible bonds, which pay 6 per cent., but are redeemable at par. The bonds, however, were stronger than the stock, advancing from 137 to 140.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, April 26.—There was considerable scattered liquidation in this market to-day, with the result that lower prices were made all around. Reading and Lehigh Valley were sold on the calling of a convention by the miners' delegates, at which, it is believed, the question of a strike will be settled. Talk of a large note issue induced some selling of Pennsylvania. Alliance Insurance declined ⅛, Electric Storage Battery 2 points on sales of a few small lots, Keystone Telephone ½, Philadelphia Rapid Transit ⅜, to the lowest price quoted for it in recent months, United Gas Improvement ⅜, but with a late recovery.

Philadelphia Company issues were all strong, the buying being favorably regarded, while Tonopah Mining made an unexplained advance of a point. Certain bond issues displayed a little weakness, and it was hinted the selling came from insurance companies, but this could not be confirmed. There was a more settled feeling in insurance, as well as in financial, circles after the early liquidation in stocks had run its course.

CHICAGO QUOTATIONS.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 26.—Fresh liquidation broke out in Illinois Brick shares to-day on the local Exchange, taking the stock down to 50. This is the lowest price at which the stock has been since the reorganization. At this price the company's capital is reduced from $4,000,000 to $2,000,000 in selling price. It has been said the tangible assets of the company are worth more than this. Still there seems to be a feeling that dividends are not wholly safe. Probably much of the selling is of speculative character. It will be recalled there was a considerable pool in the stock some months ago. There also is a good deal of bear selling.

Other local issues ran off more or less in sympathy with the Wall Street weakness. National Biscuit, whose best market is in New York now that the local traders have not known how to handle the stock, ran off here from 65 to 63⅝ before noon. Chicago Telephone made a new low price, at 104, but rallied. Edison subsided to 145. North Chicago lost 2 points, at 32. Can preferred sold as low as 60½. In the afternoon Diamond Match sold off to 127⅝. Brick rallied to 51, and Subway was run up to 56½.

PITTSBURG TRANSACTIONS.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, April 26.—Transactions on the local Exchange to-day were as follows:

THE OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Curb Stocks Weak in a Day of Light Trading.

The Market Sells Off in Sympathy with the Big Exchange—Stronger at the Close.

The curb market was extremely dull yesterday, and in the light trading weakened markedly, in sympathy with the recessions on the Stock Exchange, though many of the stocks that suffered rallied under supporting orders before the close. The day's trading in industrials was less than 2,300 shares, and the railroad shares, too, were but lightly traded in, the list suffering further by the absence of the Interborough-Metropolitan contracts, which have been admitted to the unlisted department of the Stock Exchange. Mining shares monopolized practically all of the market's attention. United Copper sold down from 63⅝ to 61⅝, but closed at the opening price. The sales were 7,100. Nevada Consolidated lost ⅜ of a point on trading in 4,000 shares, closing at 18½.

TRADING IN BALTIMORE.

Special to The New York Times.

BALTIMORE, April 26.—A big selling movement in United Railways stock trust certificates developed this afternoon, 7,300 shares being sold at [illegible]. The latter figure is a decline of ⅝ since yesterday and 8½ since February. The income bonds were also weaker to-day, the free incomes losing 1¼. Large blocks of the stock were held by speculators who are now forced to unload, anticipations of financial reorganization and a consequent boom in prices having failed of realization. A number of other local securities opened off and continued to decline.

G. B. S. Brewing 4s were weak, running off ½. Atlantic Coast Line Consolidated 4s dropped ¼ to [illegible]. Northern Central was moderately active, selling for ½ loss, to 100. Consolidated Gas advanced 1 point, to 66. G. B. S. Brewing common dropped ½. Sparrow's Point 4½s eased ¼, to [illegible]. Houston Oil dropped to 7¾. Seaboard new common broke 1¼ points, to 23. Cotton Duck 5s receded ½.

The close was active, but weak. Sales: Shares, [illegible]; bonds, [illegible]. The list:

THE COTTON MARKET.

May Leads Rally on Covering of Shorts—Bull Leader Inactive.

GOVERNMENT WEATHER FORECAST FOR THE COTTON STATES.

North Carolina, South Carolina, and Georgia—Partly cloudy Friday and Saturday; light to fresh westerly winds, becoming variable.

Eastern Florida—Fair Friday and Saturday; variable winds.

Western Florida and Alabama—Fair Friday and Saturday; light to fresh southwest to west winds.

Mississippi and Louisiana—Partly cloudy Friday, showers and cooler at night or Saturday; light to fresh southwest to west winds.

Eastern Texas—Showers Friday, cooler in northwest portion; Saturday, partly cloudy, cooler in eastern portion; fresh south to west winds.

Western Texas—Fair, cooler Friday, preceded by showers in the Panhandle; Saturday, fair.

Oklahoma and Indian Territory—Rain and cooler Friday; Saturday, fair, warmer.

Arkansas—Rain and cooler Friday; Saturday, fair.

Tennessee—Partly cloudy Friday, showers in western portion; Saturday, showers, cooler in eastern portion.

To-day's developments in the cotton market appear to hinge on how evenly the bull and bear leaders are matched in the May contest. Estimates on tenders of cotton on contracts run as high as 75,000 bales out of a total certificated stock in New York of 135,000 bales. Many think that Price will be able to take care of this, while others have some misgivings on account of the San Francisco losses.

While the bull leader did not appear to be active yesterday, the spot people who are understood to be arrayed against him were close to the ring, and considerable buying of May and selling of July was attributed to them. This was thought to indicate that the notices to-day would not run so heavy. Their selling July was perplexing to traders, and some thought that there had been a settlement, and that both forces had joined and were running in what May short interest was left while selling July. Heavy buying of May late in the session was thought to have been for the account of a large local operator. Yesterday was notice day in New Orleans, and the tenders there were light, only about 1,500 bales.

The market here developed considerable strength, and the May premium was increased to 14 points. Opening 1 to 2 points higher, the list sold off 3 to 6 points, then advanced 9 to 19 points, with May in the lead, and closed at about the highest for the day.

New Orleans advices stated that spots were ⅛ up. Liverpool sold 8,000 bales of spot cotton yesterday at a further 1 point advantage, to 6.05d., against 4.10d. last year. The tone was reported quiet. Futures closed steady at unchanged prices to 1 point off on the old crop and unchanged to 1 point higher on the new. The local spot market advanced 10 points to 11.75, against 7.55 last year and 13.85 the year before. Sales here yesterday aggregated 2,848 bales.

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

WHEAT.—There was very little change in the wheat situation from the previous day. May continued to occupy chief attention, showing the greatest fluctuations, while crop damage reports had a leading influence on later positions. A good deal of wheat bought early on this news was thrown on the market after midday, causing declines. The weather map showed cloudy conditions in parts of the West, leading to reports around midday about possible rain in some of the dry sections during the night. Cash wheat in New York closed steady. No. 2 red, 90½c, free on board, afloat; No. 1 Northern, Duluth, 89⅝c, and No. 1 Northern, Manitoba, 88½c, opening navigation.

CORN.—The feature in corn was an advance of ½c in May near the close, due to a scare of shorts over the possibility that vessel men might go on strike on the lakes May 1. Late months were not affected. At the West the strike talk had a bearish effect on May, and late positions were influenced by somewhat larger receipts than last year, coupled with poor cables. Cash corn at New York was steady. No. 2, 57c, nominal, in elevator, and 58c, free on board, afloat; No. 2 white, 57c, and No. 2 yellow, 57c, free on board, afloat.

The following were the closing quotations for Government bonds and for stocks in which there were no transactions:

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, April 26.—Time money is slightly firmer, but otherwise the local money market is unchanged. Call loans, 3@6 per cent.; time loans, collateral, 5@5½ per cent.; time loans, mercantile paper, 5½ per cent.; clearing house loans, 6 per cent. New York funds, 15c. discount. Clearings, $28,097,102. Balances, $2,284,527. Sub-Treasury debit, $90,374.

Copper shares were under pressure nearly all day, Amalgamated losing nearly 3 points, to 104¾, Bingham declining to 34, a loss of 1½ points from Wednesday's closing figures. Old Dominion was offered down to 40¼, bringing in stop orders at this figure, causing a further decline to 39½, but later rallying to 40. Traders offered stocks freely all morning and declines were seen all through the list. Toward the latter part of the afternoon, however, commission houses appeared with buying orders, causing a rally extending throughout the list, some issues showing a gain of over a point. The closing was strong at the advance.

Complete list of transactions follows:

Court of Appeals Calendar.

ALBANY, April 26.—Court of Appeals calendar for Friday: Nos. 90 and 154.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Pearl Necklace Dutiable at 10 Per Cent.—Other Decisions.

In a decision by T. S. Sharretts, the Board of United States General Appraisers sustained yesterday a protest filed by J. M. Colton of New York regarding the customs classification of a string of pearls assessed by Collector Stranahan as "jewelry" at the rate of 60 per cent. ad valorem. The pearls were assembled with reference to size, color, and quality, and were worth several thousand dollars. The board finds that the necklace should have entry at the rate of 10 per cent. ad valorem, under the provision in the Dingley tariff law for "pearls in their natural state."

Other importers' claims sustained were filed by Veit, Son & Co., Samuel Schiff & Co., and George Borgfeldt & Co., New York; C. Feigespen & Co., Cincinnati; the Washington Rubber Company, Port Townsend, Washington, and the estate of Anton Winters and John Wanamaker, Philadelphia.

The board overruled protests filed by J. W. Martin, Adolf Kraut, the Mark Cross Company, and M. J. Corbett & Co. and others, New York, and the Charles Boldt Glass Company, Cincinnati.

BUSINESS TROUBLES.

THOMAS F. J. MURPHY.—Judge Holt has appointed William A. Law receiver for the assets of Thomas F. J. Murphy, dealer in jewelry, stationery, and cigars at Callicoon, N. Y.

AARONSON CREDIT CENTRE.—Schedules in bankruptcy of Moses H. and Lionel E. Z. Aaronson, doing business as the Aaronson Credit Centre, dealers in installment goods at 62 Bowery, show liabilities $33,946, and nominal assets $100,246.

UNITED HEATING COMPANY.—A meeting of creditors of the United Heating Company of 174 Wooster Street was held yesterday at the office of William Allen, referee in bankruptcy, at 87 Wall Street. Marshall S. Hagar was elected Trustee. The liabilities are $75,639, and assets $47,810.

STANDARD ELECTRICAL SUPPLY COMPANY.—At a meeting of creditors of the Standard Electrical Supply Company of 37 Warren Street, held at the office of Macgrane Coxe, referee in bankruptcy, at 63 Wall Street, Franz Neilson was elected Trustee. About 100 claims were filed. The liabilities are $41,532 and assets $30,543.

PHOTO ELECTROTYPE ENGRAVING COMPANY.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against the Photo Electrotype Engraving Company of 232 to 238 William Street by Thomas & Oppenheimer for these creditors: Louis Dejonge, $1,862; Henry Lindemeyr & Sons, $1,120, and Charles Cooper & Co., $1,095. It was alleged that the Directors admitted in writing their inability to pay the company's debts. The business was established in 1878. The trouble was attributed to the illness of the President and withdrawal of financial support by the Secretary. Judge Holt appointed Lindsay Russell receiver. The assets are estimated at $25,000 and liabilities $25,000.

YETMAN TRANSMITTING TYPEWRITER COMPANY.—Schedules in bankruptcy of the Yetman Transmitting Typewriter Company of 220 Broadway show liabilities $156,897, and nominal assets $55,126, consisting of factory equipment at Ilion, N. Y., $23,908; office furniture and stationery, $1,072; installment notes, $26,194, deposited as collateral for loans; typewriters taken in trade, $439; accounts, $142; cash on hand, $364, and cash in banks, $3,007, subject to claims. The company owes $7,460 for wages, and $2,200 for salaries and traveling expenses. There are 130 creditors, besides employes. Among them are the Guardian Trust Company on an underwriting agreement and notes, $96,845, secured; Oriental Bank, $7,248, secured, and the American Exchange Bank, $4,793, secured. The company has offices in Pittsburg, Chicago, St. Louis, and Kansas City.

Receiver for Shaw Machine Company.

BOSTON, April 26.—The Shaw Machine Company, manufacturers of textile machinery, with a plant at Lowell, Mass., was placed in the hands of a receiver today by Judge Lowell in the United States Circuit Court, and Henry E. Warner of this city was named to take charge of the concern's affairs. This action followed the petition brought by Donald Gordon, a creditor of the company, to the extent of $25,000. Representatives of the company assented to the receivership, and informed the court that the liabilities would probably aggregate $240,000.

BOARD OF ESTIMATE AND APPORTIONMENT.

Public notice is hereby given that at a meeting of the Board of Estimate and Apportionment, held March 30, 1906, the following petition was received:

To the Honorable, the Board of Estimate and Apportionment:

The petition of the Williams Terminal Railway Company respectfully shows:

1. That your petitioner is a street surface railway corporation organized and existing under the laws of the State of New York, having filed its certificate of incorporation in the office of the Secretary of State of New York on the 29th day of July, 1905, for the purpose of constructing, maintaining, and operating a street surface railway in the Borough of Brooklyn, City of New York.

2. That your petitioner desires to obtain from the Board of Estimate and Apportionment of The City of New York its consent to and a grant of the right, privileges, and franchise to use a portion of Bowne Street, in the Borough of Brooklyn, City of New York, for street railway purposes, and for the construction, maintenance and operation of a single track street surface railway upon and along the surface of said Bowne Street, a description of such proposed railway being as follows: Beginning at a point southeast of Imlay Street, where it will connect with the track of the New York Dock Company, and running southeasterly along Bowne Street to and into the property of J. 3. Your petitioner further shows that there is no adequate means of transportation provided between the termini of the proposed railroad, and your petitioner believes there is a public demand for the construction and operation of this proposed railroad, and that such construction and operation will be a public convenience and benefit, the said railroad to be used for freight only.

Wherefore, your petitioner prays that the notice of the time and place when and where this application will be first considered be given, pursuant to provisions of Section 92 of the Railroad Law, and all other laws applicable thereto, and that consent or grant be given in the form of an ordinance subject to the laws and ordinances applicable thereto, and upon terms and conditions to be fixed in accordance with the provisions of the Greater New York Charter.

SPECIAL COMMISSION TO FIX PIER RENTALS

Bensel and Metz Say High Charges Endanger Our Trade.

OTHER CITIES MORE LIBERAL

New Commission to Hear Testimony on All the Points Raised—Ferry Leases Renewed.

At the suggestion of Dock Commissioner Bensel, the Sinking Fund Commission yesterday provided for the appointment of a special commission to fix the rentals to be charged for piers in the new Chelsea improvement area. The commission will be composed of the President of the Board of Aldermen, the Controller, the Dock Commissioner, a member of the Chamber of Commerce to be named by the President of that body, and a member of the Maritime Exchange to be named by the President of that body.

Commissioner Bensel was asked by the Mayor for an opinion on the value of the piers, and he declined to give such an opinion on the ground that the matter was of too great importance. The commission then was suggested and approved by the Sinking Fund Commission. The special commission was instructed to take testimony on all the points raised and to present recommendations to the Sinking Fund Commission as soon as possible.

The matter was not on the calendar for the day, but the Mayor brought it up. Mr. Bensel was very emphatic in his belief that no great charges should be asked of the big steamship lines for the use of the piers.

"If New York is to retain its pre-eminence as a passenger port of entry, the steamship companies must be treated fairly and liberally," Mr. Bensel said. "Boston is charging nothing for wharfage, and in New Orleans the charges are merely nominal. New York can hold its present place, but not if the steamship companies are driven to ports where the charges are more reasonable."

"The Commissioner is right," interrupted the Controller; "we must act at once if we are to save New York's supremacy. Newport News is now attracting a large part of the trade that should come to New York, and instead of offering inducements to the shipping companies we are apparently trying to frighten them away. In San Francisco the rates have been nominal for a long time."

Commissioner Bensel said it is doubtful if any other port can outrank New York as a passenger port, but that all the great international freight trade will be driven away unless some inducements are held out to the companies.

The Chelsea improvement was authorized by special act of the Legislature and cost many millions of dollars. The improvements so far made include seven piers, the largest on the North River. The great steamship companies, the Cunard and others, have bid for the piers, but the prices fixed as the minimum by the last city administration attracted none of the companies.

As soon as the Chamber of Commerce and the Maritime Association notify the Mayor of the appointment of their representatives the commission will organize and get down to business. The Mayor hopes to be able to lease the piers before the Fall.

There was a long discussion on the proposition of the Finance Department to raise the rental of the Barclay and Christopher Street Ferries to the Hoboken Ferry Company. The Controller's experts held that a 5 per cent. advance was reasonable, but Gen. Howard Carroll, for the company, held that as the tunnels would take a large part of the patronage from the ferries the city should be satisfied to renew the leases at the existing terms. The commission decided to give a ten years' renewal at the price now ruling for the first five years with a readjustment of price at the end of the half term. They added as a condition for concession that the Ferry Company "modernize" the ferry houses at Barclay and Christopher Streets.

AN OBJECT LESSON IN COURT.

Magistrate Shows a Young Prisoner What Stealing Leads To.

The June and December of the underworld were on exhibition in the Tombs Court yesterday. Magistrate Breen had them before him, and used the meeting as a living example to June of how easy is the descent into December.

William Schuesten, known to the police as "Nimble Willie," was the June of the allegory. He is only 16 years old, but he is said by the police to be a skilled pickpocket. When he was arraigned Magistrate Breen said:

"I am going to discharge you, but I want you to wait a few minutes. Stand aside. Bring in Harry Morton."

Morton represented December. He is 72 years old, gray haired, homeless, penniless, and without a friend. He admits that he has been a thief for fifty-two years. "But I only done time once," he said, proudly, "and that was for eighteen months."

Magistrate Breen told Schuesten to take a good look at Morton.

"Mend your ways, young man," he advised. "This poor, old, misguided man has been a thief for half a century. See his end."

Schuesten said he would reform. Others arraigned in the court were Roy McMultin, the "Indiana wonder," said to be a pickpocket from the West; Samuel Lichtenstein, alias "The Monk," a consumptive burglar, and Arthur Callahan, known as "Little Quin." They were all discharged for lack of evidence.

MAY BE ERIE RIVER TUNNEL.

Company May Build One of Its Own—Road's Commuters Polled.

The Erie Railroad polled its 25,000 commuters yesterday, to ascertain their preferences in regard to methods of transportation from the road's Jersey City terminal to the Manhattan side of the Hudson River. The Erie Railroad plans extensive improvements to its Jersey City terminal. Ballots containing a number of questions were submitted to all the passengers of the suburban trains yesterday. These were collected later by the train men and turned in to the general offices in Jersey City.

The vote taken by the Erie Company indicates that so far the management has not decided definitely upon plans for the improvement of its transportation lines between Jersey City and New York. The Hudson Company has submitted plans to the Erie Railroad looking to the use of the McAdoo tunnels by that railroad. So far, however, no agreement has been entered into between the two companies, and the signing of such an agreement depends, it is said, altogether on the choice of the Erie commuters.

A representative of the company said yesterday that the Erie might decide finally to construct a tunnel of its own.

FIREMEN FIND GAMBLING DEN.

Paraphernalia Brought to Light by Fire in a Chinatown Tenement.

The inhabitants of Chinatown were alarmed yesterday morning by a fire in the basement of a six-story tenement and store building at 15 and 17 Doyers Street, in the heart of the quarter. With the exception of a negro woman janitress, it is occupied exclusively by Chinamen. The ground floor of the building at 15 Doyers Street is occupied by Wing Lee, who keeps a grocery store there. To reach the fire the firemen had to force their way through two heavy doors, which admitted them to a room in the rear of the ground floor.

In this rear room the firemen found several green-covered tables, cards, dominoes, and "pie gow" layouts. They cut a hole through the floor and put out the flames underneath. Three missions—the Hope Mission School, the Morning Star Mission, and the New York Rescue Mission Band—which have rooms on the second and third floors, were undamaged.

ZEAL GOT HIM INTO TROUBLE.

Messenger Boy Arrested After Trying to Prevent a Collision.

Samuel Adelstein, 14 years old, a messenger boy in the Western Union office on Columbus Avenue, between 105th and 106th Streets, tried to prevent a collision between a wagon and a street car yesterday morning, and as a result lost his job, besides ruining his uniform. In addition to all this the boy was arrested and kept in a cell in the West 100th Street Police Station for one hour. Then the complaint against him was withdrawn, and Adelstein was released.

Adelstein was on Amsterdam Avenue, near 101st Street, yesterday morning, when he saw one of Borden's milk wagons crossing the avenue. There was no driver on the wagon, and the boy, thinking he would prevent a possible collision, jumped into the wagon and whipped up the horse. He had nearly crossed the south-bound tracks when a car struck the rear of the wagon, upsetting it. Adelstein was charged with stealing the horse and wagon at first, but was discharged later, the company withdrawing the complaint.

COINS SOLD AT AUCTION.

Spirited Bidding at Sale of Dawson-Orr Collection.

The Dawson-Orr collection of medals and coins was sold at auction by G. C. Adams at the Hotel Bartholdi yesterday. The bidding was spirited.

A $2.50 gold piece of Clark & Gruber, issued by that firm in California from private dies in the early fifties, brought $24. An eagle of United States issue, dated 1797, brought $22. Another gold coin of the same denomination, dated 1803, was bid in at $25. A silver medal of the famous "Dickey" Club of Harvard, dated 1881, bearing the name of a well-known New York Assemblyman, was sold for $8.50. A rare specimen of 10-cent incased postage stamp, or "necessity" money, issued in Evansville, Ind., brought $15.

A gold Aureous of the period of the Roman Emperor, Honorius, looking as if it had been minted yesterday, brought only $8.50.

Altogether 622 lots were disposed of, realizing over $2,000.

THE ST. MARY'S LAST CRUISE.

Old Schoolship Sailed Yesterday, and Will Be Retired at Season's End.

Off for her annual cruise the Schoolship St. Mary's sailed yesterday morning from the East Twenty-third Street dock, at which she had been moored all Winter. She is bound for Glen Cove, where she will stay for a few weeks. While at Glen Cove the 100 boys who constitute the crew will get instruction in sail and spar drills and in navigation.

The St. Mary's will leave Glen Cove May 22 for a further cruise on the Sound to New London. From that port the vessel will make her annual cruise across the Atlantic.

This will probably be the last cruise of the St. Mary's as a schoolship, for the Board of Education is planning to replace her with a more modern vessel.

May Smoke, Mustn't Sell Cigarettes.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., April 26.—The Parks anti-cigarette law, passed by the last session of the Indiana Legislature, was declared valid to-day by the Supreme Court. The court interpreted the law to mean that it is illegal to sell cigarettes in Indiana or keep them for sale, but that it is not illegal to smoke them and it is not illegal to bring them into the State.

STREET CLEANER'S JOB CHANGED HIS POLITICS

Wanted to be a Republican, but Place Kept Him in Tammany.

TOLD TO WOMAN REPUBLICAN

She Repeats It at Meeting of Her Political Club—Roosevelt and Rich Anarchists.

The West End Woman's Republican Club held its last meeting of the season yesterday at the Hotel Astor and listened to a number of speakers who had interesting things to say.

Miss Julia Pauline Leavens, President of the Chicago Woman's Club of New York, told the women Republicans that she was a Republican by "bornation," and she might ask them to take her in as a member.

"That word 'bornation' seems to be such a good one," she said, "that when I first heard it the other day I tucked it away for future use. It was a little kindergarten girl who used it. A dollar had been given to her to divide between her father and mother, probably to solve some child study problem, and, without hesitation, she doled out 25 cents to her father and 75 cents to her mother.

"'Why did you do that?' asked the father, surprised at his small share.

"'Well,' said the child, 'it seemed to me that I was only related to you by marriage, and I was related to mamma by bornation.'"

Miss Leavens explained that the seemingly incomprehensible reason for forming a Chicago woman's club in New York was because the women just on here from the Windy City like to get away from "the loneliness of New York."

Mrs. Helen Secor Tonges, the club President, told the club why the conductors and street cleaners are Democrats when they would like to be Republicans, and why they can't live up on Riverside Drive.

"I always talk to them whenever I have a chance," she said, "particularly the street cleaners, perhaps because up on Riverside Drive, where I live, they are always around. One of them to whom I talked the other day was very intelligent.

"'Why do you live way down town instead of coming up here, where your children can play out in the open fields and grow strong and healthy?' I asked.

"'I have lived downtown for thirty years,' the man answered. 'My district leader knows me, and anywhere else I would lose my job. I pay my district leader $1 a month. I buy tickets to any entertainments he wants me to, and when I vote I vote his way.'

"'Do you mean to say you are not a Democrat?' asked Mrs. Tonges.

"'No,' said the man, 'I'd be a Republican if I could, but I have to be a Democrat.'"

CREW CHARGE BRUTALITY.

Say Capt. Kay Had Vinegar Put in Bread for Luckenbach's Men.

A complaint charging Capt. Kay of the coastwise steamship Louis Luckenbach with subjecting his officers and crew to brutal and inhuman treatment, of using blasphemous language, and of furnishing the men with improper and insufficient food, was filed with the Board of Steamboat Inspectors at this port yesterday. The complaint is attested by John Murphy, chief engineer of the Luckenbach; ex-First Officer John Vergeyle, ex-Second Mate Angus McDonald, and ex-Third Mate John Dunphy. The three last left the vessel at Gulf ports.

The affidavit alleges that Capt. Kay on one occasion placed two Italians, unfamiliar with navigation on the bridge in charge of the navigating instruments, and that the food issued to the crew of twenty-five men was not enough for ten men. When the officers and crew complained to Capt. Kay, the affidavit states, Capt. Kay told the cook to put vinegar in the bread and to give the men burnt molasses instead of coffee, and that in various other ways the skipper subjected those under him to annoyance and abuse.

ANN STREET POOLROOM RAID.

Police Get Four Prisoners After Rough and-Tumble Fight.

Supt. McClintock of the Society for the Prevention of Crime, aided by detectives from the First Police Inspection District and armed with a warrant issued by Magistrate Breen, raided an alleged poolroom in lower Ann Street yesterday afternoon.

After a rough and tumble fight in the hallway, four prisoners were arrested and locked up in the Oak Street Station. They gave these names: John Kelly, a clerk, of Long Beach, L. I.; James Scott, a clerk, of 147 East Nineteenth Street; Thomas Ryan, a plasterer, of 608 Water Street, and Thomas Sweeney, a clerk, of 140 Cherry Street.

Mayor Inspects Proposed Park Site.

Mayor McClellan went to Rockaway Park yesterday afternoon to inspect the land suggested for a seaside park and convalescents' home. The track of sand and ocean front is one of many places offered to the city, and the Mayor purposes a personal inspection of each before any decision is reached. The Mayor went to Rockaway in Fire Commissioner O'Brien's auto.

Jamaica Bay Improvement.

Mayor McClellan has appointed Philip P. Farley and William G. Ford of Brooklyn and John J. McLaughlin of Jamaica a commission to formulate plans for the reclamation of the marshes and general improvement of Jamaica Bay. The Boards of Estimate and Aldermen have authorized an expenditure of $25,000 for the plans.

Putnam House to be Remodeled.

Plans have been filed at the Building Department for modernizing the old Putnam House, at the northeast corner of Fourth Avenue and Twenty-sixth Street. The structure, which was built in the early fifties, is owned by the Robert B. Roosevelt estate. The improvements involve practically the complete reconstruction of the interior for the new lessee, Samuel Glantz. The changes will cost $45,000, according to the estimate of Architects B. W. Berger & Son.

Meyers Divorce Suit Dismissed.

The suit brought by Sidney S. Meyers, an attorney of this city, against his wife, Maude C. Meyers, for an absolute divorce, was dismissed yesterday by Justice Blanchard, in the Supreme Court. The Justice's action was based on the admission of the plaintiff's counsel that he was unable to bring witnesses to substantiate the plaintiff's charges.

TRIED TO SWAY COURT IN DUKE DIVORCE CASE

Chancellor Pitney Angered by a Letter from Defendant's Friend.

IT APPEALED FOR MRS. DUKE

Defendant's Former Maid Testifies Against Her—Mrs. Duke Not in Court—Ill, Counsel Says.

When the hearing in the Duke divorce suit was resumed in the Chancery Court, at Newark, yesterday, Vice Chancellor Pitney announced that an attempt had been made to influence him in favor of one of the principals in the case. The Vice Chancellor characterized the attempt as offensive, and said that it rendered the guilty person liable to severe punishment. It was in the nature of a letter written in a feminine hand and containing an appeal to the court in favor, it is alleged, of Mrs. Duke.

While the court refused to divulge the contents of the letter, it is said to have been signed by a woman who lives in Reading, Penn. The writer assured the Vice Chancellor, it is alleged, of the defendant's innocence, and told of a recent visit to Mrs. Duke, when the latter wept bitterly and told of her love for Mr. Duke, and said that her regard for Frank T. Huntoon arose through Huntoon's kindness to her invalid mother.

Mrs. Duke was not present at yesterday's hearing, the excuse offered by her counsel being that she was ill. Mr. Duke's counsel doubted the defendant's inability to be in court, but agreed to put only such witnesses on the stand as would not directly interest the defendant on condition that Mrs. Duke agree to an examination by a physician.

After hearing the evidence of Edward M. Cleary, a private detective, who was employed to watch Mrs. Duke, and Harold Reuther, an elevator boy at 9 West Sixty-eighth Street, relative to Mr. Huntoon's visits to the Duke home, counsel for the plaintiff put Nellie Sands, Mrs. Duke's maid, on the stand.

The Sands woman's testimony was to the effect that she had accompanied Mrs. Duke on a trip to the White Mountains just before her marriage. Huntoon was also there, the witness said, and returned to New York with the defendant. When Mrs. Duke went to Camden to be married, Huntoon accompanied her to Philadelphia, where an affectionate parting took place.

The witness told of the honeymoon trip abroad, in which she said she, the witness, received letters from Mrs. Duke. The address she recognized as in Huntoon's handwriting. She told of mailing letters addressed to Huntoon for Mrs. Duke.

The maid said that Huntoon was at the pier when the Dukes returned from their honeymoon trip, and that she handed him a letter which Mrs. Duke had written on the steamship.

The case will be continued to-morrow.

SKELETON IN A CELLAR.

Two Workmen Found It, Dated 1903—Three Ribs Fractured.

Thomas Davy of 318 East Twenty-seventh Street was cleaning out an old compartment of the cellar under the Celtic saloon and hotel, at Second Avenue and Thirty-fourth Street, yesterday morning. The old compartment extends out from the main cellar under the sidewalk, from which there is an entrance to it.

As Davy dug into the accumulation of dirt and old papers he caught sight of a bone sticking out at him. Investigation discovered the skeleton of a man. The skull was missing. Adhering to the left shoulder bone was a piece of newspaper that had on it a date in 1903. The bones were removed to the Morgue.

Coroners' Physician Schultz, who examined the bones, thought that the first three ribs on the right side had been fractured.

OPERATORS REJECT ALL OF MITCHELL'S OFFER

And Again Say If a Strike Comes the Men Will Be to Blame.

WAGE INCREASE IMPOSSIBLE

If It Were Granted Now, Say the Mine Owners, It Would Mean $12,000,000 Cost to the Public.

The last propositions of President Mitchell of the United Mine Workers were rejected by the anthracite operators' Committee of Seven yesterday at a meeting of the committee in the Jersey Central Building.

Mitchell's request for a prompt reply was complied with, and the reply rejecting his propositions and reaffirming the stand of the operators to consider nothing but the alternative propositions they have submitted was mailed to Mitchell last evening.

The letter is addressed to "John Mitchell and others, committee," and says that failing their acceptance of either of the two alternative propositions the responsibility for a strike rests with Mitchell and his aides.

All of the members of the Operators' Committee were at the meeting, and there were also present as mining experts E. E. Loomis, Vice President of the Lackawanna, and T. M. Richards, Vice President of the Philadelphia Coal and Iron Company. George F. Baer, Chairman of the committee, presided, and it is said he had a good deal to do in framing the letter in reply to Mitchell, which was signed by the following: George F. Baer, E. B. Thomas, David Willcox, W. H. Truesdale, Morris Williams, J. B. Kerr, and J. L. Cake.

The offer of the operators, the letter says, was to submit to the members of the Strike Commission the question whether any changes had occurred since the award of the commission requiring that such award should be modified as to wages and adjustment of complaints, and if so how it could be changed. The letter says:

"Your letter contains nothing definite with reference to the duration of the arrangements which you propose. It suggests that the same 'continue for a period to be mutually determined by our joint committees.' We have already twice stated that in the interests of the industry and of the public, any result now reached should continue for a period of three years. This was the period fixed in the submission to the Strike Commission for the purpose of avoiding constant disturbance in the industry, and in the present case, as we have already suggested, it is desirable so that the political considerations incident to a Presidential campaign may have as little influence as possible on these business questions. In the absence of any statement as to that duration, your propositions are, therefore, incomplete."

The operators say they observe that, as the miners suggest in their letter, they have abandoned all the various demands previously made and the present propositions concern merely the question of wages. The operators say that the miners are not correct in assuming that the wages in the anthracite industry are unduly low. The State commission found the contrary to be the case even before it made its award. Figures are then given to show that the earnings of all classes of anthracite workers are higher than those of the bituminous miners. The figures are as follows, and are taken from the report of the Secretary of Internal Affairs of Pennsylvania, omitting the employes in the breakers because there is no corresponding class of employes at the bituminous collieries:

Class of Labor.	Anthracite.	Bituminous.	Excess of Earnings.	Per c'tage.
All employes	$626.77	431.02	195.75	45
Miners	654.78	418.15	[illegible]	63.75
Inside men	730.58	492.15	238.43	58
Outside men	541.02	475.36	66.20	13
Boys, (average inside and outside)	241.31	165.99	75.32	45

Wages, the operators say, cannot be safely increased any further because of the competitive nature of the two coal industries. Figures are also given to show that the advances asked by the miners would with the effect of the sliding scale increase the price 36 cents a ton to the public. The letter goes on:

"We have already shown you by actual figures taken from the books of several of the largest companies that the profit on anthracite coal, without any allowance for royalty and interest on capital, amounts to but 20 cents per ton.

"But if we disregard the sliding scale and assume that you simply mean to add 10 cents per ton as the final increase in cost, this would result in increasing the wages of our employes $6,100,000 per annum; that is, 10 cents per ton on 61,000,000 of output. You say, 'It will not result in imposing additional burdens upon the coal-consuming public.' How can this be done? Where is the $6,100,000 to come from? We have shown you that in the largest companies the profit, without interest and royalty, has yielded less than 3 per cent. on the capital invested. The operators therefore cannot afford to pay this large annual increase without imposing additional burdens upon the coal-consuming public.

"Your proposition, if it included the sliding scale, would add 35 cents per ton to the cost of the domestic sizes, and would increase the aggregate cost to the public of the entire product in the amount of over $12,000,000.

"The conditions which have prevailed under the award of the Strike Commission have been as satisfactory as could be anticipated in view of the magnitude of the industry. In one of his addresses last Summer your Chairman was said to have stated that 'at no time in the last thirty years have the wage earnings of the miners been as fair as they are now.' In view of all the circumstances, we are satisfied that the true course was indicated in our original proposition. This was that existing conditions should be continued for a period of three years.

"We trust that on Thursday next the deliberate judgment of the anthracite workers will result in an acceptance of that proposition, but if not, that they will join with us in the arbitration we have offered.

"Failing to meet us on either proposition, the responsibility of a strike must rest upon you."

None of the operators would express himself as to the chances of a strike.

GLOOM IN HARD COALFIELDS.

Miners Believe Strike Coming, but an Operator Says There'll Be Peace.

WILKESBARRE, April 27.—The anthracite operators' refusal of the miners' last propositions has cast a pall of gloom over the entire anthracite region. For the first time since negotiations were opened, the opinion prevails that a strike will occur, although the conservative element of miners and some operators still believe there is hope of a settlement.

President Mitchell was in Scranton when he received the news. He returned here to-night, expecting to receive the operators' answer by mail, but it did not come. In the meantime he communicated with the members of the Sub-Scale Committee, and they are expected here to-morrow. When the news was received in the region, newspapers in every large town issued special editions. It is conceded on all sides that the convention to be held next Tuesday only stands between peace and a strike. The latter is expected, however, unless President Mitchell and his lieutenants can see some way to withdraw from their present position.

One of the best-known independent operators said to THE NEW YORK TIMES correspondent to-night:

"I have reason to say there will be no strike despite the refusal of our side to accept this last proposal of the miners. I have had many long conferences with John Mitchell in the last few months, and there is no one who knows better than he that this is no time for a strike. The miners do not want a strike. Conditions are not favorable for a victory for them if they go out, and Mitchell realizes this.

"Mitchell and the Miners' Committee are fighting in the last ditch for some little concession, but none will be given. I have some knowledge of his plans from conversations with him, and you will see that when the convention meets on Thursday next there will be a proposition presented to go to work for a period of two years under the award of the Anthracite Commission.

"There will also be another proposition offered to accept the operators' proposal that the question of wages be submitted to and an agreement made for two years. Neither of these propositions will be accepted, and then another fight with the operators will come, for the latter stand out for a three-year agreement.

"It can readily be seen that the desire of the miners is to have the two-year agreement in the hope of having it expire during a Presidential year. This will not be accepted in any event, and the miners will eventually resume work under the last agreement."

35,000 MINERS TO STRIKE.

Operators and Men Split on Open Shop in Clearfield District.

CLEARFIELD, Penn., April 27.—The conference between the operators and miners of the Second Bituminous District adjourned sine die this afternoon without coming to a settlement, and it was announced that a strike would be declared in this district.

The operators refused to longer collect the check-off, but agreed to pay the scale demanded. The miners contend that the collection of the check-off is the cornerstone of their organization, and refused to accept the ultimatum.

The second is the largest district in the soft coal fields of the country in number of men employed. Thirty-five thousand men will be affected.

The question of final disagreement was over the "open shop." The miners insisted upon employment of union men only. It is stated that the Buffalo, Rochester, and Pittsburg interests intend to try to operate their mines with any men that may apply.

FRENCH SHIPS HERE TO-DAY.

Atlantic Fleet to Greet Visiting Cruisers in the North River.

The French armored cruisers Marseillaise, Aube, and Conde, under command of Admiral Campion, are due to arrive in the North River about noon to-day. The cruisers will anchor to the north of Fifty-fourth Street, in a line below the armored cruisers West Virginia, Pennsylvania, Colorado, and Maryland, the latter vessels constituting the armored cruiser division of the Atlantic Fleet, under Rear Admiral Willard H. Brownson.

It was expected that the French squadron would anchor between Fiftieth and Twenty-third Streets, but this plan was abandoned owing to the instructions of Capt. Frank H. Newcomb of the Revenue Cutter Service, who requested the French Consul General to have them anchor above Fifty-fourth Street, in order that the navigation of the lower part of the river might remain unimpeded.

While in New York Admiral Campion and his officers will be entertained by Admiral Brownson, and a reception will be tendered them at the navy yard by Admiral Coghlan. The French Consul General will also give a banquet in their honor, and they will be received by Mayor McClellan. Admiral Campion will in turn entertain the American naval officers on the flagship Marseillaise.

GAPON MYSTERY DEEPENS.

Papers and Strong Box Key Received from Berlin by His Lawyer.

ST. PETERSBURG, Saturday, April 28.—The Father Gapon mystery has been further complicated by the receipt on Friday by the ex-priest's lawyer, Margolin, of Father Gapon's portfolio containing important papers and the key to a box in deposit vaults. The portfolio was mailed at Berlin, the address being written in a disguised hand. No letter of explanation accompanied it.

The enemies of Father Gapon say that the situation was becoming too hot for him, and that he planned a spectacular disappearance.

SEEK HARVARD TEACHER; WIFE MURDER CHARGED

She Died Ten Days After Birth of Second Child.

ARSENIC FOUND IN STOMACH

Erich Muenter, Against Whom Charge Is Made, Missing Since Funeral —Was a Faith Curist.

Special to The New York Times.

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., April 27.—A warrant was sworn out to-night by the Cambridge police charging Erich Muenter, an instructor in German at Harvard University, with the murder of his wife, who died here about two weeks ago.

Muenter took the body to Chicago for burial on April 17, and has not been seen here since. He is a native of Germany and before coming to Harvard was an instructor in his native language at the University of Kansas, Lawrence, Kan. He is 35 years old and lived at 107 Oxford Street, this city. His wife was formerly Miss Leone K. Krembs of Chicago.

The attention of the authorities was called to the case just after the woman's death on April 16. Ten days before that time a child was born to Mrs. Muenter, who was attended by a faith cure doctor and by two nurses of the same cult. The physician was a Mrs. Nicherson of Winchester. The nurses are both residents of Cambridge, a Miss Case and Miss Derrick.

Some time after the child was born two regular physicians, Drs. Frederick W. Taylor and Herbert McIntyre, were called in. Both of these physicians decided that Mrs. Muenter was suffering from some ailment of the stomach. They prescribed for her, but later, it is alleged, they ascertained that the nurses were not following directions. Drs. Taylor and McIntyre then declined to have anything further to do with the case. A few days later Mrs. Muenter died.

On the same day Muenter applied to Dr. McIntyre for his signature to the certificate of death, but Dr. McIntyre declined to sign the paper. He decided that the case needed investigation and notified Medical Examiner William D. Swan, who as soon as he received Dr. McIntyre's report performed an autopsy on the body.

The medical examiner sent the stomach to Prof. W. F. Whitney, the chemist of the Harvard Medical School. Having taken this step Dr. Swan permitted Muenter and the two nurses to take the body to Mrs. Muenter's former home in Chicago for burial. The party left Cambridge April 17, and took along Muenter's two children, Helen, aged 3, and the infant.

To-day a report of the analysis of the stomach was received by Medical Examiner Swan from Prof. Whitney. Prof. Whitney reported that he had found marked traces of arsenic. Dr. Swan immediately laid the case before George A. Sanderson, District Attorney for Middlesex County, who in turn notified the Cambridge police.

The authorities quickly issued a warrant for Muenter, charging him with the murder of his wife. The Chicago police have been notified to hold the man if he can be found in that city, and arrangements are being made to send out circulars containing his complete description.

The report of Prof. Whitney caused intense surprise at Harvard University. The university authorities stated to-night that Muenter was appointed instructor in German nearly two years ago, while he was stationed at the University of Kansas. He at no time had acted as professor at Harvard, but received his appointment as instructor temporarily, that is, from year to year.

He was serving his second year at the university when his wife died.

Muenter was by no means prominent at Harvard. Few persons outside of the Germanic Department knew him. He was well known, however, among those students who are taking German courses, as in addition to his work as instructor he added to his income by tutoring. For some time Muenter has been taking a course in Germanic philology in the graduate school.

Since his departure he has written several times to friends here, but at no time did he give an address. He resigned his Harvard post before leaving for the West.

There was a rumor at the college to-night that Muenter had been seen in Boston yesterday. When a man who was reported to have seen the instructor was asked if the rumor was correct he said that he saw a person resembling the instructor. He was not positive, however, that Muenter was the man he saw.

It was learned that Mrs. Muenter was insured for $1,000 in a New York company. The policy is payable to Muenter, but he has not yet collected the money.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 27.—The police have been unable to get any trace of Erich Muenter, who disappeared immediately after the burial of his wife. He was present at her funeral, which was held at the home of his father-in-law, A. Kremb, 479 Fullerton Avenue. The burial was at Rose Hill Cemetery.

The Kremb family profess to be in ignorance of his whereabouts or to know why any suspicion should attach to him on account of the death of his wife. He has a brother here, but the latter says he has not seen Muenter since the funeral and had supposed that he had returned to Boston.

Mrs. Muenter was born in Fond du Lac, Wis., and her maiden name was Leone Kremb. Her parents moved to Chicago, and she was graduated from the West Division High School and the Chicago Normal School. She took up the work of teaching and became known as a highly efficient instructress. After her marriage to Prof. Muenter she continued to teach, except for a period in 1902, after the birth of her first child, until last year, when she joined her husband in the East.

Mrs. Muenter's father, A. Krembs, at whose house the funeral was held, does not believe that his daughter was murdered.

"My son-in-law is a Christian Scientist," he said, "and this may have led to the suspicion that my daughter's death was not from natural causes, as I understand she did not have medical attendance during her illness. Muenter and my daughter, as far as I know, were happy in their married life, and there was nothing between them which I know of that would lead him to kill her. While he was in Chicago at the funeral there was nothing in his manner to indicate that anything was wrong, and I am sure that when a thorough investigation is made that it will be found that everything is all right."

Bertha Muenter, a sister of Erich Muenter, bought a round trip ticket to Boston early this week, and was about to leave for the East on the 10:30 o'clock train this evening when she learned that suspicion had been directed against her brother, and that the Boston and Cambridge police had instituted a search for him. Miss Muenter immediately abandoned her plan to start East.

KNOX BOOMED FOR PRESIDENT

Attorney General Moody and Senator Penrose Talk of Him.

Special to The New York Times.

PITTSBURG, April 27.—A Presidential boom for Senator P. C. Knox was launched here this afternoon by Attorney General William H. Moody, who, with Senator Knox, Senator Penrose, and a dozen Congressmen, came here to attend the twentieth annual banquet of the Americus Club. Pittsburgers are happy to-night as a result.

Mr. Moody was asked this afternoon:

"Whom do you think will be the next Republican candidate for President?"

"That is hard to say," he replied, "but you have a good man right here in Pittsburg."

"Do you refer to Senator Knox?"

"Yes," he answered, "he is a very able man and would fill the place admirably."

Senator Penrose declared that the suggestion was an excellent one, and that a better man could not be found. Senator Knox refused to say anything.

AMERICAN SMACKS SEIZED.

Washington Protests Against Action of a Mexican Gunboat.

Special to The New York Times.

GALVESTON, Texas, April 27.—Cable advices received here to-day announce the seizure of two of the large fishing smacks of the Gulf Fisheries Company of this city by a Mexican gunboat. The report stated that the Mexican Government claimed a violation of the fishing treaty and that the boats and their cargoes would be confiscated under the laws governing protection to the Mexican waters.

Cables were exchanged and advices received from Washington to the effect that the smacks could not be held and that instructions had been wired to the United States Consul at Mexico to protest formally to the Mexican Government.

The masters of the smacks declare in their reports that they were fishing sixty miles from the Campeachy Banks in the same grounds they have observed for many years without interference or complaint from the Mexican Government. The Mexican authorities claim absolute rights of the waters for nine miles from land at all points, which places the entire waters under prohibitory territory.

The latest report announces that the crews of the smacks are being held, subject to a settlement, and that any other fishing smacks found in the forbidden waters will be destroyed.

TEXAS TORNADO KILLED 13.

Appeal for Relief for 600 Homeless Persons Is Sent Out.

FORT WORTH, Texas, April 27.—Thirteen persons were killed and many seriously injured by a tornado which last night swept over the little town of Bellevue, Texas. The place is practically wrecked.

After the storm had rased every business building fire started and completed the work of destruction. Only four houses in the place are reported to have escaped. The tornado covered an area of eight miles wide and destroyed farm houses and crops.

A carload of provisions has been sent from Fort Worth, and tents were forwarded from Wichita Falls. The property loss will probably reach $200,000.

Sydney Webb, Chairman of a relief committee organized at Bellevue, Texas, has sent out this appeal:

"Six hundred of our people are homeless and practically destitute. Thirteen were killed and a number seriously injured. The entire town is a heap of ruins, the destruction being complete. Help of every kind is needed, and this Relief Committee appeals to the public for aid. The committee requests that all contributions be sent to W. B. Worsham & Co., bankers, Henrietta, Texas."

STIR OVER MGR. IRELAND.

Ambassador's Dinner to the Archbishop Causes Comment in Rome.

ROME, April 27.—As was expected, the dinner given by Ambassador White to Archbishop Ireland, at which four Cardinals were guests, has caused considerable stir. The Giornala d'Italia to-day interviewed Archbishop Ireland, who said:

"Mr. White, who has honored me with his friendship, invited me on Wednesday to a private dinner."

Being asked if Americanism is not the modern tendency of Catholicism in America, Archbishop Ireland said:

"That is a mistake. American Catholicism is neither modern nor ancient. It is loyal to the Pope."

Cardinal Satolli also was interviewed by the Giornala d'Italia, and said:

"Mr. White asked us to dinner for the purpose of honoring Archbishop Ireland. In America all, beginning with President Roosevelt, love Archbishop Ireland."

Cardinal Vannutelli said:

"The dinner was given by Mr. White as a private person to his friend, and he invited us both as friends of Archbishop Ireland and himself. We accepted, knowing that politics did not enter into the matter in any way."

TRADE BLUFF IN PICTURES.

Constable Valued by Owner at $4,250 Offered to Schwab for $25,000.

LONDON, April 27.—The suit begun yesterday by a picture dealer named Rothschild against Charles M. Schwab of New York for breach of contract was again adjourned in the King's Bench Division of the High Court of Justice to-day, after some remarkable evidence had been given.

The plaintiff, in the course of his cross-examination, admitted that he had Constable's picture "Dedham Lock" on "sale or on return" for $4,250. He first asked Mr. Schwab $25,000 and then $20,000 for the picture. Ultimately Mr. Schwab offered $15,000, which was accepted. Thereupon the plaintiff admitted that he had tried to prevail upon the owners of the picture to reduce the price to $3,250. The plaintiff described his letters to Mr. Schwab as "trade bluff."

It also transpired during to-day's hearing that another picture agent became aware of the negotiations for the sale of Constable's picture, saw the owners and offered it to Mr. Schwab for $10,000, whereupon the latter refused to conclude the arrangement with Rothschild.

STOCKS FALL SHARPLY; 1,771,000 SHARES SOLD

The Hill Securities Among the Heaviest Sufferers.

POOLS MAY BE UNLOADING

Mr. Hill Expresses Indifference to the Decline and Says Great Northern Is as Strong as Ever.

"I do not know the price in the market of Great Northern stock more than once a month," said James J. Hill yesterday on his arrival at his office after the Exchange had closed. He was told that the stock of his Great Northern Railroad had led the slump in the market yesterday.

"Great Northern is as strong to-day as it ever was," continued Mr. Hill. "It is not Great Northern but somebody else who is weak."

Mr. Hill didn't seem to be the least concerned by the fact that the Hill stocks had been the worst sufferers in the drop which carried Great Northern down 26 points to 262 and Northern Pacific 15 points to 195. It was suggested to him that he might have picked up some cheap stocks if he had kept in touch with the market.

"I'm satisfied to let somebody else pick up the bargains," said Mr. Hill.

He refused to discuss the rumors which had been current in Exchange hours to the effect that the declines in Hill stocks were due to the final failure of the much-mooted negotiations for the lease of the Great Northern's ore lands to the United States Steel Corporation.

The San Francisco disaster came up in Mr. Hill's talk to the reporters, and he was asked if he thought that the destruction of the city would result in the transfer of part of the commerce of the Golden Gate to the Puget Sound cities and other Pacific ports. He replied very soberly that he hoped it would not.

Dealings on the Stock Exchange yesterday amounted to 1,771,000 shares, a greater number than on any day since June 30. The declines ranged from 26 points to 2 and a fraction.

The slump was due to heavy liquidation by pools and individual operators, and in many stocks the breaks were violent. After their extreme drops Great Northern and Northern Pacific, however, rallied before the close, Northern Pacific to 197⅞, showing a net loss of 10⅛ points, and Great Northern to 291½, a net decline of 14½ points.

Many theories were advanced to account for the heavy declines in these stocks as well as in the market generally. Selling by insurance companies of the high-grade investment stocks was said in some quarters to have started yesterday's downward movement. The most commonly accepted view, however, was that the weakness of the market was caused by heavy selling of securities by numerous pools and by organized effort on the part of bear operators to depress prices.

At the close the market rallied a little from the low prices of the day, but in many of the active issues the recovery represented only a small part of the day's declines. The most active stocks were Union Pacific, which lost 2⅝ points net on 275,000 shares; Amalgamated Copper, which was traded in to the extent of 250,000 shares and lost 2½ points, and Reading common, which showed a net loss of 2⅛ points on transactions totaling about 220,000 shares. United States Steel common came next, with about 195,000 shares and a net loss of 1⅜ points. The dealings in Great Northern, which dropped more than any other issue, were about 25,000 shares, while Northern Pacific was dealt in to the extent of 48,000 shares.

Disquieting rumors which the Street was inclined to believe originated with those who were seeking to bring about a further decline in the market were circulated all day.

It was rumored among other things that one of the large fire insurance companies was in a precarious condition as a result of its losses through the San Francisco conflagration. No verification of the report was forthcoming, and it was so vague, at best, that it was given little credence. Reports of a large bond issue by the New York Central were also heard, but were officially denied.

DIOGENES, THE PEDDLER.

Not Held for Selling Neckties to Pay His College Expenses.

A young man who said he was "Henry Diogenes" of New York was arraigned before Judge Beall in Yonkers yesterday on a charge of peddling neckties without a license. The prisoner declined to give his address.

He said he had gone into the peddling business because he desired to raise enough money to enable him to go through Columbia University. He said he did not want to peddle in New York City, as he had a good many friends there, and did not care to risk being seen by any of them thus engaged. He was allowed to go.

DOWIE TALKS OF TROUBLES.

And Promises He Will Be Good at Zion City To-day.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 27.—John Alexander Dowie to-night told the complete history of the troubles that have beset Zion City during the last few months. At the time of the interview he was fully dressed and sitting at a table in his apartments. Although his voice was firm and clear, he was bothered with an incessant cough, and his features bore evidences of bad health.

"Rumors have been circulated that I am suffering from heart disease," said he. "I may be, but I am not conscious of it and do not believe it. I am weary and have suffered a great disappointment and perhaps when I was recovering from the attack of paralysis last September I did not take as good care of myself as I should have done. I have worked a great deal and I am a pretty tired man.

"I am going to Zion City to-morrow afternoon at 2 o'clock, but I am not going to create a disturbance. I am going to talk to the people quietly. On Sunday I shall hold services in Shiloh Tabernacle and again on Wednesday night."

San Francisco Orders Wedding Rings.

What was probably the first order for jewelry received in this city from San Francisco since the disaster was contained in a telegram received yesterday afternoon by a Maiden Lane firm. The order, which came from a retail jeweler, asked that 160 wedding rings of various sizes be sent in a hurry. It is supposed that the demand comes from couples whose marriages are being hastened because of the catastrophe.

PREDICTS ANOTHER SHOCK.

Dr. Deckert Thinks San Francisco Will Have Another Earthquake.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.
[Copyright, 1906.]

BERLIN, April 27.—The well-known geographer, Dr. Emil Deckert, who lived many years in America and married an American woman, predicts a repetition of the earthquake in San Francisco in the near future.

"In the first place," he says, "a strong relay earthquake will occur either north of Cape Mendocino or south of Tehachapi Pass. For San Francisco a period of seismic unrest has begun. Other storms will certainly follow, and the inhabitants will do well to construct their houses accordingly."

WHOLE TRAIN ON FIRE.

Passengers Scramble Out Just Before the Gas Tanks Explode.

Special to The New York Times.

LINCOLN, Neb., April 27.—Fifty passengers on a Burlington Railroad train this afternoon escaped from a fire that consumed the cars.

Two miles out of Chalco, on the Lincoln-Omaha line, the Burlington tracks pass beneath a long viaduct. This viaduct had burned, and the flaming débris had dropped to the tracks beneath.

A passenger train rounded the curve at a good rate and was unable to stop before reaching the fire. The engineer attempted to run through the flames, but the rails spread and the locomotive jumped the track.

The cars were brought to a standstill right over the fire and they quickly caught. The passengers scrambled for safety, and many had their clothing burned. After the last passenger had left the cars the gas tanks beneath exploded, tearing them to pieces.

Topeka Hotel Men Will Decline to Entertain Negro Churchmen.

Special to The New York Times.

TOPEKA, Kan., April 27.—"All rooms taken" will be the answer of all hotels in Topeka when delegates to the conference of the Colored Methodist Episcopal Church, which opens here on May 2, apply for accommodation.

Fully 2,000 delegates are expected to attend this conference, and there is but one negro hotel in Topeka.

KING EDWARD AT VESUVIUS.

Starts for the Volcano from Naples with the Queen in an Auto.

NAPLES, April 27.—King Edward and Queen Alexandra reached here to-day from Messina after a stormy voyage. Shortly after their arrival telegraphic communication was established between the shore and the royal yacht Victoria and Albert, and King Edward exchanged most cordial dispatches with King Victor Emmanuel, who is at Milan for the opening of the International Simplon Exposition to-morrow.

In spite of the inclement weather the King and Queen started out for Vesuvius in an automobile with the Duke and Duchess of Aosta. The roads were most difficult, for the ashes had turned into mud. King Edward was extremely cheerful, however, and joked about every discomfort. Their Majesties gave $4,000 to the fund for the relief of the sufferers from the recent eruption of the volcano.

TOM JOHNSON, INVENTOR.

Mayor Has a Motor That, Theoretically, Runs Six Miles a Minute.

Special to The New York Times.

CLEVELAND, Ohio, April 27.—Six miles or more a minute is the speed theoretically developed in a motor by which Mayor Tom L. Johnson, its inventor, hopes to give to the world a system of rapid transit that will revolutionize all present means of travel and make possible a flight by rail from Cleveland to San Francisco in seven hours.

A friend of the Mayor says that a working model in recent tests developed the theoretical speed of more than six miles a minute, or from 375 to 400 miles an hour. The car is built to run on an overhead track. At the highest rate of speed of which the motor is capable, wheels would fly to pieces. Here shoes take their place. Powerful magnets take up the weight of the car and minimize the friction of the shoes on the rails. A motor system of this kind would be for a private right of way across country or for subways within the city.

Mayor Johnson at his home on Euclid Avenue to-night declined to make any statement regarding the invention, but he has told friends that he is certain of its success.

FOUR THROWN FROM AUTO.

Miss Osborne's Face Badly Gashed in a Newark Collision.

An automobile belonging to Chester R. Hoag of 373 Mount Prospect Avenue, Newark, and containing Mr. and Mrs. Hoag and the Misses Dorothy, Edna, and Rose Osborne, daughters of H. Frank Osborne of 632 High Street, crashed into a Clinton Avenue trolley car in Newark late yesterday afternoon.

All of the occupants of the automobile except Mr. Hoag, who was driving, were thrown to the street and painfully injured. Miss Dorothy Osborne received a severe gash in her forehead which may disfigure her for life.

KILLED SISTER, ACQUITTED.

Georgia Jury Frees Woman Who Resented Alienation of Husband.

ATLANTA, Ga., April 27.—Mrs. E. M. Standifer was to-night acquitted of the murder of her sister, Miss Chapelle Whisenant, on March 9. Her trial began early to-day and ended this evening after ten minutes' deliberation by the jury.

Mrs. Standifer admitted the killing, but her counsel declared that emotional insanity, caused by alienation of her husband's affections by the girl, had impelled her. The woman asked her sister to cease encouraging Mr. Standifer's attentions, and, being rebuffed, used a pistol.

Standifer was arrested subsequently on the charge of disorderly conduct, but when his trial was called he failed to appear and his bond was forfeited. His whereabouts are not known.

HARMONY RULES IN SAN FRANCISCO

Citizens Meet and Plan a Greater City.

MAYOR RUNS FIRST CAR

First Permit Granted for New Steel Building.

OAKLAND'S BUSINESS BID

Fear That Wholesalers Will Settle There—Rainy Night Causes Much Misery—No More Confiscation.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—Harmony and pledges of good feeling marked the meetings to-day of the various bodies of citizens' committees and representatives of the army which are administering the affairs of San Francisco.

The last sign of confusion and misunderstanding which at times existed disappeared, and the first signs of the return to former conditions was the resumption of street car traffic in certain streets, and the taking out of the first permit for the erection of a modern steel structure on the ground occupied a few days ago by a less substantial building.

Archbishop Riordan appeared at the meeting of the Citizens' General Committee to-day and in an eloquent speech counseled harmony between those who are striving to bring order out of chaos and predicted a city greater and more beautiful and a more striking example of American pluck and enterprise than the old San Francisco.

"Union should be our watchword," said the Archbishop, "and whatever differences may have existed between the men of this community in the past should be wiped out. The Catholic Church is among the heaviest losers, but we are undismayed, and I come here to-day to tell you that the noble men and women over whom I have direction are at your service."

Archbishop Cheered.

These sentences of the Archbishop were enthusiastically cheered.

Mayor Schmitz replied, saying that harmony already prevailed, and that whatever enmity might have been felt in the past was wiped out, and the citizens of San Francisco had but one object in view, the immediate upbuilding of a new and better municipality.

Dr. Edward Devine of the Red Cross read this message from Secretary of War Taft:

"Please say to Mayor Schmitz and Mr. Phelan how gratified the President and I are at the harmony which is prevailing in the management of the immediate work which has been begun in San Francisco."

Dr. Devine announced that the Military Quartermaster would hereafter issue supplies only on requisitions signed by a member of the Committee on the Feeding of the Hungry.

The question of the resumption of wholesale business in San Francisco was taken up. Thomas McGee said that wholesalers in large numbers were settling in Oakland and that there was great danger that this settlement might be permanent, those who applied for locations there being required to take out leases for five years.

Plans for Wholesale Business.

The Mayor said this movement must be stopped at all hazards, and that every facility must be afforded wholesalers to open temporary quarters in San Francisco.

The only limitation placed by the authorities was that the buildings should be more than one story in height. The erection of permanent buildings must await the forming of the new building laws. The Mayor appointed a Special Committee on Wholesalers to aid in re-establishing wholesale houses in San Francisco.

Former Chief of Police Wittman of the Committee on Resumption of Business, said there were now 300 retail stores of various descriptions in operation in San Francisco. The obtaining of stock for these stores was still a serious problem. There had been unwillingness to open warehouses for the delivery of food for fear of further military confiscations.

Mayor Schmitz informed Mr. Wittman that Gen. Greely had issued an order today that there should be no further confiscations under any circumstances.

Mayor as Motorman.

City and railroad officials and invited guests filled the first street car which started on the run across the city to-day, Mayor Schmitz acting as motorman. Everywhere the car was greeted with cheers. A continuous service was re-established later in the day on several of the crosstown lines, and thousands of people were carried free of charge.

The cold rain of last night still falls today. It brought additional hardships upon the people sheltered only by tents and temporary buildings in the parks. To further add to their discomfort the wind blew a gale from the north all day.

What to do with the unfortunate Chinese of San Francisco, a problem which has given the authorities considerable worry during the last few days, has been settled, at least temporarily. Since the destruction of Chinatown its inhabitants have lived on a large tract of land on the north side of the bay. Knowing the habits of the Chinese, the Citizens' Committee and the Mayor feared that if even a few of them returned to their old district and took up quarters the entire Chinese population would follow, and the problem of moving them, which has agitated San Francisco for many years, would be as great as ever.

Therefore, when the suggestion was made that the Chinese be moved temporarily to a large open tract of land in the Presidio reservation, it was adopted immediately, and here they will find a resting place until arrangements can be definitely made for the permanent city at Hunter's Point, a most desirable spot on the southern arm of San Francisco Bay.

At a meeting of the Finance Committee to-day Prof. Andrew C. Lawson, Chairman of the State Earthquake Commission, appointed by Gov. Pardee, made request for a small appropriation necessary to collect exact and scientific information regarding the effects of the shock in different geological formations. The Finance Committee thought the request should be deferred to some scientific institution, which would doubtless supply the funds needed.

Chairman James D. Phelan of the Finance Committee reported that he had made arrangements whereby Supt. Frank Leach of the United States Mint would assume custody of all funds and would credit the amounts received from all sources to the relief of the Red Cross fund, honoring drafts against it. He announced that he had available for immediate use $518,000.

A trifle less than four square miles were burned over by the fire that followed the earthquake of April 18, according to City Engineer Woodward, who to-day completed an official map of the burned area. Carefully figured out from official measurements and maps, the burned area is about 2,500 acres.

Only Made Ground Sank.

A report made to City Engineer Woodward yesterday showed that there was no general depression of the earth in San Francisco as a result of the earthquake. The sinking of ground was confined to the lower parts of the city, and particularly to made ground.

Work on the great Fairmount Hotel, at California and Powell Streets, was resumed to-day. Some of the interior woodwork of the building was destroyed by fire, but the walls are in good shape. The building would have been finished by next November. The opening will not be delayed more than three months after the date originally set. Men are removing the stains of smoke and flame from the outside walls, and in a few days the great building will show few outward signs of the conflagration.

Harvest for Relic Hunters.

Relic hunters are reaping a harvest by digging among the ruins of the Japanese and Chinese bazaars. Hundreds of persons have visited these ruins, where assiduous stirring of ashes yielded profits more than worth the labor. Vases of Satsuma and Cloisonné ware, brasses and bronze ornaments that in the days before the fire commanded high prices, are carried away by relic hunters in large numbers. "Six shooters" of the kind formerly carried by hired assassins of the Chinese quarter are found in great numbers.

The water front was as busy as ever to-day. From the Pacific Mail dock to Meiggs's Wharf the docks and wharves look as they did before the fire. The work of customs and quarantine officers has not been interrupted for a day. The transport Sherman arrived yesterday. After passing quarantine she went up to Folsom Street and docked at the army dock as usual, and her passengers from Manila and Honolulu landed there.

Wind Blows Ruins Down.

A strong wind that blew over the city yesterday afternoon and this morning carried to the ground a number of crumbling walls that had been partly disintegrated by the fire. The falling of these walls was a danger to the great number of people who crowded into the city to view the ruins.

The walls of a building at Stockton and Sutter Streets fell with a terrible crash. A number of foot passengers and a party of men and women in an automobile narrowly dodged the shower of bricks. The outer wall of a building at Market and Geary Streets fell outward just as hundreds of people from the Oakland ferryboat were walking along Market Street. Several persons were struck by bricks, but no one was seriously injured.

Many of San Francisco's homeless people camped in the park, squares, and vacant lots were awakened early this morning because the water dripped through improvised tents, which afforded poor protection against the heavy rain that began to fall about 1 o'clock and continued for several hours. Drenched to the skin by the heavy downpour and with bedding thoroughly soaked, many persons were driven into nearby houses for shelter.

Although the various camps were better prepared for the storm than for several days, still there are thousands who are without proper shelter, and who shivered in their wet clothes last night, vainly trying to get warm after the rain ceased, by walking or were huddled about little camp fires.

The least distress and suffering was at the Presidio, where nearly all the refugees have been provided with tents by the Quartermaster's Department. A wagonload of picks and shovels was furnished with which trenches were dug to carry off the water and the ground banked around the tents, making them comparatively comfortable.

In "Cow Hollow," at the rear of Harbor View, about three thousand Italians from Telegraph and Russian Hills, and a sprinkling of Chinese and Japanese are camped. Few of them have been provided with tents, and there was much distress among the women and children, of which there are many in the camp.

Many tents have been provided at Jefferson Square since the last rain, where several thousand are camped. A few who were not adequately sheltered were taken into the large automobile garages in the vicinity and to the Lutheran church.

In several instances people in houses refused to admit women and children in distress from the cold and rain, and the militia unceremoniously broke down their doors with the butts of their rifles.

Several thousand more tents are on the way here, and it is expected that within a few days fully 150,000 refugees will be under canvas.

Cars will start to run on several streets in San Francisco, permission to run them on Pacific Avenue, Fillmore, Church, and Sixteenth Streets, and certain parts of Mission Street having been granted by Mayor Schmitz late last night. It is specified that the cars shall not run after 7 o'clock at night and that the United Railroads shall maintain a patrol of one man in each block operated in the unburned district, as a protection against fire.

Over one hundred and fifty stores were opened for business yesterday, but before night numerous complaints were received that storekeepers had raised prices to prohibitive figures.

Capt. Rittenhouse of the United States Marines, commanding the district from Bush to Oak and Fillmore to Division Streets, called at the central police station last night and requested that detectives be detailed to investigate some of the complaints made to him that exorbitant prices were being charged in certain quarters.

The theft of several tons of Red Cross supplies was disclosed by the arrest of Arthur Jacobs yesterday by Police Commissioner O'Grady and Detective Mathewson. Jacobs is said to have made a confession implicating several confederates, and to have revealed the place where he had hidden the loot.

Jacobs is a teamster who volunteered his services to haul supplies from the water front to the various relief depots. His offer was accepted, and it is charged that he did the looting in the first few days of the relief, when it was not organized as it is now. Under the present system of handling supplies this would be prcatically impossible. About two tons of the stolen goods have been recovered. More arrests are looked for.

Arrest for Reckless Shooting.

The first arrest for indiscriminate and reckless shooting by members of the State Militia was made shortly before midnight, when Ernest Wilder, a sentry, was taken in custody and disarmed by Capt. B. F. Rittenhouse of the United States Marine Corps, who turned him over to the police.

Capt. Rittenhouse charged Wilder, who is from Visalia and is a private in Company E, Sixth Regiment, N. G. C., with leaving his post, and "shooting up" the district commanded by Rittenhouse. The marines patrol the best residence part of the city untouched by the fire, and are extremely jealous of the splendid order maintained without unnecessary harshness or stoppage of citizens whose business requires them to be on the streets after dark.

Half a dozen shots were fired about 10 o'clock last night, and half an hour later Capt. Rittenhouse heard the crack of a rifle again. He hastily rode in the direction of the shot and returned in a few minutes with Wilder, who he declared had entared the district patrolled by the marines and had fired several shots.

The militiaman was so confused that it was with difficulty that Police Lieutenant Wright got a coherent tale from him. He said he saw a movement in the darkness which he took to be a mad dog and fired.

Several policemen were sent to make an investigation. On Geary Street, near Fillmore, they found the victim of the sentry's bullet—a small pet dog.

Wilder was taken to the headquarters of his company, at Gough and Sutter streets, and turned over to Corporal Harms, who sent him to the guardhouse.

The French, Italian, and Danish Consuls at San Francisco, who were reported among the missing, have all been heard from.

STECK PIANOLA PIANO. Price $800.
Other Pianola Pianos, $550 to $1,000.

The Piano That Makes You a Pianist

The greatest pleasure in owning a piano is being able to play it yourself

IF a daughter or some one member of the family is able to play the piano acceptably—say all but the most difficult music—that is certainly an accomplishment to be proud of.

But would you not like to be able to play yourself—for yourself—whatever your taste or your mood prompts?

How much would it be worth to be really master of the keyboard, not to be limited to "easy pieces," but to wander at will amongst the treasures of Schumann and Brahms and Beethoven and Grieg, to know intimately the romantic tenderness of Chopin, or the sombre melancholy of Tschaikowsky and to realize that the brilliant runs and arpeggios with which Liszt used to dazzle his audiences are wholly at your command?

Ten years ago such things were only open to great talent combined with great perseverance. Eight hours a day for years of the hardest kind of drudgery was the price many paid—and even then success was only relative.

To-day the purchase of the Pianola Piano carries this wonderful ability with it.

You look through the vast catalog of Pianola music and note whatever strikes your fancy. To-morrow you can be playing that very music, playing it faultlessly and putting into it your own expression and feeling.

There are hundreds of people in New York who would buy a Pianola Piano to-day if they fully comprehended how much pleasure it would bring into their daily lives.

We want an opportunity to demonstrate to such people how easy it is to play this wonderful instrument artistically and what a genuine addition it will be to any home.

On exhibition in Manhattan at Aeolian Hall only.

VIEW FROM THE WATER OF EARTHQUAKE'S WORK

Its Freaks Broke Up Great Buildings and Left Shanties.

GREAT CHANGES IN NEW CITY

Streets to be Diverted, Avenues Widened, Many Small Parks—Hastening the Work.

From a Staff Correspondent.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—The work of preparing plans for rebuilding San Francisco has already begun under the direction of City Engineer Woodman. He proposes to change the direction of streets, widen avenues, construct many small parks, and design a city which will be a model for the world.

While the bricks are still smoking and the charred merchandise is smoldering the wrecking contractors have begun to clear away the débris and orders have been received from the owners of various large properties for immediate reconstruction of buildings.

The completeness of the devastation is regarded as actually an advantage, permitting as it does the rebuilding of the city on altogether different lines.

The best way to obtain a definite idea of the extent of the havoc is to travel in a boat along the water front. This I did this morning, going as far as the Presidio, as the military reservation in northwest San Francisco is called. In the Presidio are many refugees from a tenement district who are being cared for by the military authorities.

Skirting the shore northwest from the big ferry building, the escape of which from the flames was providential, as had it been destroyed the ferries to Oakland would have had no place to put in and San Francisco would have been practically cut off, the first thing one observed was the

The first thing one observed was the extraordinary irregularity of the destruction wrought by the earthquake. Pier No. 5, for instance, is nothing but a heap of ruins, while Pier No. 8, on one side of it, and Pier No. 7, on the other side—all three piers being of similar size and construction—are quite undamaged.

Further on, the Kosmos Line pier is a complete wreck, and beyond is a quarter mile of still smoldering structures, showing where the fire crept to the water's edge at the most critical moment and threatened to destroy the shipping as well as the city.

When the wharf district destroyed by the fire was passed one had further evidence of the irregularity of the earthquake's course. There are gas reservoirs, with their frames all twisted, and big factories thrown to the ground, while a few yards away are miserable wooden shanties with not a board out of place. It would seem to cast doubt on all the theorizing in regard to the effects of the earthquake on wooden, steel, and brick structures, which are hardly felt in some places, while other places all around them were wrecked.

I landed at the Presidio, and, climbing the high hill which rises from the water's edge, found myself in one of the most beautiful spots in the world. To the left were the Golden Gate and the Pacific. In the middle distance were the blue waters of the bay. On the verdure-clad hills in the foreground were the homes of the officers, surrounded by gardens in which roses, lilies, tulips, nasturtiums, and thousands of other flowers were in full bloom. Ladies in dainty gowns were chatting on the verandas, and gardeners were sweeping the walks and pruning the trees.

In this fairyland the refugees have been welcomed and cared for. I met hundreds of them, all quite cheerful, comfortable, and well fed. I sat in a tent at the post headquarters with the officer whose duty it is to attend to inquiries of the refugees. Dozens of men and women came up with one request or another. Whenever it was possible to grant the request it was done, and the greatest good feeling between the military and the victims of the catastrophe prevails.

This is one side of the picture. On returning down the hill I faced not the Golden Gate, but San Francisco. The impression of destruction one obtains in crossing the bay from Oakland is as nothing to the view from the opposite side of the city.

Can they ever rebuild! is the first thought that comes to one, so appalling is the extent of the ruin. Tier upon tier of what ten days ago were their tree-lined avenues of stately buildings, and what are now shapeless heaps of masonry and brick, rise on each hill.

It is all simply indescribable. One comparison that suggests itself is with Pompeii as it is now, but a hundred times greater than the unburied section of that city and showing a destruction for more complete.

The prevailing color is a horrible gray yellow. On the top of Nob Hill is the Fairmount Hotel, which, seen from the bay, appeared undamaged, but which from this side betrays itself a fire-swept wreck. Below are mounds of rubbish, all that is left of the mansions of the Crockers, Hopkinses, Huntingtons, Spreckelses, Stanfords, and other families.

Can it ever be rebuilt? one asks again. The answer was one tug after another which my launch met on returning across the bay, each towing barges loaded down to the water's edge with building material from Oakland with which to begin the work of reconstruction.

SAN JOSE'S DEATH LIST.

21 in City, Wires Gen. Greely, 96 in Agnew's Asylum.

SAN FRANCISCO, April 27.—It is the opinion of Gen. Greely that the number of casualties has been overestimated.

"So many and grossly exaggerated reports of the number of deaths due to the earthquake have been sent out that we have determined to make a systematic investigation," he said. "For instance, it has been stated that seventy-five lives were lost in the Valencia Hotel, but so far as we have been able to ascertain the loss does not exceed twenty. I believe similar discrepancies will be discovered after a thorough examination of the records and search of the ruins."

Gen. Greely sent the following telegram to the War Department yesterday:

"Fort Mason, San Francisco, Cal.,
"April 26, 1906.

"Military Secretary, Washington, D. C.:

"Following is a list of the dead from earthquake at and near San José, furnished by Mr. McManiman of The San José Mercury, and believed to be full and complete:

"At San José—Mrs. Hela Brandon, Mrs. Ugolna Costa, Mr. and Mrs. Carrigan and baby, Dr. Warren Drerwn, Pegentry and Osctin Dady, Mrs. Claude Everitt, L. Etters, Paul Ferres, K. Fugil and wife, James Hlungive, Bost Healy, wife, and two children; Romeo Manshed, Delta Marquant, Thomas O'Toole. Total, 21."

The telegram placed the number of dead at Agnew's Asylum, near San José, at 96, making the total in and about San José 117.

TALL HUSTLING TO GIVE SAN FRANCISCANS NEWS

Burned Out Papers Get Going by Heroic Efforts.

ADVERTISING ALREADY HEAVY

Back to Sixteen Pages So Soon—All the Dailies Published in Oakland Now.

Special to The New York Times.

OAKLAND, Cal., April 27.—In the great effort to re-establish the business houses little thought is given to the manner in which the burned-out newspapers are able to serve subscribers daily with the world's news. Probably in no commercial enterprise was greater effort necessary than to find new homes for the great San Francisco dailies, every one of which lost its entire plant.

This drove the dailies across the bay to the homes of smaller journals, most of which operate with single presses and from two to five typesetting machines. Commencing with issues of four sheets, the first day after the earthquake, papers like The Chronicle and The Examiner have steadily grown until they are now issuing sixteen-page editions.

To do this every job printing office in Alameda, Oakland, and Berkeley, and, in fact, every available machine within ten miles of Oakland has been pressed into service, and is kept working twenty-four hours a day.

As a sample of the manner in which sixteen pages of reading and advertising matter were assembled in The Chronicle to-day, ten columns was set in a newspaper office in Alameda, and carried by wagon to the office of The Oakland Herald, from which The Chronicle is being issued. Other papers have had to resort to the same expedients, getting part of their matter set up, in some instances, twenty miles away.

The limited supply of type and paper in the smaller offices to which the big newspapers were driven has also been a great handicap. It has often been necessary for a compositor to "distribute" his type the same night it was set up in order to get sufficient type for another article to be printed in the same edition.

Despite all these obstacles, all the big San Francisco morning dailies are being issued regularly, and subscribers are obtaining their favorite papers as though nothing had occurred.

Already it is impossible to meet the demands of advertisers for space. A hundred times a day the allotment of space has to be cut, despite the fact that business men are ready and willing to pay full advertising rates with cash, if necessary.

With all the extra work necessary to get out papers in Oakland, no effort is being spared to re-establish the plants of the San Francisco papers in their old homes. Many complete Eastern plants have been offered, and with machines that had already been ordered and which were on the way, proprietors of three morning papers expect to be publishing papers on their own premises within a few weeks.

Two of The Chronicle's presses escaped serious injury, and as that newspaper's new building was not damaged to any serious extent by either earthquake or fire, M. H. De Young hopes to issue The Chronicle from it within six weeks. The other papers are more seriously handicapped because their buildings were completely burned out.

MR. OELRICHS'S STORY.

He Did Police Duty in the Streets of San Francisco.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 27.—The best known "refugee" who arrived from San Francisco to-day was Hermann Oelrichs.

"The first shock came at 5:15 A. M.," said he. "The building rocked to and fro and I rolled out of my bed. My valet came rushing in to see if I had been injured. We dressed hastily and left the building. In my rooms I had bric-a-brac, curios and things I had collected from all parts of the world. I valued the collection and my furniture at $30,000. That is all gone.

"That afternoon Mayor Schmitz appointed a citizens' committee of fifty to take charge of the situation. He supplied us with badges, revolvers, and policemen's clubs, and we went on duty like policemen. In this way we were able to aid the homeless and injured persons. Every precaution had to be taken to prevent dishonest persons from looting the wrecked homes and robbing defenseless people as they slept in the streets and parks."

WIRES IN BETTER SHAPE.

Western Union Raises Limit on Press Dispatches from Burned City.

The Western Union's San Francisco service had so much improved yesterday that the 500-word limit put on newspaper dispatches filed in the burned city was raised to 1,500 words, and Assistant General Manager Barclay said here in the afternoon that it was probable that dispatches as long as 2,500 words would be taken by this morning.

In the Postal executive offices there was a different tale to tell. General Manager Baker said that storms in the Rockies were tearing down his wires and that his company was having a hard time. The Postal still holds a limit on press dispatches.

The Postal has established a new office in San Francisco near the ruins of its old building.

The Western Union officials are now looking over the city for the purpose of selecting a site for a new building. Mr. Barclay said yesterday that a new building would be put up as soon as possible.

MAYOR'S TARDY TELEGRAM.

Belated Dispatch to The Times Shows Congestion of the Wires.

On the day of the earthquake at San Francisco THE TIMES sent a telegram to Mayor Schmitz, offering to print anything he might wish to say about the city's needs. An illustration of the congestion of the wires was given yesterday when this telegram was received in reply:

San Francisco, April 27, 1906.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Telegram 18th delayed. Less than 300 perished. All funds should be sent care James D. Phelan, Chairman Finance Committee. LOSSES ARE APPALLING, METCALF TELEGRAPHS

But People Are Hopeful, He Assures the President.

THINKS DEAD ARE UNDER 300

No Danger of an Epidemic, Gen. Greely Telegraphs—Army Distributing Supplies—Relief Impartially Given.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Secretary Metcalf, who went to San Francisco as the representative of the administration, with instructions from the President to report to him regarding the conditions in the ruined city, has telegraphed the President a summary of the situation.

He thinks the loss of life will not exceed three hundred, the injured being about one thousand. The loss to Government buildings is not so heavy as the early reports indicated. There is no suffering from lack of provisions or water. Everything considered, he says, the health of the people is excellent, and they are confident and hopeful.

"As regards industrial and commercial losses," says Secretary Metcalf, "the conditions are appalling. Figures and distances convey slight conceptions or realities. Not only have the business and industrial houses and establishments of half a million people disappeared, leaving them destitute financially and their means of livelihood temporarily gone, but the complicated system of transportation indispensable to the daily comfort and interests of half a million of people has been almost totally destroyed.

"The hilly configuration of San Francisco made movements by street railway almost indispensable. Over the city's area of twenty-five square miles the entire system of railways was damaged or destroyed and has not as yet been operated. The scanty supply of animals and carriages remaining after the fire has been largely impressed into civil and military service in order to prevent starvation. The entire telegraphic and telephonic systems were destroyed, making communication impossible.

All City Buildings Destroyed.

"Practically every municipal building is destroyed, forcing the city officials into scanty quarters, necessarily situated in localities difficult of access owing to distances and lack of transportation. Three hundred thousand people were rendered homeless.

"Remedial methods, adopted and prosecuted with great efficiency, have relieved this unprecedented disaster. The Citizens' Committee, appointed by Mayor Schmitz, is composed of the ablest business men of the city, and their efforts, united and harmonious to an astonishing degree, speedily brought order out of chaos, and introduced systems of relief which have accomplished wonders.

"Gen. Greely, returning from leave, reassumed command Sunday evening, and commends in the highest terms the efficient and tireless efforts of Gen. Funston, whose orders and action utilized and inspired the army to most efficient action in staying the progress of the flames and saving the remnant of the city.

"Most threatening conditions existed as regards the water supply, but extraordinary efforts on the part of the water company have remedied the situation, which is improving from day to day, so that physical suffering from lack of water is impossible, although it cannot be delivered in sufficient quantities for proper sanitation and fire purposes for some time.

"The fortifications are practically uninjured. Considerable damage was done to the military buildings at the Presidio and on Angel Islands. Reports indicate that there was no damage to the buildings on Alcatraz Island. The army warehouses in the city were entirely destroyed. The Mint and Appraiser's buildings are practically intact. The Sub-Treasury is entirely destroyed. It is not believed that any vaults in the Sub-Treasury or any banking institution in the city have suffered any material damage.

"From personal inspection of the buildings and from figures given me by competent builders I should say that the Appraiser's building would cost for repairs about $1,000, the Mint $15,000, and the Post Office building $500,000.

"It is reported to me that no discrimination of any kind has been shown against any one on account of race or color. The spirit is to assist the suffering, whoever they may be. Cases of violence and crime have bee exceedingly rare.

"The health of the city is remarkably good, everything considered. Stories regarding pestilence and epidemics are destitute of foundation.

"At the meeting of the Citizens' Committee this morning, at which were present Gov. Pardee, Mayor Schmitz, Dr. Devine, Gens. Greely and Funston, and other officers of the army, it was determined to move the Chinese to the military reservation at the Presidio, where they will be under the direction and supervision of the army, and where especial attention can be paid to matters of sanitation.

"It is almost impossible to describe the ruin wrought by the earthquake, and especially by the conflagration. The conflagration was due entirely to the absolute lack of water supply. The people however, are confident and hopeful for the future, and have not in any sense lost their courage. They feel under deep obligations to you and the National Government for the prompt and efficient assistance rendered them. I strongly urge that Congress at once appropriate sufficient money to repair the damage to the public buildings and for the building of another Sub-Treasury in place of the one destroyed."

Gen. Greely telegraphs to the War Department the following report of to-day's condition in San Francisco:

"Army assumed distribution relief supplies to-day, Major Devol, Quartermaster, handling the transportation, and Major Krauthoff, Subsistence Department, the distribution. Fully 250,000 people are being fed.

"Col. Jocelyn, Fourteenth Infantry, is redistricting the entire city for relief purposes. The additional force ordered will be entirely needed to place this service on an efficient footing and prevent that enormous waste of supplies and materials which would necessarily follow the continuance of the present system and methods.

"Entire handling of troops has been devolved on Gen. Funston, I retaining only questions of general policy, sanitation of city, and distribution of supplies.

"Health of community and army wonderfully good; out of 3,000 soldiers and sailors on duty in city, only twenty sick. All reports of epidemics are absolutely groundless, Dr. Torney officially stating to-day that there was not the slightest prospect of trouble from diseases, provided proper sanitary methods now in force could be continued.

"Interference with personal liberties or impressment of property, forbidden by me Monday, has been rigidly observed by army, and is now practically followed by municipal and State officials.

"Dr. Devine is laboring on the theoretical side of relief. He requests continuance of the receiving of stores and distribution of supplies by the army as not only reasonable, but absolutely essential. Present burden borne in every respect by the army, but hope that the Red Cross may be able to take up the non-military duties of the army. Devine promises to relieve the army of non-military duties at the earliest practical moment consistent with the interest of humanity. There is no prospect of such action for several weeks. Dr. Devine is laboring earnestly with financial problems and theoretical methods of treatment, which it is hoped may be successfully embodied in practicable work now proceeding under the army.

"The heartiest co-operation and harmonious relations exist between the Red Cross, the Citizens' Committee, the Mayor, and the army. Camping facilities for all parties, including Chinese, are ample and furnished without discrimination.

"Water conditions, while not satisfactory, are ample for domestic purposes and are becoming available for industrial work, but fire supply must be delayed for a considerable period. Notification of additional military force encourages very greatly the Mayor, the Citizen's Committee, as well as the present force, of which so many sadly needed relief."

Slight Smallpox Outbreak.

Dr. Edward T. Devine, the Red Cross agent, telegraphed to-day to the Red Cross general offices that there were slight outbreaks of smallpox in San Francisco, and that measles were reported, but that prompt measures had been taken, and it was believed an epidemic will be prevented. "Federal authorities in full charge sanitary measures," he added.

"All relief organizations have merged under leadership of National Red Cross. Citizen's Finance Committee, with James D. Phelan Chairman, has become Finance Committee local Red Cross organization. All money should be transmitted to Phelan in form of Sub-Treasury certificates. All supplies should be consigned to Edward T. Devine, General Agent National Red Cross.

"Am satisfied organization of relief being conducted in efficient manner, and that funds will be carefully expended and accounted for. Finance Committee prefers that Chicago shall not forward money, but hold its funds and buy supplies in Chicago. Other cities are asked to forward money. All banks remain closed, and no money can be secured except through Sub-Treasury."

Secretary Taft has telegraphed to Gov. Pardee of California a suggestion from the President that in order to avoid any possible legal complications the Governor should call upon the President formally for the use of United States troops in San Francisco.

Mr. Littauer, (N. Y.), immediately after the House convened to-day, presented the emergency appropriation bill, carrying $170,000 for the navy and Post Office departments, to be expended at San Francisco. Without debate the bill was passed.

FIRST DESOLATE SUNDAY AFTER THE EARTHQUAKE

Heartbreaking Scenes in Oakland, City of Refuge.

RICH MEN IN BREAD LINE

Children Born in the Churches and the Streets—Men Worked in the Ruins at the Bayonet's Point.

Special Correspondence THE NEW YORK TIMES

OAKLAND, Cal., April 22.—In Oakland we are no longer on the edge of things, we are in the heart of them. As the days wear on we realize in a measure the extent of the calamity which has befallen us out here on this coast. Yesterday we crossed the bay in a tug, landing at one of the smaller wharves, and made our way over the débris of the earthquake up toward the city.

The scene of devastation is simply indescribable. The débris of an earthquake is not like any other débris. Houses were twisted in a most uncanny way, as though giant violent hands had been laid upon them, and as if a malignant, titanic strength had held them in its grasp. We grew used to horrors as we went along; here was an entire house laid low, in another place the whole front of the house had fallen out, and you saw the rooms all more or less wrecked.

The dead body of a woman lay face downward. Something had hit her as she flew into the street for safety. Not far away was a man with his head entirely cut off, and as we neared the ruins of the St. Francis, we saw them digging a large trench. It was to bury the bodies, which could no longer be allowed to remain above ground. Sick with the horror of it all, we turned into Market Street to take our way to the boat—and we faced a great gloomy graveyard full of ghosts. The awfulness of it grew upon us, as we made our way down the almost deserted street. The buildings were spectral, like ghosts, all that remained standing of them, down the long street, looked out at us.

The Spectre of Earthquake.

The grim spectre of earthquake seemed to stare out at us with fiendish eyes, gloating on this terrible work of destruction. We felt it ready to seize us again as we walked down the lonely street. We felt the malignity of this hideous strength which had been let loose upon us. The very street grew hateful to us. Fear gave us wings. Not for worlds would we have looked back on the frightful scene; stumbling, falling, in a panic of terror, we reached the Oakland boat, and not till far out in the bay did we recover anything like composure.

With the burning of Telegraph Hill, 25,000 more people were thrown out of homes, and many of them found their way across the bay—to be taken care of. The women were for the most part dry-eyed, helpless, dazed. Only when you saw them trying to telegraph to Eastern relatives did they break down and cry pitifully.

Good Work of Soldiers.

Everywhere are the soldiers, quick, energetic alert; there is to be nonsense, and never have soldiers done such good work. The big skating rink is full of straw beds, not much of course to look upon, but at least better than the hard, cold ground. The schools have straw beds, too, and all the churches are great bureaus of relief. In each one are tables—there is hot coffee and bread for all who need it. The people are reassured as to supplies, for great drays, drawn by four horses, are hauling flour up Broadway.

The base of supplies is a wonderful sight. Tons of bread are being distributed to the different relief committees, and at least these wandering thousands, tried by earthquake and by fire, will not know the scourge of famine. Across the bay bread wagons are being sent out, and the long lines about them extend many blocks. In the lines are the millionaires of yesterday; to-day humbly they join the throng who ask for a loaf of bread.

Thousands Camped on the Hills.

Thousands are encamped on our hill slopes, and there are tents in every square in the city. In one encampment near us are 7,000 Chinese. The East would surely approve us could they see the way in which these aliens are cared for. They are fed from large wagons, and get bread, corned beef, and coffee. At least 20,000 Chinese are in the city walking the streets. Their knives and firearms have been taken away, and soldiers guard their camp at night, allowing no Chinaman to leave it.

The Chinese women and children offer a foreign element that would be picturesque if there were not so much sadness. The Chinese children as they play in the streets are dressed in wonderfully rare silks, of lavender, of pink, of yellow; and the little girls, with long braids down their backs, are most attractive. But one does not linger here long amid anything attractive. Everything you see makes your heart ache. Especially does your heart go out in pity to the young girls who have fled across the bay. You saw them at the opera in gala array on Tuesday night—on Wednesday morning they were fleeing from the earthquake and the fire, perhaps with only an opera cloak thrown over a nightgown. These girls were two days in getting here, the fire always close upon them. When they were tired they slept on doorsteps. They could never tell you quite how they got here. One beautiful girl, separated from all her family, brought of all her treasures only her latch key—the latch key to a palatial home now in ashes!

A crowd of men attracted our attention, and we went toward them. Such eager faces as they showed us! They were the men to whom the railroad companies are giving passes to go away, and an indescribable air of relief lights their faces as each receives the pass that will take him from the land of such bitter memories.

Children Born in Church.

It is Sunday, and many of our women are sewing. For these hundreds of children have absolutely nothing to put on. In the church near us three little children were born last night. In the camp a few blocks away eighteen were born. Children are born behind screens on street corners, and later the poor mothers are taken to the nearest improvised hospital. In one church alone 6,000 people have been fed to-day, and that is only one of the many relief bureaus.

The men are all exhausted, but still they must work. As we went down the street we saw a squad of soldiers impress fourteen men into service. They would not listen to a word that any one said. At the point of the bayonet they marched a hundred men off to San Francisco, where they must work for two hours, when a hundred more will take their places while they rest. That is how work is being done in San Francisco.

And our daily life offers interesting phases. It is primitive. We are all poor; we must begin life together, but we are good to each other. Last week there were among us those who complained of the best efforts of their French chefs, but who to-day with gratitude meekly take their bits of bread and cold corned beef. We have no fires, as the chimneys are all down, and those who have gas stoves cook for the many households about them. One neighbor baked some hot biscuits for us all, and we felt indeed that civilization was returning—it might have been a holiday.

TO make a whiskey that will seem like JOHN JAMESON THREE STAR WHISKEY has been the aim of chemists and experts for many years.

WHY?

W. A. TAYLOR & CO., 29 Broadway, N.Y.

No one had very much money when the shock came—it was all in the banks, of course. Across the way from us is one of our richest capitalists, and the first day of the great fire he bought extras recklessly.

Suddenly some one said, "Joe, how much money have you?" Joe said, "Fifty cents."

And that is all the money he has had ever since. And if the situation continues he, as well as his neighbors, will have to be fed by the Government.

Cooking in the Streets.

In San Francisco the people cook out of doors, in the middle of the streets. They build little stoves of brick—bricks you may have in plenty in San Francisco these days! For certain hours in the middle of the day the people may cook on these improvised stoves, but after that no fires. Fire is what we are deadly afraid of now. There are no cooks—the Chinese servants have fled the city, and one may see delicately nurtured women cooking for their crying children in the middle of the street.

One man, who had been a miner, knew how to make waffles. So he began operations on Pacific Avenue and did a rushing business. The millionaires of yesterday stood side by side with the laboring men, each awaiting his hot waffle, which gold was powerless to buy. Riches avail nothing in these days. Two men were riding by in an automobile, when they were stopped by the soldiers. They pleaded important business, but the menacing bayonets put an end to their pleadings. Their automobile was confiscated—it was needed—and at the point of the bayonet the two men did their two hours of hard work on the San Francisco streets.

It is with sinking hearts that we look forward. What will these great camps of people do as the days go by? One hears whispers in the air of smallpox—the dreaded scourge of the Chinese. And the Chinaman is now abroad in the land, mingling with the white man.

Parents are looking distractedly for children, and children are crying, with no one to take care of them. Every house is crowded to the doors with refugees. A large hospital tent, with its thousand cots, tells eloquently of sickness.

This morning we went down to St. Mary's—one of the large churches near the water front. It was full of refugees, mostly Italian; the "Little Italy" of San Francisco has come across the bay to us.

The women had neither hats nor coats, but most of them had bright-colored handkerchiefs twisted about their heads. In every woman's arms was a baby, and tired, weary children rested in the pews. They had been fed by the aid society of the church. They had slept on straw in the school rooms—the women up stairs and the men down stairs—and now they had gathered in the church for the mass, with such looks of hopelessness, of settled despair, that it went to one's heart.

And suddenly the good priest spoke to them, and it was Italian that they heard; the sweet music of far-away Italy, of a safe and happy time, and one could never describe the yearning on their faces. The priest told them to trust in the goodness of Almighty God—not to ask why this awful thing had come among them; sometime they would know; but to pray to Him—to pray to Him for strength, for courage and for hope. Great sobs filled the church; the stony calm was broken, and the mothers clutched their babes more fiercely to their bosoms with streaming eyes.

It is Sunday evening. What pride we take in our great Government! For the sun has set on scores of thousands of homeless people, and not one of them is hungry. But the storm clouds hang heavy and low. What if it should rain to-night on all that humanity, camping on our hill slopes—on all these weary men, whose only covering to-night must be the sky!

THREE NEW SHOCKS FELT.

Salinas Reports Earthquake Tremors—River's Bed Sunk Ten Feet.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., April 27.—A long-distance telephone message to this city from Salinas, 120 miles south of San Francisco, at 10:30 o'clock this morning states that three more very heavy earthquake shocks were felt there last night, one at 8 o'clock, another at 9:50, and another at 2 o'clock this morning. The shocks lasted about four seconds each, but, so far as known, did no damage.

The news could not be reported from Salinas earlier because of the lack of all communication. The damage at Salinas from the earthquake shock last week is in excess of $1,000,000.

The Salinas River is reported to have been sunk ten or twelve feet along its course for miles. Nearly all the bridges across the river have been condemned and will have to be rebuilt.

A later telephone message to-day says that earthquake shocks have been felt at Salinas daily since April 18, but that no further damage was done.

WANT AND NEED.

There's a big difference between what a baby wants and what he needs. Deny him the one, give him the other. Most babies need Scott's Emulsion—it's the right thing for a baby. It contains a lot of strength-building qualities that their food may not contain. After a while they get to want it. Why? Because it makes them comfortable. Those dimples and round cheeks mean health and ease. Scott's Emulsion makes children easy; keeps them so, too.

NATION'S AID FUNDS ARE $500,000 BIGGER

A Falling Off in the Size of the Gifts Here.

MANY DRUGS STARTED WEST

110 Dozens of Sweaters Also Sent to San Francisco—Local Relief Fund Now $3,066,379.

About $500,000 was added to the San Francisco Relief Fund throughout the country yesterday. In this city there was a distinct falling off in the size of the contributions. Apparently most of those who have large amounts to dispense had already made their contributions. Nevertheless nearly $70,000 was collected by the various local relief agencies throughout the day.

The Mayor's and Red Cross funds led. Almost $57,000 was received at the office of Jacob H. Schiff, Treasurer of these two funds. The Chamber of Commerce received nearly $9,000, and the Merchants' Association $3,337.

The largest contributions of the day came from the people of Milwaukee, who sent in $10,000. They had already sent $35,000. Americans in London sent $10,000 to the Red Cross fund through J. & W. Seligman. The Royal Baking Powder Company sent a check for $5,000 direct to Mayor Schmitz of San Francisco.

The Merchants' Association sent carloads of drugs and medical supplies from Kansas City, St. Louis, and this city. Last night 110 dozens of woolen sweaters were shipped from this city by express at the request of Dr. Devine, the Red Cross field agent. Arrangements are being completed for another such shipment to-day.

It has been definitely settled now that no subscriptions for the earthquake sufferers are to be started in the public schools.

From out-of-town schools numerous contributions are being received at the Red Cross headquarters. The pupils are giving their "spending money." THE TIMES received a check for $82.50 for the sufferers from teachers and pupils of the Morristown schools yesterday. The check was turned over to the Treasurer for the Red Cross Society. A money order for $1 sent to THE TIMES in a letter signed "Baby Billy" will be forwarded to the Red Cross to-day.

The New York Academy of Medicine, the New York County Medical Society, and the Richmond County Medical Society sent out an appeal yesterday to all the physicians in the city to aid in getting a fund for members of their profession who suffered from the San Francisco earthquake. The Medical Societies of Kings and Queens have undertaken similar work.

The Roman Catholic churches in the Diocese of Brooklyn and Long Island raised $20,000 for San Francisco in last Sunday's collections. It is expected that the amount will be increased to $25,000 by collections to be made to-morrow.

The Volunteers of America will hold a mass meeting at 3 o'clock to-morrow in the Knickerbocker Theatre. The organization has lost its San Francisco headquarters, meeting halls, and officers' quarters. It is also feared that the Children's Home is a total loss.

At a meeting of the King's County Democratic General Committee held in Brooklyn last night, it was voted, on the motion of Senator McCarren, to contribute $2,500 to the Mayor's fund.

A mass meeting of negroes was held on Thursday evening in the Bridge Street African M. E. Church in Brooklyn at which steps were taken to start a relief fund. The largest African M. E. Church in San Francisco was burned down. It was decided to take up collections in all the A. M. E. churches to provide a new place of worship for the congregation.

This table shows the amounts collected by the relief agencies here up to yesterday:

THE ASCHENBROEDEL VEREIN.

Its "Monster Concert" at the Hippodrome To-morrow Evening.

As most music lovers know, the Aschenbrödel Verein is an organization comprising the best orchestral players of New York, as it were, professionally, an inner circle of the M. M. P. U. It is capable of giving "monster concerts," which are also artistic concerts, and has done so in the past, mainly under the direction of Theodore Thomas, for its own benefit and for that of public causes which appealed to its members. It has arranged such a concert for the Hippodrome to-morrow evening, for which there is assured an orchestra of 350, all volunteers. There is also promised an aggregation of the choruses of the Fritzi Scheff Opera Company, the "Free Lance" Opera Company, and the Hippodrome chorus, estimated at 500 voices. The concert will be under the direction of Victor Herbert, who has arranged the following programme:

Overture,
1. Tannhaeuser ....Wagner
2. Aria, "The Horn," (Le Cor)............Flegier
Mr. Eugene Cowles.
3. (a) Air ....Bach
(b) Navarraise ....Massenet
4. Polonaise, "Mignon" ....Thomas
Miss Blanche Duffield.
5. Introduction to Act III. from Lohengrin. Wagner
6. Vocal selection......Mme. Schumann-Heink
7. American Fantasia ....Herbert
With orchestra and chorus.

$1,000 FROM A EUCHRE.

700 Players at the California Club's Benefit Game.

A young woman wearing an Alice blue gown and a lace jacket walked unconcernedly along with the crowds on Thirty-fourth Street, between Fifth Avenue and Broadway, at 6 o'clock last night, swinging a big, pink-flowered hatbox. Young women do not usually take home their own hats, even if they are dreams of Easter bonnets, but this hat was an exception. It had all the dream qualities, and more, for it had only cost the owner the price of a ticket to the California Club Euchre for the California sufferers, and any one can carry a hat under such circumstances.

Miss J. C. Gorman was the fortunate young woman. Mrs. C. O. Lewis won an order for a fifteen-dollar hat, Mrs. J. A. Wilkins a pearl and ruby heart, Mrs. J. D. De Forest an order for a dozen photographs, and Mrs. A. E. Turner a filled medicine case. These were a few of the prizes which were distributed by Mrs. Isaac D. White.

There were 700 players at the euchre at the Waldorf-Astoria, and at least $1,000 more has been made for the relief work. Not all who came played. One woman who did not said that her son had had a miraculous escape, and she had to come to help that much. Mrs. J. T. Prendergast was the Chairman of the Committee on Arrangements, Mrs. Russell Bassett sold photographs, and Mrs. H. C. Laukota took tickets at the door. The autograph-photographs not sold will be disposed of at the Belasco Bazaar to-day.

The Western Union Telegraph Company has agreed to send all telegrams signed by the Permanent Committee of the California Relief Association free of charge. Telephone service is given the association free, and a Remington typewriter has been put in for its use.

Mrs. C. B. Alexander, who is a member of the California Club, told Mrs. Vivian, President of the Club, last night, before starting for California, that she would, if possible, do something in San Francisco toward the formation of a committee to receive the club and California Association's supplies.

CLUB WOMEN TO SEW.

To Fix Up Necessities for the San Francisco Sufferers.

Active relief work for the San Francisco sufferers was organized by the Century Theatre Club at its regular social meeting at the Hotel Astor yesterday afternoon. Mrs. Edith Ellis Baker and Mrs. Grace Gaylor Clarke are, respectively, Chairman and Vice Chairman of the club's relief committee, and they will start active work in a store at 124 West Forty-second Street which has been placed at their disposal, and which will be opened at 10 o'clock this morning. Mrs. Baker called for volunteers to make garments, and a dozen women volunteered to give three hours a day at the rooms. At least fifty others offered to sew for a shorter time or to take work home. It is expected that twenty different working committees will be organized.

The rooms are lent through the courtesy of C. C. Shayne and William C. Cruikshank & Son. The place has been cleaned by the American Radiator Company, the Singer Sewing Machine Company has put in twenty-four sewing machines, and the Cash Register Company a machine into which donations for the sufferers may be dropped. The Telephone Company has put in a telephone, and the American Lithograph Company is making signs for the windows.

"I want every woman to go through her trunks and bureau drawers," said Mrs. Baker, "and get together things of all kinds—clothes, cutlery, and household implements, and bring them to us. Put them in repair if possible. If not, bring them to us, and we will do it. Don't forget half worn combs and brushes. Cleanse them and bring them along. Above all, don't forget corsets; have them washed, and put in new laces, and have your old shoes patched and put fresh laces into them, or sew on the buttons.

"One great need will be children's clothes, and we will solicit material from the stores and make it up. I want women to promise to come and sew three and a half hours a day two and three days a week, and they may have substitutes to take their places when they are detained.

"There has been no concerted work done by club women so far, and we want to interest all the other clubs in this and women everywhere to help us."

Mrs. Genie N. Rosenfeld, President of the club, spoke in favor of the work, and the enthusiasm was general. One woman told of a letter she had received from San Francisco telling of the great need of all the ordinary necessities of the household.

TWO AID COLLECTORS HELD.

They Are Accused of Fraud—Two Others Discharged in Court.

In the Tombs Court yesterday Magistrate Breen held Edward Short, 20 years old, of 262 Fifty-third Street, Brooklyn, and Arthur Avery of Woodmere, L. I., in $500 bail each for further examination to-day on a charge of fraudulently collecting funds for the alleged relief of San Francisco sufferers.

Solomon Beck, 18 years old, of 111 East Thirteenth Street, and David Mayer, 16 years old, of 606 East Fifth Street, were arraigned in the Essex Market Court yesterday charged with fraudulently obtaining money, under the pretense of collecting subscriptions for San Francisco's relief. They satisfied the Magistrate, however, that their work was legitimate, and were discharged.

NEW INSURANCE STOCK ISSUE.

The Hartford Company Puts Out 7,500 New Shares.

HARTFORD, Conn., April 27.—The Hartford Fire Insurance Company voted to-day to issue to stockholders 7,500 new shares of stock, par $100, at $500 a share.

This adds $3,000,000 to the surplus and $750,000 to the capital, making a total capital of $2,000,00 and a total policy holders' surplus of over $10,000,000 before deducting San Francisco losses, which are now estimated at not exceeding $5,750,000.

One more fire insurance company reinsured all its outstanding risks yesterday because of the San Francisco fire, and rumors in regard to two more small reinsurance deals were in circulation.

The United States Fire Insurance Company of New York reinsured its business in the Westchester Fire Insurance Company. The United States Fire Insurance Company is capitalized at $250,000. On Jan. 1 of this year its assets aggregated $814,180, and its net surplus was $60,380. Besides clearing its books of risks, the company has decided to stop underwriting for the present. This stoppage is understood to be only temporary, and until the capital of the company has been reinforced.

One of the strongest underwriters pointed out yesterday that the public realize that every reinsurance deal now strengthens the critical situation created by the conflagration and tends to make it more certain that all the companies will succeed in paying all their San Francisco losses. The reinsurance of outstanding risks turns into an asset that part of a weakened company's premium reserve which it retains.

Advices from Chicago stated that J. W. G. Cofran, Fred S. James, and W. S. Warren of that city have been designated by the Western Union (fire underwriters) to come to New York to confer with the local committee named here on Wednesday to deal with all rate and adjustment problems arising from the San Francisco fire.

POLICEMEN NEED NO AID.

Jersey City Department's Gift to San Francisco Colleagues Declined.

The Jersey City Police Mutual Aid Society recently sent to Chief John F. Dinan of the San Francisco Police Department a check for $250 to aid such policemen of that city as had suffered in consequence of the earthquake.

Yesterday morning Chief Murphy of the Jersey City police received a telegram from Chief Dinan which read:

"Your kind offer received. Thanks for the same. Money not needed."

It is expected that the check will be returned in a few days.

CHICAGO ACTORS RAISE $6,600.

Benefit Performance Nets That Sum for San Francisco Victims.

Special to The New York Times.

CHICAGO, April 27.—The tent performance yesterday failed to interfere with the success of the actors' benefit for San Francisco victims at the Auditorium this afternoon. Lest any of the audience should go away involuntarily with money, E. S. Willard announced that a collection would be taken up. More than $400 was obtained by this method.

The sale of tickets yielded $5,426, the programmes, flowers, and collection $993.85, and the advertising in the programme $150. A check for more than $6,600 will be sent to San Francisco to-morrow.

The Provident Savings at Work.

President Timothy L. Woodruff of the Provident Savings Life Assurance Society of New York received a telegram yesterday from the company's San Francisco manager, Carl C. Gross, announcing that the offices of the company in the Spreckels Building had been destroyed, and Mr. Gross has established temporary offices. He said his residence at 2,260 Vallejo Street had been spared. Mr. Woodruff has instructed Mr. Gross to arrange with all policy holders in California so that their policies will not lapse because of non-payment.

Mrs. Pendergast's Daughter Safe.

Mrs. J. T. Pendergast, a member of the California Club, whose husband is a broker at 41 Wall Street, received a letter yesterday from her daughter and son-in-law, J. H. Saunders, in San Francisco, saying that they were camped in the Presidio with families named Bishop, Kellam, and Allen. All were safe and uninjured.

Saks-Banister Oxfords for Men

Six Dollars.

Said a wise old owl: Shoemaker, stick to your last. Ever since '45, the Banisters, generation after generation, have been sticking, not only to the last, but to the head-and-hand-work which made the shoe of long ago, serviceable for at least a twelvemonth.

Some cheaper branded shoes lay claim to distinction because they are copied from the Saks-Banister models. We will admit the soft impeachment, if the maker will add—"to the best of his ability"—which is not saying much.

The new Saks-Banister oxfords and high shoes are marked with a vigorous grace and style, rare, even in a six dollar shoe.

Shoes and Oxfords in button, lace and Blucher models of patent leather, patent colt, French calf, gun metal calf, tan Russia calf, and vici kid in all widths, with light, medium and heavy soles, and broad, medium or pointed toes, $6.00

The Saks $3.50 Shoes and Oxfords.

The Saks-Banister has not blinded us to the possibilities of the three-fifty shoes and oxfords. They are as good to-day as they were before the leather market became flighty—perhaps better.

FRANKO IS ABSOLVED.

But His Orchestra Thinks an Increase of Pay Would Be Fine Now.

There was a warm hour in the Metropolitan Opera House yesterday when Conductor Nahan Franko met his orchestra with a view to adjusting the differences which arose over his departure from San Francisco. The musicians had charged that he left his company to their own resources.

The meeting was suggested by Director Conried on the way over from Philadelphia on Thursday evening, when it was perceived that the orchestra was very cool toward the leader. Mr. Conried sat as arbiter of all questions in yesterday's meeting.

The musicians charged that as Mr. Franko was their spokesman and made all their contracts for them, he should have stuck to his orchestra as a Captain would stick to his ship. The musicians said that when he went to Oakland, where he boarded a train for New York, they had to appoint a committee to devise ways and means for getting out.

Mr. Franko's defense was that he had gone to Oakland with only the interests of the musicians in his mind; that he had dispatched telegrams from Oakland to this city assuring friends and relatives that the company was well, and that when he tried to get back to the Presidio in San Francisco, where they had agreed to meet, he found his return blocked by flames.

This explanation was accepted. The members of the orchestra, however, asked that a raise of salary in the forthcoming engagement at Baltimore might heal the breach. It is understood that this compromise of the affair is not yet settled. Mr. Franko said he wasn't thinking of raising salaries.

MELTZER'S LETTER SINGED.

Only Two-Thirds of the Opera Man's San Francisco Postscript Got Here.

After the arrival of the belated Metropolitan Opera Company from San Francisco on Thursday night Charles Meltzer, Mr. Conried's representative, found that he had got home before a letter which he had addressed to his wife in this city when the San Francisco fire started. Two thirds of the letter arrived yesterday, the other third having been burned off. A postscript which Mr. Meltzer had added on the back of the envelope read like this:

The postal authorities, with offical humor, stamped the letter: "Received in bad order."

OPERA SALARIES GO ON.

Director Conried Will Also Fit Out the Chorus with Clothes.

It was announced by Herr Conried last night that he had decided to pay the members of the Metropolitan Opera Company chorus and ballet their salaries up to the end of the opera season, as planned, instead of having the pay roll cut off by the San Francisco disaster, in which the members of the company suffered to a considerable extent.

Besides their salaries, the male members of the chorus are to receive a suit of clothes each and $5 cash, and the women $15 each for outfitting purposes.

A benefit has also been arranged, to take place early in the Fall. The proceeds will be given to the musicians to enable them to replace the instruments which were burned in the Grand Opera House at San Francisco.

Mme. Sembrich has promised that the proceeds of a recital which she will give at Carnegie Hall will also be devoted to the same fund. If the entire fund does not come to $10,000 the deficit will be made up by Mr. Conried. He will sail on the Deutschland for Europe to-day.

Mme. Homer Has Recovered.

CHICAGO, April 27.—Mme. Louise Homer of the Metropolitan Opera Company, who arrived from San Francisco last Monday and submitted to a slight operation, was reported to-day as entirely recovered. She will leave here next Wednesday for Cincinnati to fill an engagement.

SKILLED MECHANICS NEEDED.

Manufacturers and Educators Agree on This at Joint Meeting.

There was a discussion of industrial education last night at a meeting of the Graduates Club, at 111 Fifth Avenue. The idea was to bring together manufacturers and educators for interchange of views.

The speakers were Supt. J. Ernest Yalden of the Baron de Hirsch Trade School, John C. Monaghan of the Department of Commerce and Labor, Dean Thomas M. Balliet of the School of Pedagogy, New York University; Magnus Alexander, director of the trade school established by the General Electric Company in their plant at Lynn, Mass.; Milton P. Higgins of the Norton Emery Works, Worcester, Mass.; Prof. Charles R. Richards of the Teachers' College, and Arthur Dean of the industrial department of the Young Men's Christian Association.

All the speakers agreed that the heads of American industry were confronted with a steadily increasing difficulty of finding skilled mechanics, and what they called "the non-commissioned officers of the industrial army"—that is, foremen.

MRS. DUKE NOT IN COURT.

But Rumor That She Will Abandon Defense Is Denied.

The fact that Mrs. Lillian N. Duke has not attended the last two days' hearing in the divorce proceedings instituted against her by her husband, James B. Duke, the tobacco man, has given rise to the rumor that she would abandon her defense. The report was further strengthened yesterday by the fact that Dr. Joseph Fewsmith, the physician, who was sent to examine Mrs. Duke, testified that he had found her well and able to attend court. Frank T. Huntoon, the co-respondent, has also been absent from the hearing.

Counsel for Mrs. Duke and for Huntoon deny that the defense is to be abandoned.

The case was resumed yesterday before Vice Chancellor Pitney in Newark.

Nellie Sands, former maid of Mrs. Duke, testified to receiving four letters in London addressed to her in Huntoon's handwriting. These she turned over to Mrs. Duke. The hearing will be resumed on Wednesday.

DENOUNCE CURRENCY SECURED WITH BONDS

Speakers at Reform Club's Dinner Call Our System Ruinous.

CALL RESTRICTIONS FATAL

One Speaker Suggests That the Only Thing to Do Now Is to Get Congress to Act.

With practically one voice members and guests of the Reform Club, at a dinner held in the Hotel Manhattan last night, denounced the present system of a bond-secured currency as ruinous to the financial and commercial interests of the United States. Never, they agreed, will New York take from London the glory of being the world's exchange centre unless something is done to "put the Government out of the banking business."

"The bond security feature of the National banknote," said one of the speakers, "completely deprives it of every resilient quality, and even adds an inverse headiness which partakes of the ungaugable movements of the mule."

Charles A. Conant, Treasurer of the Morton Trust Company; William C. Cornwall, ex-President of the New York State Organization of Bankers; Isidor Straus, Charles R. Miller, John De Witt Warner, and L. Carroll Root were the speakers.

John De Witt Warner surprised the diners by declaring that the country's lack of confidence in the honesty of New York financiers had more to do with the trouble than even the bad currency system. William C. Cornwall, now of J. S. Bache & Co., said he believed Mr. Warner was all wrong in this.

"I cannot agree with Mr. Warner," he said, "that the high money rate of January was the result of any lack of confidence in New York financiers and their methods. It was due to lack of money for legitimate uses in the interior."

The principal speech of the evening was delivered by Mr. Conant. He said, in part:

"The whole philosophy of a banknote currency is that it shall be available in the same manner as other forms of credit to meet certain needs under such restrictions as are necessary to protect the public against fraud and to secure uniformity. Does any one pretend that the present restrictions upon the issue of banknotes are limited to these simple requirements? Every one knows that it is not so, that the present basis of our banknote circulation is the result of a shrewd project in an emergency now long since passed to make a market for Government bonds.

"Every student of the subject knows that in hardly any other civilized country to-day do the same restrictions exist.

"It is the function of the modern system of credit to economize the use of currency, but in order to make that economy greatest and most advantageous to the community, there should be the greatest freedom consistent with safety in the use of the form of credit adapted to a given situation.

"Every dollar of good money should be permitted to do its most efficient work; every dollar of credit money should be permitted to assume the form which will afford the greatest convenience and will permit its quickest movement from the place where it has ceased to be needed to the place where the need for it is felt. When our monetary system is so organized that it will secure these results, then 120 per cent. money will be no longer possible in New York, and our imperial city will be qualified to enter without handicap upon the competition for supremacy in finance."

Of the functions of the bank note Mr. Conant said:

"The banknote, gentlemen, is only one of various means of transferring credits. Passing, as it does, from hand to hand without indorsement, it should be so safeguarded that it will always be worth its face, and will be promptly retired when no longer needed. But restrictions should go no further."

Informal discussion followed the scheduled speeches. Toastmaster Saxton called on Charles R. Miller for his opinion. Mr. Miller said, in part:

"Now that you gentlemen, with your full knowledge of the subject, have formulated your theories of what ought to be done, what are you going to do about it? That, it seems to me, is the practical question. What is the country going to say? How will you bring your opinions to bear on Congress? You might get a few hearers in the Senate, but how about the House?

"Last Summer in Oyster Bay the President had Speaker Cannon, Senator Aldrich, and others powerful in the National Congress to visit him, to discuss with them a reform currency bill. The President was deeply interested in it. A little while after that visit a New York banker asked Mr. Cannon what were the prospects of a currency bill.

"'There ain't going to be any currency bill,' the Speaker said.

"He had inquired among the bankers and merchants of Illinois and other States, and they had told him the currency was all right. Now, how do you expect to get Congress to listen to you?"

EX-BROKER LAMAR IN JAIL.

Woman Says He Stole Her Stock—Aged Mother Pleads for Him.

On a warrant alleging the larceny of 600 shares of American Malt Company stock, worth $4,800, Alfred M. Lamar, who two years ago had a prosperous brokerage business at 60 Broadway, but since December, 1904, has been a fugitive from the police, was arrested yesterday afternoon, by Detective Sergeant Barney McConville of the Central Office, in an apartment at 33 West Sixtieth Street.

The complainant against him on the warrant is Mrs. Isabella Von Rounds of 25 Colonial Avenue, New Rochelle. She charged that in December, 1904, Lamar obtained possession of the 600 shares of stock, and sold them for his own account. He fled from the city before the warrant could be executed. Since then, the police say, he has been in New England.

Lamar submitted to arrest without trouble, but his mother, who is 80 years old, got down on her knees before the detective and begged him not to arrest her son. McConville couldn't grant her wish, of course, and took Lamar to Headquarters. After his pedigree, measurements, and photograph were taken he was arraigned in the Tombs Court and held in $7,500 bail, which was not given. Lamar was locked up in the Tombs.

Assistant District Attorney Garvan, who prosecuted the case, told Magistrate Breen that the complaints he had in his office against Lamar aggregated more than $100,000.

The police have at least one other complaint against Lamar. Joseph McGovern, an official of the Consolidated National Bank of 56 Broadway, accuses Lamar of stealing $2,450 worth of United States Steel common stock.

DEUEL PLEADS FOR HIS JOB.

Files with Appellate Division Answer to Jerome's Removal Petition.

In accordance with the directions of the Appellate Division of the Supreme Court Justice Deuel of Special Sessions filed an answer yesterday to the petition made by District Attorney Jerome, James W. Osborne, and Edward M. Shepard, for his removal from the bench.

In his reply Justice Deuel contends that his connection with the Town Topics Publishing Company and its allied concerns, was not such as to constitute a violation of the statute prohibiting Justices of the Special Session from engaging in private business. In part the answer said:

> The respondent desires to bring to the attention of the court his situation at the time. He was hen a City Magistrate, whose time as such was rapidly approaching an end. He had no prospect of reappointment. The publication of "Fads and Fancies" was considered as a possible opening at the expiration of his term of office. The respondent believed that the work could be completed within a year, and that fifty or sixty subscribers could be obtained within the first six months.
>
> The respondent engaged in some discussion of the said matter, principally in the evenings, filling his leisure hours, and aside from those discussions and the writing of a dozen letters in regard thereto, he did no more than observe the progress of the carrying out of the undertaking.

The answer is a voluminous document, filling nineteen typewritten pages.

JEFFERSON PICTURES SELL FOR $229,135

"Return of Flock" Brings $42,250, the Highest Price.

IT COST THE ACTOR $2,500

A Rembrandt Is Bought by a Hollander, and Will Be Taken Home by Him.

The biggest art sale of the season and one of the largest single night sales of pictures on record was that at Mendelssohn Hall last evening when Mr. Kirby of the American Art Galleries disposed of the seventy-four paintings of the collection of the late Joseph Jefferson for $229,135.

The highest price of the sale was $42,250, paid by Scott, Fowles & Co., for "The Return of the Flock," by Anton Mauve, an advance over the record-breaking price paid by Herman Schauss for "Sheep Coming Out of the Forest," by the same artist, for which he paid $40,200 in 1895.

A second important Mauve, "The Loggers," brought $28,100, given by Stewart Barr; A. Pryor paid $20,600 for Rembrandt's "Portrait of Petronella Buys." Israel's beautiful "Madonna of the Cottage" went to G. Du Pont for $19,500, and a wonderful Van Marck, which was one of the important canvases of the sale, went to F. S. Flower for $10,000 on the first bid.

A Daubigny, "Evening on the Oise," brought $9,100, and "The Horseman," by Corot, which was received with great enthusiasm, $10,500. These were the high prices of the evening, and there was a very general feeling that there were few pictures that did not bring their full value.

The collection of the pictures had been the joy of Mr. Jefferson's life. He also considered it a good financial investment, and the result of last night's sale proved that he was correct. For the Mauve, which went for over $40,000, he paid some years ago, before the present vogue of the artist, $2,500.

"He often told me," Mr. Kirby explained before the opening of the sale, "that money in pictures was well spent. 'They are the greatest joy that Mrs. Jefferson and I have,' he said, 'and when I am gone they will be sold, and she will have the money for her dower.' And Mrs. Jefferson will have the money," continued Mr. Kirby.

"The Loggers" and "The Madonna of the Cottage" of last night's sale had a particular interest, having been a part of a first collection of paintings made by the actor.

This had reached about the size of the present one, a special gallery had been built for it, and Mr. Jefferson after attending to the hanging of the paintings himself had left Buzzard's Bay, where they were, for New York one Friday, only to receive word the following day that the house, pictures, and all had been destroyed by fire. But as it happened, the two pictures mentioned having been sent out to an exhibition, were in the lower part of the house and were saved. When Mr. Jefferson heard this he exclaimed:

"Thank Heaven! now I have something with which to begin another collection," and he started over again, and with the judgment shown by the present collection.

He was a great admirer of Mauve, and invested largely in the paintings of that artist, who was not then well known. He had the large proportion of eleven pictures in his small collection, and these alone last night brought $78,615. They cost at the time of purchase comparatively little.

The Rembrandt was considered by many the gem of his collection. It went to a Holland gentleman who reached New York only day before yesterday, and will be taken home by him. There was great applause when it reached the selling price. There was applause at the selling of all the more important canvases.

Most of them sold quickly. The Israels started at $1,000, ran up itself in bids without the intervention of the auctioneer to $6,100. The big Mauve got great applause when it reached to $40,000, and then it climbed $2,250 higher. The Van Marcke was something of a disappointment. It was expected that it would bring one of the highest prices, but its size was against it.

"Only a museum wants a picture like that," said one of the men in the audience, "a fourth the size it would bring a better price."

"A Cup of Tea," by Kever, was one of the interesting pictures of the lot, being the last bought for Mr. Jefferson, then ill, but much delighted with the quaint homeliness of the painting.

THERE is nothing that can duplicate proper cold storage for the care of furs during the summer months. But furs require more than this. They must first have a thorough cleansing—a cleansing that removes the accumulated winter's dirt, fur-destroying insects and their eggs—without injuring the furs. This we give furs entrusted to our care by the Vacuum Air process. Then we hang them on separate hangers in our new cold-storage room, where we have every facility known for preserving the life of furs. Constant currents of cold, dry air of a uniform temperature, well below the freezing point, restore to the furs what they have lost by the winter's wear—their natural lustre and fluffiness.

Experienced furriers are constantly in charge of this room, and your garments receive as careful attention as if they were the only ones there.

You are at liberty to come in and inspect the furs yourself or to take them out at any time to consult with us regarding alterations or repairs.

Storage includes insurance against fire, theft and moth.

Even if you have no intention of entrusting your furs to our care, we should like to show you our cold-storage room. If this is impossible, let us send you an interesting booklet, "The Proper Care of Furs."

DR. CRAPSEY WRITES IN HIS OWN DEFENSE

His Statement Read at Heresy Trial by Congressman Perkins.

REPLIES TO ALL CHARGES

Prosecution Argues That Disbelief of Part of Creed Should Bar Him from the Church.

BATAVIA, N. Y., April 27.—The interest in the heresy trial of Dr. Algernon S. Crapsey of Rochester has centred in the final arguments, and to-day brought a presentation of their respective cases by counsel for both sides. An unexpected feature was the answer of Dr. Crapsey to the original presentment. This was read by Congressman Perkins of counsel for the accused. It is the first time Dr. Crapsey has said anything in his own defense.

Franklin D. Locke, an attorney of Buffalo, in beginning the summing up for the prosecution, said: "We maintain that the Apostles' Creed forms part of the faith of the Protestant Episcopal Church, and every clergyman in this Church must accept every concrete statement contained therein. It is admitted by the defense that Dr. Crapsey does not believe some of the statements contained in this creed. Then this is no Church for him. He can go to the synagogue or to some other church. We do not challenge his belief, but we do challenge his right to fill his official position in the Church while he holds these views."

Dr. Crapsey's written defense was in part as follows:

"I am not charged with the violation of any of the great moral duties which every man owes to his fellow-men. The accusation is that in the exercise of my office as a preacher of truth and of righteousness I have spoken words which it is unlawful for me to utter. These words are found in certain sermon-lectures delivered by me in my church in the course of my duty as a preacher to my congregation.

"It is said that in so speaking I have violated a contract which I made thirty-three years ago with the Protestant Episcopal Church in the United States of America.

"I am far from saying that the Church had no right to place any limit whatever upon the kind of truth which I should utter in my official capacity as her minister.

"Those limitations are expressed in certain answers which I made at the time that I received my authority to preach. The first of these limitations was that I should base my teaching upon the Holy Scriptures and teach nothing as necessary to eternal salvation but that which I should be persuaded may be concluded and proved by the Scriptures. This was the primary promise which I made at the time of my ordination, and all other promises which were made may be thought to modify and limit this promise, to study and interpret the Word of God.

"One promise, however, which does not limit, but which gives wider scope to this liberty, is that I would be diligent in the reading of the Holy Scriptures and in such studies as help to the knowledge of the same, laying aside the study of the world and the flesh. A promise, however, which may be considered as a limitation of these two larger promises is that which I made 'to minister the doctrine of Christ as the Lord hath commanded and as this Church hath received the same.'

"Now, I claim in the presence of this court that from the day that I assumed the authority to preach the Word of God, I have been diligent in the study of the Holy Scriptures, and have based all my teaching upon them.

"The charges that are preferred against me relate not at all to the Gospel of Christ, but I am accused of denying certain articles of the creed.

"A formal creed was necessary to the Church only when the Church became a great political institution, receiving unto itself multitudes of people whom it has to discipline, and the creed was formed for the purpose of presenting a simple outline for the catechetical instructions of candidates for baptism.

"The creed, of and by itself, is not a presentment of the Word of God to the people; it is simply an assertion of certain facts about God. If we had the creed only, and no further knowledge, we could know nothing at all of the Gospel of Christ. It tells us nothing whatever of the nature of God—whether He is good or bad. It does not tell anything of the moral nature of Christ and what He did or what He said, and, therefore, to understand the creed we have to go back of it and interpret it; we have to read it in the light of its origin; we have to read it in the light of the thought of the men with whom it originated, and we have to interpret it and reinterpret it in the light and meaning of the changing thought of the world.

"Thus, while the creed may be useful for the purpose of presenting in a concrete form great fundamental ideas of the Christian scheme, it can by no means be taken baldly and alone as the one essential of Christian teaching and the one necessity of Christian fellowship.

"It has been asserted that I have denied the incarnation of Jesus Christ Our Lord. Nay, I have not denied; I have asserted the incarnation.

"It has been also asserted by my accusers that I deny the doctrine of the Holy Trinity. There are not three Gods, but there is one, and the Trinity is the unfolding of the one, not the addition of three, to make one. I see in Jesus the very substance of God the Father; He is of the same substance, not of like substance. I see in Him a perfect union with the Father. I have in the Holy Ghost, proceeding from the Father and coming to me, the very substance of the Father Himself.

"I care not by what words these great spiritual facts are described, nor am I compelled by my ordination vows, or any other vows, to think in the terms of the Greek philosopher or in the terms of the schoolmen. I have the right to think, and my generation has the right to think, in terms most apt to make these great truths real to our souls. To me God is not a definition; He is a living being, and no definition can confine or fully describe His nature or my relation to Him. I know Him because He is in me and I in Him. My relation to Him is immediate and living. It is heart against heart, my heart in the heart of God.

"When I believe in Jesus I believe in this manifestation of the human life and of divine revelation. I see in Jesus that which I should do, and I also see in Jesus that which I should admire and love and worship. I see in Him the perfection of man's nature, and I also see in Him the fullness of the Godhead bodily. Jesus manifests the Father to me. He has brought me to the Father. He is in the Father and the Father is in Him, and whosoever hath seen Him hath seen the Father, because for all the purposes of revelation to the human spirit Jesus is all-sufficient as the revelation of God to man. And so when I say I believe in Jesus, this is my faith.

"And we believe in the persistence of personality, and especially in the persistence of the personality of Christ. We believe that Jesus, the great person, has gathered to Himself all that men have ever felt and thought concerning their God. As an article of our faith, we believe that He is of the Virgin born. We believe that His personality embodies for us all that is pure, all that is holy, all that we must aspire after, and we believe that the full person of Christ is with us to-day, not simply in the sacraments of His Church, where His body is broken and blood poured out, but in and of us."

After reading this statement Mr. Perkins addressed the court.

"Who believes," he asked, after reviewing in detail the charges and specifications, "that the world was created in six days, that the sun goes around the earth, and that at the word of a man the sun stood still? If the position of counsel for the prosecution is correct, any person who deviates in the least from any printed words from the literal signification of any phrase in the Book of Common Prayer must be expelled from the Church. There is not one person in our Church, there is not one person in the court, who believes the Apostles' Creed as it was believed by the men who framed it."

The rest of the day's proceedings resolved itself into an entirely theological discussion, being limited to an address by the Rev. Dr. Elwood Worcester of Boston for the defense, an address by the Rev. Francis J. Hall of Chicago for the prosecution, and the final address by Dr. McComb, for Dr. Crapsey. To-morrow, when the case will be concluded, the speakers will be Edward M. Shepard for the defense and John Lord O'Brian for the prosecution.

CRITICISES INSURANCE WAYS.

Magistrate Crane Says the Companies Aim to Rob.

Mrs. Kate Wright of 310 East 125th Street went to the Harlem Court yesterday and told Magistrate Crane that for fifteen years she had been paying 25 cents a week on her mother's life insurance policy. The policy called for the payment of $110 at death, she said, and she had already paid $195, on which she got one rebate of $5. This was last year. Mrs. Wright wanted to know if there was not some way in which she could compel the company to give her a paid-up policy. To get the company's side of the case, Magistrate Crane summoned George Birkett, the company's Superintendent of its 125th Street branch, to court. Magistrate Crane said to him:

"I wish you would tell your President, John F. Dryden, that this is highway robbery and one of the most despicable examples of graft and thievery that I have come across."

Mr. Birkett said that, although the policy carried no such condition, he believed the company would give the woman a paid-up policy for $40 or $50.

"This is an example of a colossal robbery," said the Magistrate, "and I think the people should know about it. I think the people should know what the companies are doing, and I shall call this particular case to the attention of the State Superintendent of Insurance. I will have this policy investigated. To rob an old woman in this way is neither proper nor human."

Mr. Birkett undertook to show the Magistrate some figures in an effort to demonstrate that the companies frequently got the worst of it.

"Your Honor," he said, "a short time ago a man took out a policy and made one payment of $24. To-day we are paying his family $1,000. How are we going to reimburse ourselves for this loss? It is a matter of averages. If this old lady has lived longer than threescore and ten years, [she is now 75,] she is trespassing, and that's not our fault."

The Magistrate continued:

"The Prudential Company owns New Jersey. They own the New Jersey Legislature, and could not get investigated. All insurance companies arrange their rules with the idea to rob and steal. Their policies are arranged so that they may dodge payments as far as possible."

The summons was dismissed, and the Magistrate told Mrs. Wright to call on President Dryden and state her case. If she failed to get any reimbursement she is to return to court.

PALISADES BILL REPORTED.

Senator Malby Yields at Last Minute and Measure May Pass.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 27.—After delay of every conceivable character and repeated charges that questionable methods were being employed to keep the bill in committee there is at last a chance that the Hook Mountain bill, which would give to the State without cost a large addition to Palisades Park and save the historic hills from spoliation by trap rock blasters, there is a possibility that the bill may become law.

At the end of the session to-day Senator Malby, who has, it is asserted, kept the bill in the Finance Committee in the face of nine votes to report it out, yielded and introduced a supplemental report from the committee containing the bill.

Senators Stevens, White, and Brackett wer mainly instrumental in forcing action by Malby. They protested against his action in keeping the bill back when the committee had voted to report it, but Malby continued his refusal to act, until the very last moment, when something happened to make him change his mind. An effort will be made to get the bill through on Monday night.

T e measure has already passed the Assembly. Odell vetoed it when he was Governor on the ground that it was unconstitutional, in which contention he was supported by the then Attorney General Cuneen. Since that time Odell's views have changed, for his follower, Assemblyman Hastings, had the bill restored to its original form and passed in the Assembly, and Senator Goodsell has also been brought in line for the measure.

WILL FIGHT ODELL NOW.

His Showing on Reapportionment Bill Emboldens His Enemies.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 27.—The reporting of the Reapportionment bill, which marked the defeat of Chairman Odell in the Senate to-day, was accompanied by the rumor here that the next move would be to try to supplant the ex-Governor as State Chairman, and that this would be done in the very near future.

Gov. Higgins's opposition to an early move against Odell arose over the fact that he feared the State Chairman might make a combination with Senators to defeat legislation needed to help the Higgins administration.

With the showing made by Odell on the Reapportionment bill and the end of the session in sight, this fear is no longer potent, and it is said that the Governor has withdrawn his opposition to a show-down in the State Committee, and that it may come during the Spring.

Gov. Higgins, when asked what he thought of the Reapportionment bill, replied:

"The action of the Legislature, as indicated by the decision of the caucus of the Republican Senators, will, I believe, meet with the approval of the people of the State."

WOMAN IN SILK BURGLARY.

She and Two Men in Cells Soon After $3,000 Theft in First Avenue.

Two men and a woman were arrested in the Broadway Central Hotel yesterday afternoon by Detectives Van Twistern and Skelly of the East Sixty-seventh Street Station, who say they have good evidence that the prisoners were connected with the theft of $3,000 worth of silks from the dry goods store of Louis Perlman on Thursday night in the building at 1,466 and 1,468 First Avenue. The detectives recovered the lost property. They thought last night that a well-known Western crook may be connected with the case.

Some time Thursday night burglars entered the Perlman store through the basement and stole thirty-six pieces of black silk and 164 pieces of Japanese and other silks.

Early yesterday morning a milkman saw three men carrying bags to a room at 348 East Seventy-seventh Street. He notified the police, and the detectives sat down to watch the house. They saw an express wagon take away two big new trunks. It drove to 987 Second Avenue.

When the detectives went to that number, however, they found that the two big new trunks had been moved to the Broadway Central Hotel. There Van Twistern and Skelly found that the two men to whom the trunks were supposed to belong had registered as Joseph Miller and Sam Koch, salesmen, from Philadelphia. "Miller" and "Koch" were locked up. They described themselves as Samuel Diamond, salesman, and Joseph Rosenberg, salesman, Brooklyn. Diamond was charged with burglary; Rosenberg, with receiving stolen goods. The detectives later arrested the supposed wife of Diamond. She was locked up.

Louis Perlman identified the silks in the trunks as his property.

GOV. HIGGINS SIGNS LAST INSURANCE BILLS

The Big Bill and Perjury Measure Become Laws.

REVIEW OF INVESTIGATION

Praise for the Armstrong Committee and Credit for the Administration in the Governor's Memoranda.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 27.—Gov. Higgins to-day signed the two remaining insurance bills. All of the measures which followed the long investigation in New York last year are now part of the law of the State. The bills signed to-day are the "big bill" which amends the insurance law generally and the perjury bill over which there was much discussion in both houses.

"During the extraordinary session of last July," says the Governor in his memorandum on the "big bill," "I recommended to the consideration of the Legislature the question of the appointment of a joint committee to investigate the operations of the life insurance companies doing business in this State.

"No other legislative investigating committee in the history of the State has been invested with greater responsibilities, has performed its duties with more intelligence and energy, has commanded in a greater degree the public confidence, or has succeeded in placing upon the statute books more valuable remedial legislation. No blot of failure or weakness mars its completed work. The legislative session of 1906 will go down in history as the year of great insurance reforms."

In signing the perjury bill Gov. Higgins said in a memorandum:

"The bill establishes a rule of evidence whereby in perjury cases the falsity of the sworn statement set forth in the indictment is presumptively established by proof of contradictory statements by the defendant under oath. This presumption is a mere rule of inference which takes the place of evidence when no contradictory evidence is offered; a mere shifting to the defendant of the burden of producing evidence on one feature of the case.

"Of two contradictory material statements, one must be false. This bill helps out the indictment and weakens the silent defense that the false statement may be the one made elsewhere and not the one charged in the indictment, but the State must still establish beyond a reasonable doubt that the defendant acted with criminal intent and wilfully and knowingly testified falsely in a material matter, or stated under oath material matter to be true which he knew to be false, or which he did not know to be true. A conviction would not be possible merely upon proof that the defendant had made prior contradictory statements under oath.

"This measure should be an incentive to care on the part of officers of corporations in making sworn reports, but it in no sense tends to make criminal acts out of innocent mistakes.

"The plainer the lesson of the State that the false oath is a serious offense and not a venial fault, condoned by custom, the higher the standards of business morality should become."

SUING ANDREW HAMILTON,

But the New York Life Has Not Made the Complaint Public.

Ex-Judge William A. Keener, of counsel for the Investigating Committee of the New York Life Insurance Company, announced yesterday that the complaint in the action which that corporation is bringing against Andrew Hamilton had been served on Neil F. Towner, Mr. Hamilton's counsel, in Albany on Thursday afternoon. But Judge Keener added that "professional ethics" made it impossible to give out the complaint.

The suit is for an accounting of the sums which Hamilton received on the executive order of President John A. McCall while Hamilton managed the legislative bureau of the New York Life and of the expenses of that bureau in general. These, the Investigating Committee of the company figures, are some $1,300,000. Of this amount they believe that Hamilton should account for about $1,000,000. Of the $1,000,000 about $700,000 was for the general purposes of the legislative bureau, $75,000 was collected by Hamilton for the payment of certain taxes and never used for this purpose, $140,000 was drawn through the Paris office of the company, and $90,000 was the amount Hamilton received as his share of the refund to the company under the decision of the Court of Appeals declaring that the premium tax enacted by the Legislature was not retroactive.

Considerable comment was occasioned yesterday by the suppression of this complaint, after the counsel for the Investigating Committee had widely advertised the service of Hamilton by summons. It was said that an element in the Board of Trustees, in which George W. Perkins is dominant, believed that the less publicity given to matters pertaining to Hamilton from now on the better it was in view of the latter's intimation that when he talked again for publication it would be with particular reference to the part that Mr. Perkins played in the McCall administration and was now playing in the affairs of the company.

Hamilton was in the city a few hours yesterday, but said that he had nothing to say at this time.

Subpœna servers from District Attorney Jerome's office paid a visit to the Mutual Life Building yesterday afternoon, seeking particularly certain of those who were employed in the supply department during the reign there of Andrew C. Fields, whom Mr. Jerome is also trying to serve. The process servers also visited the stationery store of Lysander Lawrence, where the Mutual used to buy most of its stationery and printed matter, and it appeared later in the afternoon that Edgar W. Rogers, manager for Mr. Lawrence, was in the store yesterday.

Mr. Rogers, who remained out of the city during a good part of the Armstrong Committee's investigation, has not been coming to town oftener than once or twice a week since the District Attorney's office has been busy with life insurance. He testified in the Armstrong Committee's investigation that he "might have" signed vouchers that turned up bearing his name in the supply department of the Mutual, but did not remember anything in detail. John B. Stanchfield, counsel for the Lawrence firm, was with Mr. Rogers a good part of the afternoon.

The Lawrence firm has now pending adjudication a bill for stationery furnished in the days of the old régime in the Mutual which amounts to $40,000 or $50,000. President Peabody of the Mutual said yesterday that the company had refused to pay this until it should be seen whether the bill was excessive.

"BARNEY" MARTIN'S MUTINY.

Lines Up Against Grady for First Time in His Career.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, April 27.—For the first time in the history of his legislative career, "Barney" Martin took issue to-day with his mentor, Thomas F. Grady. The issue came over Senator Page's bill providing for the appointment by the Board of Elections in New York of a Chief Inspector.

Senator White, Chairman of the Cities Committee, said that the bill only got out of committee because it was stated that the Board of Elections was in favor of it. He had since found out that they opposed it. Grady said that the act was permissive, and that if the board did not want a Chief Inspector they need not appoint one. He said that the opposition came only from President Voorhis of the board.

Martin arrayed himself against Grady. He read a letter in which Mr. Voorhis said the whole board was opposed to the measure. The Senate looked aghast at Martin's mutiny, and the bill went through.

WASHINGTON LIFE'S FORMER HEAD INDICTED

Ex-President William A. Brewer, Jr., Is Charged with Perjury.

JEROME'S WAY CLEAR NOW

He Will Be at Liberty to Take Up the Big Companies — Subpoena Servers Miss Fields.

Former President William A. Brewer, Jr., of the Washington Life Insurance Company was indicted by the Grand Jury yesterday for perjury. The indictment alleges that the defendant made a false report to the State Insurance Department on Dec. 31, 1903, giving the company a surplus of nearly $100,000, while in reality there was a deficit of more than $200,000 and the company ought to have been placed in the hands of a receiver.

It is further alleged in the indictment that the accounts of the company were "doctored" by the canceling of about 1,500 policies just before Jan. 1 and their reinstatement in the first days of January, 1904, whereby a temporary reduction of the liabilities of the company by more than $400,000 was obtained.

Mr. Brewer was not arraigned yesterday. It was learned that his counsel, William Rand, Jr., had made an arrangement with the District Attorney permitting his client to surrender himself in General Sessions on Monday morning. It is understood that then at least one more indictment will be returned against Mr. Brewer.

With the indictment of Brewer, it was learned yesterday, the odd ends of the insurance scandals have been cleared up, and Mr. Jerome is at liberty to devote himself entirely to the big companies. From now on he and Assistant District Attorneys Nott and Kresel will concentrate their efforts on preparations for the meeting of the Special Grand Jury to be sworn in by Justice Scott of the Supreme Court on May 7. This jury will deal exclusively with insurance cases, and when it meets it will find Mr. Jerome ready to present a large quantity of evidence before them in such shape that action may be taken in a short time.

In connection with this it was learned yesterday that five county detectives have been at Dobbs Ferry several days trying to serve a subpoena on Andrew Fields, the legislative agent of the Mutual Life Insurance Company. Other county detectives are said to have gone to Albany to subpoena certain members of the Legislature as well as other men expected to be found around the Capitol at this time of the year.

It was said at Dobbs Ferry last night that Fields had gone to Ocean Grove. He left Dobbs Ferry yesterday morning. Two process servers went to Dobbs Ferry on Thursday night and succeeded in serving summonses on Herbert Jewell and John Cunningham.

PATENT MEDICINE BILL

Prescribing Proper Labels for Proprietary Mixtures Passes Senate.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 27.—Senator Stevens's patent-medicine bill, providing for the proper labeling of medicinal preparations containing alcohol or narcotic or other potent drugs, and for their inspection, analysis, and regulation of manufacture, passed the Senate to-day by a vote of 30 to 15, after considerable opposition on the part of Senators Grady and Cassidy.

Cassidy, however, after pointing out his objections, cast his vote in favor of the measure. Grady moved to strike out the enacting clause, and said the bill was in the interests of the doctors and imposed an unjust burden on druggists.

29 EXTRA JUDGESHIPS.

Senate Creates Places for 23 Supreme Justices in One Day.

Special to The New York Times.

ALBANY, N. Y., April 27.—Bills providing for extra Judges were passed in the Senate to-day. One bill adds eight Justices of the Supreme Court to the First District, seven to the Second, and four to the Ninth, a new district. Another bill provides for three new Judges in the Eighth and a third bill gives an additional Judge to the Fifth District.

The Senate had already passed a bill increasing the number of Judges in the Third District by two and another bill adding one in the Fourth District. Other bills which have not yet been passed will add two new Judges to the Sixth District and one to the Seventh District, making twenty-nine new Judges in all.

"LOVING THE BOTTLE."

An Old Ceremony at a Banquet of East Orange Veterans.

A ceremony known as "loving the bottle" was a feature of the annual banquet of the Veteran Association of Battery A, National Guard, New Jersey, which was held last night at the armory of the battery in East Orange. The ceremony is carried out each year, and will continue to be a feature of the feasts until the organisation has dwindled down to the last man, who will drink the contents of the bottle.

The bottle contains champagne of an extra fine quality. At one of the dinners of the veterans it was suggested that the bottle be labeled with the names of the members of the organization and set aside to be drunk by the last man when all the others had gone. As each member of the organization dies a red cross is placed opposite his name on the label, and at each annual banquet the members count the crosses and speculate on each other's chances of living to drink the contents of the bottle.

Between the annual dinners the bottle is kept in a safe deposit vault at the Essex County Trust Company, and on the date of the banquet is lovingly lifted from its resting place and brought to the festive board. Dr. William G. Graves, the toastmaster, brought it in at the dinner, and all heads were bowed as it was carried around the table. The greatest caution was exercised lest the bottle should be dropped or inadvertently opened, and therefore the ceremony of "loving the bottle" is always carried out during the early part of the evening.

After the bottle had been blessed by each individual member last night it was delivered to Capt. Walter B. Adams, the new President, who returned it to the safe deposit vault.

PARIS POLICE SEARCH LABOR UNION OFFICES

Also a Newspaper Office and Homes of Monarchists.

TALK OF A ROYALIST PLOT

Military Precautions May Cause Postponement of Workmen's May Day Demonstration.

PARIS, April 27.—The police to-day adopted decisive measures to suppress the element which is fomenting disorder and capture the sources of its supplies.

Early in the day a search was made of the headquarters of the Confederation of Labor and also of its fifty branches throughout the city. Simultaneously the police searched the homes of a number of Royalist sympathizers who were suspected of encouraging disorder in the hope of effecting a coup d'état. The offices of La Croix, a reactionary paper, were also overhauled.

The results in many cases were negative. There is, however, official authority for the statement that documents were received which proved that Socialists and Bonapartists intrigued with the labor leaders and liberally financed the revolutionary and strike movements. The Labor Federation has refused to hand over its books to the police.

The searches began quietly at 6 o'clock this morning. Assistant Chief of Detectives Blot and six men at first searched the offices of La Croix, noted for having raised a popular subscription ostensibly in [illegible]alf of the sufferers from the Courrières mine catastrophe, but it is asserted that the amount collected was forwarded to the Bishop of Arras, who is supposed to be a Royalist.

Among the other houses searched were those of Count Durand de Beauregard, the Imperialist leader; Xavier Feuillant, a former officer of the Imperial Guard; Jacques Piou, President of the Liberal League; M. Thouvenel, an intimate friend of Prince Louis Napoleon; MM. Terheim and Griffuelhes, Secretaries of the Confederation of Labor; M. Fromentin, a wealthy Anarchist leader, and Gen. Baron de Taradel. The latter was absent from Paris, and, therefore, the search of his residence was not completed. Besides the residences of the persons named the police searched th apartments of many Imperialists, Monarchists, Anarchists, and agitators of lesser importance.

The firmness of the Government in making searches and gathering large military forces has led the Executive Committee of the Federation of Labor to consider the advisability of postponing the demonstration from May 1 to June 15. The committee is holding secret sessions. It is understood that a strong element favors a postponement. One report is that those who advocate a postponement are in the majority.

Nevertheless the police and military precautions are not being abated. The general plan, as announced by the Prefecture of Police, is to have troops massed on the Place de la Concorde, Place de la République, Place de la Bourse, and the principal boulevards and all points where it is possible for crowds to gather.

The Ecole Militaire and the Galerie des Machines have been transformed into great barracks. A significant decree has been published giving the right to the military to requisition food and lodgings within the Department of the Seine beginning to-morrow. Complete quiet in the strike centres tends to reasure the public.

Six thousand police, eight hundred cavalry, and eight thousand infantry have been detailed to guard the banks, railroad stations, and the plants of the electric, gas, and water companies. The formation of processions in columns is rigorously prohibited and all groups will be immediately dispersed.

The Prefect of Police, M. Lépine, will take absolute control of the city, including authority over the troops, which will act as reserves, subject to his call.

The Prefecture of Police specifically denies having knowledge of any Anarchist plot. It declares that public uneasiness is not warranted, as the police and military safeguards are merely precautionary. A considerable element of the population, however, continues to be nervous and apprehensive. People are laying in stocks of provisions, and the large provision stores are doing a thriving business in canned goods, oil, and mineral waters.

The semi-official Temps editorially points out the absurdity of people hastily leaving the city or laying in stocks of provisions, and says the Government has taken very complete precautions. Revolutionary movements, the article says, never succeed when heralded in advance.

"It is a patent fact that the Government has recognized the impossibility of disarming society before anarchy, and must dissipate its fears," it continues. "Apparently the Government has taken a lesson from the United States, where pillagers, trying to profit by the catastrophe at San Francisco and practice their profession, have been mercilessly shot, by which the inhabitants of the unfortunate town took courage and resumed their normal life. We do not believe that Parisians are more cowardly than Californians. Nothing sustains public confidence like the certainty of possessing a Government which is resolved to do its full duty."

TOULON, Saturday, April 28.—The gas workers of this city struck at midnight. Infantry soldiers have occupied the works.

LENS, France, April 27.—The investigating magistrate here to-day discovered documentary evidence connecting the arrested ringleaders in the strike disturbances with well-known Anarchists.

PARIS, April 27.—The arrival of thirty thousand troops has not calmed the excitement in Paris.

A Royalist plot is the bogey raised again by Radicals afraid of losing their seats. The comedy of a search for incriminating documents was performed by the police in various private dwellings and offices during last night.

Parisians are buying large stocks of canned foods for fear of a famine, as the bakers, grocers, and waiters are joining in the strike.

PORT SAID, Egypt, April 27.—The United States dry dock Dewey, on her way to the Philippine Islands in tow, entered the Suez Canal to-day.

MADRID, April 27.—The Marquis of Tovar, the Spanish Ambassador to the Vatican, has arrived here, bearing the Golden Rose and a letter from the Pope to the Princess Ena of Battenberg, who is to be married to King Alfonso June 1.

RABIES AT BAY SHORE.

Fear for Dogs in the Kennels at Several Long Island Resorts.

Special to The New York Times.

BAY SHORE, L. I., April 27.—Rabies which has developed among the kennels of this and the adjacent resorts of Islip and Babylon is causing apprehension. Six dogs have been already killed. They had rabies in its most violent form. There is reason to fear that the disease will now extend to the Gordon and Fox Kennels. This afternoon no new cases had developed, but Dr. Ticehurst, a resident veterinarian, said that the period of incubation, which was four or five weeks, had not yet been passed.

The residents are anxious for their safety.

ELLEN TERRY'S JUBILEE.

London Crowds Camped Outside Theatre to Get In and Cheer Her.

LONDON, April 27.—Hundreds of persons camped outside His Majesty's Theatre all day to-day to obtain seats in the pit or gallery and greet Ellen Terry's appearance this evening in "The Merry Wives of Windsor" on the occasion of her jubilee. The arrivals commenced as early as 9 o'clock, and the line rapidly lengthened until the Haymarket resembled a huge picnic. The majority of women brought camp stools, lunch baskets, and novels.

At the close of the performance a remarkable ovation was accorded the actress, recalling the farewell benefit to Nelly Farren. A pretty scene had been arranged for the presentation of the Playgoers' Club's silver jewel casket, and an address in commemoration of the actress's jubilee.

Beerbohm Tree, still in his Falstaff make-up, recited an ode of congratulation, at the close of which a dove fluttered down from the flies carrying a scroll, which was taken by a dainty fairy, who presented it to the heroine of the evening. The scroll contained a rhymed response, having recited which Miss Terry shook hands with Mr. Tree, and, with great emotion, said her feelings would not allow her to express in words what she felt. Mr. Tree and a deputation of the Playgoers' Club then presented the casket, which is embellished in relief with pictures of Olympian games and places of public entertainment in Athens.

The ceremony closed with a scene of indescribable enthusiasm.

Miss Terry is intensely popular with the English people and it is safe to say that this popularity is chiefly due to her great personal charm. Her popularity in the United States is not much less than in England, and when a committee was formed in London to organize a fitting celebration of her jubilee British and Americans, as well as the citizens of many Continental countries, responded most heartily. The committee asked for shilling subscriptions and in a short time 30,000 shillings ($6,000) was collected. Queen Alexandra sent a diamond and ruby pendant of great value, and actors from all over the world have assisted in making the celebration successful.

Ellen Alice Terry was born at Coventry, England, Feb. 27, 1848. She was the second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Terry, both well-known provincial actors, and descends from a long line of actors. Miss Terry spent her childhood among many brothers and sisters, for the family numbered six, Kate, Ellen, Marian, Florence, Charles, and Fred. They all went on the stage and several of them made quite a name for themselves. Ellen Terry made her début when only 8 years old.

When only sixteen years old she was married to G. F. Watts, the artist, and retired from the stage for three years. In 1867 she appeared again at the Queen's Theatre in "A Double Marriage," and in December of that year undertook the part of Katherine in "The Taming of the Shrew," when she acted with Sir Henry Irving for the first time.

In 1868, after her marriage to E. A. Wardell, an actor whose stage name was Charles Kelly, Ellen Terry again retired from the stage, this time for seven years, emerging from her retirement to play the part of Philippa Chester in "The Wandering Heir," by Charles Reade, at the Prince of Wales's Theatre. Her great success was won in 1878, when she played Ophelia in "Hamlet" with Sir Henry Irving. From that time until 1902 she remained with him as leading lady, repeatedly touring the British provinces and visiting the United States five times. What finally led to their separation is not known.

WORK OF THE RED CROSS.

Miss Boardman Suggests Plans for Its Extension in War.

"The Red Cross Nurse" was the theme discussed before the Superintendents of Training Schools for Nurses at the third and last day of their twelfth annual meeting yesterday. Miss Mabel T. Boardman, a member of the Executive Committee of the American National Red Cross, delivered an address on the workings of the Red Cross.

Miss Boardman thought it would be a good plan for the Red Cross to accompany the National Guard on its camp duty, so as to give the nurses a practical application of their theories. Nursing in camps was difficult, and it was particularly hard to perform an operation in camps, as the danger to the patient was great. To avoid this the speaker suggested that operating cars be provided, so they could be sidetracked near the scene of war and used, as occasion required.

Col. Sanger, President of the New York Branch of the Red Cross, paid a tribute to the work of the Red Cross nurses during the war with Spain.

TO REMODEL A CHURCH.

Westminster Presbyterian to be Enlarged and a Dormitory Added.

Plans have been filed at the Building Department for the enlargement and remodeling of the Westminster Presbyterian Church, in West Twenty-third Street, adjoining the Chelsea apartment house. The Trustees purpose to erect a ten-story dormitory building of 100 feet frontage on the open area in front of the present church and join the latter with the new structure.

The basement of the new building will be fitted with assembly halls for the congregation, and the first and second stories will be used for the enlargement of the old church auditorium. The dormitory building will be of ornamental brick, and will have nineteen chambers on each floor above the second. The new building is to cost $175,000, according to the estimate of Architect Bradford Lee Gilbert.

Sold Improper Reading to Girls.

A fine of $250 was imposed by the Justices of Special Sessions yesterday on Joseph J. Koch, a newsdealer, against whom Anthony Comstock appeared as complainant. It was said in court that the defendant did most of his business with pupils in the higher schools for girls in this city. A charge of unlawful use of the mails is pending against Koch in the Federal courts.

STATUE OF FRANKLIN PRESENTED TO PARIS

Franco-American Demonstration at Unveiling of Mr. Harjes's Gift.

SALUTE OF TWENTY-ONE GUNS

M. Barthou, Minister of Public Instruction, Voices France's Unwavering Friendship for the United States.

PARIS, April 27.—The Franklin celebration at the Trocadéro this afternoon, when the statue of Benjamin Franklin presented to the City of Paris by John H. Harjes, the American banker, of this city, was unveiled, was the occasion for a notable Franco-American demonstration. The distinguished officials present included ex-Presidents Loubet and Casimir-Périer, the Cabinet Ministers, the Diplomatic Corps, the Presidents of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies, and prominent Generals and Admirals.

The Place du Trocadéro was occupied by the Republican Guards in brilliant uniforms, and the grand stand facing the statue was richly decorated with the French and American colors. A battery of artillery fired a salute of twenty-one guns as the statue was unveiled.

The ceremonies began in the great hall of the Trocadéro Palace, which was profusely decorated with French and American flags and flowers. The proceedings were opened by Ambassador McCormick, who in the course of his remarks said:

"On the initiation of France's ally, his Majesty, the Emperor of all the Russias, The Hague Tribunal was established that Governments might have a Court of Arbitration ready to their hand for the settlement of such differences as could be submitted to it. But to-day the voice of public sentiment holds from or impels Governments to action, and that better acquaintance, that closer entente between peoples which such international celebrations as this warm into life or keep alive makes as never before for the cause of general peace and the well-being of mankind.

"The President of the United States has already shown in the most practical form and with notable success his desire to contribute to this end. In appointing a suitable person to speak for the United States on this occasion, it was his purpose not only to celebrate the bicentenary of Benjamin Franklin, but by this joint celebration to link closer the ties that bind France to the United States."

Prof. Albert Henry Smyth of the Boys' High School, Philadelphia, appointed by the United States Government to deliver an oration on Franklin, reviewed the record of the great American's achievements, and in his peroration he said:

"If after a slumber of a century Franklin's eyes had opened, upon what a world would their calm gaze have rested! The vast images that he saw in glimmering dawn have become the commonplaces of schoolboys; his daring prophecies in philosophy and politics have been more than fulfilled. He would have beheld two great and proud nations, justifying his unchanging faith in popular instincts and institutions, celebrating in comradeship the words he spoke and the deeds he did, and holding in grateful and perpetual memory his life-long labors and sacrifices!"

M. Barthou, Minister of Instruction, in behalf of the Government pronounced a eulogy of Franklin, during which he recalled the American's intimacy with Voltaire and other notable personages and said:

"France not only renders homage to Franklin, but gives this official testimony of its unwavering friendship and fidelity to the great American republic."

The ceremonies were then transferred to the Place du Trocadéro, where Mr. Harjes presented the statue to the City of Paris.

"It was," he said in the course of his remarks, "this enlightened and hospitable land whose generous effort and powerful aid accorded Franklin so much moral and material support in furnishing him with men, money and, in fact, with everything needful to crown with conspicuous success the mission of our first Ambassador and to acquire a permanent claim to our gratitude. No treaty, no alliance is necessary to continue among my fellow citizens a sense of lasting gratitude toward the sister Republic, La Belle France, a fountain of friendship which I trust will but grow and prosper as the years roll on."

M. Chautard, President of the Municipal Council, accepted the statue on behalf of the city.

Ambassador McCormick gave an elaborate dinner to-night at the American Embassy to the French and American officials participating in the celebration. The music was furnished by the band of the Republican Guard. The guests included Premier Sarrien, Minister of Foreign Affairs Bourgeois, Minister of Public Works Barthou, Paul Doumer, President of the Chamber of Deputies; Jules Cambon, ex-Ambassador at Washington; Gen. Brugère, M. Pallain, Governor of the Bank of France; J. Pierpont Morgan of New York, Frank H. Mason, Consul General at Paris; Baron d'Estournelles de Constant, M. Appell, President of the Academy of Sciences, and leading members of the Diplomatic Corps.

GOT MONEY FOR STEALING.

Magistrate Gives $10 and a New Job to Prisoner in Hard Luck.

Lester Hallock of 569 Marcy Avenue, Brooklyn, was arraigned before Magistrate Crane in Harlem Court yesterday on a charge of stealing six tickets from a ticket chopper at the 110th Street Subway station.

The prisoner was a gateman in the employ of the Interborough Company. Early yesterday morning Special Officer Wilhelm saw Hallock take the six tickets. He arrested him. Hallock told the court that he was guilty, but pleaded that he had a wife, who is ill, and four young children depending on him, and that all he got from the Interborough Company was $1.50 a day.

The Magistrate told Hallock, who was weeping, that he would parole him for six months in the custody of Probation Officer Brennis, and then handed a ten-dollar bill to Hallock, "toward your expenses," as the court said. The Magistrate told Hallock to come back about noon, when he thought he would have a position for him. Hallock left the court almost dumb with joy.

When Hallock reached the court at the appointed time Magistrate Crane, who had been busily engaged in telephoning to various people, told the young man that he had been able to get the promised position. Hallock seemed overcome with gratitude.

Later, when Joseph Felinger, was brought before him charged with begging from house to house in Amsterdam Avenue, Magistrate Crane, after learning from the prisoner that he was a waiter, but could not get any work, told him to wait a little while in court. By telephoning to friends, the Magistrate soon obtained a position for him and released him.

BETRAYED BY THUMB PRINTS.

Comparison with English Records Proved Prisoner an ex-Convict.

A term of four years and six months in State prison was given to Dan Nolan, an Englishman, who pleaded guilty before Recorder Goff in General Sessions yesterday, to stealing $555 worth of jewelry from Mrs. Anna Huske Cotton and nearly as much from Mrs. Elsie A. McClurg, while both were guests at the Waldorf-Astoria early this year.

By comparing his thumb-print records with those kept by the London police it was found that Nolan had already served three terms in English prisons.

Louis M. Salomon was sent to Sing Sing for three years by Recorder Goff. He had admitted that he had committed something like 100 burglaries in Harlem, and had been an inmate of the Elmira Reformatory. The reason for comparative clemency in his case was that he gave the police assistance in recovering the goods he had stolen. More than a score of his victims were in court.

TARIFF REVISION THEME OF SPEECH BY WILLIAMS

He Flaunts Roosevelt's Views in Faces of Republicans.

ACCUSES THEM OF COWARDICE

"You Dare Not Do These Things the People Demand," the Minority Leader Shouts, While Democrats Applaud.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—The Democrats in the House, under Mr. Williams's leadership, have been working steadily toward the end of making tariff revision the chief issue in the Congressional campaign this Fall. On every occasion they have hammered home tariff reform arguments, and have forced the issue on the Republicans till the latter were obliged yesterday to send forth their strongest debater, Mr. Hepburn, to meet their assaults.

This carefully worked out and consistently managed campaign came to a climax to-day with the speech of Williams himself. When the Mississippi Congressman began his argument it was before a crowded and attentive House. Presently up rose Mr. Boutell of Illinois, wanting to know if Williams was not a cotton planter. The reply was in the affirmative. Boutell triumphantly produced a bill pending before the Ways and Means Committee putting a protective tariff on cotton, and asked if Williams was in favor of that.

"The gentleman should have known me better," replied Williams. "If I think it is immoral, unconstitutional, and wrong to take money from one man's pocket to put it in another's, does he think it makes me regard it as moral, constitutional, and right if the money is to go into my own pockets?"

Boutell seemed to misunderstand him. "Then you are in favor of this bill?" he asked.

"No!" cried Williams, vehemently. "Absolutely no. I am opposed to it. Do you think I want to take money by a protective tariff duty from the pockets of all the bricklayers, farmers, and blacksmiths in the country to put in my own pockets?"

"I knew the gentlemen's character well enough to know what his answer would be," said Boutell, sitting down. "That bill was introduced by a Democrat, Mr. Clark, of Florida."

Mr. Clark, whose sensations were obviously those of delight at being so unexpectedly the centre of the stage, arose.

"Since my name has been brought into the discussion," he began complacently, "I wish to explain why I introduced that bill. It was because I believe it is absolutely necessary for the purposes of this Government to have a tariff. I am in favor of levying that tariff where, if benefit is to accrue, it will accrue to the producer as well as to the manufacturer."

As he took his seat Clark was loudly applauded by the Republicans, who made much of the incident, declaring that a number of Southern Congressmen are protectionists at heart, and that the party ranks were hopelessly divided on the matter of tariff revision.

Williams, after Clark was out of the way, met a constant fire of interruptions with the same candor with which he had faced Boutell. Finally, Hill of Connecticut brought up a magazine article written by Williams just before the campaign of 1904, and asked if he still stood by its declaration for a tariff upon all imports for revenue. Williams said he did, and met the dare by at once requesting permission to insert the article in The Record as part of his remarks.

"Has the gentleman," asked Landis of Indiana, "any idea how that tariff magazine article of his in 1904 struck the people?"

This reference to the election of 1904 aroused Williams and created a lively scene. Landis stood facing him, waiting for a chance to ask another question. Williams shook his finger at the rosy-faced Indianian and let all the notches out of his voice.

"I have an idea," he cried, "that if we had fought that campaign along the lines of a common sense reduction of the tariff to prevent the exploitation of consumers we would have won the election. I have an idea that the personality of your candidate had more to do with it than the strength of your party. And I have another idea. I am wondering what will happen to Mr. Hepburn and Mr. Dalzell and Mr. Payne and you, Mr. Landis, and all the other leaders of the cohorts of stand-patism when, toward the end of this session or during the next session, the man in the White House, who carried your party to victory instead of the party's carrying him, shall send a message to this House to revise the tariff."

Landis, still standing, looked as if he had been hit with a stuffed club. The other Republicans wore extremely sober faces. The Democrats burst out in a wild frenzy of applause.

"I have heard," continued Williams, "that he wanted to do it before this. It has been stated in the newspapers that he had made some sort of agreement with the Speaker whereby he held back this message provided the Speaker would help him to certain other things that he considered of primary importance at this moment."

Here Landis sat down, but Williams continued to talk at him.

"Let me tell you something," he cried. "You've got to revise this tariff. If you don't we will. I am talking to you because I think what I am saying may be a light to your feet. You're not old in iniquity like your leaders over there," pointing to Payne and Dalzell amid great laughter, while Landis blushed. "You're young enough and mentally elastic enough to profit by it. They are not. They are doomed. They will go down, but there's a future for you."

Landis had got up again by this time, and was trying to break in, but Williams dashed on:

"There's optimism not only on your young face, but in your heart. I'm making this speech to you, to appeal to you and young men like you—"

The rest of the sentence was drowned in laughter and applause, and Landis sat down again.

"I'll tell you another thing," Williams continued, "you've got to admit Oklahoma to the Union and your Republican Senate has got to pass a reasonable Rate bill. If you don't, we will. I am not boasting of our strength—"

The Republicans laughed derisively, but Williams paid no attention.

"I know our weakness. It is a weakness, I hope, of the past. I notice more homogeneousness, more unity of purpose, among Democrats than hitherto. But I am not predicating these things so much upon our strength as upon your weakness. You dare not do these things which the people demand. As sure as there is a sun in heaven, if you do not, the people will command somebody else to do it."

Williams's speech made it a big day in the House. The general verdict was that he had made a strong campaign argument.

TAFT ALLOWS MORE TIME,

But Lowering of Tunnels Under Chicago Now Must Begin by July.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Secretary Taft to-day decided to extend the time in which actual work must begin on the lowering of the tunnels under the Chicago River until July 1, 1906.

The Secretary of War holds there is no legal justification for the extension of time, but says he feels the concession is one of expediency and will hasten the desired changes in the tunnels.

He is assured that a motion for a rehearing by the Supreme Court of the issue between the City of Chicago and the traction companies, which was once decided against the traction companies, will be disposed of before the end of May.

SENATORS WOULD END DEBATE ON RATE BILL

Agreement on Day for a Vote May Be Reached Next Week.

SPOONER ENDS HIS SPEECH

Explains Former Misapplication of Citations—Foraker Gets Even with the Ohio Legislature.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—"At this rate," declared Senator Allison to-day, "we shall be here the 1st of August. This cannot go on forever, and we must make a plan for disposing of the amendments to this Rate bill and agree on a day for a vote."

In the absence of Senator Aldrich, who is in New York, Senator Allison to-day made the above declaration. Senator Tillman met him with the threat that beginning next Monday he would insist on "talk or vote." Senator Foraker asked why it was not possible to make an agreement right then to take up the fifty or sixty amendments to the Hepburn bill and vote them out of the way.

"I should object to any such arrangement," said Tillman, "that did not include notice to Senators to be present and discuss the amendments under a rule for ten or fifteen minute speeches. There are now and usually are fifteen or twenty Senators absent from the city. We cannot all be here all the time."

Senator Bailey suggested that unless Senators understood that at the end of the discussion of each amendment the vote on that amendment would be taken the same difficulty would occur. He urged that the arrangement be to discuss the amendments in some agreed order and allow ten-minute speeches until the debate is exhausted and then vote on the amendment and adopt or reject it.

Senator Allison, after adjournment, said there would be an agreement next week for a day for a vote. The pressure of the regular routine work of the Senate demanded this. Senator Tillman said the lines were drawing in, and there would be an agreement in a few days. Other Senators said that Senator Aldrich, when he returned from New York, would be better able to speak as to a day for a vote.

Senator Spooner to-day concluded his speech on the reply to Senator Bailey on the question whether Congress can curtail the judicial power of a Federal court of equity. He urged that the power to grant injunctions is the right arm of equity jurisdiction—without this writ there would be no preventive or relief.

Before closing Mr. Spooner took up the charge made by Mr. Bailey that Spooner misapplied his citations in his first speech on the question. He explained that he had been ill and had accepted the service of a lawyer friend to look up authorities in support of his speech, but there was no intention to mislead or misquote. Senator Bailey disavowed any purpose to make any such charge.

"I regard the Senator," said Mr. Bailey, "as incapable of attempting to deceive the Senate or a court."

The general comment through the Senate after the adjournment was that Spooner had sustained his position, and that the majority would stand squarely in opposition to the Bailey amendment.

Senator Foraker has got even with the Ohio Legislature. He to-day introduced the court review section of the rate law just passed by that body, and said that he would urge it as the proper court review amendment for the Hepburn bill. The situation was immensely enjoyed by the Senate. Mr. Foraker seriously intends to stand for the amendment, but he performed his part in introducing the amendment to-day in a semi-comic manner while the Senate looked on and laughed heartily.

It will be remembered that early in the fight over rate regulation the Ohio Legislature adopted resolutions that were taken to be a serious rebuke for the senior Senator's course in making a speech against the constitutionality of the Hepburn bill. Mr. Foraker "laid low," like Br'er Rabbit until the Legislature had itself debated the rate question and finally passed a bill, in which, after gaining light, they had incorporated a court review section as broad and as sweeping as any that Senator Foraker or those who think with him could have wished.

He then wrote a letter to the Ohio Legislature in which he declared his purpose to act up to the highest conception of his duty and to support the Hepburn bill only after endeavoring to so amend it as to make it a constitutional, workable, and effective measure. The Ohio law has since been approved by the Governor and become law, and now the Ohio Senator has undertaken to engraft its most important feature on the Hepburn bill.

The Ohio amendment, briefly, provides that any railroad or other party in interest being dissatisfied with any order of the commission fixing any rate or regulation, may within sixty days commence an action in the Circuit Court of the United States in which the carrier has its principal operating office, against the commission to have the order set aside.

Senators Allison of Iowa and Cullom of Illinois to-day had a conference with the President regarding the Railroad Rate bill. No details were disclosed.

MRS. DUMONT WILL RECOVER.

Says She Swallowed Poison by Mistake—To be Arraigned To-day.

Tossing about on a cot in one of the private rooms of Roosevelt Hospital, Mrs. Yvonne Dumont, who was taken from the Hotel Belleclaire on Thursday, regained consciousness yesterday and said she had swallowed poison by mistake. The physicians said last night that she was practically out of danger.

A young man called at the hospital several times yesterday to inquire about her condition. He explained that he was a friend of Mrs. Dumont and her husband. The Dumonts, he said, had come here from New Orleans.

Dr. C. Castill of 201 West Seventy-fourth Street, who had been called in by the hotel clerk to attend her, was told that the woman had swallowed two seven-grain tablets of bichloride of mercury. The woman will be arraigned before a police Magistrate to-day on a charge of attempting suicide. Last night her relatives made an attempt to get a Magistrate to go to the hospital to pass on her case, but did not succeed in finding a Magistrate who was willing to hold court in the hospital.

At first much mystery surrounded the case, but the police said this was now cleared away. The woman, they said, was the wife of a New York merchant.

PROTEST TO ENGLAND.

Regarding Violation of Fishery Treaty Almost Complete.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—State Department officials are preparing a protest which will be submitted to Great Britain against the recent seizure of two American fishing ships off the coast of Newfoundland.

Secretary Root said to-day that the document will probably be completed in a short time. It will be based on the fundamental contention that the local Canadian Governments have no right to pass laws which conflict with provisions of treaties between the United States and Great Britain.

Under the treaty of 1818 American fishermen are held by the State Department to have the right to fish where the American boats were recently seized. A Newfoundland law passed subsequently forbids trawling, which was not mentioned in the treaty.

BLOW AT STANDARD OIL BY SECRETARY HITCHCOCK

Guffey and Galley Called on to Explain Deal in Oil Lands.

LEASES MAY BE CANCELED

Government Determined to Prevent Establishment of Monopoly in the Southwest Field.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Unless Guffey and Galley convince Secretary Hitchcock that they are not endeavoring to turn over to the Standard Oil Company all their valuable oil holdings in the Indian Territory and Oklahoma, the Secretary will probably cancel all their leases in those Territories. Mr. Hitchcock has determined to prevent the Standard from obtaining a monopoly of the oil production of the Southwest field, and, if necessary, he will adopt radical measures to do this.

The Secretary to-day notified Col. James M. Guffey of Pittsburg, Democratic National Committeeman for Pennsylvania, to appear before him and submit a statement of his reasons for transferring the oil properties of his firm in the Indian Territory to T. N. Barnsdall without sending the papers in the transfer to Washington for the Secretary's approval. Col. Guffey replied that he would submit the facts to the Interior Department in a few days in person. His attorney will have a hearing to-morrow before the Secretary.

Mr. Hitchcock was moved to take action to prevent the transfer referred to upon the representations of J. George Wright, United States Inspector for the Indian Territory. Wright came to Washington two weeks ago and informed the Secretary that Guffey and Galley had sold their oil leases to T. N. Barnsdall of Pittsburg, and that the transfer was irregular in that it had not received the Secretary's approval. At the Secretary's direction Wright went to Pittsburg and made further inquiries relative to this sale. It is understood that he reported upon his return that the real purchaser of the leases was the Standard Oil Company, and that Barnsdall was merely acting as the agent for that company.

The rules and regulations governing the leasing of oil lands in both the Indian Territory and Oklahoma provide that not over 4,800 acres of land shall be leased by one firm, corporation, or individual, and that "no lease shall be sublet, transferred, or assigned without the consent and approval of the Secretary of the Interior." Secretary Hitchcock does not intend to permit the Standard to extend is holdings either directly or through any subsidiary company.

PITTSBURG, Penn., April 27.—Concerning the action of the Indian Agent at Muskogee, Indian Territory, yesterday in taking possession of the oil leases of Guffey & Galley in Indian Territory and returning them to the allotters from whom the leases had been taken, Guffey & Galley said to-day:

"It is merely a question of whether John Smith or John Jones pays the lessor his royalty. The Interior Department has a ruling that transfers of all oil and gas leases must be agreed to by the lessors as well as by the Interior Department before they become operative. The lessors refuse to agree to a transfer unless a bonus is paid to them, and the department will not act without their consent. Under those conditions, and notwithstanding this ruling, Guffey and Galley made transfers solely as a matter of equity."

CANNON ON THE PRESIDENCY.

Booms and Bees Not Yet in Season Says the Speaker.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—Speaker Cannon let drop a few sentences of philosophy on Presidential booms and bees to-day.

"The Presidency is not to be had for the asking," he declared. "It would be ridiculous for any man to bob up and decline what had not been offered to him, especially an office which no man ever has and possibly never will decline if offered by the authority of one of the great political parties of the country. So far as I am concerned, I would rather do my duty here as Speaker of the House and help work out policies to bring the greatest good to the greatest number of our people than to be President.

"The campaign to come next Fall must be a united effort on the part of all Republicans, and there must not be injected into it the personal ambitions of any man. We must not only elect the next House, but we must conclude the next session of this Congress in a manner satisfactory to a majority of the people. It would be wise for us all to attend to the work immediately in hand, which covers proper legislation by Congress, before we enter upon the work of selecting a Presidential candidate.

"The Presidential bee is not buzzing in my head or about my ears, and I do not expect to be afflicted with the attentions of that insect. If as Representative and Speaker I am able to contribute in the performance of my duty to the promotion of proper policies and the enactment of wise legislation, the cup of my ambition will be full."

1,000 ALIENS SENT BACK.

They Were Brought Here in Violation of the Contract Labor Law.

The largest number of aliens ever deported from the United States under the contract labor laws sailed for Europe on the steamships Neapolitan Prince and Sicilian Prince yesterday. Altogether the two vessels carried away about 1,000 persons, all of whom arrived in New York about ten days ago on the steamships Francesca and Erny.

Most of those deported are natives of Greece, Bulgaria, Servia, and Montenegro, and came to the United States in response to advertisements in various European papers, which announced that there was a great demand in this country, in the steel and other manufacturing industries, for laborers at wages averaging about $2.50 a day. This amount represented about what this class of people get a month in their native lands.

Those that started back yesterday, it was said, were brought over in direct violation of the contract labor law. The steamship companies that brought them over will have to bear all the expenses of their deportation.

$1,000 ON SCHMID PAID.

Man Who Led the Russian Revolt Had an Equitable Policy.

The Equitable Life paid yesterday by cable a policy for $1,000 on the life of Peter Petrovitsch Schmid, the Lieutenant in the Russian Navy who led the revolt on the battleship Kniaz Potemkim a few months ago.

Schmid was executed by the Russian authorities, and a contest of the policy under Russian law was possible on this ground.

"Idolatry Better Than No Religion."

VINAL HAVEN, Me., April 27.—Bishop David H. Moore of Oregon, in an address at the East Maine Methodist Conference here to-day said: "Idolatry is better than no religion. Anything that causes a man to recognize and pray to some power outside of himself is better than no religion at all."

QUEEN'S OWN RIFLES HERE ON A SHORT VISIT

Toronto's Crack Militia Regiment at Twelfth's Armory.

BARONET COMMANDS THEM

Soldiers Find a Booklet Suggesting Places of Amusement, and an Investigator Is Overcome.

The Second Regiment, Queen's Own Rifles of Canada, 891 strong, and commanded by Lieut. Col. Sir Henry Pellatt, riding on a white charger, arrived in this city yesterday from Toronto. They came in a special train of two sections, and, detraining at Sixty-first Street and Eleventh Avenue, received the hospitality of the Twelfth Regiment Armory at the invitation of Capt. Rene A. Russy of the Twelfth. The Rifles are here on the invitation of those having in charge the Military Tournament at Madison Square Garden, and they will stay two days.

The Queen's Own Rifles, be it known, is of the militia of Canada, and is the crack regiment of Toronto. It is a volunteer organization, and is composed of university students, mercantile clerks, and budding professional lights in the land of the maple leaf.

On returning to the Twelfth Regiment Armory after reconnoitring the town, the Queen's Own found a booklet pinned to each knapsack. The booklet was entitled:

"Interesting Places in New York to the Queen's Own Rifles."

Here are a few of the places in the booklet which should have been interesting to the Canadians:

Two Toronto boys. Just around the corner.
Canadian Whiskies.
Do you remember me? Tom Kelly, composer of "'When Your Mother Says Good-Bye."
Murphy's. On the corner.
The Old Homestead, Music and Dancing.
The Haymarket.

The rest of the booklet was filled with similar suggestions for an evening's entertainment.

"Of course, we shall go to some of these places," said one of the Canadians, "so long as they are the correct thing."

But one of the Sergeants, an Irishman, who was shot thirteen times in the Boer war and survived, said he had suspicions about the booklet, and, as he was older and wiser than the others, he elected himself investigator. Two hours later he was brought back to the armory in a hansom and borne tenderly to his cot.

"And yit," he murmured ere he slept, "I survolved thirteen balls at Paardeberg. Kape away from it, boys—kape away."

Still, many of the Queen's Own Rifles had some faith left in the booklet. After last night's tournament they went out to investigate.

There is a variety of dialect in the Queen's Own Rifles. Most of them are Canadians born, but a number are Scotch, Irish, and English. As they sat around the floor of the Twelfth Regiment Armory yesterday afternoon with their knapsacks and Lee-Metfords beside them, addressing pictorial postal cards to their friends in Canada and Great Britain, their talk was interesting.

"It's extrawd'nary," said an Englishman. "You can't see a blessed thing in New York for the 'ouses and the elevated railway. I asked one fellow another way to go about New York so I could see something. He laughed sort of and said: 'Go in the Subway.' So I went, but it was only the underground, and you couldn't see much better there."

In D Section of the regiment a Scotch rifleman met a countryman. Had they met in Canada they would have paid no attention to each other, but New York was foreign ground to both. Like all Scots, they grew reminiscent and melancholy.

They had bait lived in Dumbarton, and mony's the time gaun doon the Clyde o' a Summer's day tae Rothesay and the Kyles. Ay, the Lord o' the Isles was still running. Five shillin' tae Inverary an' back. And did they mind Dougie the Post and his brother, Aleck, what was on the steamboat Scotia. The Scotia was sell't for a pleesure boat tae the Sultan o' Turkey, an' went doon in the Bay o' Bisky. Aleck was drooned. Fact! Heard it frae Dougie the Post.

An aide to Lieut. Col. Sir Henry Pellatt supplied some information about the company. He said the Queen's Own were "good fighting stuff." Sir Henry, seeing the reporter, remarked:

"Don't forget to tell him about the horse."

The horse is called "Prince." It is the Colonel's white charger, and has had the distinction of carrying Sir Henry in the coronation parade. It also carried the Duke of York, now Prince of Wales, when he visited Canada in 1902. Prince is proud of his honors, and carries himself in fine style.

Among the Queen's Own Rifles there are a number of man wearing the service medal presented by Queen Victoria in the Boer war.

CANADIAN TROOPS REVIEWED.

Queen's Own Rifles the Feature of Military Show.

With their band playing "The Star Spangled Banner" the Queen's Own Rifles entered Madison Square Garden last night in a column of fours that stepped in unison and with a swing that denoted the well-drilled soldier. Under the inspiration of the National air, the splendid display of Canadian troops, and their marvelous marching and manoeuvres, the spectators leaped to their feet, and the cheering and waving of handkerchiefs was like the gala nights of old-time military shows. It appeared an impossibility for Lieut. Col. Sir Henry M. Pellatt, aide de camp to Gov. Gen. Earl Grey, to bring his 900 men into review formation, but by the most rapid and pretty soldierly manoeuvring they were formed in battalions and marched past Brig. Gen. Nelson H. Henry, Adjutant General State of New York, the reviewing officer of the night.

It was singular that the Canadians, in dark green uniforms topped with shakos, in which were red cockades, carried no flag, and not a Cross of St. George showed its folds of red among the Stars and Stripes of the Garden. But the crowd made up for this omission by its enthusiastic reception of the Canadian soldiers and their drill. Many of the Canadian officers and privates spoke about the apparent discourtesy in not displaying their national colors after their drill, and felt that the omission was a breach of national and military etiquette.

Gen. Henry received an ovation as he came into the Garden, and Col. N. B. Thurston, Twenty-second Regiment Engineers, N. Y. N. G., commanding officer, put the review under way with soldierly celerity. Following the review formation and the drill of the Canadians came the cadets of the Deaf and Dumb Institute.

The United States regulars of the army and navy and the militiamen had been placed upon their mettle by the Canadians, and there was a fine swing and snap about their manoeuvres and exhibition drills and the riding of the cavalrymen.

The Twenty-second Regiment athletes again displayed their prowess in the competitions. Their relay team, composed of Crockett, Edwards, Frank, McCutcheon, and Peabody, made an exciting race of the mile championship, which they won by five yards over the runners of the Twenty-third Regiment, with the team of the Seventy-fourth Regiment in third place. The time was 3:29 4-5.

In the two-mile bicycle championship and the mile bicycle handicap L. J. Weintz, Twenty-second Regiment, won after the hardest kind of riding. Summary.

VANDERBILT HORSES OUT.

Withdraws from Brooklyn Horse Show —Others Leave Ring.

Alfred Gwynne Vanderbilt created a sensation last night at the Horse Show of the Brooklyn Riding and Driving Club, which ended at the clubhouse, Prospect Park Plaza, Brooklyn, by withdrawing all his entries from competition. Strauss & Hexter and Lehman Strauss also withdrew. Mr. Vanderbilt and several other exhibitors objected to the decision of the judges in the harness class. Mr. Vanderbilt has long since been regarded as a good loser, and when his entries failed to secure a blue ribbon he seldom if ever displayed any feeling of disappointment.

Since the opening of the show there has been much feeling among the exhibitors in the harness horse classes, and although the number of entries in these classes exceeded those of any others, fewer horses entered the ring to be judged. The principal cause for the withdrawal was the awarding of ribbons to Judge William H. Moore's Fackenham Princess, which won the champion class at Madison Square Garden last year.

On Tuesday night Forest King and Fackenham Princess, both owned by Judge Moore, received first and second respectively in the single harness horse class. Mr. Vanderbilt's imported Witchman Elgitia and four other entries got "the gate." Considerable surprise was manifested over the award. On the following night the same pair with Pride o' Prides received the blue ribbon over Mr. Vanderbilt's entry, The Youngster, Rustling Silk, and Polly Prim, in the harness class for the best collection of three horses, shown singly in harness.

Mr. Vanderbilt's non-success in other classes had become a notable feature of the show, especially after his run of victories at Durland's Show last week. One after another of his prize-winning horses were overlooked in the judging or received a second or a third ribbon. Several exhibitors expressed dissatisfaction with the awards, and the harness classes showed a poor percentage of actual exhibits compared to the entries.

The climax was reached last night when the Eagle Cup competition for the best horse suitable for a gig was announced. Twelve horses were entered, but only three faced the judges. Of these two, Forest King and Fackenham Princess were entered by Judge Moore, the third being Miss Mollie C. Maxwell's Adonis. The cup, which was offered for competition for the first time last year, must be won three times before becoming the property of the owner. The trophy was won in 1905 by Mr. Vanderbilt's bay mare Rustling Silk, which with The Youngster was entered again this year in Mr. Vanderbilt's name. Several other prize-winning harness horses were also entered for the prize, but did not compete. The judges selected Judge Moore's Forest King as the winner, and awarded Fackenham Princess the reserve ribbon.

Rumors of dissatisfaction turned into facts, and Lehman Strauss and Strauss & Hexter, with several other dealers withdrew their entries in the remainder of the classes. Their action was taken to show their disapproval of the decision of the judges.

Mr. Vanderbilt declined to discuss the withdrawal of his horses.

RESCUED 'WOMAN' FROM POOL

Columbia Swimmers Saved Joker in Skirts Who Fell in Water.

In the midst of the aquatic carnival in the Columbia gymnasium last evening a sensation was created by the screams of a woman, who fell from the side of the pool into the water. Instantly at least twenty of the swimmers, who were about the pool awaiting the start of another race, plunged into the water. The struggling figure was surrounded in an instant, the screams continuing and pandemonium reigned. After what seemed an endless time the swimmers managed to assist the victim to land, when there stood revealed the abject figure of a Columbia student, arrayed in woman's garb, who had perpetrated the jest upon his fellow-students. His hat had been lost in the water, and his short hair and grinning face apprised the innocent spectators of the nature of the accident. While it lasted there was excitement enough to satisfy the most exacting.

The perpetrator of the jest proved to be E. O. Elmer, the Vice President of the swimming association of the university, who is as capable a swimmer as any of the contestants in the carnival and amply able to take care of himself in the water.

O. Kress won the 100-yard championship in 1:08 2-5. Trubenbach, the former intercollegiate champion, lowered his previous record of 0:18 by one-fifth of a second in an exhibition swim of 100 feet. Charles Ruberl, New York A. C., also reduced his record in an exhibition race of 100 yards by two seconds, his time being 1:14 2-5.

After the races, exhibitions in fancy diving were given by O'Callaghan and Lee of the New York Athletic Club and by Halpin and Wiless of Columbia.

The water polo game between a team from the New York Athletic Club and Columbia resulted in a tie, each scoring one goal.

TRIED TO DESERT LINER.

Bolt of 21 Members of the Deutschland's Crew Headed Off.

Twenty-one Italian members of the crew on the steamer Deutschland, now lying at her Hoboken pier, tried to desert the ship yesterday morning. They had thrown their effects into a coal barge alongside, and were climbing overboard themselves, when officers on the tug MacNelly saw them and drove them back.

There is a strike on in Europe of firemen and sailors, and ships coming into this port are having a hard time holding their crews for the return. Shore leaves for the men have been cut off.

ONE TELEPHONE COMPANY ENOUGH, NICHOLS THINKS

Would Use Atlantic Concern's Application to Gain Reforms.

TO FORCE TOLL REDUCTIONS

The New Company, If It Gets a Franchise, May Have to Pay $2,930,000.

Ideas for the regulation of the telephone business in Greater New York were laid before the Board of Estimate yesterday in a report by Chief Engineer Harry P. Nichols of the Bureau of Franchises, on the application of the Atlantic Telephone Company for a twenty-five-year franchise to enter the local field.

After suggesting graded annual payments aggregating $2,930,000 for the franchise, together with power of rate regulation by the city, Mr. Nichols expressed doubts as to the advisability of having more than one telephone company in the local field, and recommended that negotiations be opened with the New York Telephone Company to see if an agreement could not be reached for the establishment of tolls and franchise payments on the same basis that is proposed for the Atlantic Company. If such an agreement can be made with the existing company Mr. Nichols suggests that it would be to the advantage of the city to reject applications of other concerns. A hearing has been set for May 11 by the board.

"It has been pointed out," reported Mr. Nichols, "that the telephone business in any community must, because of its character, be carried on by one company or by companies whose systems are connected so that a subscriber of one system may connect with subscribers of the other without extra charge. If there are two independent systems many business houses will be obliged to subscribe to both in order to have universal telephone service, and consequently an increased cost is imposed on each subscriber unless tolls are sufficiently decreased by reason of competition.

"If it were possible for the authorities to control the rates and the kind of service of the New York Telephone Company there would seem to be no reason why another company should be allowed to enter the field. It would seem, therefore, that in order to insure improvement in the service, and reduction in tolls, two courses are open to the board. The first is to seek from the telephone company operating the present system a contract with the city which will be in every way as advantageous to the city as the one proposed for the Atlantic Telephone Company. The second course is to grant a franchise to an independent company under a contract which will give to the local authorities a large measure of control such as now is proposed.

"I would therefore suggest that while the board is considering the proposed terms of a grant to an independent company, the New York Telephone Company be requested to enter into such an agreement with the city. If that company refuses, then the present application may be properly granted."

The terms proposed by Mr. Nichols for the Atlantic Company begin with a payment of $250,000 within thirty days after the signing of the contract. Martin W. Littleton, counsel to the company, strongly objects to this clause, and says that the company should not pay more than $100,000. The members of the Board of Estimate believe that the payment of $250,000 should be made immediately on the signing of the contract.

"I have been unable to agree with the representatives of the company as to the amount of the initial payment," says Mr. Nichols, in his report, "the company offering $100,000, while I consider such sum should be not less than $250,000. Certainly $250,000 is not too great a sum to ask the company to pay in order to show its good faith and intention to utilize the great privilege it asks."

Under the proposed contract with the company the city is to have absolute control over the wires of the company, and inefficient service is to be penalized at $100 a day. Existing subways may be used for the company's wires, and if new subways are constructed they are to be sold to the city at cost on the city's demand. At the end of the twenty-five-year franchise period, or of a renewal for twenty-five years more, the plant and all other property, except real estate, must revert to the city without compensation. In addition to paying the city annual percentages with minimums aggregating $2,930,000, the company agrees to furnish 1,000 telephones without charge for the use of the city departments. The report also fixes the rates that may be charged to the general public.

In addition to reporting as above on the Atlantic application, Chief Engineer Nichols made reports on the Star, Commonwealth, New York Independent, and the Great Eastern Companies. Both the Star and Commonwealth Companies were reported against on the ground that neither had entered into proper negotiations with the Bureau of Franchises for a grant. On the Great Eastern the report quoted from the opinion of the Corporation Counsel holding that its New York electric lines franchise was invalid from non-use, while on the New York Independent Company the report held that, under the Appellate Division decision of last year in the West Side electric case, the company could not substantiate its claim for a valid franchise through its control of the Mercantile Electric Company. All of these reports were approved by the board except on the Atlantic, which will be thrashed out in two weeks from yesterday.

After the reports had been acted on Borough President Ahearn offered a resolution which practically took all power from the Bureau of Franchises and called for the reference of all franchise applications to the Controller and the President and Chief Engineer of the borough affected. Mayor McClellan was surprised at the resolution, and Controller Metz interposed and got Mr. Ahearn to withdraw it for the time at least. The Borough President declared he would offer it again later, and he issued a statement in favor of his plan, further urging that there should be a meeting of the Borough Presidents with the Controller to discuss his plan.

MAYOR M'CLELLAN SAW THRILLING FIRE RESCUE

Engraver Picked Off His Signboard in Chambers Street.

"BIG SIX" WAS BURNED OUT

The Printers' Union Hadn't Started Moving Soon Enough—Noon-Hour Throng Saw the Blaze.

Just after the police had formed fire lines around the burning building at 18 Chambers Street yesterday a short, thickset man came out of City Hall Park and pushed hurriedly through the dense crowd. When he tried to pass through a policeman shouted at him:

"Move back. Yer can't git in here."

"I'm the Mayor," said the man, in a gentle, apologetic voice, "and I want to see the fire."

The policeman let Mr. McClellan through, and his two secretaries with him. The blaze was worth looking at. Flames poured out through a dozen windows in No. 18 and No. 20. The space near the intersection of Chambers, Centre, and Duane Streets became so packed with spectators that reserves had to be called out from five police precincts. The three alarms sent in brought out thirteen fire engines and a tower.

William Fuelling, an engraver, was the most conspicuous man at the fire. He hung for several seconds in midair, clinging to his own signboard, while firemen clambered up to rescue him. He reached the ground unhurt.

Mayor McClellan stood opposite the burning building, on the north side of Chambers Street and looked up at the men clambering from one fire-escape to another. Near him stood his assistant secretary, William A. Willis. Before Mr. Willis knew what was happening a fireman switched around a big three-inch hose, and the stream came with full force against the new Spring suit of the Mayor's assistant secretary. After that he didn't enjoy the fire so much.

Typographical Union No. 6, "Big Six," occupied the second floor of both 18 and 20. It lost pretty nearly all its furniture and fixtures; all of them would have been lost if "Big Six" had not already started moving to its new quarters at 74 Lafayette Street.

Where the fire started nobody knows. Secretary Maxwell of "Big Six" says it started in a closet on the second floor. Another member of the union said it started in a barber's shop in the basement. Anyhow, it gained headway so quickly that fifty typesetters were penned in before they knew what was happening. A dozen or two of them jumped out of the windows and the others rushed downstairs through the smoke.

On the ground floor of No. 18 is the Record Café, and next to it, in the building on the Centre Street corner, is Gillespie's saloon, "The Tiger." Above both these saloons were the rooms of the union. Fuelling had the third and fourth floors of No. 20, and the upper floors of No. 18 were empty.

With the second alarm Acting Chief Binns, in the absence of Chief Croker, arrived on the scene. At once he turned in a third alarm. Soon the tower came and had its stream playing on the fire.

Thousands on their way to luncheon stopped to see the firemen's operations. Then the police pushed the crowd back on all sides.

The yet unfinished Hall of Records was turned into a grand stand, and was useful to somebody for the first time. Baffled in their attempts to get a close view, the most enthusiastic spectators clambered up the granite steps and perched beside the two marble women who guard the Centre Street entrance.

The rescue of Fuelling was in full view of the crowds. He was calmly working at his trade when he heard the cry of fire. It had been raised before, but he had been too busy to notice it. Running to the door he saw the halls filled with black smoke. Then he started to the window and looked out. The pavement, forty feet below, did not look soft. Firemen shouted to him and began to put up a ladder against the wall.

It was getting hot behind Fuelling, and the smoke was beginning to enter his nostrils. He stood in his window and made a jump for the end of the long signboard, which bears the words, "William Fuelling Engraver and Die Sinker." He caught it and swung back and forth like a pendulum. Two firemen scrambled up the ladder; Fuelling wriggled toward them and jumped; they caught him. A minute later he was walking around on the ground telling how it felt.

Secretary Maxwell of "Big Six" was in the office when the trouble began. It was already too late to save much, but he remembered to close the two safes, containing money and valuable papers. After the fire, he and H. E. Armstrong, a member of the union, brought both the money box and the papers out safe.

No. 18, above the ground floor, was burned out. The entire block on which it stands will be razed soon to make place for the new Brooklyn Bridge approach.

PLAIN FACTS

Cleanliness is accepted as a rule of self-preservation in every reputable brewery.

An experienced brewer would no more boast of the purity of his beer than a gentleman would brag of having washed his face.

Purity signifies nothing more than the absence of foreign matter.

For that reason brewers who do not dare to test the substantial merits of beer always harp on purity.

A really first-class beer must, however not alone be free from self-evident defects, but it must combine all the positive excellencies known to the science of brewing.

THE TRUE TEST IS ALL-ROUND QUALITY which cannot be had without SUPERIOR MATERIALS, PERFECT TREATMENT and AMPLE STORING CAPACITY.

Upon this issue of positive superiority we challenge all competitors.

Of materials we use only the most excellent, regardless of cost. Corn, the one important substitute, which, on account of its cheapness, has been extensively adopted, never enters our brewery.

Our facilities for brewing beer are unequaled.

Our storing capacity of 600,000 barrels doubles any other brewery in the United States, and enables us to store our beer from four to five months.

Facts speak louder than words.
Publicity is the demand of the day.
The consumer is entitled to the truth.

THE RATE BILL'S PROGRESS.

The friends of the President are berating the Republican opponents of the Rate bill in the Senate for denying Senator TILLMAN'S appeal for an immediate vote. It strikes us that this is a mistake. In the long run it will appear that those Senators who are clamoring for the immediate passage of the Hepburn bill are not the most serviceable friends of the President's rate-making policy.

It is a matter of no small weight and moment, this legislation extending Federal control in a specific and defined manner over the chief corporate business of the country. It affects property represented by securities to the value of more than twelve billion dollars. It is a centralizing measure, augmenting the Federal power and diminishing the relative authority of the States. A statute of this importance demands deliberation in the making. Grave Constitutional questions are involved. There is doubt whether the courts would sustain the Hepburn bill as it passed the House; there is doubt whether an Executive Commission has the Constitutional power to exercise the judicial function of passing upon the reasonableness of an existing rate; there is doubt whether the court review provision is sufficiently broad and explicit, and some of the amendments proposed have been challenged on Constitutional grounds. The Senate would fail of its duty if it did not take time to weigh and examine the Hepburn bill in the light of the Constitution and of public policy.

There is all the more reason for care, deliberation, and scrutiny in the Senate because of the heedless way in which the bill was put through the House, and because of the character of the advice the President has sought in preparing and promoting it. He has continually taken counsel of Senator DOLLIVER, Senator LONG, Senator CLAPP, and Attorney General MOODY, all of whom are eager, assenting, and complacent. They agree with Mr. ROOSEVELT in everything. At the council table the most valuable man is he who opposes, because if his objections and arguments cannot be met it is time for advocacy to re-examine its position. The President does not advise with Senator SPOONER, the best equipped Constitutional lawyer in the Senate, nor with Senator FORAKER, whose speech and criticism of the Hepburn bill were of a quality to be taken account of by the supporters of the measure had they been altogether wise; nor has he paid heed to Senator KNOX, who has very high qualifications as an adviser about legislation of this nature. The advice of Secretary ROOT does not appear to have been sought by the President, yet one would say that an executive officer having at his elbow an adviser of that degree of eminence would without fail seek to profit by his counsel and criticisms.

It must be said that the Hepburn bill does not by its origin and authorship inspire the highest confidence. The perfectly demonstrable fact that the bill is uncalled for, and that it is no remedy for the real abuses at which through confusion of mind it is aimed, should of itself make the Senate wary of accepting on trust what the House adopted practically without challenge, save from Mr. LITTLEFIELD and Mr. MCCALL. The more haste the less speed, probably. It is well for the country, and in our belief it is well for the President, that Senator SPOONER, Senator ALDRICH, Senator FORAKER, Senator ELKINS, Senator CRANE, Senator KEAN, and those who share their opinions of this legislation, have declined to gratify Mr. TILLMAN'S wish for an immediate vote.

UNDERPAID PUBLIC SERVANTS.

The pleading of Secretary BONAPARTE for higher salaries in the higher Federal posts is a sound one, though it does not follow, nor does he argue, that the salaries would have to be as high as those paid in private life, or as great as the incomes to be obtained in the professions by such men as Mr. ROOT or himself. By the gradual advancement of the standard of ability and character for appointive officers and by improvement in the tenure of all but the very highest offices, the service of the Government would offer a degree of credit to those entering it which would offset some inferiority in pay.

This principle works out very well in the army and navy and in the judiciary, But it still would remain true that we pay our best men much too little. We make Cabinet service, for example, a source of considerable expense to those engaged in it, which is absurd.

On the other hand, we pay ordinary service much more liberally than it is paid in private business and exact much less work in return. The saving possible by readjustment would more than meet probably the expense of decent pay for the higher offices. As the incumbents of the latter are to the ordinary employés about as 1 to 200, the chances of reform can mathematically be reckoned.

THE SITUATION IN FRANCE.

The approach of the French elections, which take place on May 6, gives greater importance to the excitement there prevailing than it would have in ordinary times. On the other hand, it is not to be doubted that the nearness of the elections has stimulated some of the politicians to extend the excitement as far as possible. The disturbance of the public mind arises from two distinct sources and affects two classes of the population, which, however, the agitators are trying to get to work together for the overthrow of the present Ministry. One of these sources is the enforcement of the law for the separation of Church and State; the other is the labor movement. The former influences on the one hand the remnants of the old Legitimist Party, reinforced in some degree by remnants of the old Bonapartist faction, and on the other the peasantry throughout the agricultural parts of the republic, except the south. The latter influences almost exclusively the operatives of the manufacturing towns and the workmen of the large cities, with the miners of the northwest. These, as we have said, are not only distinct classes, but are ordinarily rather bitterly opposed to each other. The first is by temperament and tradition extremely conservative; the second embraces all there is of militant Socialism in France, and is in spirit fanatically anti-clerical.

Their present co-operation, or, to speak more correctly, the present effort by leaders to secure co-operation between them, has its roots in political expediency. For this reason it is improbable that it can go very far. It is almost certainly doomed to discord and defeat when it advances to a point where the leaders have to decide on a practical policy. The aims of the two elements in the combination are so contradictory that they are not likely to stand the strain of positive, affirmative action. It is quite within the range of possibility that the combination may prevent the present Government from securing a majority in the elections. The radicals and the extreme conservatives may unite to put out of their way a common obstacle. But the certainty of division so soon as that is accomplished may prevent its accomplishment, and the Government may retain its hold on the Chamber of Deputies.

We regard the question of the Church as of more intrinsic and enduring importance than the question of labor, because it threatens to arouse more bitter passions between more clearly defined classes. There are signs already that the Ministers will reach a working agreement with the labor or Socialist leaders, or with the more practical of them, and that the recent marked tendency toward violence will be checked without an open conflict with the armed forces of order.

M. CLEMENCEAU is quite equal to the management of such a situation, because he is equal to prefacing a stern use of force by what seems extreme tenderness for the classes that may be sincerely misled. But the management of the religious question is more difficult and infinitely more intricate. Much will depend on the final attitude of the authorities of the Church—both those at Rome and the Bishops of France—toward the formation of "associations for worship" contemplated by the law of separation. There is a decidedly strong movement among the enlightened Catholics, such men, for example, as M. RIBOT and M. CHARMES, toward a policy as conciliatory as possible on the part of the churchmen, but it is too soon to say how far it will succeed. In the long run, we think that the Church will be obliged to accept separation in the fullest sense of the term, and to organize its forces independent of aid or authority or intervention from the State, but the process will be a tedious one. In the meanwhile we shall be disappointed and surprised if the present disturbances or the elections now so near result in any serious danger to the republic.

IMMIGRATION FOR THE SOUTH.

A year ago the North German Lloyd Steamship Company established a line of steamers from Bremen to Galveston. Its first ship carried 15 immigrants; the latest carried 1,100. That is a fact that encourages the project of the company to establish a line from Bremen to New Orleans. Mr. F. VON PILLIS, who has charge of the steerage traffic of the company, is now in the South to advance a plan for a more general distribution of immigration to the agricultural States. He is convinced that the plan will work. In a recent interview in The Herald he says:

> There will not be a continuance of the flood of immigration that marked 1905 and the first three months of this year. Political conditions in Europe caused this. From now on America may look for a healthy flow of foreigners to its shores, and they will be of a better class than many that have come recently. The biggest number will come from Southern Russia, Roumania, Bulgaria, and Hungary, and will be of German blood—a good, sturdy people, who will become splendid Americans and develop rapidly the regions they populate. * * * Italians will continue to pour into America, and there will be a steady inflow from Germany and all the German provinces.

This is a view of the situation that the members of Congress who are so eager for further regulation of immigration would do well to study.

PROF. GIDDINGS AND "THE GORKYS."

Prof. GIDDINGS of Columbia University entertains a grievance against his countrymen, possibly still more against his countrywomen, for what he calls "The Social Lynching of GORKY and ANDREIEVA," and in the current number of The Independent he struggles mightily to tell what it is. Mightily, but to our perception ineffectually. His statement of his case suffers from a certain, or uncertain, vagueness which we have had occasion to regret in some of his statements of other cases. An even better writer than Prof. GIDDINGS, EDMUND BURKE, confessed that he did not know the method of drawing up an indictment against a whole people, and, though Prof. GIDDINGS does not make the confession, he does not well perform the task. For his specification is no more specific than that "the mighty American people" "has morally and socially lynched two distinguished visitors, MAXIM GORKY and Mme. ANDREIEVA, for unconventional marital relations."

This lacks specification, but it still more distinctly lacks accuracy. Strictly speaking there is no such thing as "unconventional marital relations." When two people who are not man and wife choose to live together as man and wife so long as it may suit their inclination and convenience, their relation is not "marital." It is simply that of "unlawful cohabitation." The status of Mme. ANDREIEVA is simply that of the mistress of the Russian novelist and revolutionist. In civilized countries it is understood that such a relation is not to be flaunted or brandished. It is the business of the parties concerned only so long as they keep it to themselves and do not force it upon public notice. But a man who insists upon introducing his mistress as his wife suffers social pains and penalties which execute themselves automatically. If they choose to keep house together, they do not expect to be visited or socially recognized by persons who profess stricter standards.

We are inclined to believe that social opinion in Russia is more tolerant of these irregularities than social opinion outside of Russia, certainly in the circle in which "the Gorkys" move, but also in circles in most respects more conventional. But a foreign visitor is charged with knowledge of the social customs of the land he visits, and has nothing to complain of if he violates them and incurs the consequences. It is quite true, as Prof. GIDDINGS says, that Queen VICTORIA received the Shah of Persia, and quite true that the Sultan of Sulu might be received at the White House. But in either case it would be understood that he must leave his harem behind him.

And, after all, what is this "social lynching"? Sundry innkeepers have declined to harbor "the Gorkys" upon the simple ground that if they did they would harbor nobody else. But there is nothing whatever to hinder anybody who sees fit to associate with them from continuing to do so. What is it that Prof. GIDDINGS would have? He cannot really expect to procure a "social and moral" mandamus commanding and compelling the unwilling to call on "the Gorkys." But he can leave his own pasteboard at their door, if he can find it, in any quantities needed to assure them of his sympathy and condolence. He can even instigate a procession of pasteboard bearers to lodge that cheap and easy protest against the "persecution" which attends gentlemen who attempt to foist upon society as their wives ladies to whom they are not united in wedlock.

The editor of The Independent, one notes with interest, has felt compelled to file a mild disclaimer of the position of his contributor. The editor points out that, if he were an American, GORKY would probably have been lawfully off with the old love and lawfully on with the new. Very likely. But the point is that he is not, and it seems rather too much to require that the American public should dislocate their own standards of social propriety because it is a Russian who seems to expect that his mistress shall be received as his wife. The editor, however, seems to express a concurrence with the view of VICTOR CHERBULIEZ that "the man who invented matrimony knew what he was about." For a French novelist, that was certainly a handsome and candid admission. But Prof. GIDDINGS seems to think that the French novelist went much too far.

Texas is suing the Meat Trust for $12,000,000 penalties under the anti-trust laws. Texas knows its own affairs best. At this distance it seems that Texas will have to eat its own cattle or send them to Chicago for sale to the same buyers. We yield to none in our hatred of bad trusts, but we would like to know how the indulgence of that sentiment will give employment to 5,000 employés of the Meat Trust when it is expelled from Texas, and how Texas or any Texan will profit by the withdrawal of an investment of $7,000,000 in Texas. The expulsion of capital is not the best way of building up Texas industries, which lack nothing so much as capital.

The anti-rebate agitation has a result as welcome as strange. Mighty as the railway interest is, in this matter it has succumbed to the strategy of the big shippers. To get their trade the railways have made all sorts of concessions, but at last one of the strongest of the trusts has succumbed. The harvester combine has accepted the adjustment of car charges demanded by the railways, and will pay over a sum to be settled, but certain to require six figures to express it. And the constitutionality of the Hepburn bill is not yet settled.

President ROOSEVELT has expressed his opinion of the Federal judiciary, and Mr. HEARST has denounced the State legislators to whom he was appealing as venal creatures unworthy of his millions. We are not concerned to defend either the judiciary or the Legislature at the moment. What is worth while noticing is the progress made by the men with the muck-rake in fostering a high opinion of our institutions. Really it ought to be possible to differ with either of these gentlemen—or with anybody, in fact—upon public matters without public denunciation and imputations of motives. We cannot all think alike, but that is no reason why half of us should have license to denounce the other half as lacking in either sense or virtue. That is how a certain impression of American affairs is spread abroad. We discount oversea campaign civilities, and even disorders in foreign Parliaments, but our foreign friends seem to believe all we say about ourselves, and then add embroideries of their own.

The proffered gift to the State of the picturesque mountain shore of the Hudson in Rockland County, north of Piermont Creek, to be included in the Palisades Park at Stony Point, has been rejected by the Hon. GEORGE R. MALBY, Chairman of the Finance Committee of the Senate. Mr. MALBY seems to be espousing the cause of the defacers of Hook Mountain. The gift has not been rejected by the Finance Committee, however, who have forced from their Chairman's restraining hands the enabling bill. A "fierce fight" on the floor has been predicted. Senator MALBY'S attack in the open must be ferocious indeed to prevent the bill's passage.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Good Story, but Bad Logic. There is more than a little probability that Magistrate BREEN produced exactly the good effect he intended, when, before giving "another chance" to a young pickpocket arraigned before him, he used an old thief as a living illustration of the rewards that come to those who try to live on the proceeds of crime. The "horrible example" was 72 years old, homeless, penniless and friendless, and he confessed—rather proudly, by the way—to indulgence in larceny for fifty-two years. The Magistrate made the obvious and appropriate remarks, and the boy, seemingly impressed, promised to reform. Perhaps he will, and perhaps because of this lesson, which was certainly a good one in many ways and likely to be commented upon admiringly in many quarters, including more than a few sermons. And yet—and yet—well, the Magistrate must have known in his heart that there was something wrong with his logic and that there was a dangerous possibility that even the intelligence of a young pickpocket would see the weak link and mention it in open court, much to his Honor's embarrassment. Suppose the boy had said, in effect: "Yes, the old man is a pitiable spectacle, but I cannot see that his lamentable condition proves anything except that in his case stealing did not pay. I can go through the slums and find scores and scores of men as old as he, as poor and as friendless, who, so far as known, have never stolen, but always have worked to the extent of their strength at honest trades. On the other hand, I know of men, in the slums and out of them, who have lived worse lives than this old fellow and yet have apparently escaped all of his ills except the common penalties of age. My own impression is that this man didn't really know how to steal, or what, and that he illustrates the rewards of incompetency rather than those of crime." What would Magistrate BREEN have said to that? It could have been answered, no doubt, but by no means as easily as could his own implied syllogism, and it contained at least as much truth as his. It is hardly to be expected that the young pickpocket could have argued the case in any such way as this, but he may have had a vague consciousness that somehow or other the conclusion forced upon him as the price of his discharge from custody was not the finality it pretended to be. If he did, the promise to reform is not a good insurable risk.

To Help a Right and a Duty. Berlin City's Council, after a calm discussion of President ROOSEVELT'S declination of foreign contributions for the San Francisco earthquake sufferers, has decided to inform the American Ambassador that Berlin has a right as well as a duty to assist in the work of relief. That puts this very delicate and difficult question in a new light. When the President first announced, in courteous terms, that, though he thoroughly appreciated the kindness prompting the offers of assistance from abroad, yet the United States was both able and willing to take care of its own, and therefore he thought best to decline with heartfelt thanks, there was a general impression, we think, that he had taken the right view of the case. At the same time it was felt that there was something ungracious as well as unusual in such a declination, and it was soon realized that the President's course would tend to make against international comity and good temper. This apprehension has been fully justified. Our foreign friends were at once hurt and angry, and they have said several harsh things about us. Yet what the President claimed was quite true. We can meet all the needs of the people of San Francisco; more than that, we have already done it; we didn't need help, and there would have been a certain humiliation in accepting it. But Berlin says that she has a right and a duty to do her part in the work of relief, and perhaps that is so. It is not only that an American city has been destroyed; San Francisco was also a part of civilization, and as such civilization does have a sort of right as well as a sort of duty to give and to help. Of course if she insists nobody can prevent it, or at least nobody will. There are other ways of sending money than through the President, and other acknowledgments of its receipt than those given under Government authority. The United States has always sent aid in case of catastrophes abroad, and the aid has always been accepted, apparently with no thought that it was at the expense of self-respect. In many instances, too, there was no question as to the ability of the country in which the disaster occurred to meet the wants of its citizens. The question can be argued from one side about as well as from the other. The President's solution of it will make trouble for us the next time our own emotions are effectually moved by foreign misfortune, and that is a particularly lamentable phase of the situation.

Mosquitos Attacked in Earnest. In determining to spend $50,000 a year for the next seven years in fighting her mosquitos, New Jersey has evidenced a most commendable appreciation of a duty that many, or most, of the States have as yet ignored. It is still a little hard to take the mosquito seriously, for the creature has always been viewed with an annoyance into which there entered an element of humor, and the knowledge that he, or rather she, is quite the most dangerous of all wild beasts is still so new that few of us are yet ready to live up to it. New Jersey has taken the warnings of science to heart promptly, perhaps because the mosquito pest has had more of meaning for her than for some of the other States. She has laughed a little at her mosquitos, and other people have laughed much at them, but they have interfered with the sale of real estate as well as with the preservation of health, and therefore—the appropriation of $350,000. It is a good deal of money, but not much when contrasted with the added values that would be Jersey's if she could exterminate all of her mosquitos. There is little chance that it is enough to accomplish that great work, but it will make a very respectable beginning. It is to be hoped that little or none of it will be wasted on the killing of hatched mosquitos. The insects must be attacked further back than that if a real and permanent victory over them is to be won.

SMALL TALK OF WASHINGTON.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, April 27.—"I am rejoiced to note," remarked Senator Bailey as Senator Foraker took his seat after introducing the Ohio Legislature's court review amendment, "that cordial relations have been re-established between the Senator from Ohio and the Ohio Legislature."

"Oh, yes," quickly responded Mr. Foraker, "there has been at no time any lack of cordiality in our relations. They have at all times been more than cordial—in fact, they were even warm."

While John Sharp Williams was making his tariff speech to-day, Hill of Connecticut, made constant interruptions. Every time Williams answered, Hill would cut him off with a determined effort to extract a yea or nay answer. Finally Williams, looking patiently over to where he was obviously waiting to bob up again, said:

"The gentleman from Connecticut frequently makes me look as if I were in agreement with him, because frequently he is so persistent I would rather appear to be wrong than argue with him further."

After that Hill allowed Williams to state his propositions in his own way.

MONTE CARLO'S RECORD YEAR.

Bank Already $500,000 Ahead of Last Year's Gains.

From The London Telegraph.

NICE, April 17.—The Casino at Monte Carlo has had a record year. The bank's winnings amount to £100,000 more than last year.

The remarkable fact is that, notwithstanding that all this money has been lost by the public, so many of the public should be winners. Some never lose! True, it is but seldom that visitors have the good fortune of the young Pole Count Jean Sobansky, who recently, late in the evening, won some £14,000, from which he made a large present to a lady who brought him luck.

Perhaps nothing amazes the novice more than to see a punter leave his pile of notes untouched on the table. The punter has won again, and the croupier picks up the notes and counts them deliberately, spreading out each note in front of him on the table—one, two, three, * * * eleven, twelve thousand (francs,) replaces them on the winning color, takes 12,000 from the packet on his right, and again counts solemnly one to twelve thousand, and throws them on the top of the punter's packet.

Where is the punter? Why does he not take his money? He has actually gone to another table and is punting there also. Will he come back? No; and the deal goes on, and perhaps the pile is again increased by another 12,000.

The New England Newspaper

From The Chicago Evening Post.

The calm, contemplative state of the New England temperament was admirably illustrated last Thursday morning when an esteemed Massachusetts contemporary appeared with its not unusual edition of sixteen pages. The first and second pages were devoted to small display advertisements. The third page was surrendered, as usual, to sporting gossip. The fourth and fifth pages were given over to local news and advertisements. The sixth and seventh pages chronicled general New England news, with the proceedings of the State Legislature. The eighth page was taken up with the customary excellent editorial matter, and on the ninth page the subscribers were treated to the information that something had happened in California. Those who are familiar with the New England mind and its dignified workings will see in this arrangement a wise and methodical distribution of the news. Your true Yankee takes the inevitable imperturbably and serenely. He scorns a newspaper that does not properly work up to its climax of daily news. At his breakfast table he calmly sits down to small advertisements, local happenings, and well-seasoned reading matter, and thus fortifies his system against any shocks that may be sprung on the tenth or twelfth page. Thus his mind absorbs everything and loses nothing. It is a great scheme—for Massachusetts.

Coals of Fire from China.

From The Montreal Gazette.

The Empress of China is sending $50,000 for the relief of the white sufferers by the San Francisco disaster. San Francisco has had the reputation of being the home of the most extreme anti-Chinese sentiment in America. Perhaps the Empress has been studying Christian literature, and hopes to melt the San Francisco Caucasian heart by heaping coals of fire on the San Francisco Caucasian head.

The Dead and Disease.

From The Chicago Chronicle.

It is a great mistake to suppose that there is danger of disease in San Francisco on account of the decaying bodies of the dead. It has been proved in many ways that the exhalations of decaying animal matter are not injurious to health and there are even reasons for thinking that they are beneficial. Bridgeport is the healthiest part of Chicago. The decay that is deadly is the decay of vegetable matter. A single decayed cabbage leaf is more dangerous than the entire Union stockyards.

THE S. P. C. A. CLEAN CORNER

And the Sweeping Still to be Done—Could Not Women Help?

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Every true friend of the S. P. C. A. will regret to read the news you print this morning that the most practical Director in that organization, Col. Joel B. Erhardt, has left it. The loss of Col. Erhardt, the original reformer in the society of the departed Haines, is the most serious blow it has yet sustained. There departed with him, the best possible President the society could have had.

But he left behind him some advice which the organization will do well to take to heart. The stray dogs of this big city, the ill-used horses, the starved and abandoned cats for whose benefit the S. P. C. A. exists, want none of the gorgeous pile at Madison Avenue and Twenty-sixth Street which for so long advertised (with other people's money) the virtues of Col. Haines. They do need more sub-stations of the society—there should be one in every police precinct—each with a watchful guardian to safeguard it. They need Directors of the S. P. C. A. who will direct, and who have time to devote to directing its operations. And such Directors are to be found in the philanthropic, practical women of this city.

Let the S. P. C. A. call to a conference the good women who manage so successfully the good work of the Bide-a-Wee Home and the Henry Bergh Society. Let them invite some of these women to places in the Directorate. Let the work of the three organizations be united and pushed forward till the S. P. C. A. really counts more than it has done in New York in lessening the sum total of the misery of dumb beasts.

As Col. Erhardt says, "one corner of the room has been swept. The rest of the room is not clean."—Then bring in a few new brooms. They are sweeping their own corners with effect, and the S. P. C. A. should give them larger opportunities.

A FRIEND OF THE ANIMALS.

New York, April 27, 1906.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am glad to learn that there was one sensible Director in the S. P. C. A. I am sorry to see that he has left it. I hope the reformers in the society will heed the wise counsel he has left with them. Women do not want to intrude in men's affairs, but if caring for the poor animals is not women's work as well as men's, I would like to know what is.

The Crapsey Trial.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am much interested in the trial of the Rev. Dr. A. S. Crapsey, and am in favor of the stand he is taking in regard to certain set rules of the Church.

The people of this country, or, rather, of this age, are at fault, inasmuch as they are not willing to accept anything that does not conform to the cut-and-dried superstition of the ecclesiastical world. When a man has enough courage of his own convictions, and with a faith in the correctness of his views, is bold enough to proclaim them from the housetops, as it were, he is at once looked upon with awe and dread, and from a whispering of heresy there comes an open accusation.

Truth is everlasting and is unchangeable. What was truth a thousand years ago is truth to-day. Whether there is truth attached to Dr. Crapsey's statements—in regard to the birth of Jesus—is not for us to affirm or deny; but we can say with all the teachings of science supporting us that the law of nature is as unchangeable as the law of truth, and that miracles were no more possible in the time of Christ than they are in this day.

DUDLEY HENRI.

New York April 27, 1906.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

In your report of the Crapsey trial you say:

"He [Crapsey] says he denies the virgin birth, but he does not deny the immaculate conception."

What has the immaculate conception to do with the doctrines of the Protestant Episcopal Church? The doctrine of the immaculate conception is an article of the Roman Catholic faith and became so in 1854. P. B. S.

Facts Accurately Told.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your publication to-day of the facts in regard to the accident at the Hotel Martha Washington was a fulfillment of a prophecy that, "THE TIMES will give it correctly." Had you been present it could not have been more truthfully described. The house was so little disturbed that few knew of it until several hours had elapsed.

All the sensational stories published in regard to this world-famous hostelry for women, named in honor of a Southern lady, have only caused amusement while increasing tremendously the patronage of the hotel.

The wonderful impetus given to your paper is a just reward for the clean, able, statesmanlike and satisfying way in which it has always been conducted, as those of us who have read it for more than two decades can testify.

We rejoice in your prosperity, and wish you, "Bon voyage."

Blind Law That Shoots Straight.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The accounts we read of the killing of men in San Francisco for not heeding commands to stop, given by amateur soldiers, and the astonishing reasons given for justifying such slaughter, make one ask if all respect for human life has gone away in the United States. Here is a man driving an automobile who is shot dead "because he would not stop," and half a dozen, at least, of such killings occur every day, which, when telegraphed over the world, excite no remark or comment whatever, not even in THE TIMES!

Nor are these particular incidents isolated; ever and again we hear of some one arrested perhaps for picking pockets, breaking loose from his policeman captor, shot, and seriously wounded, or even killed.

Is there any other civilized country in the world where such things can occur?

Concerning Bockses.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Regarding "henry beamus" "Maskott" is to be congratulated. Carried away by his desire to use a famous expression concerning Homer, he jumped with no apparent thought at the conclusion that there was but one known kind of "bocks." Evidently it did not strike him that there are, besides a pitcher's bocks, several other kinds, such as cigar "bocks," ice "bocks," or a batsman's "bocks." If "Maskott" will stray from the paths of literature, let him think before he speaks or look before he leaps. LAWRENCE.

Assurance Not Complete.

From The Hartford Courant.

It should be quieting and reassuring to some very nervous brethren to find the President speaking of Gen. Horace Porter in his Annapolis address as "our former Ambassador," and not as "my" former Ambassador. Unless, indeed—horrid thought—Mr. Roosevelt's "we" is the "we" of the Crowned Heads.

OAKLAND GETS THE TIMES.

Even If There Is Financial Stringency in "M. E. C.'s" Family There.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Will you please ask the business office to send us THE TIMES?

We'll send you a dollar when the banks are open. We do not dare to part with any money; we have only $5, which is great wealth, for the people next door have only 50 cents. M. E. C.

Dr. Atkins Alive and Thankful.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I am glad to be among the living after two narrow escapes—one from earthquake, the other from gas explosion. Lost everything—all manuscript, scientific instruments, &c., but will continue my scientific work as soon as possible.

There are 300,000 others in the same condition, but we do not feel discouraged. The saddest thing is yet to come when this city confronts the problem of every-day life after the excitement is over.

The Need of Surgical Appliances.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I have received a most pathetic letter from a leading physician in San Francisco, dated the 21st, in which he says:

> Words cannot express the awful calamity which has befallen our beautiful and great-hearted city. I am surrounded on every side with heartsick, homeless, penniless people. I lost all my manuscripts, all my instruments and records went up in smoke, but I will start again and try to commence on the work. At the present I must relieve the sick. What the doctors need here is operating chairs, surgical instruments of all kinds—immediately. This is very important, and I hope in some way that this will not be overlooked by the generous public. Will you report to the New York papers as stated in this letter? I am, yours in sorrow.

I beg to call this subject to your attention as requested, because it seems to me that no one will think of or can imagine the terrible deprivation this must be to the medical profession of San Francisco. Medical men who might not be willing to give their instruments might temporarily loan them to their professional brethren. CLARK BELL.

New York, April 27, 1906.

Wake Up, New York!

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Talk to me no more of the slowness of Philadelphia! A few months ago they began to tear down a 50 by 100 feet property near my Fifth Avenue office. When I left New York this week they had actually "touched bottom," and were fairly engaged in further excavation.

About the same time a business friend here was obliged to vacate his quarters after due warning. He did business up to 5:30 P. M. Saturday, and took the next three hours to remove his unsold stock. When I arrived on the scene before noon Monday the roof was off and part of the third story down. Returning to-night, less than three months later, I find the second story beams of a building a block long in their place, while my neighboring cellar in New York is still but partly excavated!

This incident reminds me of another. A prominent New York publisher told me of a visit to an attorney here who impressed him with possessing unusual capacity. Upon leaving he remarked with much earnestness:

"You ought to come to New York; that's the place for you!"

"Why?" inquired the "Philadelphia lawyer."

"You could make a hundred thousand a year there," was the response. Little wind was left in the New York sails when the attorney said quietly:

"I see no reason to do that when I am making $200,000 here!"

A DIMINISHED GOTHAMITE.

Bearing Reins Not Good "Form."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The letter in your issue of last Monday protesting against the cruelty of short bearing reins is entirely to the point. That they are a cruelty no one can doubt who has ever been forced to maintain a constrained and unnatural position for even the period of ten minutes, and for a horse thus held for several hours at a time, often, too, with his face directly toward the sun's rays, it does become a torture, not only at the time, but he returns to his stable sore and stiff, fretted, and feverish.

I believe that the fault does not generally lie at the door of the owner, except as it may be a "sin of omission," in not insisting that his horses shall be properly harnessed. Those chiefly to blame are the unintelligent so-called "swell coachmen," who blindly follow the precept and example of others as ignorant and prejudiced as themselves, men who perhaps may know fairly well how to groom a horse, but certainly do not know how to harness or drive him. The custom is not one that prevails with those who are best versed as to what is the most stylish and correct "form."

Pipe Lines and Railroad Rates.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Your editorial on "The Guilt of Standard Oil" raises two questions:

First—Was the right of way used by the pipe lines procured by voluntary purchase or through the use of the State right of eminent domain?

Second—If the latter, why are not the pipe lines common carriers open to all on equal terms and subservient to the inter-State commerce law?

Of course, it is an important franchise which ought to contribute to the expenses of Government through taxation. If, however, the Standard Oil Company or any of its subsidiary corporations purchased this right of way for its pipe line in the open market without condemnation or threat of condemnation, it certainly is entitled to the profit for its accruing enterprise.

The railroad transportation rates may be too high. If so, they should be reduced; but transportation by a private pipe line should not be the measure of railroad freight rates.

New York, April 26, 1906. FAIR PLAY.

Gorky and the Apollo Belvedere.

From The London Chronicle.

The sentiment which has driven the Russian novelist Gorky from hotel to hotel in New York is worthier than that which induced another American town to clothe the naked limbs of the Apollo Belvedere. But the strength of the sentiment against irregular unions revealed by this incident in New York is somewhat incongruous in view of the facility with which divorce can be obtained in the States. In spite of "modern" notions, much of the old Puritan leaven remains in the great Republic. * * * Gorky may attack social conventions in his books, but America will not suffer him to be lionized in the States when he is traveling with a woman not his wife. There is something grotesque in New York acting as a censor of morals. Yet to have done so without the stimulus of a Nonconformist conscience to impel it forward shows that it was obeying a deep instinct of its nature.

A WORD TO THE FOUR-WALLED.

Cut loose for a day,
  Take the trolley and swing
To a meadowy way
  And know that it's Spring.

Go feel the wind's mirth
  When it kisses the clover;
Loaf, idle—let Earth
  Create you all over!

There's a bird! give him heed!
  Watch the trees, hear the brook—
For, if only you'll read,
  All the world is a book!

In the field the mole burrows
  Where the young wheat has birth—
Get the feel of brown furrows,
  Get the joy of the Earth!

And you'll come back to men,
  And you'll come back to labor,
With fresh flame for your pen,
  And more love for your neighbor.

RED RUSSIA GIVES US A REAL CITIZEN

He's 11-Year-Old Joine Chawin, and He's a Walker.

TRAMPED SOME 700 MILES

He Had to to Reach His Steamship Ticket—Father Killed by Cossacks and Mother Cut Down.

Eleven-year-old Joine Chawin was the hero of Hester Street yesterday.

Pink-cheeked, happy, and full of vigor, though fresh from harrowing experiences among the slaughtering Cossacks in Russia, who slew his father and probably murdered his mother also, he stood in front of his sister's home last evening, the idol of a crowd of boys in the neighborhood who had come to worship at his shrine.

Commissioner of Immigration Watchorn yesterday said that some day Joine would be a millionaire. His band of worshippers in Hester Street said so, too. Indifferent to the encomiums which were showered upon him by his new American chums, he looked the part of the master.

"And jes' to t'ink, Jimmy," said one of his admirers in a half whisper of awe, "he walks 700 miles in two mont's, an' he's as fat as butter."

"Sure!" responded Jimmy. "All the way from O'Keefe to Whatchucallem and not lose an ounce. Say, that's goin' some."

Joine the stoic submitted to this eulogistic criticism, and never budged when Jimmy, with more temerity than the rest, marched up and gently pushed a dirty forefinger in his plump cheek to see if it was real.

Unable to speak anything but Russian, Joine came all the way from Kief to New York, by way of Rotterdam, going through a lot of trouble, and at last landing at this port, a longed-for haven of refuge. He walked the 700 miles between Kief and Rotterdam, and, although supplied with enough money to buy food, his experiences were altogether calculated to show that he is made of unusual human fabric and that his power of endurance and strain of perseverance are far above the ordinary.

As he told his story last night through his sister, Joine lived with his father and mother in Kief about six months ago, when the Jewish massacres occurred. His father was a small merchant. One night the Cossacks swept down upon the Chawin home and cut the father's throat.

Mrs. Chawin, grabbing the boy, broke for the street, but before she could get out a sabre cut her down and she lay still. The boy, thinking that his mother had been killed, ran into the street. The Cossacks chased him until he found refuge in a clump of bushes on the outskirts of the town.

It was a bloody night in Kief, and hundreds of Jews were killed. The boy, frightened and heartbroken, lay hidden through the carnage until morning, when he went to the house of a woman who had been his mother's friend.

"I'll keep you," she said, "but you must pay me for it." The boy started to turn away, when he remembered that perhaps his sister in New York, Mrs. Annie Schecter of 86 Hester Street, would help him.

"Let me stay here until I hear from her," he said, "and I'm sure she'll send you money." The woman agreed, and the boy didn't leave her house for a month. Meantime he had written to and had received a reply from his sister, who had sent money and transportation to New York for him and the mother. Joine sought his mother and found that she had been taken to a hospital and then removed somewhere else. He thinks she died.

With a small sum of money and transportation across the Atlantic assured if he got to Rottendam, Joine then started for the latter port to come across. He didn't have enough money to ride, so he walked. He made the trip in about sixty days, after suffering great fatigue. When he left he told the woman with whom he had been stopping what he intended doing.

"What!" she exclaimed, "walk to Rotterdam. Why, you might as well try to walk to New York."

"You don't know me," he said. "I can do anything I want to if I try hard enough." Then he started to Rotterdam.

There was a ticket awaiting him at the Holland-America pier, and he took steerage passage on the New Amsterdam. The boat arrived at New York on Friday. He went to Ellis Island with other immigrants and told his story. It was so unusual that it was brought to the attention of Commissioner Watchorn, who examined the lad through an interpreter.

"You are destined to be a great man," said the Commissioner; "you have every requisite to success in this world."

"I'm going to do my best," replied the lad modestly. "If I only get half a chance I think I'll get there." He was then turned over to his sister, who will send him to school.

ARTS AND CRAFTS ORGANIZE.

National Society of Craftsmen Formed To Have an Exhibition Here.

A new organization of arts and crafts was formed in the galleries of the National Arts Club, 37 and 39 West Thirty-fourth Street, yesterday, under the title of the National Society of Craftsmen. Individual craftsmen from various parts of the country met in convention, and as a result the first National society of arts and crafts ever formed in the United States was organized, with a charter membership of 150.

Spencer Trask was elected President and Prof. Arthur W. Dow of Columbia University Vice President. Other officers elected were John J. Murphy, Secretary, and Emerson McMillan, Treasurer. The following were elected Directors: Amy M. Hicks, Frederick S. Lamb, and Charles de Kay, three years; Anna B. Leonard, Florence Foote, Charles H. Barr, and Edward D. Page, two years, and Mrs. Charlotte Busck, Miss E. N. Heller, J. W. Fosdick, and Miss Louise Cowperthwaite, one year.

Frederick S. Lamb presided. Addresses pertaining to the work of the new society were made by Taber Sears, Charles Volkmar, and J. W. Fosdick.

The object of the new society is to promote the creation and sale of products of the arts and crafts, which comprise examples of wood carving, metal work, including jewelry, textiles in various forms, bookbinding, stained glass, pottery, ceramics, and designs in a special class. Also to maintain a permanent exhibition of these art works and to establish a bureau of information for craftsmen and clients.

The society has voted to arrange with the National Arts Club for studio quarters in the new building now being built in Gramercy Park and which will be ready for occupancy in the Fall. Sir Caspar Purdon Clarke will go abroad this Summer to aid in the selection of European examples for the exhibition.

Maxwell's Arbor Day Plans.

City Superintendent Maxwell has issued instructions to the Principals of all the city schools relative to the proper observance of Arbor Day on May 4. The form of observance, he says, must be determined by conditions in each school, but he wishes to emphasize particularly the importance of making the actual planting of trees, shrubs, and flowers the chief feature of the day.

BINGHAM FEELS SURE.

Confident of His Ability to Deal with a Certain Police Situation.

Twice a day—just before luncheon and just before dinner—the reporters at Police Headquarters file into the Commissioner's office one after the other. They are there for the daily interviews. Sometimes they have much to ask; sometimes little. But they always ask something, lest the custom fall into innocuous desuetude. Sometimes Gen. Bingham receives them with a cheerful, chirpy air; more often he receives them with an air of settled resignation for the worst.

At the onset just before luncheon yesterday morning he received them with the air of resignation, but as the spokesman proceeded slowly with his first question the light of inspiration came into Gen. Bingham's eyes and he braced up. The spokesman said:

"If raids are made on poolrooms or gambling houses in any precinct by some society, acting independently of the Captain of the said precinct, will there be an investigation of the possible reasons why the Captain of that precinct did not make such raids; and will the Captain be put on trial for neglect of duty?"

Stopping but a moment to catch his breath Gen. Bingham, without moving an eyelid, answered:

"In spite of newspaper hallucinations, there will be concentration in hope of inspiration for an investigation, resulting in co-operation and combination and final condemnation and incarceration."

Then everybody felt that his whole duty had been done, and the reporters filed slowly out.

A DAMPENED MUSE.

Seaman Coffey Slides Into the River, but Still Makes Poetry.

William Coffey, A. B., of the armored cruiser Pennsylvania, now in the North River, sat on the sea wall of the East River Park, at the foot of Ninetieth Street, yesterday. There were tears in his eyes as he idly dangled his legs over the water and bellowed his secret sorrow:

Oh, they gives us beef on Sunday
And they hashes it for Monday
And embalm it fur the other days
To keep us good and well.
Oh, there's some as lives at ease,
But they ain't upon the seas
With the boys what runs the Navy
Of your Uncle Sam-u-el!

"Here, you!" roared Policeman Adams, "Cut it out."

Mr. Coffey paid no attention, but passed into the fourth canto:

When the swell ones comes to visit,
Then they feed us on whatizit,
And the swell ones goes away and says
They feeds us very well.
But you take a tip from Willie—

"Here, you!" cried Adams, roughly seizing the sailor. "Come off'n that wall, d'y'ear?"

The sailor, dislodged by the policeman's jerk, began to slide into the river, continuing his song narrative:

Other days it's like to kill 'e.
Don't you never jine the navy
Of your Uncle San-u—

The last syllable was a gurgle as Coffey took to the water. But he came up. Swimming with the stream, he kept on singing. Policeman Adams called for assistance. The Roundsman came along.

"He's a tank sailor," explained Adams. "Sounds like one o' them singin' mermaids you read about," said the Roundsman. "Let's get a rope and fish for him."

They got a rope. After many vain throws, Coffey, tired of swimming, allowed himself to be caught. He sang the woes of navy "grub" all the way to the station. When taken to Yorkville Court and arraigned before Magistrate Crane the latter could not resist a pun upon the sailor's name.

"Tain't coffee!" retorted Coffey, who immediately bellowed another stanza of the epic:

Oh, they calls it tea on Sunday,
And they calls it coffee Monday,
And they calls it koky other days
And other names as well;
Oh, there's some as lives at ease,
But it ain't upon the seas
With the dubs as eats the gruel
Of your Uncle Sam-u-el.

"Take him away," said Magistrate Crane. "He will cheer the other prisoners back there."

Inquiry aboard the Pennsylvania elicited the information that William Coffey, A. B., is the ship's Homer and can make a song on "any blamed subjeck, from a seven-inch gun to a dyin' rat in the bilges." It was added apologetically, however, that Coffey's muse becomes erratic when he goes ashore visiting.

ELDERS' COURT PACKED, SAYS MRS. E. B. GRANNIS

Purity League's President on Trial on 14 Charges.

HER EX-PASTOR AGAINST HER

She Says She Is Being Persecuted, but There's No Smell of Fire on Her Skirts.

Mrs. E. B. Grannis, President of the National Christian League for the Promotion of Social Purity, was put on trial before a committee of elders in the Fifty-sixth Street Church of the Disciples, yesterday, on fourteen charges. The congregation of the church had already voted, 146 to 8, against Mrs. Grannis remaining in the congregation, but she had declined to go. The fourteen charges followed.

The Rev. Dr. B. B. Tyler, who was at one time contributing editor to Mrs. Grannis's paper, The Church Union, and for twelve years her pastor in the Fifty-sixth Street church, was called as a witness on the question of Mrs. Grannis's fitness to remain a member of the church. He contributed this opinion in the course of his testimony:

"My opinion is that Mrs. Grannis is President of an association of social nastiness."

The Elders comprising the board are G. P. Lamont and J. B. Vandersloot of Philadelphia and Arthur Catterwole of Danbury, Conn. The charges were formally presented by Elder Francis M. Applegate.

Of the many witnesses called Dr. Tyler was the one that made the purple plume over the bonnet of Mrs. Grannis shake the most.

Dr. Tyler was asked if he remembered having written a beautiful eulogy of Mrs. Grannis. He said that he did not remember, but that he had occasionally written things to keep her quiet, and had done a lot of other foolish things in his life.

The charges against Mrs. Grannis were that she had doubted the word of the former pastor, the Rev. B. Q. Denham; that she had said he was immoral and unfit to be the company of an Elder's family; that she believed a police charge against him was true; that she held the church in contempt and the Elders in contempt; that she had handed around letters against the character of the Rev. Mr. Denham; had sent letters to the District Attorney about him, and that she is a menace to the peace of the church through the habit of attacking the characters of people by innuendo and insinuation.

Another charge was that Mrs. Grannis had refused to take a rear pew in the church when she brought a little pickaninny protégé to church with her, the negro child having a penchant for distracting the congregation by various antics, from pew climbing to wriggling and rolling her eyes. The charge was that she was asked either to leave the negro child at home or sit in the rear of the church, and that she refused to do either.

Still another charge, and one which fired Mrs. Grannis to sarcastic reply, was that she had said that Mr. Denham had assumed ridiculous attitudes and postures in the pulpit.

Another charge against Mrs. Grannis was based on a newspaper interview with her, in which she was quoted as saying that her investigations of Pastor Denham had brought out the fact that he was tangled up in domestic disturbance in North Tonawanda, where he had a charge just prior to his coming to the Fifty-sixth Street Church. This information was received in letters from the family concerned, it was said in the interview. To this charge Mrs. Grannis replied that it would require more time than was permissible for her and her stenegrapher to fully answer.

In reply to a charge that the East Tonawanda letters were circulated by her, she answered that a Trustee of the church had asked her for them so that he might consult over them with other officers of the church.

"The Church can persecute me," she said, in answer to another specification, "but, as I told Elders Moore and Banton, up to the present date I have not even the smell of fire upon my skirts."

Mrs. Grannis closed her answers with a reference to the New Testament censure of hypocrites, which were likened to whited sepulchres, "full of dead men's bones, reeking with corruption."

Among the witnesses called yesterday afternoon were Mrs. Samuel W. Hoke, Miss Hoke, Miss Wright, Mrs. John L. Hunt, and Mrs. Frank Moore.

Toward the close of the session, Elder Applegate stuck his head from the door of the meeting room where the investigation was proceeding, and, beckoning to Mrs. Applegate, who was seated apart from the Grannis witnesses, called to her:

"All right, Mrs. A. Come here please."

Mrs. Applegate remained only a moment in the room, and then returned to the outer hall to sit by herself. When one of the Grannis witnesses, overcome by hunger after hours of waiting, went to a bakery and bought a cake and offered Mrs. Applegate a chunk she declined. But the Grannis samaritans passed the cake to the reporters.

An important witness was Elder Robert Christie, who is ill. Before coming to a decision the investigating Elders adjourned and went to his house, where they secured his deposition.

With another cyclonic agitation of the purple plume in her bonnet, Mrs. Grannis intimated that the investigating board was packed against her to find her guilty.

At 1 o'clock this morning the Elders took a short recess, and resumed deliberation on the question of turning Mrs. Grannis out of the church. It was decided to withhold the decision from the newspapers until the congregation had been informed. Mrs. Grannis was waiting in the church.

"Were you charged with heresy with the other complaints?" she was asked.

"I was charged with not being fond of the pastor," she replied.

"What will be the result if you are dismissed from the congregation?" was asked.

"No result," she answered. "I will continue to attend this church. I guess I can withstand these few people, and it would be rather unusual to put up barricades to keep me out."

FIST FIGHT IN CONVENTION.

Missouri Republicans Have Lively Time—Shaw Failed to Appear.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, April 27.—A fist fight between Sim Harris and Horace G. Beedle enlivened the proceedings of the convention of the Missouri Republican League Clubs in Exposition Music Hall to-day.

While a motion was pending Beedle endeavored to gain the recognition of the Chairman. After several futile attempts to get the floor he mounted a plank leading to the platform and advanced toward President Orff. He had hardly set foot on the plank when Harris, white with rage, made a rush at him and knocked him into the orchestra. Beedle sprang to his feet and made a second attempt. Harris struck him a second blow and knocked him off.

President Orff surrendered the chair to Vice President Albus and Sergeant at Arms Charles Day was ordered to separate the combatants and maintain peace.

Secretary Shaw of the Treasury Department, whose boom for the Presidency was launched by the Federation of Clubs last night, was to have been the guest of honor to-day, but failed to appear.
